"FEEBLE STOMACH"

Causes Digestive Weakness and Poisons the Entire System.

"No one can have suffered more than I did with stomach trouble," writes Phil. E. Pascalar, well known at St. Andrews Corners. "My doctor told me my indigestion and sleeplessness were due to poisons in the blood. Certainly my condition was desperate, and it seemed from the despondent feelings that swept over me that I would lose my reason. I happened to read about Dr. Hamilton's Pills and bought five boxes from the druggist. Such body-cleansing pills I never used; they were mild and yet quite strong enough to drive all the humors out of the blood. My stomach gained strength rapidly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I improved so much that in eight weeks I could eat and digest all ordinary food. Depression and weariness passed away and I am, thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills, enjoying robust good health."

No remedy for biliousness, indigestion, headache, sick stomach, or constipation that compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse substitutes. Sold in 25c boxes. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

GOOD ROADS AND BETTER

What the Whitney Government Has Done

Greatly Increased Efforts to Help Movement

The Whitney government has done much for the good roads movement in the province. Better roads and more roads has been its policy. The attitude of the government in the matter of wagon road construction throughout the province has been progressive to a high degree.

The amendments to the Colonization Roads Act passed by the present government by which substantial grants are made to organized municipalities in colonization road territories which pass by-laws designating the roads to be improved, have been productive of excellent results and have encouraged municipal councils to raise greater sums and adopt better methods in the work of highway improvement.

The progressiveness of this action on the part of the government is shown by the fact that in 1911 ninety-four by-laws have been passed by municipalities availing themselves of this legislation and the amounts of money expended for road improvement in this way in that year was the sum of $161,290, of which the government controlled one-half.

The policy of the department under this by-law scheme is and has been to rely upon the township councils, who being the more directly interested, to take hold and under experienced supervision construct, improve and maintain the main and leading roads of their municipality, the government granting such proportion of the cost as local conditions may warrant. In no instance has such confidence been violated.

The importance of this strong, independent and up-to-date policy on the part of the present government and its effect upon road construction will be quite evident when it is seen that local municipal control of road expenditure entirely removes such from the arena of politics, the relation of the department to such works being altogether the application of strict business principles and to secure efficient supervision and permanency of work.

In that part of the province commonly called "New," but more correctly named Northern Ontario, the vastness of the territory and the unprecedented and rapid development has demanded an especially aggressive policy in relation to building roads, and this demand has been responded to by the government with that broadness and promptness which is characteristic of a business administration.

To meet the requirements of the different localities and conditions of travel throughout the province, colonization roads have been classified as:

1. New Trunk Roads—Those radiating from railway or commercial centres and reaching out along defined surveyed lines to give connection to the various agricultural or mining industries therewith.

2. By-Law Roads—Those in organized townships whose councils have passed by-laws designating the roads to be improved and estimating the cost thereof, which upon approval by the department are constructed under the control of the municipality, the government granting a proportion of the cost.

3. Ordinary Colonization Roads—Being both main and branch roads under the control of the province in unorganized districts and in specially urgent instances in organized townships where the local resources are so limited that the settlers are unable to contribute the entire cost of building and maintaining the roads.

4. The Sudbury-Soo Trunk Road—This road being of greater proportions than ordinary has been under construction for the past four years, and of the 193 miles from Sudbury to the Sault about 127 miles are about completed.

An excellent road has been built from Sudbury westwards for a distance of 97 miles, and during the past season the work of constructing the section from the Sault eastwards has been pushed vigorously, and by the end of the year there will be 20 miles of this part also completed.

The construction of the Sudbury-Soo trunk road is further evidence of the progressiveness of the government of Sir James Whitney and of the government's straightforward recognition of the needs of a community when pointed out to them. This road supplies a long felt want for a main artery for transportation by wagon traffic between such thriving towns as Sudbury, Copper Cliff, White Fish, Nairn Centre, Webbwood, Massey, Spanish River, Algoma, Thessalon, Garden River, Soo Ste. Marie, etc., etc., and gives access to the markets therein for the settlers who live along the route.

In recognition of the extraordinary development in and surrounding the Porcupine gold area, the government have adopted an especially active policy in the matter of road building, having during the season of 1911 built upwards of 20 miles of new trunk roads connecting the important mining propositions with the T. & N. O. Railway stations at Golden City and South Porcupine.

A few things that stand out prominently to the advantage of the Whitney government as compared with the administration of the late Liberal government in Ontario in their policy towards the construction of roads are:

1st. The adoption of a system of expert supervision, direction and inspection of all works upon roads where there is an expenditure of government monies.

2nd. The reorganization of the Interior Department of the Colonization Roads branch by the employment of expert accountants who by the vising, checking and adoption of modern methods in keeping of accounts secures absolute accuracy and reliability before payment thereof is made.

3rd. The personal interest taken by the Hon. Dr. Reaume, Minister of Public Works, who through reports from an efficient and responsible staff of inspectors, keeps closely in touch with the necessity for roads for the settlers, and well informed of the wants along that line of the varied interests working out the development of the newer sections of the province.

4th. The employment of prison labor on roads.

Catarrh and Bronchitis

The Bane of Thousands, and has Hitherto Baffled the Skill of Medical Science.

Catarrhozone

Dry air treatment is the one treatment that will cure these diseases. What stomach medicine has ever been known to cure Catarrh or Bronchitis?

Catarrhozone is not a stomach medicine, but an air medicine, that carries to the remotest parts of the throat, lungs, and air cells little drops of healing so curative that whenever it touches germ life it kills and eradicates them from the system.

Thousands of doctors and patients have been disappointed by using stomach medicines for coughs and colds. Have you not found it a rather roundabout way to reach the diseased portion of the throat and lungs?

Why not use Catarrhozone, which is breathed to the very root of the disease and heals so quickly and perfectly that every spot is rebuilt with new healthy tissue?

Catarrhozone is the only medicine that will cure. Thousands have testified.

Think for a moment. Is it not sense? Little drops of healing—the air carries them just where disease exists. That is why

STRIKE AT MONTREAL

A Thousand Longshoremen Suddenly Quit Work.

Just at the Moment When Shipping Men Are Busy Dodging the Closing of Navigation, Dock Workers Walk Out—Federation Says Strike Is Unfair—Men Reply That They Have Been Badly Treated.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—All the longshoremen, to the number of nearly a thousand, stopped work on the seventeen vessels now in port yesterday afternoon and left the steamers to shift as best they might in unloading and getting cargo aboard in an effort to make a quick getaway before the official close of navigation a week hence, when insurance policies lapse.

As a result of the strike, of which there is at present no indication of a settlement, every ocean shipping company that owns vessels plying to Montreal is face to face with the serious situation of having their vessels delayed at a time when a break in the weather is liable to come at any moment and they might have to fight through bad weather to get out of the river before it freezes up.

Neither warning nor reason, it is claimed by the shipping men, was given for the action of the longshoremen, and before the former hardly knew what was happening, the latter had been called out from every ship in port. The strike began with the C.P.R. men working on the Mount Temple and Lake Manitoba, the latter in the last stages of loading prior to sailing this morning. At 2 o'clock word was passed through the C.P.R. sheds and then the men working in the holds of the vessels that the officials of the Longshoremen's Union had called a strike, the response to which on the part of the men was instantaneous.

The strike, the men claim, is the outcome of unfair treatment of the Longshoremen's Union by the Shipping Federation. The men claim that two years ago an agreement was made and that the shipowners have not kept to the terms. They recently brought an action in court to have the Federation forfeit a $2,000 deposit, made at the time of the agreement, for not sticking to its terms.

JESSIMAN GUILTY.

Toronto Murderer Sentenced to Hang on Feb. 22.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—"You will be taken back to the place from whence you came, there to be kept in close confinement until Thursday, Feb. 22, 1912, when you will be taken to the place of execution and there hanged by the neck until you are dead."

Joseph Jessiman was thus sentenced to suffer the full penalty of the law by Mr. Justice Riddell yesterday morning for having shot and killed James Lougheed on Hayter street on August 29 last.

When asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, the prisoner burst out into an excited and incoherent babble.

"No, I have nothing to say," he declared, "I know I did it and that it was forced on me. It was no delusion and I am satisfied to go out without a word. I have never been a coward and I never will be a scoudrel."

After sentence had been passed the prisoner stuck both hands in his trousers pockets and, squaring his shoulders, followed his jailer out of the court with almost a swagger.

During the trial medical evidence was put in to show that Jessiman was insane and had been insane at the time of the murder. His lordship promised to make a full report to the proper quarters and to defer sentence until a late date in order that such steps might be taken as the Governor-General thought right.

"Fruit-a-tives" cured me after 12 years Suffering

HULL, QUE. Dec. 24th. 1910.

"For the past twelve years, I had painful attacks of Dyspepsia. Finally, in March 1908, I suffered such tortures that I was compelled to stay in bed. I could not digest my food and everything I ate caused the most agonizing pain in my stomach. I also had a fearful attack of Constipation, and at times I had no movement of the bowels for a week.

Three doctors attended me for two years and gave me all kinds of medicine but did me no good. My weight came down to only 80 pounds and everyone thought I was going to die. Finally I had the good fortune to buy 'Fruit-a-tives' and as soon as I began to take them, I felt better. I persisted in the treatment and to my great joy and to the astonishment of my friends, I improved. Now I feel very well, weigh 115 pounds (and this is more than I ever weighed, even before my illness) I attribute my cure solely to 'Fruit-a-tives'."

CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY OF CANADA TRACED AT CANADIAN CLUB BANQUET

Initial Gathering of the Season Featured With Brilliant Paper by Mr. Justice Riddell of Toronto—Nominating Committee Report—Mr. G. E. L. Goodwill President.

The initial meeting of the season of the Canadian Club, which was held last evening in the spacious dining room of the Oriental will undoubtedly go down in the history of the society, as one of the most encouraging and generally successful on record. The attendance was large, the bill of fare in a class of its own, and the gathering was particularly marked by a noticeable air of genial good fellowship among all present. Owing to the lateness of the train on which the speaker of the evening, Justice Riddell arrived, the proceedings were slightly delayed and the affair did not conclude until eleven o'clock. There was no diminishing of the enthusiasm however, and everything went along with most praiseworthy skill and smoothness.

Supper was finished shortly after nine thirty, and immediately afterwards Dr. Cameron, the retiring president introduced the speaker, Mr. Justice Riddell. Previous to this however, he read the report of the nominating committee containing the names of the officers for the coming year, which will be found farther on. He also read the treasurer's statement which showed an encouraging balance on hand.

Justice Riddell in commencing his talk or rather reading, expressed his pleasure at being permitted to be present at such a representative gathering. He then announced his topic to be one dealing with the constitutional history of Canada.

After a few preliminary remarks of a very pleasant character the speaker read his address. He commenced by describing the system of government in New France, which much resembled the old France across the sea. The Intendant was entrusted with much power. He was assisted by a Council not elected, but appointed. The King of France could nullify any acts of the Intendant and Council. There was nothing like a Parliament in the English sense. The Noblesse and the Seigneurs ruled the land. The Habitants were under them. The Seigneurs generally owned the land, but the Crown reserved the timber and certain land for military purposes. The Seigneur administered justice. The Habitant was bound to take his grain to be ground at the Seigneur's mill, or to pay the toll to him even if he took his grain to another mill. The Habitant was liable to the corvee, or forced labour. Dickens graphically describes the condition of the people under this system in Old France in his "Tale of Two Cities" The lot of the Canadian Habitant was much superior, however, to the lot of the peasant in Old France at that time. They all loved Canada. No one who had not mingled amongst the French Canadians could understand the depth of their devotion to their country. Next to, if not above, the Seigneurs, was the Cure, the only one besides the Seigneur who could read or write. After a century and a half the Cure still occupied this place of influence and honour. It had been said that the Seigneur in Canada exercised the powers that were exercised in France by the King and Nobles and Judges. There was nothing like a Constitution in those days. In 1759 Quebec was taken by Wolfe. The military commanders then governed the country. French civil law was continued, but English criminal law was substituted for the French, which permitted torture, breaking upon the wheel, and arbitrary imprisonment. The treaty of Paris, of February 10th 1763, settled the question as to the ownership of Canada by Great Britain. A further proclamation was issued in 1783, appointing Governors for different parts of Canada and giving them and the Councils power to make laws as near as might be to the laws of England Courts of Justice were to be erected. This proclamation introduced a tremendous change in the system of government. The people had nothing to do with the selection of the members of the Council, for they were all Roman Catholics and according to British law at that time they could not have a vote. Imagine what our condition in Ontario would be if the people had no votes and were compelled to live under French of German law. Justices of the peace were appointed with inferior jurisdiction. The English emigrants practically monopolised the administration of law in the country. Complaint and counter-complaint were made to the King about this condition of things. An Executive Council was formed, and on it many of the French Noblesse found a place. It was not thought practicable to institute a representative chamber under the circumstances. The people did not take kindly to the idea of trial by jury. They did not think their liberty or property would be as safe in the hands of shoemakers and tailors as in the hands of the Seigneur.

Until about 1870, almost everybody in Canada was French. About that time many people came from the south to Canada because they were loyal to Britain, and they wanted to live under the flag. These United Empire Loyalists, came from the New England States and elsewhere, and they were devoted to freedom of government and mighty little government at that. Their number increased until in 1790 there were about twenty thousand of them in Canada.

In 1790 Canada was divided into two parts, Upper and Lower Canada. Each part had a legislative chamber. The Crown nominated all the public officers. The free exercise of the Roman Catholic religion was guaranteed. One-seventh of the land was reserved for the support of the Protestant clergy. In Upper Canada the first Parliament met in what is now Niagara.

The learned judge in a most interesting manner continued to sketch the constitutional history of Canada until the rebellion in 1837. Then he referred to the historical report of Lord Durham. He spoke in terms of praise and admiration of this report and said that it was an inexhaustable well of facts, from which all Canadian historians must draw. Canada owes Lord Durham an eternal debt of gratitude. His broad imperial views made a deep impression upon Lord John Russell, who then occupied a high position in the British Cabinet. It may be said that constitutional government was actually granted to Canada by the British Act of 1841. This constitution was based upon that of Great Britain. Quebec, or Lower Canada as it was then called, had a population of 630,000. Canada had only 470,000.

The speaker continued to give very interesting details of Canadian history. In 1850 the Upper Province overtook and passed the Lower Province in population. Then the cry for representation by population—rep. by pop.—became popular. In 1842 Lord Ashburton in his celebrated treaty gave away a large part of Canada, which is not part of the State of Maine. The learned judge then gave a sketch of the events leading to the building of the Intercolonial railway. Sir Alexander Galt as early as 1858 advocated a union of the colonies. Mr., afterwards Sir, John A. Macdonald, took a very important and leading part in the discussion of the questions about the future of Canada. He made an agreement in 1864 with his strongest political opponent, Mr George Brown, partly as a result of which the British North America Act of 1867 was passed, establishing the Union of the four provinces into the Dominion of Canada. Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick formed the first Confederation, which dates from July 1, 1867. Prince Edward Island did not come in until 1873. In 1869 the Dominion bought out the Hudson Bay Company's land in the Northwest and established the Province of Manitoba. British Columbia promised to come in if the Dominion would connect the East and West with a transcontinental railway, and so the Canadian Pacific Railway was built. Saskatchewan and Alberta were advanced from territories to provinces in 1905.

Strictly speaking, Canada has no Constitution. Canada has self government and is mistress in her own house. Canadians are subjects not of the people of England but of the King of England, an important distinction. It is frequently said that Canadians are subjects of England. Nothing of the kind. We are, along with the Scotch, English and Irish subjects of that magnificent man, King George V. The King forms the bond of union between all British countries. We pay no tribute to that King, but a tribute of love and well deserved loyalty. We are free, happy and prosperous under that King, and do not desire to change our allegiance for any people on earth. We are glad to know, that for which our forefathers in the Old Land fought, and some of them died, and that for which our predecessors in this land labored for many years, freedom to govern ourselves freedom to think as we please to say what we please, and to fear the face of no man, so long as we trespass on no man's rights, is now so well assured to us, that we never think of it. That freedom is as natural to us as the free air we breathe or the free water we drink. With the consciousness of this fact we shall go forward as a British nation, continuing a part of the British Empire and continuing at the same time to govern ourselves.

At the conclusion of the splendid and really interesting paper, Judge Huycke, who occupied a chair to the right of the speaker, tendered a most eloquent vote of thanks to him for the pleasant and elevating paper he had presented. Recalling many memories of the time when he was closely associated with Justice Riddell, in the legal profession, the Judge testified to the helpful influence he has always been and remarked that the reason of the speakers splendid achievement was the unflagging industry that characterized all his efforts.

Canon Davidson very ably seconded the motion of thanks in a short apt speech and Mr. Goodwill asked the gathering to show their approval by hearty hand clapping.

Justice Riddell accepted the vote thanks with a bright, stirring and loyal speech. He urged the Canadian Club to live up to the professed objects of the formation of the organization and urging every man to take a hand in the politics of his country. He also advocated a broad policy on the part of all and urged every man to work solely for the best interests of his country. His closing remarks were greeted with tumultuous applause.

President—E. L. Goodwill.
1st. Vice-Pres.—T. F. Matthews.
2nd. Vice-Pres.—W. R. Morris.
Sec.-Treasurer—G. C. Wainwright.

Mr. J. E. L. Goodwill in accepting the office of president expressed his thanks for the honor which the assuming of the position meant to him and trusted that the organization would continue to maintain and increase its present prosperous condicondition.

ANSWERS

By J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist

Q. Why do school children with good sight, require Glasses?

A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength, the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.

Q. Why do children squint?

A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain; this is nature's way. Study glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squint.

Q. Why do children have eye headaches?

A. An eye headache is a reflex pain caused by straining the eyes, the pain may be over the eyes or through the temples. The remedy for eye headaches is relief glasses, to be worn while studying

COMMANDER McDONALD FREE FROM BLAME IN NIOBE AFFAIR

Halifax, Nov. 20.—The court-martial on the Niobe Saturday afternoon concluded the series of three trials, which have engaged its attention by giving a decision that the charge against Commander W. B. MacDonald of the Canadian cruiser was not proven. The president of the court in rendering this judgment and handing back his sword to the commander, stated that it gave him great pleasure to state that MacDonald was honorably acquitted. It came out in the defence of Commander MacDonald that the court-martial had been personally asked for by him. The commander explained this in the following terms:

"On October 19, not having heard that any steps had been taken by which I could vindicate my conduct, and realizing that it was a critical time in my imperial service career, I sent the following telegram:

"'Admiralty, London: Respectfully submit convenience of service admits lord's commissioners of the Admiralty may be pleased to try me by court-martial, grounding Niobe'."

Commander MacDonald in the course of his defence submitted a statement of what occurred from the time of leaving Yarmouth up to the time of the grounding and the subsequent seps that were taken to save the ship.

"At 9.55 after getting away from Yarmouth, I rounded Blonderock buoy," he said, "and shaped course S. 75 E. The night was very clear. Up to this time no abnormal tide had been encountered and nothing to lead me to suppose that any corrections other than those allowed for the time tide would be necessary. I am firmly of the opinion that Lieut. White's computation of tides was the correct one which the point of our stranding proves and that, had there not been an abnormal tide, the ship would have made the southwest ledge buoy, even in the thick weather, about 10.15 p.m.

"I gave my night order book to the officer of the watch on the forebridge and pointed out to him, that the ship was making the southwest ledge buoy and to see that the ship was not set in to the northward and on no account to get to port of his course, but to keep generously to starboard. At this time the night was extremely fine and starry. I then went into my cabin on the forebridge. On being called at midnight I came out of my cabin and found that the ship had run into a fog. I called out Lieut. White's name and was informed that he was not on the upper bridge. I sent for him.

"As my reduced speed had not enable me to hear the southwest ledge buoy's whistle, I determined to haul out and went into the chart house to determine a course and had just leaned over a chart when the ship took ground. The time from my first being informed that the southwest ledge buoy was sighted to the time of the grounding was about twenty minutes. I beg to state that the cause of our grounding was an abnormal tide, due either to the gale the previous night in the Bay of Fundy, or perhaps to a hurricane on the West Indies.

"I would ask the members of the court to place themselves in my position on the night in question, to remember that at 10.15 o'clock, when I gave my order book and instructions to the officer of the first watch the night was fine, exceptionally clear, that no abnormal tide had been experienced, and that I was kept in ignorance of the fact that Cape Sable light had not been seen when we were closely approaching it."

Must Not Pluck Live Chickens.

London, Ont., Nov. 20.—As the result of a recent revelation in regard to the packing and shipping of live poultry from points around London to the different markets for the winter trade, it is likely that some action will be taken by the local branch of the S.P.C.A. to put an end to the cruelties that have been practiced. One of these cruelties, it is said, consists of plucking the chickens whilst they are alive. Sometimes a spike is fastened to their heads, which is supposed to deaden the pain of the plucking. It is stated that many of the feathers are pulled out while the fowls are alive. A police court test case is to be made of cases in a few days.

Debate on Speech.

Ottawa, Nov. 20. The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne will begin to-day. The reply will be moved by R. B. Bennett of Calgary, seconded in French by Arthur Sevigny of Dorchester.

The debate may not be of long duration, although rumors of some sort of amendment on the subject of the navy have been floating about. The Liberals have not yet met in caucus and have not formally subscribed to a line of policy to be followed in the debate. A Ministerial caucus will be held to-morrow.

FIVE JURORS ARE SELECTED

Sixth Week of McNamara Trial is Started

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—The sixth court week of the McNamara trial closed yesterday with five sworn jurors and one provisionally accepted. The prediction of Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for J. B. McNamara, that Jan 1, 1912, would see a jury to try his client for the alleged murder of Chas. J. Haggerty, one of the 21 victims of The Los Angeles' Times explosion and fire a year ago, may not come true.

Fourteen jurors finally will be sworn, two acting as supply jurors in case members of the original panel should become incapacitated. Nevertheless it is hoped that the early weeks in January will see a complete jury.

Saturday's arrival in the jury box is J. H. Marshall, a hardware salesman. As he is nearly assured of a peremptory challenge by the defence, his acquisition was not held to be any great step in the process of jury getting. Fred. D. Mayer, the only other man examined, was on the stand when court adjourned. Indications were that he would not be on the final jury.

Another venire, the ninth, was drawn Saturday. The number of names was increased from 40 to 50, and the veniremen were instructed to appear in court this morning.

E. A. LANCASTER'S BILL AIMED AT THE NE TEMERE DECREE

Ottawa, Nov 20.—E. A. Lancaster's bill to amend the marriage act is a direct legislative effort to overcome the ne temere decree. The Lincoln member proposes to amend chapter 105 of the revised statutes of 1906 by adding two sections as follows:

"Every ceremony or form of marriage heretofore or hereafter performed by any person authorized to perform any ceremony of marriage by the laws of the place, where it is performed, and duly performed according to such laws, shall everywhere within Canada be deemed to be a valid marriage notwithstanding any differences in the religious faith of the persons so married, and without regard to the religion of the person performing the ceremony.

"The rights and duties of the respective persons married as aforesaid as married people, and of the children of such marriage shall be absolute and complete, and no law or canonical decree or custom of or in any province of Canada shall have any force or effect to invalidate or qualify any such marriage or any of the rights of the said parties or their children in any manner whatsoever."

CONNAUGHT'S BIG SPLASH

Splendid Banquet at the Drawing-Room.

Ottawa, Society All Agog Over the Affairs.

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—The most splendid pageant in Canada's social history took place here on Saturday evening, when the first drawing-room of the royal regime attracted all the leading society and near-society people in the Dominion to the capital. The women were in a subdued state of excitement all day and the drawing-room was the only subject of conversation. Ostrich feathers were at a premium and every wax figure in the drygoods windows displayed a different mode of wearing the same, while a leading stationer who advertised the correct card on which to present your humble name to the A.D.C., was besieged with customers.

In the evening carriages to convey the nervous fair ones to Parliament Hill began arriving before 7 o'clock, and women wearing their best gowns, with feathers and veils at every imaginable angle, and accompanied by sheepish-looking men, scurried from the elevator to the door.

A little before nine o'clock two or three bars of "God Save the King" announced the arrival of the duke and duchess, the band ceasing as they entered the room and proceeded to their seats in a dead silence, broken only by the craning of necks and squeaks of curiosity from the gallery. Her Royal Highness' dress was of cloth of gold, brocaded with flowers and softened with folds of malines at the decolletage. She wore a magnificent high tiara, necklace and a number of ornaments, all of diamonds also the following orders: Ribbon and Order Victoria and Albert, King Edward's Family Order, King George's Family Order, St. John of Jerusalem and the Crown of India. The court train, three and a half yards long, was of stiff gold brocade woven in a conventional pattern of flowers and foliage in rich metallic shades.

Col. Sherwood, with an A.D.C., took his stand at the lower end of the hall, and next to the throne, sturdy Col. Lowther had his post beside a huge waste paper basket, into which he threw the cards after announcing each name. The Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, his family, the Premier and Mrs. Borden, the Cabinet Ministers and their families who had the honor of the first presentations, came from behind the throne and passed quickly across, taking up their stations at each side of the aisle of soldier, then the lower doors were thrown open to the crowd outside, and headed by the Senators and their families, the 2,400 people were presented, being hustled through at a quick march by the energetic A.D.C.'s.

LEADER ROWELL FAVORABLE TO VOTES FOR WOMEN NOW

He Says He Will Seriously Consider it at the Coming Session of the Legislature.

Drumbo, Ont., Nov 20.—"Votes for Women" was discussed by N. W. Rowell, K.C., the new Liberal leader, before an audience partly composed of women here on Saturday night. He nearly made a stand on the question, saying it was a matter that was being considered by statesmen the world over and that it would in time come. He promised to bring the subject before his colleagues at the coming session of the Legislature with the object of formulating a policy on it.

Mr. Rowell also outlined more fully his attitude on the trust question, saying it was time the Government took steps to prevent Ontario from reaching the stage of thraldom to the trusts that the United States is now in.

In the afternoon at Plattsville he declared that the liquor law was being administered corruptly in Ontario. "The time has come when political influence must be eliminated from the administration of the liquor law," he said.

E. W. Nesbitt, M.P., declared that Sir James Whitney was a dictator and the reason was probably that he had been too successful. Mr. Nesbitt also charged the Government with favoritism in the running of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway.

"I am not here to-night to make an announcement on the question of votes for women," said Mr. Rowell. "and I am not in a position to say that the Liberal party will champion it at the coming session. But it is a question that is forcing itself on thoughtful statesmen all the world over. It is a question that is coming rapidly to the front. Over in England it is engaging the attention of the leaders on both sides.

"Perhaps it is not out of place to look forward to the time when women will enjoy the franchise. The question is one which public men must consider in the near future.

"When the Liberal members meet in the coming Legislature I hope we will be able to reach a conclusion on the question of votes for women that will be satisfactory," said Mr. Rowell.

The meeting was held in the town hall and there were about 250 present.

Mr. Rowell spoke in the afternoon for the first time in the riding he hopes to represent at the next session of the Legislature. The place was Plattsville, about eight miles from Drumbo.

"In the Province of Ontario," he said, in the course of his address at Drumbo, "we are passing through the incipient stage of the formation of such companies as have done so much wrong in the States. One of the duties of the Government is to see that by legislation we do not permit ourselves to be placed in the same position as the people of the United States. We should fix the rights of the people so firmly by law that they can never be imperilled by corporations," he said. "We should seek to control these organizations and keep them from unduly enhancing the price of food, interferring with legislation, etc.

"The Liberal party will, to the full limit of power of the Legislature of the province, do its best to pass laws prohibiting any such gifts to either party. We will require both parties to publish a list of all campaign contributions. Publicity will be one of the best means of preventing interests who expect later favors, from giving contributions," said Mr. Rowell.

Brnatford Rally.

Brantford, Nov. 20.—H. M. Mowat K.C., Toronto, and Lloyd Harris, ex-M.P., addressed Brantford Liberals here on Saturday night.

Mr. Mowat defended Mr. Rowell for his failure to enunciate a definite temperance policy and declared that his attitude on bilingual schools was a sensible one. Mr. Harris expressed belief that the Hydro-electric policy would not turn out as profitable as expected for the Government. Thomas McPhail, president, was chairman.

STRIKE ENDS IN MONTREAL

Department of Labor Intervene With Success

Montreal, Nov. 20.—To-day it is expected, the majority of 1,800 longshoremen who quit work on Friday, will return to work on practically the same terms that obtained before the strike, and the loading and unloading of ships that have been held up for the past 48 hours will go on with a rush, as every one of the 16 ships now in port is anxious to get away this week.

The settlement of the difficulties between the syndicate longshoremen and the Shipping Federation was brought about by officials of the Department of Labor, Messrs. Victor Debreuil, fair wage officer, and Gerald Brown, assistant deputy minister of labor, who was despatched to Montreal by Minister Crothers, in answer to an appeal from the shipping companies.

Major George W. Stevens, president of the harbor board, also returned hurriedly from a trip to New York on hearing of the trouble. Both sides seemed satisfied with the agreement, and it is assumed there will be no hitch in signing the agreement to-day.

The longshoremen at a meeting yesterday afternoon, put themselves on record to the effect that unless the document was signed by noon to-day by the federation, by every shipping company outside the federation as well, they would go on strike again at 1 o'clock.

Full details of the agreement were withheld, but it is known that the men did not hold out for the increase in pay first demanded, and are returning to work at the old rate, 30 cents per hour (day) and 35 cents per hour (night). The conditions under which the men work, however, will be considerably ameliorated.

All day Saturday the held-up liners made the best shift they could to get cargo aboard. The stewards and crews were worked as longshoremen, and a number of Italians were taken on to work. There was no disorder.

The agreement was that the men return to work at 7 o'clock Saturday night, and about 100 of them turned up. Most of the others had held a celebration with their Saturday pay, and even yesterday a large number were still absent from duty. The men have ratified the agreement, but it could not be signed yesterday, being Sunday.

Five ships managed, however, to complete their cargoes, despite the absence of most of the longshoremen, the Lake Manitoba, Teutonic, Inishowen Head, Rakaia and Ausonia, with the aid of their crews, completing the work of loading. The two former got away Saturday, the next two yesterday, and the last named sailed this morning at daylight.

Alex. Renin, of Haileybury, will be 106 years old December 10. He has tobacco since boyhood, ARCHBISHOP BRUCHESI.

He has made an important statement of the position of his church in relation to some troublesome marriage questions.

BLACKSTOCK, K.C., IN OTHER CASES THIS MORNING, THAT THE STATUTE UNDER WHICH THE CHARGE IS LAID WAS NOT IN FORCE WHEN THE ALLEGED OFFENCE WAS COMMITTED.

THREE DIE IN THE CHAIR

Triple Execution of Murderers in Sing Sing Prison

Ossing, N.Y., Nov. 20.—Three men, Frank Schermerhorn, Peitro Falletta and Bert Brown, the latter a negro, were electrocuted in Sing Sing prison early this morning. The triple execution occupied nineteen minutes.

COAL FAMINE IN ALBERTA

Special to the Review.

Edmonton, Nov. 20.—Notwithstanding the fact that the striking miners returned to work to day, a serious coal famine throughout Algerta is threatened. Not even the railways have sufficient stok on hand and for some time they will have to use the entire coal supply. The situation is that the cities therefore will have to look to Western American points for shipments.

PREMIER IN TIGHT BOX

Revolutionaries Demand Abdication and Yuan Shi Kai Must Either Advise Flight or Carry on the War—Is Reported to Have Decided on Latter — Americans Leaving Nanking—Rebels Approaching City.

Pekin, Nov. 20.—Demands for the throne's abdication are crowding upon Premier Yuan Shi Kai, who doubtless will be forced to make a decision within a week. It seems to be a case of fight or ask the court to depart from the capital. Every suggestion for abdication is accompanied by promises of protection and ample pension.

It is reported to-day that the Premier has ordered a renewed attack upon Hanyang and Wu Chang. If this is true, it signifies his choice. The Government has succeeded in ridding the Lan Chau troops of both revolutionary generals, Chang Shao Tseng and Lan Tien Wei. The former is now at Tien Tsin. The latter, who commanded the third division, has been dismissed and is proceeding southward, not as Yuan Shi Kai's envoy to submit further proposals to Gen. Li, the rebel commander, as previously reported, but to join the rebel forces.

There has been an unexpected display of patriotism during the last day or two. Instead of rivalry among the provinces, there have been evidences of remarkable unanimity in an effort to establish a union government quickly, in order to prevent the dangers from foreign complications.

Rear Admiral Murdock telegraphs the American legation from Nanking that the American consul, with the archives, is aboard the New Orleans, and that all Americans have left the city with the exception of a few members of the Red Cross. It would be impossible, says the admiral to protect American property in Nanking, without landing 300 marines prepared to sustain a siege. For this reason he had sent none of his men ashore.

Various efforts to starting negotiations looking to peace have up to the present failed. Yuan Shi Kai's lieutenant, Tsai Tink Kan, has returned here from a fruitless attempt to negotiate with Gen. Li at Wu Chang. The commander of the revolutionaries seems determined not to yield in the slightest degree.

The foreign banks have practically decided to establish a banking committee at Shanghai, as in 1900, to meet the extraordinary conditions and adjust the payments of the indemnity and other claims.

An edict published yesterday announces that the regent, representing the Emperor, will, on Nov. 26, swear before the Emperor's tablets in the Ancestral Temple, that he will adhere to the 19 constitutional articles.

It is reported that the Imperialists have routed a rebel force of 3,000 Hunanese. The rebels' casualties, as reported, were 800 and the Imperialists 200.

Unrest In South.

Shanghai, Nov. 20.—The situation in Southern China is becoming more involved each day. The Republicans apparently are determined to secure their independence from the Manchu dynasty, but there are grave doubts of their ability to establish a stable government in time to avoid the consequences of continued disorganization and the absence of revenue and a coherent administration.

The local organizations generally are preserving order. Shanghai is a centre of business for the entire Yangtse Valley, which is stagnant, while the military operations around Wu Chang and Nanking are proceeding. The situation at Pekin has little influence on the rest of the country. The power of Yuan Shi Kai's name is waning, because it is believed that he deserted from the cause of the people.

The provinces which have declared independence are organising separate governments, but each refuses recognition to the responsibilities incurred by the central Government. Nanking, the ancient capital, is still firmly in the possession of the Imperialists, therefore, the assertion of southern supremacy is not taken seriously. Even the reformers recognize the importance of Nanking, and both they and the Imperialists are directing all their efforts to this centre, where a victory may mean either an end of the Manchu dynasty or a serious setback to the revolutionary cause.

The revolutionary forces approaching Nanking number many thousands. From Anking, on the north side of the river, 4,000 revolutionists with 41 guns are marching to Pukow, which lies opposite Nanking. From Wuhu, on the south side of the river, 3,000 men are advancing. Above Chin Kiang there is a force of 6,000 revolutionaries with 100 guns, and it is estimated that 3,000 more are proceeding down the line of the Tien Tsin-Pukow Railroad. Fifteen warships, now in the river, under command of the rebels, are awaiting the signal for the attack.

The Imperialist garrison in Nanking, under command of Gen. Chang, numbers about 11,000 men, well trained, well armed and strongly entrenched and fortified. It is believed that all the republican forces are within one day's striking distance of the city.

Reports received here direct from Nanking, say that all foreigners north of Pukow are safe. The consuls have recommended that all Americans in the Yangtse Valley come in immediately to Shanghai.

Killed by Gas Explosion.

New York, Nov. 20.—A triple explosion of gas pent up beneath the pavement of a crowded street in the downtown section of Brooklyn, resulted in the killing Friday night of a 13-year-old boy, Joseph Kaiser, and the injury of seven other persons, four of them children, of whom one, Donald Fitzgerald, was removed to the hospital in a serious condition from burns. The Kaiser boy was killed by a falling cobblestone.

HORSE'S LEG SWELLED

Animal Was Too Sore and Lame to Work—Quickly Cured by "Nerviline."

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P. O. I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fore leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff, sore, and swollen. I applied Nerviline, and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

Nerviline is a Trusty Liniment

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment."

We have received nearly five thousand letters, recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an all-round cure for aches and pains. One million bottles used each year. Try it yourself. Large bottles of Nerviline 50c; trial size, 25c. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

NERVILINE FOR MAN OR BEAST

The Daily Review

MONDAY, NOV. 20, 1911.

THE HALL STEER

The Liberal candidate in Peterborough is making a strenuous effort to steer the public off the track in the power matter. He is afraid of the real facts of his attempt to deprive Peterborough of another power site, made about the time of the late Dominion election, becoming public.

Mr. Hall asks why the Whitney government did not take action when it first came into power, to get the sites then waiting for exploitation. It might just as well be asked: Why did not the people of Peterborough, who time after time had opportunities to get power sites, now in the hands of private companies, take some action. The fact is that the people of Peterboro themselves were indifferent; they did not appreciate the situation. There was no demand by the Whitney government or any other government for the securing of power sites. The people of Peterborough waited until the private corporations, now under the control of the Electric Power Company, had got everything tied down, and they they commenced to take notice. The Seymour Power Company, or the Electric Power Company, now controls the Otonabee Power Company. There is no competition between the two companies, nor had there been any in the matter of rates for some time. The fact of the amalgamation was admitted by Strachan Johnston at Ottawa, at the Cochrane interview. Therefore it is now a question whether the people of Peterborough, who want Hydro-Electric power—cheaper power and cheaper house-lighting—are willing to stand for the election of a member of the power ring, to represent Peterborough at a time when the Whitney government is able to start in to help Peterborough out of the hole.

The Dominion government policy of handing over to its supporters valuable rights in connection with water powers, over which it has had control, has been the means of blocking the Whitney government until now—until the change of government enabled the province to start on its scheme. The opposition of the private interests and the Graham clique of site-grabbers is responsible for Peterborough's power dilemma.

What Sir James Whitney says he will do, will be done. Those who know Sir James have implicit confidence in his determination to carry out the things on which he has set his mind and Hon. Adam Beck is an able lieutenant. Peterborough's only hope for cheaper electric power is from the Whitney government—and Mr. Hall would be only too glad to be elected to have some further means of defeating the government power scheme.

Peterborough is known as the Electric City. It has power sites all around it. Shall Peterborough allow a coterie of local politicians who are tied up in the power ring to defeat public power scheme, and thus prevent what may be very much better rates to Peterborough people for power and lighting? Shall they prevent something which is going to save them a lot of money?

THE SCHOOL QUESTION

Mr. Hall evades the issue on bilingual schools. Like his leader, he contents himself with that vague but pleasing generality "Every child should have a thorough English education." Mr. Hall says that to this end "necessary laws and regulations should be passed and enforced." That is all. Mr. Hall does not say that English should be the language of instruction in the public schools. Sir James Whitney does. Sir James says that there are no such things as bilingual schools in the strict sense of the term, but he says and knows that there are schools in the province where on account of the population being largely or entirely French, the French language is used to facilitate instruction. And he says that when Dr. Merchant's official report comes in, if there is found to any abuse of the use of the French language in the schools—English being sidetracked for instructional purposes—there will be a remedy applied without regard to whose corns are trod upon.

Mr. Hall, like his leader, is delightfully vague on the subject. It is evident that they prefer not to touch the live wire, though they make a pretence of getting up close to it to make an inspection.

SCHOOL BOOKS

The question of school books and reduced prices for them was brought up a the opening of the campaign, but has seemingly been dropped. The fact that the people of the province benefit so materially in the reduction of price is generally known, and accepted. It is not a matter for dispute, but of congratulation, but there may be some people who forget that it is one of the accomplishments of the Whitney government.

The Whitney government smashed the school book ring shortly after it attained to power, thus implementing one of its leader's pledges. What has been the result on the cost of the school books? Here is a table of the prices;

	Old price	New price
Primer	10c	4c
First	15c	6c
Second	20c	9c
Third	30c	14c
Fourth	40c	16c
	$1.15	49c

The school readers and other books have been reduced in price, but have advanced in quality. A complete set of public school books now costs $2.70, compared with $4.55 under the old regime. There is public competition now, contracts going to the lowest bidder. The school book affair has been managed with business acumen, and the public benefits.

EDITORIAL NOTES

They say that a "friend in need is a friend indeed." Mr. Hall is a friend everyone, for the nonce.

The expenditure on education in 1904 by the Ross government was $910,000. In 1910 it was $1,700,000, or nearly double. The Whitney government is coping with the growing needs of the province.

Twelve thousand barrels of whiskey were destroyed in a fire in Kentucky. These fires should be stopped—they are are becoming altogether too destructive.

The wife of Dr. Russell of Hamilton, who is mentioned as a Liberal candidate, threatens to lock him out if he decides to become a candidate. That ought to settle the matter without discussion.

It may be that there are some workingmen around Peterborough—those who have arrived in the last year or two—who will be deceived by Mr. Hall's newly found solicitude for the worker. But these workingmen should get in touch with some of the old-timers.

A Risky Proposition.

East Hampton, Mass., Nov. 18.—The engagement is announced here of Miss Elizabeth S. Colton, of East Hampton, and Dr. David Brainard Spooner, of Bengal, India. Miss Colton is a linguist of note, and Dr. Spooner is an archaeologist employed by the British Government, who about a year ago discovered the bones of Buddha. The pair met while studying in India. Last week Miss Colton received the marriage proposal by cable and she replied by cable. She will go to India for the marriage, which will take place in January.

Miss Colton is reported to have mastered fifty-four languages.

IN THE SCIENTIFIC WORLD

TEBELDI TREES

How Inhabitants of Soudan Provide Themselves with Water.

A writer gives an interesting account of one of the means by which the inhabitants of Kordofan provide themselves with a copious water supply in that arid springless region. It is nothing more nor less than the "adansonia digitata," called by the natives "homr," but commonly known as "Tebeldi." These tebeldi-trees are from 1 ft. to 25 ft. in diameter; they grow to a considerable height with trunks about 2 ft. to 3 ft., and fine branches giving a vast amount of shade.

Strange to say, the trunks are naturally hollow, and are thus used as cisterns for the storage of water. Should the cavities not be large enough, the natives scoop them further out. An opening is made either in the side of the trunk near the top or right at the top, where the branches start. In the former case, the tree is filled with buckets from pools, which are dug at the foot of the tree to collect the rain-water during the rainy season. In the latter case the tree is filled by nature when the rain falls, the branches acting as sort of gutters.

At times the trees crack — but this occurs very rarely — and the trunks are no longer of any use as reservoirs. However, lately the resourceful native has adopted cement as a means of stopping up the cracks, and a large number of tebeldies have been repaired in this manner. Curiously enough, the presence of such a large quantity of water in the trunk in nowise impedes its growth, and it is certainly one of the most ingenious devices of Nature for circumventing a natural difficulty.

Every cultivator has his tebeldi-tree, which is indispensable to his work. These trees are looked upon as personal property, and on the death of a landowner his "tebeldis" pass as heirlooms to his sons.

WATCH RAIN

Rain Drops on [illegible]

On a rainy day [illegible] traveller will doubtless be surprised to find that every rain drop on the car window by his side becomes a miniature whirling vortex as long as the car is in motion at speeds above ten or fifteen miles per hour. The effect is most easily noticed when the rain drops have collected enough fine particles of soot to make their motion apparent. While the largest drops show the greatest movement, the rotation can be detected even in droplets down to one-eighth inch in diameter when the train is running at high speed. The direction of rotation for each individual drop is the same as that of the car-wheels, the cause of the motion doubtless being due to wind friction against the lower rounded side of the water drop. The pear-shape form of the drops, especially the larger ones, where the attraction of gravity for the mass gets the better of the surface tension which tends to hold the spherical form, results in a greater rotational moment at the rounded bottom than at the thin, wedge-like top, so that the wind friction at this lower surface produces movement in the same direction as the car wheels below.

MYSTERIOUS HUMAN RAYS

The recent announcement from Paris that a Major Darget has discovered that the human body emits rays, which he has named "V"-rays, is a reminder that confirmation has not yet been obtained of the mysterious rays which eight years ago M. Blondlot claimed to have seen. These rays, said M. Blondlot, were not only emitted by certain sources of light and heat, but also by the human body, and by animals such as frogs. They varied in their nature so much that a very thin sheet of aluminum was opaque to them when sent out from the brain or nervous system, but when originating in the muscles, the diaphragm, or the heart they easily passed through otherwise opaque screens. M. Blondlot named the rays the "N"-rays, after the town of Nancy, in the University of which he was a professor, but up to the present other investigators have utterly failed to discover their existence.

Tenth of a Second

It is not common to find a person who can correctly estimate the lapse of a single second, says a well known Scientist. But in these days of speeding motor-cars the exact time when each of two colliding vehicles must have occupied particular spots may be a matter of great importance. In a recent experiment a car took nearly two seconds to stop after brakes were applied, and in that time it moved 19 ft. So even fractions of a second are important. One can train himself to estimate even tenths of a second. Try it with a watch, and it will be found that it is just possible to count 10 in the lapse of a single second. But one must count very fast to do it.

A Fountain Pen for Draughtsmen

A detachable container for drawing ink which can be slipped into place on the handle of a draughtsman's pen has been devised by a Los Angeles inventor, and by its use the constant dipping into the ink bottle is obviated. The danger of dropping ink upon the paper is avoided likewise. Another advantage is that a number of these containers may be carried in a pocket case, each of them holding a different colored drawing ink, for use in draughting maps, etc. Thus it is possible to dispense with a tray of ink bottles on the table. For filling this device, an ordinary "dropper" is used. As the photograph shows, the ink flows from the reservoir through a narrow tube to the pen point, where it supplies an even flow.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 18.—There was a large demand from foreign buyers for all grades of Manitoba spring wheat, there being orders in the market for over 800,000 bushels. Cables were strong with bid prices 3d to 6d per quarter higher, but the volume of business done was small owing to the fact that exporters found it impossible to buy wheat in the west and besides even at the above advance in prices they were ½c to 2c per bushel below the actual cost of Nos. 1, 2 and 3 laid down here. In oats the feeling was firmer and there was more enquiry for round lots to arrive. American corn is stronger and prices have advanced 1c per bushel. Captain's Terrible Death.

St. Martin's, N.B., Nov. 20.—While making fast a steel hawser from a Pijebscot Lumber Co. barge here, which had broken adrift here yesterday, Captain Robert Welsh of this place was killed. One leg was between the loop in the hawser and the post, and before he could get clear, the barge sagged back and the donkey engine started to haul in the line. His leg was cut off just below the hip, and Captain Welsh bled to death before doctors could reach him. He leaves a wife and large family.

The Ideal Reading Lamp

Opticians agree that the light from a good oil lamp is easier on the eyes than any other artificial light.

The Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made.

It gives a strong, yet soft, white light; and it never flickers. It preserves the eyesight of the young; it helps and quickens that of the old.

You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for other lamps, but you cannot get better light than the low-priced Rayo gives.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

—BY—

CLIVE PHILLIPPS WOLLEY

(AUTHOR OF "GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO," ETC.)

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

There was no broken bone that they could find, no bleeding wound for them to staunch, and yet whenever consciousness returned to him, at the first effort to move or speak he fainted, and each faint seemed more and more like death.

The resources of the ordinary ranch in such cases as this are pitifully inadequate. As a rule the wife knows a little about the treatment of ordinary accidents and the simpler ailments, and in the house there is generally some book which professes to be a substitute for the physician. You have only to turn to it in an emergency to discover how little there is to justify its claims.

Mrs. Rolt read such a volume from cover to cover, only to fall back in despair upon such simple remedies as warmth and quiet. She could only give nature a fair chance. Probably she could have done no better, and half the doctor's success at least depends upon the patient's faith in him, but when you good folk at home boast yourselves of your many colonial possessions, in which you take only an occasional pride and a very little serious interest, allow something not only for the courage of the men who hew out fresh dominions for you all over the world, but something too for the martyrdoms of women, who watch through the long nights of lone lands, growing old between a sun's setting and a sun's rising, whilst all that makes life valuable for them is fading away under their eyes, for want of that which to you is but a natural accessory of your every-day life.

Through that long and wild night these two women watched; whilst it seemed to them that the winds clamored round the house for the prey which had escaped them.

Towards morning, Mrs. Rolt, who had been dozing in a chair by the fireside asked:

"Is he sleeping now, Kitty?"

"No, he is pretending to, but I can see how his poor lips are pressed together. I don't believe he has slept once since they carried him in," she whispered.

"Oh, nonsense. He was sleeping nicely through the night while I watched."

"He was shamming, Mary, so that we should not worry. Isn't it brave of him?" and bending over her head, she pressed her fair head upon Mrs. Rolt's shoulder to smother tthe sobs which shook her.

Mrs. Rolt's arm wound round the girl, and drew her gently to her knee, soothing her quietly, whilst a very wistful motherly look came into her own steady grey eyes.

This woman had a right to know Love when she met him, for she had served him very faithfully, and she knew him now.

Whatever had been her dreams for Jim Combe she recognised that they had only been dreams. Whether he lived or died, the man lying there with strained pale face, would always hold the first place in Kitty Clifford's heart, so her arm held up her younger sister whilst she whispered to her, "Be brave darling, and we will save him for you. If only God would send our men home."

Hardly were the words out of her mouth, when the girl sprang from her and stood with lips parted and head bent forward listening.

"He has, Mary," she cried. "He has. I can hear the beat of the hoofs."

But Mary Rolt, looking out into the blizzard, could neither hear nor see anything.

"Not yet, dear, I am afraid, but they cannot be more than another day now," and her own heart failed her, wondering whether it was all well with her own man.

But the great hounds, chained near the stables, contradicted her. First a low growl, and then a chorus: Glory, Lupus, and Venom, bayed their welcome as, dim and indistinct from the driving sleet, half a dozen horsemen emerged and dismounted in the corral, and before Mrs. Rolt could reach the door Kitty, all her waywardness forgotten, was clinging to Jim Combe's arm, and dragging him towards the house.

For the others she had no word, not even the Boss, but only, with wild hair flying in the storm, she clung to her old friend, crying:

"Oh, Jim, Jim; you dear old Jim; come quickly. I want you so badly."

And Jim fell into his old place at once.

It was so natural to him to serve this spoiled child, who always came to him in trouble, that he forgot himself and answered:

"What is it, dear? What do you want Jim to do for you. Can't it wait?"

"No, no, not a second. Come," and she drew him away from his horse, which he would have left standing in the storm for no other person on earth. "Oh, Jim, he has waited so long. I thought that you would never come. He's almost dead, Jim," and her sweet mouth quivered in a way that made him wince.

"Who is nearly dead?" he asked, climbing the stairs three at a time with clanking spurs.

"Frank. Mr. Anstruther."

Jim's face contracted as with physical pain, but he controlled himself, and said no word until he was in the sick man's room, where Mrs. Rolt welcomed him silently.

One glance at that strained white face on the pillow banished Jim's devil for good. Here was a comrade down, and all the woman in the big fellow's heart came to the surface at once.

It was a marvel how his long loose limbs moved now. Even his great Mexican spurs ceased to clank by the sick bed.

"What's the trouble, partner. Been riding Job for amusement?"

The sick man's eyes smiled, but the involuntary effort to turn sent a spasm of pain across his face.

"Lie still, old chap, and let me see what the trouble is. Would you ladies mind leaving the room. I won't be rough on him, Kitty," and he pushed her gently before him to the door.

When they had gone Jim stripped off the bedclothes and, as tenderly as might be, felt for the injuries he could not see.

"How did it happen?" he asked.

Anstruther told him.

"I see, I see," he muttered. It was a foolish thing to do to go into that brule when the trees were tumbling. But then he would have done it himself for Kitty. That made all the difference.

"Don't hurt any whilst you lie still, does it? Hurts considerable when you move."

The sick man nodded. To turn did hurt "considerable."

"Well, so far as I can see, there ain't no great damage done. It's a bad smash up. Three ribs, or it may be four, stove in, but so long as the inside machinery ain't injured you'll be about again in a week. We'll have to get Protheroe from Soda Creek to splice you up a bit. You can come in, ladies."

They came in followed by Dick Rolt.

"Is it, is it anything very bad, Jim," whispered Kitty, taking both his hands in hers.

"It ain't no undertaker's job, if that's what you mean, Miss Kitty," laughed Jim. "'Twon't take so long to mend as a broken heart, and they mend easy. It's just three or four ribs stove in. If you'll get me some linen bandages and something stiff to make a waistcoat of, I'll cinch him up so as he can't do no harm until we get Dr. Protheroe to fix him up properly. Your job is to keep him still if you want him well again soon," and still holding both her hands in his, he led her to the chair by his rival's bedside and left her there.

It was Jim's act of renunciation and he did it, as he did everything, quietly and without protest.

CHAPTER IX.

A Ride for Life

"Where are you going to, Jim?" asked the Boss, who had followed Combe out of the sick room.

Jim came back from his dream with a start and turned a very white and haggard face to his old friend.

"To Soda Creek to fetch Protheroe if you can spare me."

"But you can't go yet. You haven't had a bite of food to-day, and after all, Anstruther's injuries do not appear to be so very serious."

"Can't tell. She might lose him."

There was something strangely pitiful in the way in which all Jim's mind turned upon what she might suffer, the woman who had just dealt him the hardest blow of his life.

"Oh, nonsense, man, she has got to take her chance like the rest. I insist on your having something before you go."

"Well, if you insist, Boss," replied Jim, with a queer laugh, "you can put some cold grub and a little whiskey in a cartridge bag for me. I can eat when the horse plays out."

"What do you mean to ride? We've ridden the tails off the best of the stock. Will you take that big hunter? Anstruther's?"

"No. I'll take the young roan. He's the only horse that could make it."

"That devil! He isn't broken and never will be."

Jim grinned. "May be," he said, "this will break him. It'll break him or me," and he went over to the stables calling to the men to help him saddle a beast which no one else had attempted to handle, a young stallion as beautiful as Lucifer and as tractable.

When Rolt hurried out to him with the cartridge case and the flask, four men were trying to hold as perfect a demon as ever wore hide.

The wind shrieked around them, the loose litter of the yard rattled about the frightened horse's feet, and the rain lashed his blood red flanks.

Within a radius of twenty or thirty feet of his flying heels it was unsafe for any living thing to come, but the men held on to the ropes, hoping that in time he might quiet down a little.

Rolt obeyed, and Jim shook himself to try the fastenings.

"Nothing loose is there? Now, steady, you devil," he went to the horse's head, which bared its teeth, laid its ears down, and backed away from him across the corral, dragging the four men with it.

For a quarter of an hour Jim tried in vain to approach near enough to mount the roan, but by striking, biting and kicking, the savage brute frustrated every effort.

"Guess we'll have to throw him after all, but it's a pity to take anything out of him that way," and then suddenly Jim's voice came from a higher level.

"Gee whiz! Let him go."

The chance had come whilst he was speaking, and with a tiger-like spring the cowboy had taken it, dodging the flying heels like a miracle.

It was done so quickly that no one had time to see how Jim scrambled into the saddle, and after that there was not enough time for the spectators to seek shelter in the first doorway that offered.

But it was a magnificent sight for those who were safe from the mad beast's heels.

In spite of Jim, the horse had got its head down. Its back was arched so that there seemed nothing in front of the saddle except space, and even that receded as soon as the brute shot up into the air, coming down again stiff legged and sudden at every point of the compass in turn. But this was not good enough to shake off Jim Combe.

"Them's baby tricks," he muttered, and as if the roan heard him, it reared until those at the window saw nothing in the driving rain but the vast figure of a horse rampant, like the supporter of an heraldic shield.

The man was invisible until the great beast, jerked backwards by its rider, crashed heavily to earth.

Then, for a moment, they saw Jim on his feet, his cigarette, one only sign of his horseman's vanity, still between his teeth, the next he was again astride of the rising beast.

Then he vanished from the corral with a crash.

As the roan rose again on its hind legs, Combe drove the long rowels home with all the cruel force that there was in him, and the panic stricken beast rushed blindly from the corral.

There was a fence at the far end of it, luckily only of light poles, set up to keep in young calves.

It never seems to occur to a prairie horse to rise at a fence. Certainly it never occurred to that maddened roan. With a rending crash he went through the young pine poles, shattering them like match stalks, and so was gone, the rain-lashed ocean of dim prairie swallowing up horse and man.

In winter upon the northern ranches evening comes early, and on this day of storm it seemed to come upon the heels of midday, so that as Jim Combe dashed out of the corral it was already dark.

For the first half hour of his ride he had no time to think. Nature provided him with that panacea of man's pain, action.

The storm swallowed him up, so drove against him that he sat bowed low in his saddle, so drenched him that it seemed to flow through him. Yet he had no time to feel the misery of it all. He was riding it seemed in a great void, out of which from time to time huge beasts loomed uncertainly. He knew them for the Herefords which moved lumberingly and unwillingly out of his way, and alongside him, though he could barely see it as he raced past it, ran three and twenty miles of the fencing of the winter pasture.

"Permit me to write you a few words concerning Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for five years. I suffered so much that I could hardly attend to my work. Fast Train Wrecked.

New York, Nov. 18.—In the wreck of a Philadelphia-New York express passenger train on the Pennsylvania Railroad at Monmouth Junction, N.J., late yesterday afternoon, Engineer H. A. Martindale and Fireman J. C. Rainsie, both of Jersey City, were fatally scalded; Baggageman C. F. Mussey of Elizabeth, N.J., was painfully hurt, and two hundred passengers were shaken up and many of them bruised.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Commission on Farmers' Bank?

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—It is believed by Conservative members that the Government will appoint a royal commission to investigate the circumstances attending the establishment and failure of the Farmers' Bank. This is in accord with the position taken by members of the Government when in Opposition last session.

Until the commission has investigated and made its report it is unlikely that the Government will come to a definite decision as to what relief, if any, is to be given the Farmers' Bank sufferers.

London's Railway Subsidy.

London, Nov. 20.—London electors will vote at the coming municipal elections on the question of granting $25,000 to the proposed North Midland Railway for use in the construction of a terminal station to be used by all radial lines entering the city. They also will be asked to provide a free right of way through the city streets.

Drowned In Thames.

Chatham, Nov. 20.—Returning from a dance in Raleigh, Harry McQueen, aged 27, of Dover Township, was drowned in the Thames River shortly after midnight about eleven miles below this city. With his brother, Grant, young McQueen attempted to cross the river in a flat-bottomed boat. The boat commenced to leak and both occupants becoming frightened jumped into the river. Grant after a hard struggle reached the shore, when he found that the other brother impeded by heavy overcoat had gone to the bottom. The body has not yet been recovered.

CARE FOR THE TEETH!

It is useless to say to intelligent persons that the teeth should be brushed at least twice every day, with unfailing regularity, and that selection of the toothbrush is a matter deserving some thought. Anyone who will buy a cheap, inferior toothbrush, and spend money on things more ornamental and less useful, does not deserve good teeth.

For ordinary use, a good, stiff brush that fits the mouth is the best to use, and do not be afraid to use it. A prominent dentist once told me that a tooth kept polished would never decay. This itself is an argument in favor of the untiring use of the toothbrush.

Some good dentifrice should be used two or three times a week, and there is nothing superior to plain "prepared chalk." It forms the basis of all the expensive tooth powders, and is just as good as the best of them. If one objects to the flat taste of the chalk, it can be easily converted into a pleasant dentifrice by flavoring with extract of rose.

A still more effective dentrifice is prepared chalk and powdered orris root, and about a half teaspoonful of finely shaved Castile soap. This formula may be used a lifetime and never be improved upon, as it contains every essential for cleaning and whitening the teeth.

Washing Silk Gloves

For washing silk and Lisle-thread gloves use a soft suds made of soft warm water and a good white soap; put the gloves on the hands just as you would to wear, and wash your hands in the suds as though the gloves were not there, rubbing more soap on any soiled place. When clean, rinse through several waters, wipe with a soft towel, but do not rub them; then take off carefully and hang in a draught to dry, pulling them into shape occasionally. Pure white gloves should be hung in the sunshine, but delicate tints should be dried wrong-side out in the shade. The delicate threads of such gloves can not stand rubbing on the washboard. All rents and repairs should be made before washing.

Water of Eternal Youth

The beauties of the Austrian court used a lotion which was so effectual in keeping the face smooth and free from wrinkles, even in the aged, that they named it the "water of eternal youth."

Some one has recently divulged the secret of this wonderful, though exceedingly simple wrinkle lotion, which in her gratitude she has similarly dubbed as a preserver of youth. One ounce pure saxolite (powdered), dissolved in a half pint of which hazel—that's all there is to it. Any woman can get these ingredients at her drug-store, put them together, and use the solution with entire safety. To bathe the face in the same brings immediate results, even in case of the deeper wrinkles and furrows. This is also effective for hanging cheeks and double chin.

Proper Table Manners.

Teach the little one table manners as soon as he can sit at the table and handle a spoon, says an exchange. Nothing forms so complete a dividing line between well-bred and ill-bred people as their manners at table. Eating in company with others should be taught as a festival, not merely for the gratification of appetite. Many a child whose education at home has been neglected has suffered untold mortification when making mistakes in company in the little etiquettes of the table.

BIFOCALS
OR —
DOUBLE VISION GLASSES

Most people think, when buying Bifocal Glasses, that a large segment or reading area is required. With very few exceptions this is not so, as most bifocals are required for constant use, and the successful fitting of these lenses depends not so much on furnishing the largest reading portion possible, but on placing a minimum disk or wafer in exactly the correct position. A small wafer accurately placed will afford ample field for reading, writing and sewing, and will overcome the tendency to make mis-steps in going up and down stairs, an experience not uncommon to wearers of bifocals with too large reading segments.

Mr and Mrs. Fred Gillespie and Master Lloyd, of Pearl avenue, arrived in the city Saturday morning after a two months' visit with Messrs. Will and Ira Gillespie, Saskatoon, their sons. They had the experience of being on a wrecked train on their homeward journey.

On Tuesday night last, after the east bound C.P.R. train had left Brandon, a broken rail caused the derailing of a passenger coach, dining car and sleeper, the three rear cars of the train. A lady and two gentlemen were slightly injured, the lady receiving a cut on the head. The car in which the Peterborough people were asleep passed over the defective piece of track, the coaches in the rear being the unfortunate ones.

Traffic was delayed four hours while the cars were being replaced.

BIG LOSS OF GRAINS.

Mr Gillespie states that owing to the extreme cold and occasional snowstorms the threshers in the west were unable to complete their season's work, and throughout the western provinces thousands of acres of wheat still stand in the sheaf, and will be a complete loss as it is now impossible to continue the threshing.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie's visit was shortened owing to the illness of Mrs. Gillespie's father, Mr. Wm. Morrison, of Bethany.

SERMON FOR YOUNG MEN

Rev. Isaac Couch Depicts the Young Man's Perils

An Impressive Appeal to Lead Pure and Godly Life

A service of an unusually impressive character, and one that combined beauty and effectiveness to a remarkable degree, was held in the George street Methodist church last evening, when the pastor, Rev. Isaac Couch, delivered an eloquent and powerful appeal to young men. The congregation was one of the largest of many Sundays, noticeable among which was a goodly sprinkling of young men.

Upon the words found in the book of Zachariah, "Run, speak to the young man," the pastor based his remarks. First he depicted the various types of young men to whom he might be speaking, such as the youth who was living a fairly good life; secondly, one to whom the influences of a godly home were unknown; next, to a young man who might have great mental ability, and who was determined to get there, and to perhaps the young man who mocked every entreaty to live a good life, and lastly, to one who was earnestly seeking salvation. To any included in the list the preacher had a message.

"Why should the pastor speak?" asked the speaker. "First, because danger awaits the young man, and it is a bounden duty to warn a person of danger. Many are on the sandbank of crime forgetful of the tide; the tide of eternity that is coming in to demolish them. Everywhere there are young men going on the rocks, and should we stand by quietly without warning them?"

"The way to perdition is all down hill," remarked the speaker, "and what great strides a man takes when he is in the wrong road."

After enlarging on several of the vital problems of a young man's life and earnestly urging upon them the necessity of taking the straight and narrow road, the pastor went back and described what steps were necessary for each of the enumerated class of young men to take, that would enable them to share in the kingdom of heaven.

The pious young man should not depend on that alone. "Morality would not save alone, but ye must be born again." Then the youth who had been surrounded with evil examples must find his way to salvation, casting himself at the feet of Jesus.

To the young man getting on in the world what would it profit him if he gained the whole world and lost his own soul. The next class, the pleasure seeker should become aware that there was no permanency in the things he was chasing. The whole world was laughing at him, and his only means of salvation was in religion, the source of all pleasure.

Then the class that are hardened in sin are really riding a steeplechase to hell. Perhaps there was a mother to be considered. What would be their remorse when her prayers should say a last amen. If a mother's prayers were not heeded assuredly they will hang like a millstone of agony. Lastly to the one seeking salvation if his heart unbroken be not discouraged. "If you desire peace cast yourself at the feet of the Master," concluded the pastor.

Mr Couch's closing appeal was most effective and thrilling and the congregation were plainly stirred by the vigor and deep feeling manifested. This impression was heightened and deepened by the sympathic singing of Mrs. Renwick, who sang from the rear of the gallery "Where is my wandering boy to night," the choir joining in the chorus without the organ. Another much appreciated and beautifully rendered selection was the duet by Miss Josie Callander and Mr. Thornton prior to the sermon. Both numbers were distinctly pleasing.

In the morning the pastor gave some interesting and beneficial experiences and impressions of his at the Laymen's missionary conference held at Hamilton.

An Unfortunate Nag

A nag belonging to a junk dealer, which was either overcome by fatigue or lack of sufficient fodder to sustain its strength, dropped in the shafts Saturday morning, as it was being urged down the main street by the driver.

The poor beast was plainly in a very lean and lamentable state, but the owner, who is almost sightless, possibly might not have been aware of his horse's condition. Anyway, the horse fell to the road, rolled over and refused to budge. A crowd gathered, and after some minutes of persuasion, the beast was induced to make an attempt to rise, which, after some kicking and snorting, it was enabled to do, and proceeded on its way.

HOW THE WORKINGMEN HAVE BEEN ASSISTED BY THEIR GOOD "FRIEND" MR. R.R. HALL

Some Things the Liberal Candidate Does Not Tell the Electors—Those "Big Enthusiastic" Meetings Were a Joke — Whitney Government Bound to Win on December 11th.

That battle scarred craft, the R. R. Hall, will, if it is fortunate enough to escape the fate of becoming a forsaken derelict, look like a remnant of the Spanish armada, by the time Dec. 11th comes around. Already there is a shortage of ammunition with but poor prospects of replenishing the magazines.

What the Conservative gunners did to the old rocky tub in the engagement of Saturday evening was a shame. Broadside after broadside crashed into the R. R. Hall with telling effect and while the flag remains flying, it is but a question of a few more days ere the commodore will be forced to pull the string.

ENCOURAGING CONDITIONS.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn gave the orders to clear for action and remarked that Mr. Peck had been through part of the north country and had met with encouraging success. A portion of Harvey had been visited during the week and the candidate had received a sympathetic hearing, and promises of votes.

Harvey, he said, had always given the Liberals a majority, but the last election, when the Conservatives had a small majority. The signs for this campaign were that this number would be trebled. The reports from other townships were also encouraging and if the city did its duty on December 11th, Mr. Peck would go to the Legislature with a large majority.

THOSE BIG MEETINGS.

Mr. Hall's path through the country was rather thorny. His meetings had been sparsely attended, despite the glowing reports to the contrary, appearing in the Examiner. At May's school house, where it was reported he had a big meeting the attendance was made up by eleven people, while at North Monaghan on Friday night, the meeting was reported in the Examiner as being of a very enthusiastic character. "He might tell the truth," remarked the speaker, "for the actual count at that meeting was three and two out of that number would possibly vote for Mr. Peck."

Mr L. M. Hayes referred to the splendid efforts being put forth in the interests of Mr. Peck, who would, without doubt, be elected with a large majority.

A DOUBTFUL FRIEND.

Mr. Hall was posing as the friend of the workingmen. But look at his career! What had he done? In 1906 he bought out the Wm. Hamilton company and then what did he do? Why closed it up and threw many men out of employment and many citizens were lost to Peterborough. Then the farmers were workingmen. What had he done for them. He established a concern known as the Binder Twine. He sold stock from Halifax to Vancouver, through Ontario and right in the County of Peterborough and the fact came home to me that those who bought stock lost every dollar. That was Mr Hall as a friend of the workingmen.

"This is not an attack on Mr. Hall," said the speaker. "Everybody knows what has been done."

"Then contrast him with our honorable and straightforward candidate, Mr. Peck, who is the friend of everybody who has the honor of his acquaintance. Which do you choose, Mr. Hall or Mr. Peck? I am sure there will be no hesitation in choosing Mr Peck on December 11th. We will sweep the city and county of Peterborough for Mr. Peck and Premier Whitney, who is a friend of the workingmen with a record that speaks for itself."

PROSPERITY ON ALL SIDES.

The province was never in so prosperous a state as to-day. Progress was being made in every department and direction. The country was going ahead by leaps and bounds and the Liberals cannot find any tangible grounds on which to direct their attacks.

MR E. A. PECK.

Mr. Peck expressed his pleasure at being able to announce encouraging progress being made. All were working for the victory on Dec. 11th. The candidate referred to his meetings in the country where he was given assurance of success.

A great deal had been heard of Mr. Hall's objections to the Whitney government and he (Mr. Hall) had said all he could. One of his objections was the Workmen's Compensation Act, and he thought it should be amended.

"Well, I also think there should be some changes made," said Mr. Peck; and he pointed out that there was no provision made whereby compensation would be obtainable for a workingman who was injured through the act of a fellow servant, not his superior; also that it was difficult, under the present act for a workingman to get the compensation due him, because of litigation expenses. These matters the candidate promised to do all in his power to remedy.

WHAT IS FORGOTTEN.

"Mr. Hall never tells you," he continued, "that the act was passed by the government he wants to return to power." "Look at the beautiful act we have given the workingman," cried the Liberals, when they passed it, and they were so proud of it, that they left it alone for nineteen years."

The speaker explained that Whitney had given his attention to the act, with a view of amending it, and had appointed Meredith to make a rigid investigation, and prepare a comprehensive measure to be introduced into the legislature at its next session. It was a little late for Mr. Hall and the Liberal leader to take credit for bringing the act up again. The credit was due Premier Whitney. (Applause.)

The Examiner had displayed in large type, the statement that the Whitney Government had done nothing for the workingmen, "but they forgot," said Mr. Peck, "Whitney had done as much in his seven years as premier, and certainly more than the Ross government had done in the preceding seven years." Last year he passed the Scaffolding Act—introduced it at his own instance—and had showed his desire to consider the workingmen.

When the Ross Government was in power, objections were made to the way the Central Prison was "butting" into the business of the province, but the Whitney Government, on coming into power removed that trouble. It took a progressive step, set aside 800 acres of land, and made the prisoners earn their own food. Now they were doing this on the Prison Farm and not competing with the factories of the province as before in the Ross regime.

HYDRO ELECTRIC

As to Hydro-Electric power, this question was being considered by the City Council and there was every reason to believe that Peterboro would be blessed with power. It was said that no effort has been made to protect the people of Eastern Ontario but the present power policy was due to the Whitney government, the Liberals having allowed the power to slip away to corporations, and if Ross was again in control, the same condition of affairs would exist. The Liberals never thought of the people's interests.

Mr. Hall was unfair when he said that Whitney had laid a heavy charge on the people of Eastern Ontario for the benefit of Western Ontario. While it was true the government borrowed the money to build the big transmission line in Western Ontario, every cent was to come back from those municipalities benefitted and any municipality not interested would not have to pay one cent.

If Peterboro was to get a block of Hydro-Electric power, the city would have to pay its share. There was every reason to believe that the matter of cheap power could be safely left in the hands of the Whitney Government.

Mr. Hall too, had a mania for circulars, and one of his objections only amounted to the fact that the cost of text books was now only one half of what they used to be.

EDUCATIONAL MATTERS

He also objected to the expenditure to the University of Toronto. "This university is under the protection and control of the government" said the speaker. "It is the place where advanced education is given—it encourages all those, who are ambitious— not the rich alone, but all. These young men who are instructed give back to the province a full return for the money expended upon it."

Mr. Hall says he stands for the poor man. What would be the result for the poor man's sons had he to pay the full expense of this kind of an education?

THOSE SCHOOL TEACHERS

Mr. Hall was also complaining about the poor qualifications of the teachers. The speaker pointed out that in the time of the Ross Government, third class scholars would go to Model school for fourteen weeks, and get their certificates. They did not succeed and there were complaints all the time. The Whitney government provided that the students should be a certain age and have normal training, which was thorough in every particular. At the present time those teachers whom Mr. Hall complained about were as well qualified as any who were given certificates when Ross was in power.

Whitney had done more for education in the way of liberal grants, so that the teachers might receive larger salaries and so remain in the schools. This meant better results. Mr. Hall had no right whatever to condemn the government.

$9000 FOR COUNTY

The Ross Government gave $2,000 to the rural schools of the county of Peterborough, but last year Whitney gave $9,000.

There was no comparison between the two leaders, Premier Whitney and Mr. Rowell. Of the latter it was said he was eloquent, capable and honest. That was alright, but Whitney had shown his capacity as a leader of the government, while Rowell had yet to be tested.

Mr. Peck was followed by ex-Ald. Phelan, and other speakers who championed the policy of the present government.

CHINA AND HER PEOPLE

Missionary From Hong Kong Tells of the Situation

A fairly good attendance of men listened with no small degree of interest to Mr. J. L. McPherson in the Y.M.C.A. hall Sunday afternoon, when he graphically and interestingly described existing conditions in China. First hand knowledge eminently qualified Mr. McPherson for the task. The last six years of his life spent as secretary of the Y.M.C.A. in the city of Hong Kong, enabled him to deal with the young man question of China in a most practical and clear manner.

In prefacing his address the speaker remarked on the cosmopolitan conditions in the great cities of China. Every race and color of people in the world could be seen on the streets of China. The Y.M.C.A. does work for all these as the people style themselves either Europeans or Chinese. The necessity for association in China is very great for a large percentage of the population is made up of young men. Three quarters of the European population of Hong Kong for example is formed of young men.

"There is a constant procession of young men to and from the East," said Mr. McPherson, "many of them just coming there to reside temporarily in the interests of whatever business they are sent on by their employers. Away off there they are free from every restraint which surrounds them at home, and the various forms of temptations in the east are as strong or stronger than they are here. Even the employers of these young men are not particular what their employes do or into what forms of dissipation or vice they enter, so long as they are able to tumble out to work in the morning and keep out of the police courts. The Sabbath day is often used as merely a day of recreation. It is a terrible pity and a lamentable fact that promising young men leave Christian homes and go out to China there to fall and yield to its temptations and gradually sink lower and lower. It is for such that the Y.M.C.A. does its great Christian izing work."

"The Chinese are a peculiar people" continued Mr McPherson. "They secure their estimate of eastern civilization and Christianship from the people whom they see come from the west. They judge the Christian nations by the young men and the lives which they lead out there.

Mr McPherson went on to thoroughly describe the working plans of the Y.M.C.A. in China, specializing on the one in Hong Kong, where he himself was secretary. These institutions are self supporting the only money that is required from the west being that which goes to support the secretary himself or in other words, pay his salary.

At the conclusion of the address the speaker made a special appeal for funds for the support of Mr. Trueman, secretary of Nagasaki, Japan, whose salary is away in arrears.

Mr. McDonald was heard at St. Paul's church in the morning and at Knox church at night. In his discourse at the latter church he emphasized above all other things the necessity of action right now.

PASSING OF MR. R.H. LEARY

Had Given Valuable Service to City During Active Life

It is with genuine and heartfelt regret that citizens to-day are mourning the passing of Mr. Robert H. Leary, who expired with shocking suddenness on Saturday evening from heart trouble, shortly after 9.30 o'clock. After transacting the day's business Mr Leary returned home in the evening and finding the family had retired, went to the sitting room to enjoy the papers before retiring himself. It was but a short space later that alarmed by an unusual sound down stairs, Mrs. Leary came down and was stunned to discover that her husband had just breathed his last. His pipe lay beside him scarcely touched and the body was sitting upright in the easy chair.

The deceased gentleman was a little over fifty years of age, and leaves a sorrowing wife and one daughter, Miss Katie, to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband and father. The sympathy of the entire community will go out to the family in their sad bereavement.

THE LATE R. H. LEARY

The late Mr. Leary was the son of the late Christopher Leary, a pioneer resident of South Monaghan. The deceased was educated in this city and was at one time a well-known livery proprietor on Water street. His keen interest in civic affairs was allowed full scope during his two years of aldermanic service. Up till a year ago he held a lieutenant's rank in the 24th Field Battery, having been appointed October 4th, 1905, the Battery being organized May 9th, 1905.

But Mr. Leary's work in connection with the Peterborough Agricultural Society won for him perhaps his greatest credit. Putting his shoulder to the effort of bringing this organization to the front, how splendidly he succeeded is amply demonstrated by its present flourishing condition.

A strong Liberal in politics, Mr. Leary was actively associated with the West Peterborough Liberal Association. He was a valued adherent of St. Luke's Anglican church.

The funeral will likely take place on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, and may be of a military nature. Definite particulars will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Inglis and Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Douglas are expected to arrive in the city for the funeral.

MOOSE IS SHOT

Unusual Good Luck of North Country Hunters

A hunting story comes from the vicinity of Lakehurst, in which the leading figure was Mr. Fred. Eason who shot a cow-moose and before the animal was quite dead, jumped on it and held it down until another man, with a rifle came along and ended the life of the beast, by a well directed rifle shot.

When discovered, the Moose was feeding in Mr. Millett's grounds. Freddy Eason saw it first and hurriedly fetching a shot gun, the only weapon available at the moment, he crept near enough, and when the unsuspecting animal came close, he emptied both barrels into it. The antlered monarch dropped, although by no means dead. The excited sportsman, only had two more shells so hurriedly reloading, he discharged another barrel into the wounded animal. As life appeared to be almost extinct, he then scrambled over the fence and jumped on its head, meanwhile, calling for assistance, which came in the shape of a rifle shot from a hunter in the vicinity. After being skinned, the meat was divided in equal shares amongst the party.

The moose weighed 800 pounds, and measured thirteen feet, and Mr. Eason was naturally pleased with his achievement. He was one of the hunting party organized by Reeve Shaw.

SACRED HEART ANNIVERSARY

Large Congregations Heard Rev. Father Shonhart of Toronto

Large congregations took part in the second anniversary of the Sacred Heart church yesterday, the visiting of the Redemptorist Fathers, Toronto, of the Redemptorist Fathers, Toronto, who preached at 10.30 a.m. mass and also at vespers.

Before the sermon in the morning, Rev. Dr. O'Brien made an impressive reference to the gratitude due God for his many mercies of the year. "The church was," Rev. Dr. O'Brien said, "the very presence of God, and the one great object was the saving of souls." He made a strong appeal to his parishioners to lead a still more virtuous life.

The number attending Holy Communion during the year was over 18,000, an increase over the past year of 5,000.

Reference was also made to the death at Sault Ste. Marie of the Rev. J. J. Connelly, who, two years ago, organized in Peterboro, the branch of the Sacred Heart League.

Rev. Father Shonhart received a most attentive hearing, and he brought out some splendid points as he spoke particularly to his congregation on the importance of leading Godlike lives, in the home, in the factory, and at all times. It was not sufficient to be a Catholic alone. The religion must show out in the daily life. Some Catholics were very attentive to church services, but once outside the church, their religion was forgotten.

And the return of thankfulness to God was to often neglected. One illustration the preacher gave was very striking. He took the case of a man on his way to work with his pipe filled but having no match. How thankful he was on being given one by a friend. Yet that same man would rise from his bed in the morning, and forget to return thanks to God for all the good things poured down on them or ask for guidance for the day.

The choir sang beautifully at the various services held in connection with the anniversary.

It was announced that the first social evening of the year would be held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum on Wednesday night.

SPORTING COLUMN.

CALGARY SPORTING WRITER AND RUGBY.

Where does the successful coach earn his money in the huge American University teams. If the game was the same old cut-and-dried stuff pulled out every year, think you that these coaches would be retained at the enormous salaries just to rehearse the old story? Not much. Each year there is a decided evolution, and these coaches are the boys who do the evolving. They try to lead the game, not have the game run away with them. The only fault of the Canadian game is the fact that it has undergone practically no change at all. Same old stuff hauled out year after year. Two downs and a kick; two downs and a kick. Change ends. Two downs and a kick; two downs and a kick. If one of the halves run a few yards or is tackled at all well, or a little run is pulled off with the wings handling the ball, the play is called a wonder. The game is suffering from the lack of brains to make new plays.

Take this method of heeling out the ball. No man or woman can tell how the ball is going to come out. That is one of the weak points of the game and could stand some revolutionizing without doing any harm. The English way is worse, for it is purely luck. The Americans have that part of the game down to a decided art. When the ball is put into play, all can see it go into action and there is no chance for a slip. In the Canadian game the ball is placed into the scrimmage and then heeled out in a most unscientific way. It may come out or ooze out, and the luckless quarter back who has to do the initial handling has the time of his life trying to get the ball out clean from the centre scrimmage, and do something with it before the wings pile around him and massage the tan off him with their boots.

SAMSON

Samson

Not satisfied with his first experience with Champion Frank Gotch, the result of which was a week in a hospital, many hours of which were passed in a state of coma from which it was feared he would not emerge, Henry Bahn, the German wrestler, known as "Samson," wants some more.

Immediately upon his discharge from St. Luke's, "Samson" went to the office of the Chicago Daily Socialist and deposited $1000 to bind a return match with Gotch, George Hackenschmidt or any other heavyweight grappler living.

He announced his willingness to meet any man after a week's training. Although he has wrestled for years, "Samson" says he has never been thrown. Gotch tossed the big German over his head and he was knocked senseless, the match ending with "Samson" on his way to the hospital.

The First Importation

Barney Joy, who was secured from Boston as a recruit to the 1912 pitching staff of the Spokane team in the Northwestern league, has the distinction of being the first player imported for an organized club in the United States. Joy was burning up the platter in Honolulu five years ago, when Long of San Francisco sent a scout to the crossroads of the Pacific, with the result that he was signed to play with the Seals. He was in good form during the first few months, but "petered" toward the end of the season and was sent adrift by the manager. Two years afterward he showed his mettle and his second trial resulted in a sale to Boston. While with the Seals in San Francisco Joy had Charlie Street, now with the Washington team, at the receiving end. Joy is a veritable giant in size and has remarkable speed and a lot of other things, including control. He will report for practice early next spring. Manager Cohn has every confidence in the native-born Hawaiian and expects to get good service from him.

THE TALKING NEWSPAPER

A System by Which all the News can be Ph[illegible] [illegible]side or Your Office.

There certainly seems to be no limit to newspaper enterprise, but it has remained for Budapest to inaugurate a system of news distribution in which there seems to be great possibilities, particularly in view of the remarkable invention in the old country of Mr. Grindell Matthews, who has been demonstrating how easy it is to telephone without the use of wires. Mr. Matthews, with the aid of his apparatus, which consists solely of a small box, containing the battery, motor, and transformer, which can easily be carried about and thus enable every man, if he wishes, to have his own telephone with him, has managed to speak clearly and distinctly by his system of wireless telephony over a distance of six miels. Shortly he hopes to speak over fifty miles, and as time goes on and he improves his invention, he does not see why the distance should have any limit.

The voice travels through the air in rippling waves, and what Mr. Matthews has achieved is the control of the direction of the waves by means of electricity, so that they are attracted by the receiving machine wherever it may be.

All the City Listens.

Among the people most interested in this invention are the newspaper proprietors of Budapest, who some time ago adopted a unique device which spreads the latest local and foreign news throughout the city in less than ten minutes after the central news office has received the information.

The instrument of dispatch is called the "talking newspaper," and it is neither a public phonograph nor a news sheet hurriedly distributed. It is a sort of telephonic news service, and is the only thing of its kind in the world. Working in connection with the associated newspapers of the city, a central office has been established, which is the core of the curious system. At the first hint of news coming in over the telephone instrument to any or all of the newspaper offices, this central telephone office is called, and whatever the news is, from far or near, the bureau is advised of it in full.

The bureau agent then rings his signal calls to his special news telephone at the same instant every subscriber in Budapest. After a reasonably long interval, long enough to allow subscribers to get to their receivers, the despatch is slowly and distinctly read at the central office and subscribers all over the city stand listening to the same voice. After the news is read it is once repeated for the benefit of those who may not have clearly understood the first time or who may have been delayed in answering the signal.

On Laziness.

Dr. Charles A. Eaton said in the course of an after-dinner speech in Cleveland:—

"Laziness is responsible for too much of the misery we see about us. It is all very well to blame alcohol for this misery, to blame oppression and injustice; but to what heights might we not all have climbed but for our laziness?"

He paused and smiled.

"We are too much like the supernumeracy in the drama," he went on "who had to enter from the right and say, 'My lord, the carriage waits.'

"'Look here, super,' said the stage manager one night, 'I want you to come on from the left instead of the right after this, and I want you to transpose your speech. Make it run hereafter, "The carriage waits, my lord."'

"The super pressed his hand to his brow.

"'More study! More study!' he groaned."

With a Moral

The Chamber of Commerce of Rochester, N.Y., is circulating booklets to show the community the loss through preventable fires and the need of individual fire protection. The increased use of gasoline makes education on its handling very timely. Here is an illustration from one of these booklets:

"A woman poured a quart of gasoline in the marble wash bowl of the toilet room, and placed a silk waist in it. She closed the door and returned in ten minutes. She rubbed the silk between her hands. This generated sufficient electricty to make a spark. The gasoline exploded, the house burned, and the woman lost her life."

Sand Bricks: Growth of Industry

The making of building bricks by pressing together milk of lime and ten or twelve times its volume of coarse sand is a twentieth century industry, says a Scientist. Beginning with the production of a few thousand bricks in 1901 at Michigan City, Ind., it has developed rapidly in the United States, and the product seems to have stood the tests of the laboratory and actual use.

Cork Plugs for a Novel Purpose

Cork plugs are utilized in a cotton gin roller. The roller has a number of radial recesses, and the plugs of cork are fitted in the recesses and project beyond the surface of the roller. The cork plugs are described by a writer as constituting the operation friction surface of the roller, and the construction is inexpensive to manufacture and is otherwise advantageous, since the cork plugs being fitted to the recesses, may be readily renewed when worn or damaged.

Weston: "Did you congratulate Bronson on his marriage?"

Weston: "Then you might have wished her happiness."

Preston: "I couldn't do that. I know Bronson."

Not a single candidate for the Methodist ministry came forth last year in the whole district of Montreal.

THE AULD ALLIANCE

By JAMES MacKINNON

The Franco-Scottish League, which so long bound the two countries in such intimate association, was first and foremost a political one. But it not only for several centuries made its mark on the political history of France and Scotland. It materially affected their institutions and their culture, and there is no other instance in European history of so close, potent, and long enduring a relationship of one nation to another.

This unique relationship took its rise in the historical complication which at the end of the thirteenth and the beginning of the fourteenth centuries made Scotland and France the enemies of England. But the marriage of Queen Mary to the Dauphin threatened to lead to the union of the crowns, not of England and Scotland, but of Scotland and France. This danger had the effect of drawing Scotland and England together in an opposition League, and coalescing with the growing potency of the Reformation movement, which brought the two countries into line in 1560 on religious as well as political grounds, practically put an end to the old alliance.

French Influence.

Of the influence of French institutions on those of Scotland evidence is also not lacking. Scotland took, for instance, her legal system from France, not from England. Her Parliament was modelled on the French States General, in which the various orders assembled together, rather than on the assembly of Lords and Commons which formed two Houses instead of one. The Court of Session, founded in 1535, was fashioned after the Parliament of Paris, and the pre-Reformation Scottish universities after that of Paris, the greatest of mediaeval scholastic institutions. Not less remarkable is the French influence on her ecclesiastical institutions. From French Protestantism she borrowed her Presbyterian system of church government, and even in its smaller details the French impress is unmistakable. The Moderator of Scotland's ecclesiastical courts Presbytery, Synod, Assembly is an importation from France, where it was the designation of the President of an ecclesiastical court; whilst another term, applied to a motion in these courts, an "overture," is derived from the practice of the Parliament of Paris. At an earlier time ecclesiastical as well as baronial architecture affords additional exemplification of the tendency to borrow or adapt from Scotland's old ally.

COST OF AMERICA'S DISCOVERY

Less Than $8,000 Was Expended by Columbus on His Great Voyage to this Continent.

This is rather a difficult thing to ascertain, but some deductions have been made and some conclusions arrived at. Professor Rege says that the cost of the first fleet of Columbus was 1,140,000 maravedis. The value of a maravedi was about ⅔ of a cent in modern money. The contribution, therefore, that was made by Queen Isabella was about $7296.00, without taking into consideration the higher purchasing power and money in these days. The city of Palas, Spain, also had to furnish out of its own means two small ships manned for 12 months. The cost to the State, therefore, of the journey of discovery was not more than $7,500.00, about the price of a modern first class automobile. Of this sum the admiral received the sum of $320, the captains $192 each, the pilots $128 each, and a physician $38.50. The sailors received for the necessaries of life each month about $2.45. Not a very expensive trip considering the value of the discovery.

EXPERIENCE WITH SMUGGLERS

Officer Captured 100,000 Cigars

In his experiences in getting after the tobacco smugglers Donohue, a recently deceased member of the customs service at New York, had a number of narrow escapes from death. One, which was particulairy dangerous and was an excellent example of the man's fearlessness, occurred in 1882. There was one ship plying between Cuba and New York which Donohue suspected. One day it arrived on a regular trip and the detective boarded her. The customs man knew every place on a ship where contraband stuff could be hidden, but after a thorough search, he found nothing.

But Donohue was sure that there were 100,000 cigars on that vessel and he was determined to locate them. Finally, he noticed that although the firemen were free to go ashore, many of them were still on the ship, apparently enjoying his discomfiture. Then Donohue had an idea. He procured a lantern and a hammer and made his way to the boiler-room, tapping each boiler with the hammer. One sounded differently from the rest and he ordered the circular cover, about the size of an ordinary canhole, removed.

There was a moment's hesitation, but the order was fulfilled and Donohue went down in the big iron cavern. There heaped at one side he found the 100,000 cigars. But while he was below some one clapped down the iron cover and the inspector was trapped. He yelled and pounded, but all in vain. Then his lantern went out. The detective remained there for several hours until a watchman, hearing the hammering, released him.

Water does not all weigh alike For instance, a gallon of distilled water weighs ten pounds; of sea water, ten and three-quarters pounds; of Dead Sea water, twelve pounds. Eight and a half of salt go to every hundred pounds of Dead Sea water, and two pounds to ordinary sea water.

Charged With Treason.

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 20.—Gen. Bernardo Reyes, commander-in-chief of the Mexican army during the regime of former President Diaz, temporarily residing in San Antonio because he said he considered his life was not secure in the southern republic, was arrested late yesterday on an indictment returned by the federal grand jury at Laredo, charged with conspiring against a friendly Government.

The general describes his arrest as "ridiculous."

"I consider it persecution," he said, "and the animus is not hard to find. As I have always done, I again deny that I have in any manner led, aided, abetted or considered a revolution in Mexico, nor have I joined in any conspiracy to start one." He placed the blame on the Maderists.

PRAISE FOR COL. SAM

Ottawa Free Press.

There is a businesslike smack about the action of Hon. Samuel Hughes, the new Minister of Militia, in calling together in Ottawa prominent and active military gentlemen from all parts of Canada, that will commend it to Liberals and Conservatives alike.

For reasons that are obvious, it has been absolutely necessary to very considerably increase in recent years the expenditure on the Canadian militia. As to whether the money has in all cases been judiciously spent there have, of course, been differences of opinion. There have not been wanting men who declared that much of the money was spent uselessly. There will be a minor critics under any regime.

But Colonel Sam seems to be going the right way about getting to the root of the matter. The men who are here to advise him undoubtedly form the backbone of the Canadian militia. Many of them are very busy business and professional men who have devoted a lot of their valuable spare time to military matters. Some of them, doubtless, are enthusiasts dreaming of impossible things, but there seem to be enough ordinary every day mortals among them to keep the general suggestions within the range of common sense.

Colonel Sam is a good soldier, but he is also a good politician, and it is to be hoped that the latter sense will enable him to extract the practical and the desirable from the multitude of suggestions that he will receive as the result of the foregathering of the clans at his call.

A COMFORTABLE ROAD

A world-wide traveller, having just returned from a visit to Western Canada, has written to one of the chief officials of the Grand Trunk System his unsolicited opinion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and how it serves the travelling public. He says:

"I had the pleasure of travelling from Edmonton to Winnipeg on the new line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and I would like to say of the 7,000 miles travelled on railways during my last journey the time I spent on the Grand Trunk Pacific was the most comfortable of my entire trip.

"The road-bed is evidently a fine piece of work, the cars clean and comfortable, the men in charge were most polite and obliging and any question asked of them was answered in a most gentlemanly manner.

"I would like to refer specially to the dining car service and its equipment, which is the best I have seen. It was in fact a revelation to me after having travelled so far on other roads—the meals being specially good, combined with pleasant surroundings and beautifully served.

"I beg to say that if it gives you as much pleasure to read this letter as it gives me to write you, you will perhaps pardon liberty I have taken in addressing you."

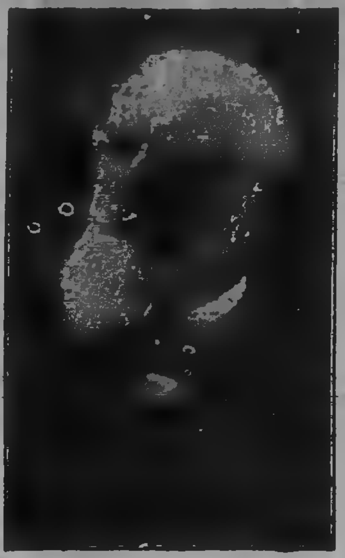
This is but a specimen of the many letters that are received by the Grand Trunk Pacific officials, praising the exceptionally fine road, and service that is now being operated in Western Canada.

Every man is said to have his price, but the average woman sizes him up and thinks he is eligible for a place on the bargain counter.

SOME ASPIRANTS FOR THE HIGH COMMISSIONERSHIP

BY H. W. HELLWELL

Since Lord Strathcona has determined to lay down the reins as Canada's representative in London as soon as a successor can be appointed, many names have been mentioned for the high position. The position of High Commissioner for Canada, to day, is one of great responsibility — the holder not only acts as the means of communication between his own and the Imperial governments, but owing to the unique position that Canada occupies, through the marvellous progress of the last ten years and the enormous amount of British capital invested in the Dominion, the High Commissioner is looked upon as the outward form of her prosperity and a kind of unofficial guarantor for the proper investment of that capital, consequently Canada's representative has not only to be "persona grata" with the right people, but he has to be wealthy indeed to keep up the proper dignity of his high position.



LORD STRATHCONA

The present High Commissioner for Canada in London.

Two men have raised the Commissionership to what it is: Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., whose broadminded statesmanship, during the trying time when Canada was endeavouring to get a sound footing in the political and financial worlds, did much to inspire confidence in this country and the present holder, Lord Strathcona.

What this "grand old man" has done for Canada will never fully be known until some future historian can give a truer perspective of his life and times. But even to-day the love and the respect that Lord Strathcona has inspired with all he has come in contact with—his cheery optimism, his sound common sense and his unbounded confidence in Canada's future — are sufficient guarantee to the people of this Dominion that his Lordship is their ideal representative. And in appointing his successor Premier Borden has a difficult and responsible task; he will be a hard man to follow, and now Canada is a big factor in the future of the Empire her representative's duties and responsibilities will be more onerous than ever.

SIR EDMUND WALKER

The first name that naturally comes to one's mind and one that has been mentioned often since he lost the elections is that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. In mentioning the name of the late Prime Minister it would not be — as great as the office is — a question of the aspiration of the man rather it would be that of the inspiration of the position; but Sir Wilfrid is not likely to accept any position from the hand of his successor, he will be too busy reconstructing his party.

Sir Hugh Graham of the Montreal Star, who has been aspiring to the High Commissionership for a long time, has also been mentioned. But a successful newspaperman, in a business sense, does not necessarily mean a successful public servant. In the commissionership qualities must be shown which Sir Hugh hardly possesses; it is one thing to run a private concern and another to control a great public office, one is self interest and the other the people's, and as the proprietor of the "Star" who has had no experience of public life, has a little too much of the dominating — some would say domineering — spirit, he would be an impossible High Commissioner.

SIR MONTAGU ALLAN,

Whose friends are working hard for his appointment.

The name of Major George Stephens — the chief harbour commissioner at Montreal — who has had a fairly large experience in public affairs, has been brought out rather prominently amongst those who ought to know, in connection with the great position. He has the additional advantage of having a wife who would make a splendid hostess — and the wives of public men to-day, particularly in the old country, play great parts in their husband's success — in the capital of the Empire. The majestic carriage and grace of Mrs. Stephens are conspicuous in every gathering she attends, attributes that which would go far in popularising the social side of the office, and as it is well known that she is a real helpmeet to her husband, Major Stephens would have a splendid lieutenant in his good lady. The Major in his public offices, first as member of the Provincial house as member for St. Lawrence, and as chairman of the Harbour commissioners, has not only shown qualities of a high order — qualities that at times have approached the calibre of statesmanship in tact and broad mindedness — but has gained an experience that would be invaluable in the onerous duties and diplomacy required in looking after Canada's interests in London.

SIR FREDERICK BORDEN

"An Impossible High Commissioner."

SIR HUGH GRAHAM

"Should Premier Borden make the mistake of appointing the proprietor of the "Montreal Star" to the Canadian High Commissionership, the Conservative Government would not be sustained in the next elections.

One can in fancy see Major Stephen's with the smile that begets confidence, doing his best in convincing the authorities in the homeland that Canada is pre-eminently the centre of the universe and her [illegible] of the earth. And he would succeed.

This is the class of man wanted in London — men who believe in their own country and are not afraid to speak out.

The name of Sir Frederick Borden was mentioned at one time, and even Sir Frederick himself thought he had a good chance, but pressure was soon brought to bear against the appointment and now the ex-Minister of Marine stands less chance than ever, as the Premier is not likely to appoint his cousin to represent him in London.

Sir Montagu Allan's name has also been coupled with the commissionership but his friends, who have worked hard for his appointment, will be disappointed. They evidently have forgotten that the High Commissioner for Canada in London must, like St. Paul of old, be "all things to all men". Sir Montagu would certainly "be all things" to the old country aristocracy, but the common herd-well, the knight of Montreal would not know how to deal with them.

SIR HENRY PELLATT

Premier Borden would make no mistake in the appointment of Sir Henry to the High Commissionership.

And since he has not been selected by Mr. Borden for his cabinet the member for St. Antoine — Mr. H. B. Ames — is supposed to be in the running for the great position. I doubt his chances, though a good man. He represents too much one class, the manufacturer, to be a successful all-round representative for Canada.

Railway men have introduced the name of Sir William Van Horne, but the builder of the C. P. R. though one of Canada's strongest men would not make an ideal representative in England. He is too American in his ideas — Sir William was born in the States — and too brusque to suit officialdom in London, and he would be a wee bit too much for Sir William Van Horne.

Two bankers' names have been mentioned, Sir Edward Clouston of the Bank of Montreal and Sir Edmund Walker of the Bank of Commerce. The former is a silent man and Canada wants a man who will advertise the country, and Sir Edmund Walker — one of the most able financial men in the Empire — is too much taken with his vast interests to take up public office. Another able financier and banker is mentioned, Mr. E. B. Osler, M.P., who is certainly one of the most able men in the present House of Commons and who has already represented Canada in England in the Congress of the Chambers of Commerce. Mr. Osler has the great advantage of being brother to Sir William Osler, Bart., of world wide reputation, whose influence in English circles would help him considerably in gaining a good foothold, and further as many in Ontario wanted him in the present cabinet—and he is well fitted for the head of a government department — Mr. Osler's many friends are urging his claims for the High Commissionership. But this able man is of too retiring a nature to accept the position if it was offered to him.

MAJOR G. W. STEPHENS

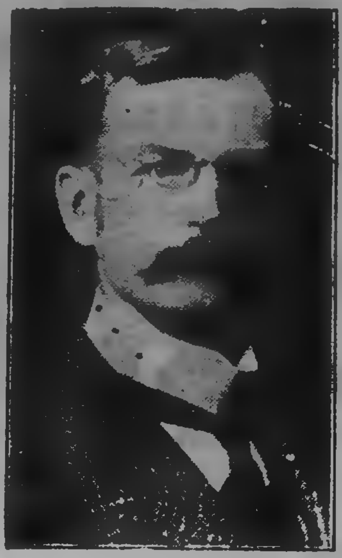
We are now by the process of elimination confined to two men whose names have been mentioned in connection with the representation of Canada in England, the Hon. Clifford Sifton and Sir Henry M. Pellatt, and if ability and public service go for anything, and if it were possible, both should be appointed.

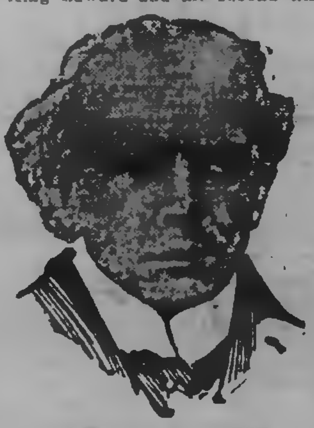
The first of the two men, the Hon. Clifford Sifton, is too well known for one to peruse his career here. But there is no doubt that Clifford Sifton was the greatest asset in the return of the Conservatives to power. Without his powerful denunciation of the reciprocity pact, during the last campaign, there would be no Conservative Government to-day and while it would have been bad politics for Mr. Sifton to have accepted a position in a cabinet with which outside of the reciprocity question he was not in accord, it would be quite within bounds for him to accept the High Commissionership, assuming it was offered to him. And in his offering to his great ally the position, the Prime Minister would be doing the gracious thing. True it would be a party appointment of a strong party man, but Clifford Sifton is big enough to rise to national politics. He also has the needful wealth to keep up the position and the authorities in London would certainly find that he knew how to take care of Canadian interests. But it is doubtful if Mr. Clifton with his increasing deafness would accept the position.



H. B. AMES, M.P.

"Though a good man for the Canadian Manufacturer's Association the member for St. Antoine could not possibly fill the position."

Of the latter (Sir H. M. Pellatt) much may be said. He is a national figure in the real sense of the word; one who has done as much as any other man in the Dominion to bring to the minds of the world, the best in Canada—its men. He it was who at his own expense took over to England twice, his splendid regiment, the "Queen's Own" first to the coronation of King Edward and the second time to the manoeuvres at Aldershot. These living evidences of Canada's manhood probably advertised this country more than all the literature and lecturers the Government ever sent over. Further, Sir Henry's bon homme made him personally one of the most popular men in England, a popularity that is bound to be a great factor in making the High Commissionership a success. Col. Pellatt has other qualities; he is a keen business man, very methodical and patient — and patience is a virtue in the old country — he is wealthy and what is more to the point, very generous. As a statesman, Sir Henry would bound to be success, his knowledge of public affairs is wide, and his application of that knowledge is always along the broadest lines—no narrow-minded views for the popular colonel, and above all he is Imperial from first to last. True Imperialism has been the key to all Sir Henry Pellatt's public activities and he is an ardent believer in the connection of Canada and the mother country being as close as possible. Should Sir Henry M. Pellatt be appointed to London it will be with the plaudits of all Canada, every man and woman of which is proud of their countryman in his public spirited generosity. Premier Borden would make no mistake in the appointment of Sir Henry to the great position of High Commissioner for Canada in London.



SIR WILFRID LAURIER,

With a Moral

The Chamber of Commerce of Rochester, N.Y., is circulating booklets to show the community the loss through preventable fires and the need of individual fire protection. The increased use of gasoline makes education on its handling very timely. Here is an illustration from one of these booklets:

"A woman poured a quart of gasoline in the marble wash bowl of the toilet room, and placed a silk waist in it. She closed the door and returned in ten minutes. She rubbed the silk between her hands. This generated sufficient electricty to make a spark. The gasoline exploded, the house burned, and the woman lost her life."

French Thrift

To a certain extent, economy on the part of the French householder is compulsory as well as instinctive. Salaries and earnings, particularly those of the official and professional classes, are less than in Britain, taxation is on the whole higher, and commodities are dearer all round. With coal at 56s per ton, as in Paris, a good bright fire is something of a luxury, and the national custom of using paper spills instead of matches wherever a fire or gas jet is available is explained by the comparative dearness of matches owing to the State monopoly.

This trait of thriftiness characterises the French in almost every department of life. As one of their own writers has said, they are not apt at spending. Here, he says, they must go to school to the Anglo-Saxon. In the matter of hospitality and entertaining they are more careful than we are, and the furnishing and fitting up of a home, for instance, is done in France once and for all. Another writer has said that British middle-class folks will spend more upon their homes in twelve months than French folks of the same standing throughout the entire course of their married lives.

A Joint Victory

Admiral Lord Fisher on his return from the United States last summer was full of admiration for American newspaper enterprise. "The American reporters are very alert," he said. "They are not like the editors they tell about in Tallis street. A newspaper proprietor in Tallis street hired a new editor. That very night there was a fire in the Strand, a vast fire, which all London turned out to see. The proprietor saw it himself, with its thrilling rescues, tragedies, and escapes, and early the next morning he opened his paper with the pleasant expectation of reading a fine, graphic account of the terrible conflagration. Not a line about the fire had his new editor printed. The man could hardly believe his eyes. He tore in a taxicab to Tallis street. He burst in on the editor like an explosion. 'Why didn't we have a story of the fire?' he asked. The new editor looked calmly through his spectacles and replied: 'What was the use of printing anything about it? Everybody in town was there to see the whole thing for themselves.'"

Cigarette Paper

It is not generally know that French manufacturers of cigarette paper now practically supply the entire world, the output of Austria and Italy being insignificant. There is probably not more than one person in a hundred who knows that rice paper, in which the tobacco is wrapped, has nothing to do with rice, but is made from the membranes of the bread-fruit tree, or, more commonly, of fine new trimmings of flax and hemp. So light is this paper that five hundred of the tiny sheets only weigh an ounce.

Too Much Small Shot

The Smart Man burst into the room. "Heard the news about Dickenson getting shot?" he roared, red with excitement.

Club members dropped their papers and sprang suddenly to life.

"No!" they cried. "When?"

"'Bout half-an-hour ago!" gasped the Smart Man. "I was there and saw it!"

"Where did he get shot?" broke in another. "Down at the ironmonger's!" chuckled the Smart Man, slipping into the best chair. "He bought two pounds of it!"

What the Butcher Missed

"Sorry, sir," telephoned the butcher "but we are out of sirloin. Why don't your wife order you a round?"

"What's that?" exploded Harker at the other end of the line.

"I say, why don't your wife order you a round?"

"Why dont' my wife order me around? Man, that is all she does from morning until night! If you were nearer I'd—" But the startled butcher had hung-up the receiver.

THE GENUINE ALWAYS SUPERIOR TO THE IMITATION

The experienced buyer never permits the shrewd merchant to convince him that an imitation is superior to the genuine advertised article. In refusing a substitute he protects himself and the manufacturers who have expended enormous sums in giving the public information regarding their products.

Advertised articles have stood the test of public approval on their merits and materials embracing their make-up. The mere fact that they are imitated is competent testimony of their worth.

A THOROUGHLY FUNNY PLAY

The Best Yet — "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" on Wednesday Night.

If you want to thoroughly enjoy yourself do not miss seeing May Robson in the "Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," on Wednesday Night.

The play embraces a strong yet natural development of the humorous and pathetic and Aunt Mary is a "scream."

The story of the play concerns a maiden aunt who has always lived in a country village with strong prejudices against the larger cities. Her nephew, who is a student in college, contrived to avoid all peaceful pleasures by getting involved in all sorts of scrapes—the last one being a fight with a cabman whom he injured. To avoid the law and publicity, it is necessary to appeal to Aunt Mary for five hundred dollars to settle the case. The next interesting episode in the young man's career is a breach-of-promise case, to cap the climax of Aunt Mary's patience; she disinherits him, but after listening to the nephew's voluble explanations, reconsiders her decision. And all ends happily. It is during this visit to her nephew that the rejuvenation takes place The process is extremely funny and there are no dull moments to retard the story, nor check the movements of the characters, and Miss Robson interests and amuses the audiences until the final curtain closes the incidents of "The rejuvenation of Aunt Mary."

Miss Robson appears on Thursday evening in "A Night off," a play full of chuckles and laughs.

WHY THERE ARE FAILURES

Spirit of the Pharisee With us To-day

Christ Should be Properly Represented in Our Religion

Speaking on the subject of 'Men who are failures," and taking for his text Matthews 21, 30, "Son go work to-day in my veinyard . . . And he answered and said, I go sir. but he went not." Rev. J. R. Webb at the evening service in Murray street church, said during the course of his sermon:—

"One thing is certain that Jesus Christ was a magnetic character. The rich and the poor, the moral and the sinful, the old and the young were happy in his company. Those who sent him to the Cross charged him not with strictness, but laxity. If our religion is not attractive to the multitude it is because we do not properly represent Christ. We are not representing him if the type of piety we present is unattractive to youth—repulsive to strong men and uncharitable to our fellows. We cannot read the daily papers without being convinced that all the spirit of the Pharisee is in certain breasts to-day. All the intolerance that crucified Christ is still exercised in the name of Christianity and if the rack and thumbscrews rot and rust it is because men dare not use them, not because they could not. The inquisition was the fruit of a mistaken sincerity and persecution to-day comes from the same root, therefore I claim that the Christian is in duty bound to seek not only sincerity, but illumination. You have no right to pull down your blinds and then declare that the only light in the universe is that which comes from your little candle."

W. A. A. TWILIGHT MUSICALE

The "Twilight Musicale" in the Conservatory of Music Hall on Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Women's Art Association, proved to be a delightful entertainment and a real treat to the large number who attended. A choice program was supplied which included selections of a very difficult and classical character calling for faultless interpretation and a high standard of musical ability.

The opening selection by the Conservatory orchestra "Nabucodonosor" an overture by Verdi was most brilliantly executed and came in for a goodly share of approval. This organisation also rendered the ever popular "Daughter of the Regiment" in their usual swinging style. Miss Julia Choate and the orchestra gave a very beautiful serenade by Schubert that was warmly applauded.

Miss Mary G. Chalmers was heard to noticeable advantage in the famous "Ave Maria" setting by Gounod with the obligato violin part played by Miss Choate.

Miss Katie Leary and Mr. Asa Haycke were the other assisting artists both being heard to splendid advantage the former in readings and latter in vocal numbers.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD SATURDAY

The annual general meeting of the shareholders of the William Hamilton Company, was held in the office of the company, Reid street, at three o'clock p.m., on Saturday, 18th inst.

A large number of the shareholders were represented in person or by proxy.

The annual report of the directors for the year ending 30th September, 1911 ,was presented and showed a satisfactory condition of the Company's business for the past year. On motion the report was received and adopted.

The net profits of the year were such as to enable the directors, after providing all repairs to plant and buildings, and for depreciation of pattern account, to declare the usual dividend of eight per cent upon the paid up preference stock of the Company, and carry forward a substantial balance to the credit of profit and loss account.

The old Board of Directors were re-elected, viz. Messrs. Andrew Macfarlane, J. C. Smith. Geo. D. Gladman, David Spence. O. R. Cameron, L. A. Potvin and W. H. Collier, and Mr. W. R. Morris, chartered accountant, was re-elected auditor for the ensuing year.

The meeting then adjourned.

THE CHATEAU LAURIER

Work on the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, the new $2,000,000 hotel, constructed by the Grand Trunk system, is progressing very favorably.

Nearly all the plastering of the hotel is now completed and there remains to be done only the lobby, bar and grill room ceiling. Most of the marble floors for the dining room corridor are laid, and after the plaster work of the lobby is completed, work will be started on the marble work of that floor. Heat and light have been in the building for the past two months, and when the plaster is sufficiently dried in the various public rooms the decorators will be able to commence the interior decorations. Some of the wood work for the big rooms is in the hotel and the erection of this is going on. The general appearance of the various rooms, is beyond expectations, and when completed will be of the richest effect, artistic in design, and wonderfully beautiful.

CHARLOTTE ST. CHOIR MADE PRESENTATION

Steamer Rug for Mr. Ridyard, a Valued Member

At the conclusion of Charlotte-st. church service Sunday morning, the members of the choir gathered to present their respects to one of their valued number, Mr. Ridyard, who is shortly to take a trip to his old home in England. Mr. Ridyard was the recipient of a handsome steamer rug presented to him by the choir as evidencing in a small measure their appreciation of the valuable services he has rendered to that organization.

On behalf of the choir Mr. D. Fleming conveyed to the departing member sincere thanks for his hearty cooperation and exemplary activity in the choir circles, and wished him "bon voyage" in his visit to the land of his birth.

"We hope that the rug may be a tangible and warmth giving evidence to you of our feelings, when the breezes of the briny ocean are assailing you," said Mr. Fleming. Mr. Ridyard contemplates enjoying his Christmas dinner among his old friends in merry England.

Although completely surprised at the turn of affairs, Mr. Ridyard replied very appropriately and expressed the pleasure he had derived from his association with the choir, and hoped to return early in January.

Mr. Ridyard has been connected with the choir since coming to Peterborough four years ago.

ANSWERS

By J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist

Q. Why do school children with good sight, require Glasses?

A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength, the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.

Q. Why do children squint?

A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain, this is nature's way. Study glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squint.

Q. Why do children have eye headaches?

A. An eye headache is a reflex pain caused by straining the eyes, the pain may be over the eyes or through the temples. The remedy for eye headaches is relief glasses, to be worn while studying

LAURIER'S EFFORTS TO DRIVE WEDGE INTO CABINET FAILS

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—Nationalism is as dead as reciprocity.

There were two corpses in the last election, reciprocity and Nationalism, and yesterday Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hugh Guthrie tried to breathe the breath of life into them, but both steadfastly refused to shake off the cerements of the tomb.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who moved an amendment to the address, dealing with the navy and denouncing what he termed dissension in the Cabinet, devoted himself considerably to Mr. Monk, whose leap to the Treasury benches he described as a marvelous acrobatic feat. If the Government had a new naval policy he claimed that it was the duty of the Premier to inform the House, otherwise he could not see how the two (Borden and Monk) could sit in the same Cabinet.

Mr. Borden denied any dissension in the Cabinet. His difference with Mr. Monk two years before had been on the existence of an emergency, not on a question of policy. The latter and those with him if an emergency arose would do their duty to the Empire.

They would present their naval policy at the right time, and the people should decide. The absurd and wasteful expenditure contemplated by the late administration should be put a stop to.

R. H. Bennett (Calgary), the mover of the address, is a rushing torrent of western eloquence, reminding one, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier said, of the crystal flood of the Bow River.

He paid a tribue to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who yesterday celebrated his 70th birthday, and expressed the hope "that he may long be spared to serve the nation."

The west needed a system of great trunk highways. It was encouraging to find the new Government grappling at the outset with these problems of aid to agriculture.

He expressed the hope that they would see fit to establish a department of public health, to create such conditions as would conserve, not only the natural resources, but also the vital energies of the people.

"We rejoice," said Mr. Bennett, "that at last we have a Government that has the courage of its conviction to lift the tariff to some extent at least out of politics, to create a commission that shall deal with the tariff upon a proper scientific basis." The men of the west equally with the men of the east believed in a tariff.

These should be proper control of corporations. A tribunal should limit the issue of securities. Corporations, however bad, have the right to know what they might do within the law and what was right without the law.

In providing for extension of trade with the British West Indies and British Guinea the Government were carrying out their pre-election proposals.

Arthur Sevigny (Dorchester), the seconder of the address, speaking in French, bore witness to the "sentiment of solidarity" among all provinces of the Dominion.

Mr. Sevigny closed with an eloquent declaration of the loyalty of French-Canadians to the British flag.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was greeted by loud applause when he arose to reply. After a semi-humorous reference to Mr. Bennett's flow of oratory, he devoted himself for a moment to Mr. Sevigny, who was, he declared, well-known to them as a fervid Nationalist orator, opposed to naval expenditure in any shape or form.

"I should like to contrast his speech of to-day," said Sir Wilfrid; "with those which he carried on his election."

With regard to trade with the Brit-

TWO WIVES ON ONE STREET

Chatham, Nov. 20.—Returning from the United States, where she had separated from her husband, Mrs. Edward James charges that she recently found him living a few doors distant from her on Barthe street with another woman. She laid a charge of bigamy, but while Officer Dexelus was obstructed at the door of the factory by workmen who questioned his authority James slipped out by another door and disappeared. He is probably in Detroit. James was first married some eight years ago, the second marriage taking place in Chatham quite recently.

ENGLISH SUFFRAGETTES TO RENEW ATTACK ON MEMBERS

Another Battle in the Cause Promised—Big Gathering Planned.

London, Nov. 21.—The suffragettes are preparing to renew their attacks on Parliament with a battle to-night, which will surpass all previous campaigns. A few days ago a delegation of suffragettes interviewed Premier Asquith and attempted to obtain a pledge that the Government would undertake to pass a bill giving equal suffrage to both sexes. Premier Asquith declined to make such a pledge, but told the women instead that he had always been opposed to woman suffrage.

At a subsequent meeting, the suffragettes decided to inaugurate a "war of demonstration" in Parliament square on Nov. 21. They have summoned all their followers and male sympathizers to assemble around the Parliament building at 8 o'clock in the evening. The fact that the gathering is fixed for after dark may make unusual trouble for the police. Mrs. Peethick Lawrence explains it thus:

"The gathering has been arranged late for the express reason that the decent honest working man will be in the streets. We have found that their presence affords women moral protection against violence by the police and hooligans."

Miss Christobel Pankhurst declared last night that women certainly will push their way to the floor of the House of Commons this time, to make their protest against "the great insult Mr. Asquith has given."

It is reported that another women's movement, incited by a Conservative newspaper, is preparing for a monster meeting and is sending out a petition, signed by several members of the nobility in addition to many others, against the feature of Chancellor Lloyd George's insurance bill, compelling women employed to make joint contribution of six pence weekly on the German plan.

Prof. Macphail, the Versatile.

Kingston, Nov. 21.—Prof. Alexander MacPhail, elected Independent Conservative in Prince Edward Island, has returned and has resumed his classes in the school of mining. He says he will not resign from Queen's staff. The P. E. I. House convenes about the end of April each year, and as the professor's duties at Queen's end about that time, the two will not conflict. Prof. Macphail says he would not accept a portfolio were it offered, as he does not want to undertake anything that will interfere with his work at the university. He was mentioned as Minister of Agriculture.

Keeping Out Foreign Cattle.

London, Nov. 21.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A Dublin correspondent says that Bonar Law's promise to the Commons to support the present embargo against the importation of foreign cattle has given intense satisfaction.

His further statement that he is prepared, under tariff reform, to give Irish cattle preference over Canadian, is the first substantial guarantee Ireland has received that the Unionist fiscal policy is likely to be adaptable to her needs.

Rev. A. Cullens Called.

London, Nov. 21.—Rev. A. Cullens, for four years provincial secretary in charge of the county Y.M.C.A. work, has accepted a call to become pastor of the Lanesboro, Mass., church.

REV. J. A. MACDONALD.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—According to Dr. J. A. Macdonald, editor of the Toronto Globe, Canada is sorry she rejected reciprocity. Mr. Macdonald so declared in an address before the Sunday Evening Club last night.

"The people have returned to sober thinking and regret their action," he said. "The voters were swayed by the unintelligent emotion of the crowd. The annexation bugbear was to blame for it all. It was just an evil rumor that got started and you could no more stop it than you could halt a tornado. People were swept away by it and acted rashly. They are now in a repentant mood."

CAMPAIGN ON THE SALOONS

Dominion Alliance Prepares to Clean Up Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—The Dominion Alliance are entering upon a big campaign against the liquor traffic in view of the approaching session of the board of license commissioners.

The secretary of the Dominion Alliance, Mr. John H. Roberts, yesterday issued a statement which is in part as follows:

"To-morrow the board of license commissioners will begin its sittings for the purpose of taking into consideration applications for licenses for the year commencing May 1, 1912. In view of these forthcoming deliberations and speaking only in the public interest, I most earnestly and solemnly appeal to the license commissioners to give the citizens of Montreal, especially the tempted poor, some relief from the intolerable conditions that prevail as a result of the over-licensing of our city.

"No other city in Canada has so many licenses for sale of intoxicating liquors as Montreal. The over-salooning of Montreal amounts to what is nothing less than a grave scandal of immense magnitude.

"It will show how far we are behind the other cities of Canada if a comparison is made between the number of licenses in Montreal and those of other communities.

"Montreal has 105 more licenses than the next 11 largest cities of Canada combined. In other words, while the next 11 largest cities of Canada, with a combined population of 1,059,538 have 867 licenses, or one to every 1,234 of the population, this commercial metropolis of the Dominion, with a population of 466,197, has 1,061 licenses, or one to every 440 of the population. Surely I am the reverse of fanatical when I say the time has come when this enormous number should be reduced to more reasonable proportions."

The statement, including a table giving population and number of licenses of Canadian cities: Toronto retains its title as "Toronto the Good," having only one license for every 2,351 inhabitants, as compared with Montreal's 440, Ottawa's 1,151, London's 1,398, and Quebec's 711.

Hudson Bay Excursion.

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—William Beech, pioneer settler at Fort Churchill, on the Hudson Bay, which is in the capital, is discussing a proposal to advertise the possibilities of the Hudson Bay region by conducting an excursion to Fort Churchill next summer. The plan is to charter a steamer to leave Montreal July 10 or thereabouts, proceed to St. John's, Nfld., and up the east coast of that island to Hudson Strait. Calls would be made at points of interest along the coast. Several days would be spent at Hudson Bay and the return trip would be made via the Straits of Belle Isle.

U.S. BATTLESHIPS WILL BE OF 30,000 TONS DISPLACEMENT

Plans Completed for Two New Leviathans of War, and Passed.

Washington, Nov. 21.—The finishing touches yesterday were put on the plans which will be submitted to Congress next month for two battleships of 30,000 tons displacement each. This action on the part of the naval board is taken as a repudiation of the theories of the eminent British authority, Sir William H. White, who in a recent address before the Society of Naval Architects in New York, advocated the construction of smaller ships.

On the point of coal endurance, the new American battleships are expected to excel those of other nations. Admiral Dewey shares with Sir William the latter's disapproval of the so-called cruiser battleship. With their lighter armor, cruiser battleships would stand no chance in an encounter with American ships, and it also is pointed out that their extremely limited fuel capacity would make it easily possible for American ships to run them down in a long chase.

New York's Pure Food War.

New York, Nov. 21.—Eighty alleged violators of the sanitary code in keeping for sale impure food, faced the Court of Special Sessions yesterday, as the result of a campaign waged by the City Health Department.

The court made short work of the cases. One butcher, who sold tainted mutton at four cents a pound, was fined $100, and similar fines were levied against a baker who used decayed eggs, and a dairyman who sold milk that was ten per cent. solids. The dairyman was unable to pay his fine and went to jail for thirty days. There was but one acquittal in all the list of cases.

Valuable Picture Stolen.

Florence, Italy, Nov. 21.—Fra Anglico's "Madonna Della Stella," valued at $500,000, has been stolen from the Muzo Di St. Marco, formerly the Monastery of St. Marco, which was occupied before its suppression by Silvestrine monks.

A window of the museum was discovered open at midnight on Sunday, with a rope dangling to the ground, and it is supposed that thieves secured the picture in this way.

FOREIGNERS MASSACRED

Rumors That Foreign Missionaries as Well as Manchus Have Been Murdered at Sianfu, Are Corroborated at Pekin—Mrs. Beckman, a European School Teacher, and Philip Manners, a German, Are Dead.

Pekin, Nov. 21.—Chinese officials confirm the report that a massacre of foreigners, as well as Manchus, has occurred at Sianfu. The legations believe that the report will prove true. There were forty foreigners in Sianfu and many missionaries in the smaller Shensi towns. Up to the present only Chinese reports have been received regarding the massacre. There has been no telegraphic or postal communication with Sianfu for more than three weeks.

Sunday night the Swedish missionaries, Messrs. Sandberg and Erickson, arrived here from Tien Tsin. They said that a telegram had been received from Sianfu before their departure from southern Shensi, announcing the murder of Mrs. Beckman, a school mistress, and five foreign children. Many Chinese girls in Mrs. Beckman's school, who were mistaken for Manchus because of their big feet, were also reported to have been murdered. A German, Philip Manners, who is in the Chinese postal service, was among others killed.

The legations have taken no action as yet, but they have the reported killing of foreigners under consideration. Without a strong invading force, however, nothing can be accomplished beyond the reach of the Yangtse gunboats. Most of the legations advised their people in the interior to escape three weeks ago. Many disobeyed, believing they were in no danger. Some of the women and children were sent to the coast.

Disgrace to Dynasty.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 21.—Princess Laik, mother of the baby Emperor of China, and wife of the Prince Regent, has eloped with an actor, Yung Shu Lu, according to Chinese newspapers received yesterday. A number of newspapers published in China refer to the "disgrace that has come to the royal family," but only one, The Min Lu Po, the largest newspaper published in China, gives the princess' name and an account of the elopement.

The mother of the Emperor, the paper says fell in love with the actor and corresponded with him for some time before the rebellion began. The paper draws the conclusion that the princess believed that the Manchu cause was lost and decided to flee. The princess is said to have taken a fortune in jewels with her and to be living with Yung in Mukden.

An actor and a barber are classed with the lowest of castes of China, and Chinese here said yesterday that the elopment of the princess was the greatest disgrace that could come to the Manchu dynasty.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—W. R. Travers in his evidence in the conspiracy charge against W. J. Lindsay, said he had an agreement by which they were to share equally a commission of ten per cent, which Lindsay earned on selling the stock. G.T. Blackstock tried to get from Travers a statement that he and Lindsay were constantly wrangling, but Travers would only say that while they had had differences, there was no quarrel.

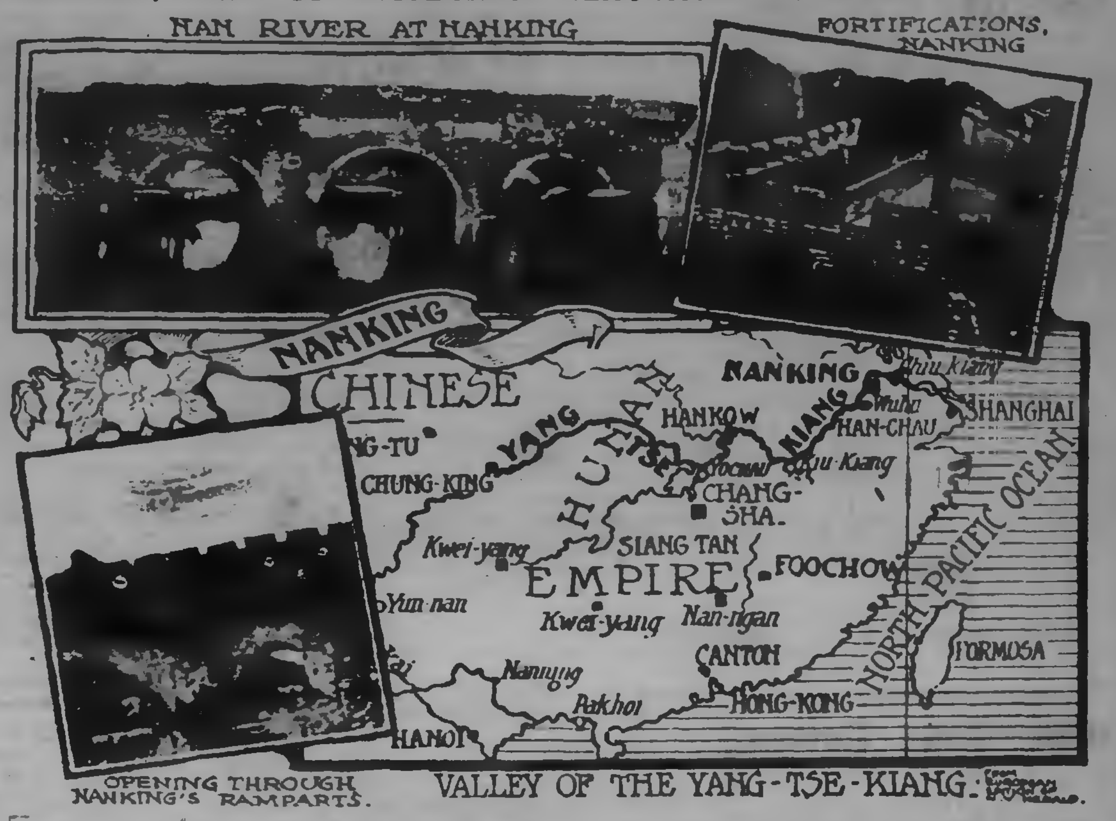
NANKING, SCENE OF WHOLESALE SLAUGHTER BY MANCHU TROOPS



The historic city of Nanking, China, has been the scene of Manchu butchery. Chinese without queues or wearing white were beheaded by soldiers turned loose by order of the Tartar General. Babes in arms were shown no mercy. Houses were set on fire and innocent Chinese who escaped the wrath of the Manchus fled terror stricken and destitute to the shelter in the fields at the rear of the reform forces.

TRIAL MAY BE NULLIFIED

Why the Hitch Has Arisen in the Stratton Case

Toronto News

Mr. Justice Riddell made a somewhat startling discovery this morning in connection with the charges against the Provisional Directors of the Farmers Bank.

"I was informed," he said, "that Warren and Stratton, who were tried last week before the County Judge, had not previously pleaded or elected. The indictment, which I have here, shows that they did."

COUNTY COURT TRIAL NULL

County Crown Atoorney, R. H. Greer, and Judge Winchester were summoned to a conference with his Lordship. His Lordship expressed the opinion that the trial in the County Court was made null and void by the facts now brought to light.

JUDGE WINCHESTER NOT SURE

Judge Winchester, seen in his office later in the morning, said he was not sure in his own mind whether the trial before him was valid or not. "I asked at the time," he said, "if the defendants had pleaded or elected and was told they had not. I have instructed the court stenographer to extend his notes of what took place before me. In the meantime, of course, I shall not give judgment until the point as to whether the trial is valid has been decided."

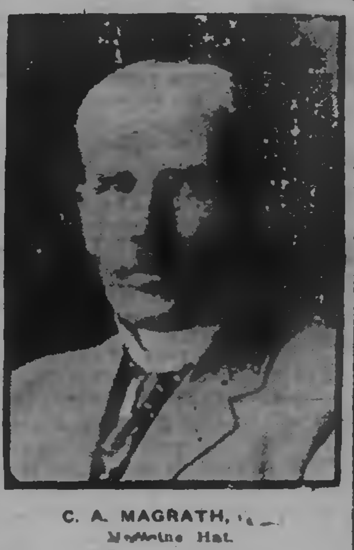
LEADER ROWELL OFFERS THE ANCIENT BAIT OF GOOD ROADS



C. A. MAGRATH,
Medicine Hat.

Who will take a position on the International Waterways Commission.

He Says He Will Carry the Present Whitney Policy Into Effect — Speaks at Bowmanville.

"If we are to more abreast of the times, if we are to get ahead of the procession we must take an advanced stand with the view of providing the country with a good roads system and keeping of the same in repair," said Mr. Rowell. "The Liberal Government started the movement forward, and if you put us in power the Liberal party will extend and carry on the good roads project on a broad basis," he said.

Referring to the present Government, he said: "The Government that has not eyes to see, feet to move, and hands to act is not the one to be in power in Ontario."

A. A. Powers, Liberal candidate in West Durham, spoke before Mr. Rowell.

"The state of affairs with regard to the schools of Ontario is nothing short of deplorable, and it should be remedied," he said. "On the bilingual school question he declared that English should be taught exclusively in all the schools. He did not, he said, know whether or not that was the stand of the Liberal party, but that was his opinion. He favored the exemption of improvements from taxation."

The meeting was held in the town hall, and there were about 500 present. W. J. Bragg, president of the West Durham Reform Association, was in the chair.

Practically all the good things that have been done by the present Government were inaugurated by their Liberal predecessors, said Mr. Rowell. The good roads movement was started by a Liberal Government, the local improvement act was planned by a Liberal Government, but the bulk of the roads now stand as they were before the passing of the Highway Act. Mr. Rowell brought in another charge against the Conservatives. They were exploiting New Ontario, he said, instead of endeavoring to build and open it up. A strong policy should be adopted with regard to opening it to settlement, he said.

Those who had been in England, France, Germany and other European countries, knew what good roads were like. The roads of Ontario in comparison were no roads at all. These countries had adopted a different system with regard to the building of roads. They decided that good roads were so important to the country that they should be carried on on a national scale. The value of good roads was as great to the residents of the city as to the farmer, said Mr. Rowell. They enabled the farmer to bring his produce to the city much easier, and they made the city man's journey to the country much more pleasant. The time has come when the Government should provide a course in connection with the engineering schools in highway engineering.

SACK AND BURN ANOTHER TOWN

Tai Yuen Fu Fall Before the Chinese Rebels

Special to the Review.

London, Nov. 21.—Tai Yuen Fu has been sacked burned by the Chinese rebels according to a cable from Shanghai Lo, a Baptist Missionary Society to-day. The missionaries are reported to be safe. The town is in the same province as Hsien Fu, where 25 missionaries are reported to have been massacred.

Storm Bothers Freighters.

Kingston, Nov. 21.—The steamer Ames, grain laden, from Fort William, came into port leaking badly as the result of striking the bottom between seas at the Ducks, Lake Ontario, a few miles from this port. The mishap occurred in one of the worst gales of the season, in which the crew were knocked out of their bunks and the compass put out of business. Divers repaired the damage and the vessel went on to Montreal.

The barge Dorchester, one of the barges of the Montreal Transportation Co., which broke loose from the tug Bronson in the storm and went ashore on Howe Island, was released by the Calvin Co. The other two will likely be taken off in a day or so.

Shot in Knee; Dead.

Tavistock, Ont., Nov. 21.—A shooting accident occurred on the 16th concession of East Zorra, about three miles east of here on Saturday, which proved fatal to Henry Schumm, a popular farmer of East Zorra Township.

Mr. Schumm, together with John K. Somer of the same place, were going to shoot a horse on the victim's farm and the gun was in Mr. Somer's hands, when it accidentally discharged, the shot entering Mr. Schumm's knee, taking fatal effects in about twenty minutes. The victim lately had been troubled with a weak heart, and it is thought the shock hastened his death.

Mr. Somers and the victim are both well-known throughout the township. An inquest will be held.

Thirty thoroughbred cattle were burned with the barn of A.S. Dove, in Nova Scotia.

Catarrhal Deafness

Successfully Treated By

Catarrhozone

Deafness is not so common as blindness, yet thousands are more or less afflicted by it, and their comfort seriously interfered with.

Catarrhal deafness manifests itself but slowly, yet it must be acknowledged that the great majority of those who become totally deaf might have averted this unfortunate condition if they had treated the catarrhal inflammation at its beginning.

The only remedy that can be safely employed for all forms of catarrhal deafness is Catarrhozone. You simply charge the air you breathe with this healing, soothing agent, and by forcing it gently through the ears destroy the germ life which keeps up the inflammation, and at the same time by the soothing, healing action it heals the inflamed surfaces of the middle ear.

CATARRHOZONE, to those who are just a little deaf, and are growing increasingly deaf, is an agent capable of affording the utmost satisfaction, and its use is attended without danger, and as the treatment can be carried on at home no person threatened with the affliction of deafness should postpone one moment in beginning its use.

From every part of the Dominion glowing accounts of the beneficial action it exerts upon catarrhal conditions of the middle ear have been sent in, and you will be resorting to the only method of cure, and the simplest method too, if you try Catarrhozone. Dealers everywhere sell it, 25c, 50c, and $1.00. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

SOME ELECTION FACTS

There is a place for the British-born in this Ontario election, just as there was a place for them in the late Dominion election. In Peterborough there are some hundreds of new comers from the old land, men who are beginning to get acquainted with the ways and means of Canadian politics, but perhaps not recognizing fully, in some cases, the conditions as they exist in provincial affairs.

What Arthur Hawkes said to the British born at the big meeting the night before the election is still quite true—perhaps more true in provincial than in Dominion politics. Because a man advocated and supported a certain line of policy in the old land; because he was a tariff reformer or protectionist, or a free trader, does it mean that in Canada these may be the right and proper policies for him to support. The widely different conditions alter the cases completely.

Many of the Britishers working in Peterborough are believed to be in sympathy with a change in the Ontario Compensation Act to embody the terms of the English Compensation Act, which is very much more stringent in its provisions. Then these Britishers, if they are sincere in wishing for such changes, must give their support to E. A. Peck, for Mr. Peck has announced himself in favor of these changes. The Whitney government will undoubtedly be returned. It will probably continue to exist for at least another eight years, because it has a majority, in a house of ninety-eight, of about seventy. If the newcomers would like to have the Compensation Act here remodeled, why should they not elect a government supporter in favor of it? Mr. Peck would be able to give some effect to his views, whereas a Liberal member would merely butt his head against the stone wall of the government majority.

Probably many of these new Canadian citizens are not acquainted with the devious Mr. Hall. They do not realize, as do the old-time Peterborough residents, to just what extent he can manage, in a political campaign, to temporarily drown a record which belies his new-found sympathy for the workingman. If the new-comers knew Mr. Hall, as do the old-timers, they would enjoy the merry burlesque quite heartily, and in fact, we can scarcely imagine even new-comers being impressed with the platitudes of Mr. Hall.

If the fact of Mr. Hall being one of a great electric power ring, fighting to prevent Peterborough getting the boon of cheaper power; if the fact that he was the head of the Cordage company, which went to the bow-wows, the many shareholders around Peterborough losing their all—Mr. Hall can give information about this, if asked—if his record generally be examined, it will be found that the Liberal candidate has been generally and consistently lined up against the rights and welfare of the workingman. His attempt to use an advocacy of changes in the Compensation Act [illegible] a hypocrisy or burlesque, merely for campaign purposes, and he is a foolish man who will blind himself to what the past declares, in clarion voice, about the Liberal candidate.

If the workingmen of Peterborough, new and old, want to vote in their interests of the workingmen, they will vote for Mr. Peck. As a government candidate, Mr. Peck will be able to carry some weight with his views, and he will give splendid service to the city and the riding in general.

MONEY IS RETURNED

When you hear a Liberal complain about the increased expenditure of the Provincial Government, just remember that the self-same parties are also criticising because more money is not expended in certain directions. And, further, recollect that a goodly portion of the receipts of the Province are returned to the municipalities, says the Belleville Intelligencer.

Following are some of the measures undertaken by the Whitney Government by which the people benefit directly from the provincial treasury, in money spent in or handed over to the municipalities.

In 1904 the Ross Government spent $166,000 on colonization roads, and in 1905 spent $178,000. Last year the Whitney Government spent $452,000.

Before the advent of the Whitney Government there was no such thing as a railway tax. Under the existing law, half of the railway tax goes into the treasuries of the municipalities. In 1910 the municipalities of Wellington county received $9,222 as their share of the railway tax. Nothing under the Ross government.

In 1904, there was given in aid of hospitals and charities, $226,900, and in 1910, $352,000, or an increase of about forty per cent.

Then look at the aid to rural schools. In 1904 these totalled $123,750, while in 1911 they had risen to $488,690, an increase of $364,940, largely with the sole aim in view of increasing the efficiency of the schools, by securing more experienced teachers—and retaining them.

And so the list of wisely and materially aided municipalities out of the public exchequer might be continued to show that the Whitney government is liberal in its return to the people of monies it handles. It is a distinct contrast to that of its predecessors in office.

THE YOUNG MAN

It will be conceded by pastors and by all those who have any part in the religious instruction of the young, that the greatest problem of momentous importance confronting them today is inability to gather the young men into the service of the church for active Christian work. The subject is one that is discussed at conventions and conferences everywhere, but one that comes no nearer a solution than before. For instance, enter a meeting for young people in any of the city churches on a Monday evening, and count the number of young men present. We feel safe in saying that in the majority of cases you count them all on the fingers of your two hands. It is certainly not due to a decrease in the number of young men in the city, for out on the street scores of young fellows are idling around the corners or walking aimlessly up and down. Go into the picture shows and there you will see dozens more. How can they be won over to attend these young people's meetings, is the great problem. When the answer is found, one of the greatest questions before teachers, pastors and religious instructors of today is solved.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Peck and cheaper power; Hall and the big monopoly.

Let's prepare to follow the Hall hearse on December 11.

Watch Messrs. Stratton and Hall, the power monopolists, of Peterborough, squirm and wiggle to get around the hydro-electric power scheme.

Peck and some effective action in the Workmen's Compensation Act, Hall and talk to the four winds of heaven.

Mr. Hall has been an enterprising citizen, as the Examiner says, but there are a few people around Peterborough, who wish he had been less enterprising.

Perhaps the reason why Mr. Hall would like to start the system of provincial subsidies to radial railways is the possibility it gives him to grab a few more franchises.

Mayor Morrow has been working, along with the power committee for some time, trying to get some good power scheme through for Peterborough. Would the people of the city let Mr. Hall block the scheme, on behalf of his financial interests?

A few months ago Industrial Commissioner Duggan, got himself into a great deal of trouble over power matters. It led to a refusal by the city council to re-engage him. What he wanted then will be Peterborough's if the people want it. Do we want power competition for the benefit of the public or not? If we do, elect Mr. Peck.

They said in Western Ontario that Adam Beck's talk was "all talk." But to-day western Ontario is getting hydro-electric power at prices away below the private corporation figures. In Toronto, there is a saving of from thirty to forty per cent. over the old rates, since the hydro rates were announced. Peck and cheaper power; Hall and the big monopoly.

"If I were you," says Mr. Stratton "I wouldn't be bothered with dam, No. 4. It only produces 1630 h.p. I'd take dam, No. 5." Let us see. The Otonabee Power Company has a standing offer to the city of 500 horse power at $15, if it will consent to the company taking dam No. 4, to add to No. 5. This advice from Mr. Stratton is really most unselfish, most philanthropic.

The arguments which are being used by the coterie of power site grabbers are the same old song and sixpence. Anyone who has been in Hamilton or Toronto, or London, or other places where private companies have had to fight for their lives against the new and cheaper hydro-electric power, knows the yarns. In Hamilton the Cataract company used moving pictures on screens fixed on street corners, to display arguments against people's power, for the benefit of the waiting multitude. In Peterborough the "$4,000,000 power company" hasn't yet got to the vaudville entertainment stage. That will come if the people of Peterborough persist in wanting cheaper power.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

It is proposed to create a commission of men in public life in London, Ont., who will take the child morality problem up and give it their earnest consideration.

Harry Braven, a mute, employed at the Brantford Carriage Works, was severely injured yesterday, when he was crushed by a heavy case which fell on him. His recovery is doubtful.

Attacked by a wounded moose, Edward Lodgard of Grand Falls, N.D., saved himself from death only by engaging in a fierce combat with the animal and finally slaying it with a knife.

Representatives of the shipping companies and the Syndicated Longshoremen have signed an agreement and the strike of the dock laborers is now at an end. The men are all back at work.

The second prize for hunters at the New York Horse Show, $100, was handily won by Hon. Adam Beck's Sir Edward, while Hon. Clifton Sifton's "The Wasp" was the winner of third money, $60.

After confessing to the theft of $40 from Russell Lawless, milk dealer, and a quantity of jewelry in Hamilton, James Parker was sentenced to two years in the Central Prison by Magistrate Fraser at Niagara Falls.

The Railway Commission, which has shown the express companies where they get off and put the telephones and telegraph companies in their places, will now take up the question of railway cartage charges.

The body of James Smith was found lying in the middle of the road in Marlboro Township, five miles from Dwyer Hill postoffice, on Saturday afternoon. Marks on the body suggest foul play. An investigation is being held.

"The order of the Toronto city fathers that those attending the Connaught reception wear evening dress," says The Kinston Standard, "should be revoked. It is not necessary that a man should be a clothes horse to be respectable."

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—There was an active demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, and, as bids were 3d to 6d and in some cases 9d higher than Saturday's, sales of over 200,000 bushels were made for December-January shipment. There was also a good inquiry from New York exporting houses. Business in coarse grains on spot was quiet, but the tone of the market is firm.

The inquiry from European sources for flour was better and some business was worked. The local market is active and firm. Demand for millfeed is brisk. A fair business is passing in cheese. CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 166 carloads, consisting of 3005 cattle, 1060 hogs, and 50 calves.

Exporters.

Butchers.

The Swift Canadian Co. bought 870 butchers' cattle as follows: 300 steers, 1150 to 1250 lbs., at $5.50 to $5.85; 100 steers and heifers, 900 to 950 lbs., at $4.75 to $5.60; 470 canners and cutter cows, at $2.50 to $3.50.

Stockers and Feeders.

Good steers sold at $4.50 to $5; steers, 800 to 900 lbs., sold at $4.25 to $4.75; stockers, $3.50 to $4.

Springers and Milkers.

Veal Calves.

A light run of calves sold at $3 to $7.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

There were 1986 sheep and lambs on sale, which was far too many, considering that there were 10,657 sold on the two Toronto markets last week. Nearly all of the leading buyers having bought heavily last week, were slow to operate to-day unless at lower prices. The result was that lambs sold from $5 to $5.25 and we heard of one selected lot sold at $5.35 per cwt.; sheep, at $2.25 to $3.75; rams, and culls, at $2.50 to $3 per cwt.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, sold at $6.35 at the market to-day. Early in the day W. J. Johnston was paying $6.75, fed and watered, and $6.00, f.o.b., cars, at country points, but later on advanced the fed and watered price to $6.85.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Nov. 18 were 2360 cattle, 1725 sheep and lambs, 2000 hogs and 675 calves. The offerings on the market this morning amounted to 1350 cattle, 1250 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 400 calves.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for butchers' cattle this morning, and prices declined 25c per 100 pounds, as compared with those of Wednesday last, which was due to the increased supplies, the run being one of the heaviest this month. The top price quoted was only realized for picked lots of really choice steers.

The gathering of buyers was fairly large, but owing to the milder weather prevailing the demand was not so keen as last week, and some were left unsold. The demand from packers for canning stock continues good, and, as the offers were again large, an active trade was done, and prices show no change.

The market for hogs was stronger again and prices show an advance of 25c to 35c per 100 pounds since last Wednesday, which is attributed to the decreased receipts, the improved condition of the stock coming forward, and the continued good demand from packers, notwithstanding the fact that they are received extra large supplies last week. The prospects are that prices will rule still higher in the near future.

The undertone to the market for lambs was stronger, and sales of some choice lots were made at an advance of 25c per 100 pounds. The demand from butchers is good, as they are now putting supplies away in cold storage for winter requirements. Sheep were steady under a fair demand and small offerings. Calves were scarce, and sales of some choice milk-fed ones were made at as high as $12 and $15.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6 to $6.25; butchers' cattle, medium, $5.50 to $5.75; butchers' cattle, common, $4.50 to $5; canners, $1.75 to $2.25; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5.25 to $5.50; butchers' cattle, medium, $4.50 to $5; butchers' cattle, bulls, $4.50 to $5; milkers, choice, each, $75; milkers, common and medium, each, $60 to $65; springers, $50 to $60; sheep, ewes, $3.50 to $3.75; bucks and culls, $3 to $3.25; lambs, $5.25 to $5.50; hogs, f.o.b., $6.25 to $6.75; calves, $3 to $10.

DON'T LET THAT COUGH ROB YOU OF SLEEP

You probably know all too well how it goes. Just as you doze off, the tickling starts in your throat. A gentle cough, still asleep. A harder cough, and then another. First thing you know, you're wide awake, coughing your head off.

A few nights of that and you're so worn out and weakened that the cough takes a tight grip on you.

But why endure it?

Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne will soothe that exasperating tickling, loosen the phlegm and cure the inflammation of the mucous membrane. It not only stops the cough quickly, allowing you to get sound, refreshing sleep, but it goes to the root of the trouble and drives out the cold completely. Children willingly take Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne, because it tastes so good. Your Druggist has it or can quickly get it for you in 25c. and 50c. bottles. A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

—BY—

CLIVE PHILLIPPS WOLLEY

(AUTHOR OF "GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO," ETC.)

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

Twice he grazed it, so dark had the day become, and each time he left a fragment of his clothing behind him to mark his course. On the second occasion he struck hard against a projecting bar, and his left leg seemed to lose consciousness. But he sat down and rode as steadily as ever. He could not afford to worry about trifles, and as it grew darker every minute, he realized that there were no precautions that he could take to minimize his risk. He had to stop or chance everything.

He could not see where he was going, perhaps the roan could, and even if he could not, Jim was not going to take a pull at him yet. As long as the horse stood up and kept going, the miles were eaten under his feet. That was all that mattered. Time was of the essence of Jim's contract.

His partner Fate was playing his hand now for him, and he refused to interfere in the game. As long as it lasted it was excellent to fly through the dark stinging sleet, and as to the end he cared nothing. When the roan first bolted, the wildness of the storm, all the splendid energy of the crazy beast between his knees got into Jim's blood, and he became intoxicated with the madness of his ride.

He cannoned into the flank of one of the great Hereford bulls, half seen for a moment in the gloom, so that his horse reeled and slithered, and almost lost his feet, but the man only laughed as they staggered and went on.

It was absolutely immaterial whether he broke his neck or not at first, but as the pace and distance began to tell upon the horse, the beast's tamed mood began to communicate itself to the man, so that instead of the glory of the strife, the misery of those infinite waste places through which he rode impressed itself upon him.

The homelessness of the prairie was revealed to him and almost frightened him. He had known the prairies all his life, but this aspect of them had never struck him before.

He had committed suicide, and he knew it, not an unjustifiable cowardly act, but the voluntary killing none the less of Jim Combe.

Henceforth the world as he now saw it would be typical of his own grey and barren life, without rest, without warmth, without the light of hope. But he had taken the plunge, and since it was too late to reconsider it, he made up his mind at any rate he would not be robbed of his reward.

She would be happy even if her happiness was bound up in that of another man, and therefore at last he took a pull at his horse and begun to ride more cautiously.

It was then that he felt how much his own strength had waned. That day he had so far eaten nothing. He had done work enough to kill an ordinary man, and unless he was much mistaken the boot on his left leg was slowly filling with his own blood.

He could ride the roan with one hand now. With the other he contrived to extract the sandwiches and flask from the cartridge bag, which still rode securely on his back, and reducing his pace to a lope he ate and drank as he rode.

He supposed that the night must have commenced, though there were none of the ordinary signs of time to guide him, and he marvelled at the endurance of his horse.

Fortunately the savage wind had not suffered the sleet to lie sufficiently upon the plateau over which he rode to seriously deteriorate the going. The ground rang hard as iron and as the fever of excitement died out Jim realized that the night had turned bitterly cold.

For half of that night Combe hardly knew that he was riding. A man sat in the saddle in the heart of a great darkness, swaying in time to his horse's stride, and at the proper time lending such assistance as the rider can to the ridden, but that was not Jim Combe.

Jim himself was away, sometimes in one place, sometimes in another. Now he was holding a yellow-haired child up on his shoulder so that she could see over the corral and watch old Al lassoing a wild cow; now he was back in England in places of purely imaginary magnificence, where a young queen with that child's features was holding court amongst innumerable Anstruthers who moved slowly and spoke in Book-English with a low-pitched drawl; or again he was back in the sick-room looking into the heart of the girl he had loved since she had grown grass high and reading in it the name of another.

Twice the roan "pecked" badly, and the third time so nearly came down on his head that Combe came back from his mental wanderings, pulled up and dismounted. If he would ride farther he realized that he must give the horse rest even if he needed none himself.

The fence of the pasture had long since been left behind; it was too dark to look for a stake; there was nothing bigger than a clump of sage brush to tie to, and tired as the roan was, he dared not leave him loose, as he would have done with any ordinary cow pony.

Taking out his jack knife, he dug a deep hole in the hard earth, tied a knot [illegible] the loose end of his tie rope, put the knot at the bottom of the hole he had dug, replaced the soil he had taken out and stamped it in firm end hard with his heel.

Then he lay down on the frozen ground to rest. Unless the roan could pull the world with him, Jim had no fear of losing his horse so fastened.

CHAPTER X.

Close Quarters

For over an hour Combe lay where he was, watching the horse and thinking, whilst the blackness of the night paled and grew even more weird and ghastly from the grey that had crept into it.

Then it seemed to him that something heavier than a coyote moved among the sage brush on the ridge to his left. He listened, but the noise was not repeated. Jim was too good a plainsman to persuade himself that his ears had played him false because he could not understand their message, and beside, the red roan had heard it too. The horse was standing with his ears pricked, watching as he would never have watched for coyotes. In spite of the cowboys' constant attention those vagabond thieves were far too numerous on the home ranch for the roan to pay much attention to them. Still watching the ridge, which was as yet but a vague line in the fog, Jim saw at last what he took to be two coyotes moving slowly along it. A longer scrutiny showed him four, no, five indistinct objects passing just above the line, and at last he knew them for the heads of riders passing, as they believed, unseen on the further side of the ridge. He could see how the heads rose and fell with the movements of the horses beneath them, and then for a moment the riders came plainly into sight where a dip occurred in the ridge.

In the mist and darkness he might never have noticed them at the distance at which they passed, so vague and so silent were they, if his ears had not warned him of their coming; but they saw him, of that he felt sure, though he had not stirred in his lair of wet sage brush, and curiously enough his horse had not whinnied.

For a moment he thought of calling to them, but men do not hail every passer-by on the prairie, and he changed his mind. He did not want anything of them, so he lay still, whilst they, without a pause or turn of the head, rode silently past him and disappeared in the mist.

"Indians, of course," he muttered, "they must have seen the horse." And then he fell to wondering why they had made no sign and why they were riding at that hour in the morning towards the Risky Ranch.

In the ordinary course of things though they would have passed by in silence, and near enough to satisfy their own curiosity.

He did not feel easy about it. The expedition of the posse had accomplished nothing unless it were to prove that the Chilcotens had broken up their camp and left the country, probably for an early winter hunt towards Tatlo Lake, and in all the years that he had lived on the plains and in B. C. Jim had never had any serious trouble with Indians.

He had become so used to them indeed as peaceful neighbors, that he had almost forgotten the red stories of which the plains used to be full: legends of burnt ranches, of men and women murdered across their own thresholds, and brutally mutilated in order that their long hair might trim a chief's robe. But those stories were of Sioux and Apaches. He doubted whether the Indians of B.C. had ever taken scalps until he remembered a hideous dancing mask which hung in the Boss's library that had tufts of long soft hair round it, as to the origin of which he had never hitherto troubled.

Now everything seemed changed.

There was a terror abroad on the ranch lands, not so much seen as felt, and though he scoffed at presentiment, he was conscious of it himself.

The cattle had been disappearing as they had never disappeared before; there had been no friendly visits from the Chilcotens as there used to be. Whenever he had met any of them, even before the quarrel in their camp, they had been sullen and silent, and then there had been the reappearance of Davies' murderer and that unlucky quarrel.

Jim would have liked it better if the Indians had visited the ranch to demand compensation for those broken rifles, and would almost have been inclined to listen to their claims, but they had made no sign.

Just then the roan snorted, and Jim turned his head in the nick of time. The five figures which had passed him ten minutes earlier like shadows, stood almost at his back, arrested in their stealthy approach by his sudden movement. He could see, though they had paused, how the leading figure gripped a short bludgeon which he carried, and he knew Davies' murderer and understood the look in that sullen animal face; but though his heart seemed to give a jump and then stand still, Combe did not attempt to rise or show any sign of surprise.

He understood why these five had crept up behind him, through the misty dawn in this featureless waste, but his hand only closed over the revolver which was sheltered in the breast of his coat, and he rolled leisurely over so as to face the five and bring his left elbow across the rifle which he had taken from his saddle before picketing his horse.

"Oh, Jim, Jim! You dear old Jim! Come quickly; we want you so badly." was what he seemed to hear; though as the five squatted silently round him they uttered no word.

Except for that bludgeon they were none of them armed, a curious thing Jim thought for Indians who carry rifles as townsmen carry walking canes, nor was he much less puzzled when he realized that these were the very five whose weapons he had smashed against the pine trees. Rifles were not as common then as they are to-day amongst the Indians, but as one of these was Khelowna, the chief, he at any rate should have been able to replace his broken weapon.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleriver, Que. — "Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise." — Mrs. EMMA CHATEL, Valleyfield, Belleriver, Quebec.

Another Operation Avoided.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y. — I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to give up work for I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for womb trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did more for me than the doctors did. I have gained five pounds. I hope that every one who is suffering from female trouble, nervousness and backache will take the Compound. I owe my thanks to Mrs. Pinkham. She is the working girl's friend for health, and all women who suffer should write to her and take her advice. — MISS TILLIE PLENZIG, 3 Jay St., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases.

After Corrupt Politicians.

New York, Nov. 21.—Justice Scudder of the Queen's County Supreme Court, yesterday ordered the issuance of warrants for the arrest of Joseph Cassidy, leader of Queen's County; William Willett, jr., late candidate for Supreme Court justice on the Democratic ticket in the second judicial district, and Louis T. Walter, jr., following the investigation as to whether certain politicians received large sums of money for Willett's nomination. The warrants in the case of Willett and Walters will charge bartering and purchase of nomination, and in the case of Cassidy, conspiracy will be charged.

Walter placed Willett in nomination for the justiceship and it was testified at the investigation that Willett drew large sums of money from the bank at or about the time of his nomination.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Found Dead In Bed.

Barrie, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Fanny Outram, a widow, 68 years of age, and living alone at her home on Nelson street, was found dead in bed here yesterday morning. The old lady had complained to neighbors on Sunday evening of not feeling well, and as there was no stir around the house during the early part of the morning, suspicion was aroused and on raising a window it was found death had taken place during the night.

The chief of police was notified, and the coroner called. Death was pronounced due to heart failure. One son, Alfred, at present in Winnipeg, survives.

MY LADY'S COLUMN.

BE YOURSELF

It has been said that nothing is so rare in people as a thought of their own. Most of us adopt the thoughts of other people. The practice appeals alike to the timid and the lazy. The lazy "think in quotations" to save themselves trouble; the timid, to save themselves from the dangerous position of being unlike their neighbors. If it stopped at thought, we probably should not realize this human frailty — it is with what people are doing, rather than with what people are thinking, that most of us are concerned. But pretending to be something else is very common in the sphere of action also.

The very best fruit, among the many fruits of "being yourself," is an entire absence of envy. You have something, if only you will be brave and develop it, which is wealth just because it is yours, and when you find it out, you do not envy the superior knowledge, the more expensive clothes the larger acres of your neighbors.

H. R. H. PRINCESS PATRICIA OF CONNAUGHT.

The popular eldest daughter of the Governor General will just suit the Canadian people and the Canadian people will take to her as one of their own. Her delightfully irresponsible and democratic ways have always amused her father — who is really very democratic in his ways — though they have often been the bugbear of some of the ladies of the court. Princess Patricia — whose younger sister will one day be Queen of Sweden — is very accomplished and King George, with whom she has hobbies in common, is very fond of his beautiful cousin.

Hardening the Gums

The mouth often needs an antiseptic wash, for hardening the gums and purifying the breath; the best thing for this purpose is tincture of myrrh, a few drops in a glass of water to rinse the mouth. It leaves a clean, pure taste in the mouth, and will relieve the breath of any unpleasantness for a short while.

As most good remedies are often the ones nearest at hand, we find that borax water, not too strong, will whiten the teeth wonderfully, using it like ordinary water, with no other dentifrice. As borax is a powerful germ-destroyer, it will arrest decay and so stay the work of destruction until one can get to the dentist. Common salt is a good dentifrice, used occasionally, especially in cases where the gums need hardening, but it should not be used often, as the powerful acid is strong for the delicate enamel of the teeth.

Hang Up the Broom

A broom should never be stood on the straws after using, but there should be a stringloop, or ring with a screw attached to the upper end of the handle, and it should be hung up by this fastening. If set in a corner, as is usually done, the straws will be bent to one side, and if the user is a careless person, its after use will tend to increase the one-sidedness until it is ruined. The broom should be washed at least once a week in hot water and hung up to thoroughly dry by the water dripping from the points of the straws, not being allowed to run down into the sewing at the handle, where the moistury will rot the threads. It is not necessary to use soap.

A Tasty Irish Stew.

This dish gives little trouble to make and is remarkably tasty and a general favourite. Ingredients are: 1 lb. of scrag-mutton, 1 lb. of onions, 3 lbs. potatoes, some pepper and salt. Method: Cut the meat, after washing and drying it, into neat pieces, add the bones as they make the gravy richer; slice the potatoes and onions. Place in a pan a layer of meat, potato, and onion, adding seasoning between each layer, and having potatoes on the top. Pour over sufficient water to come two-thirds up the pan. Simmer the whole very gently for one and a half or two hours. Stir very occasionally, adding more liquid if needed.

Care for the Nails

The only way to care for the nails is to use a manicure set. A little Lanoline and a little powder, well rubbed into them each day, is also of great value. Inflammation of the nail bed may cause complete loss of the nail, and this may be set up by many agencies.

BIFOCALS

— OR —

DOUBLE VISION GLASSES

Most people think, when buying Bifocal Glasses, that a large segment or reading area is required. With very few exceptions this is not so, as most bifocals are required for constant use, and the successful fitting of these lenses depends not so much on furnishing the largest reading portion possible, but on placing a minimum disk or wafer in exactly the correct position. A small wafer accurately placed will afford ample field for reading, writing and sewing, and will overcome the tendency to make mis-steps in going up and down stairs, an experience not uncommon to wearers of bifocals with too large reading segments

WEDDING BELLS

HITCHINS—BIRCHALL

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at seven o'clock last-night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Birchall Stewart street, when their eldest daughter, Miss Lucy Birchall, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. W. Hitchins, of Havelock, where he is employed on the C.P.R. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. C. Riddiford, the bride being given away by her father. The couple were unattended.

The house was prettily decorated with maidenhair fern and other beautiful floral designs. After the ceremony a sumptuous repast was partaken of, by the few intimate friends gathered on this joyful occasion. After each one having done justice to the meal, games were indulged in, and a pleasant time was spent way in to the small hours of the morning. The gathering dispersed tendering congratulations and good wishes to the bride and groom.

The bride was the recipient of many useful and valuable presents, the gift of the groom, being a handsome sunburst pearl pendant.

The happy couple left on the early train this morning for Toronto, Hamilton and other western points, and on their return, will reside in Havelock.

BANDS TO WEAR THEIR UNIFORMS ON THE TWELFTH

In All Cases British Flag Must be Carried

Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, is reported as having made the statement at the military conference at Ottawa, that the regimental bands in uniform according to his views may march in parades on the twelfth of July, St. Jean Baptiste Day, St. Patrick's Day or any other day in which they can earn an honest dollar, provided the British flag is carried at their head.

Mr. R. Gliddon, bandmaster of the 57th regimental band, is of the opinion that such conditions as referred to by the Minister of Militia would be eminently satisfactory to the regimental bands.

"On past occasions," said Mr. Gliddon, "we have had in some cases to go out of town for uniforms for the twelfth of July. Our band is generally made into detachments and the matter of securing different uniforms as has been necessary, has been a difficult one for us.

ADDRESS ON THE DARK CONTINENT

Rev. Mr. Hilford Was Heard at Bethany Tabernacle

The Rev. Mr. Hilford's address on Africa Sunday evening in Bethany Tabernacle was most interesting and instructive.

Rev. Mr. Hilford spoke of Africa as the "Dark Continent," and of some of the particular features of the sad spiritual darkness and hopelessness.

From the beginning God had seemed to have special interest in that continent, and had many times used the northern portion as a place of shelter for His servants. In time of famine Abram and Sarah were sustained there. Joseph was sold as a slave into Egypt and later exalted to a position of honor, brought his father and brethren there also, in a time of famine to preserve their lives. Egypt thus became the birthplace of Israel as a nation. Jeremiah's life was preserved here, and God used this land also as a hiding place for His own Son, when Herod sought His life.

In the earlier centuries of the Christian era, in no other place was the spread of the gospel more remarkable than in North Africa, the whole northern portion of the continent having been thoroughly evangelized. Here some of the most noble of the Church Fathers lived, labored and wrote; but when the churches ceased their missionary labors spiritual decline speedily followed and church history bore strong testimony to the fact that when any church ceased to be a missionary church, it soon became unspiritual, unfruitful and dead.

The speaker mentioned some of the great difficulties in the way of missionary efforts in that land, and of there being nothing naturally to attract one to labor there, but Christ having commissioned His followers to preach the Gospel to every creature, we were in duty bound to obey.

The missionary was not, however, left without encouragement, for God has said that "Ethiopia shall soon stretch out her hands unto God," and many instances of the marvellous transformation wrought by the blessed Gospel, not only in the lives of individuals, but also of tribes, were spoken of. Although the Africans had not a systematic religion of their own, as the people of India and China have yet they were pre-eminently a religious people, and the history of missions records many instances of unsurpassed devotion to Christ on the part of the African Christians.

On Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs Hilford will give their farewell messages in Bethany Tabernacle.

CAMPAIGN NOTES

Progress Being Made by Workers at the Y.M.C.A.

It is up to the Seniors! In the grand contest being conducted in the Y.M.C.A. for 189 new members, by November 30, the Intermediate boys are just two points ahead of their elders, the Seniors. We expect to see the Seniors, under the leadership of Doug. Loomis, pull ahead of the "kids" right away. Of course Bill Hastie will do his best to see that they don't. Competition is the life of trade.

A very good start has been made on the required membership but many new names must be added this week, if the 189 additional supporters is to be secured.

Doug Loomis and C. E. Sisson have been doing the best work for the seniors. For the Intermediate side of the contest Bill Hastie and W. Flowers have been putting up a good fight

The winter's work at the "Y" is getting well under way. There is still time for Peterboro boys and young men to join and get almost the full good of the winter's course. The boys are telling about the advantages of the "Y" in athletic, social, literary and all other lines, that go to develop the boy into a successful man.

The seniors are telling the same story and they have been through the mill and should know.

In the meantime, the situation is — The second week of the contest is on, and over 100 members are still needed. The Intermediates are two points ahead. Are the Seniors going to allow the youngsters to beat them? All All get busy.

EXHIBITION AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

Under Auspices of the Women's Art Association

The Peterborough branch of the Women's Art Association intend holding an exhibition of pictures next week in the public library lecture hall. Among the pictures exhibited will be samples of the drawings of two artists now residing in England, one of whom is a Canadian, Miss Jack a native of St. John, N.B. This young lady's artistic work has been of such a commendable character as to warrant its exhibition in the salon, London, England. Other paintings shown will be the productions of Mr. Frank Waring, of England, whose water colors have received most favorable criticism in London. In conjunction with the display an exhibition of arts and crafts will be held.

RICH IN EFFECT ARTISTIC IN DESIGN

Work of the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, the new $2,000,000 hotel, constructed by the Grand Trunk System is progressing very favorably.

Nearly all of the plastering of the hotel is now completed and there remains to be done, only the lobby, bar and grill room ceiling. Most of the marble floors for the dining room corridor are laid, and after the plaster work of the lobby is completed, work will be started on the marble work of the floor. Heat and light have been in the building for the last two months and when the plaster is sufficiently dried in the various public rooms, the decorators will be able to commence the interior decorations. Some of the good work for the big rooms is in the hotel, and the erection of this is going on. The general appearance of the various rooms, is beyond expectation, and when completed will be of the richest effect, artistic in design, and wonderfully beautiful.

MR. BURNHAM TO SUPPORT BILL

Measure Calls for Abolishment of the Nomination Deposit

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—Mr. J. H. Burnham, the member for West Peterborough in the house of commons, will endorse the proposal of the Brockville Socialists that the election deposit be abolished. The Brockville branch of the Socialists have written Mr. John Webster, M.P., reminding him of his promise to introduce a bill to abolish the deposit. Mr. Burnham states that if the bill is introduced he will support it. "It is the only logical conclusion to manhood suffrage," he said. "If the franchise is free there should be no barrier to the rest of it. I am prepared to give my hearty support to a bill to do away with the deposit."

Prior to his departure for Ottawa to take his seat as member for West Peterborough, Mr. Burnham was waited upon by a deputation from the Trades and Labor Council, who asked that he endorse the proposal that the election deposit be abolished. Mr. Burnham gave an affirmative reply. The present law provides that a candidate before being qualified to accept nomination must deposit $200 and in the event of his inability to secure half the number of votes his next opponent receives, the deposit is not returned. This, in the opinion of the Labor Councils, is detrimental to members of the organization, who might otherwise offer themselves for nomination.

CITIZENSHIP THE SUBJECT

At the Meeting of Charlotte St. Epworth League

The subject of "Citizenship" was introduced at Charlotte street Epworth League last evening, the topic being ably handled by Mr. A. B. Cunningham, a leading member of the church, and a prominent worker in the Temperance and Moral Reform League.

The attendance was fair and so interestingly was the subject presented by the pastor that all present felt greatly benefited by the talk. Mr. Cunningham discussed the question in a broad sense enlarging on all the various phases of citizenship, and how it could be brought to bear upon the moral and political advancement of the country.

"It is a privilege to live in this wonderful age and in this stage of the world's development," remarked the speaker. "It is an age of reform, not only in this country, but throughout the world: not only moral reforms, but political as well. These changes all indicate that the human mind is active, and some times we wonder how such progress has taken place. The spirit of reform is world-wide, a better day is coming, and there is no such thing as the good old days. Sometimes we hear the remark that what was good enough for our father is good enough for us, but God never intended that such should be the case. We should not be so easily satisfied, but try and improve things. There are some of the old school church members who think that the church goes beyond its duties when it commences discussing Biblical problems of a disputed character. This is not right. The Methodist church is not on the wane and the pastors of to day are fully as devoted as they were in the days of the old log school house and church The centre theme of the church of today is salvation, the same as in the past."

Mr. Cunningham went on to tell of the valiant fight the Methodist church and the moral reform league is putting up against sin and vice in every shape, and of its efforts to shed light on the dark places and to educate the people.

His address was listened to with a great show of interest and at its conclusion a vote of thanks was tendered him, moved by the president, R. F. Downie, and which was warmly seconded by those present. A meeting of the executive was held afterwards to arrange for some matters of importance.

Gentlemen:—

As Rubenstein once said when asked to designate the three most important qualities in a piano, "The first," he replied, "is tone, the second is tone, and the third is tone," and in the New Scale Williams Piano you have given the public a piano that fulfills its ideals.

After using your instruments at all my recitals in Canada on my farewell tour, and giving them a thorough trial, I do not hesitate to pronounce the New Scale Williams a beautiful piano.

SPORTING COLUMN.

THE MOST DANGEROUS

Airmen on Exhibition Work are in the Most Dangerous Sport on the Programme.

One victim in 1908, 4 in 1909, 32 in 1910, and thus far 64 in 1911 is the record for the little over three years in which the aeroplane has been in use. Comparatively with the record as a whole the share of the United States in the number of fatalities is not large. Seventeen native born aviators are on the list of 101 persons killed, while France has lost thirty-seven.

Probably the conditions are more to blame than anything else. The unhealthy interest in reckless automobile racing has been transferred rapidly to aviation. Aviation feats have become to the country fair what automobile or horse races were a few years ago. They mark a progression in thrills. And the men who are wanted for the new show feature are the men who have demonstrated that they are willing to take the biggest chances. The man who is willing to make a cross-country flight in a sane way is less sought after than the man for whom it may be advertised that he will attempt "spiral glides," "dips" and other tricks that have been fostered by exhibition meet flying. The crowds that assemble to see these men seem to be drawn together more by the morbid knowledge that they may lose their lives in amusing them than by interest in the demonstration of the possibilities of the flying machine.

The whole atmosphere being created around the flying machine is vicious. Elementary precautions as to the choice of suitable grounds and suitable weather, observed a year or so ago, are now quite frequently disregarded. A promoter having embarked on some expense in bringing his airmen together, expects them to earn their wages by flying to order. The public that pays at the gates is likewise insistent.

A MODERN WIZARD.

Love Analysed as a Disease, and Medical Man Offers Treatment for Misplaced Affection.

A London doctor has been analysing the disease called love. From a psychologist's standpoint he defines what is popularly known as "falling in love" as a mere crystallisation of a whole set of emotional tendencies and ideas round some object. This "nucleus of ideas may become solidified and grow in strength," and to see that it does so is the task of the psychologist, always providing, of course, that the remuneration makes it worth his while to call into play his weird and wonderful powers. Granted a generous reward on an cash basis, our psychologist adviser will "unravel our mental tangles and cure our bad habits." But these trifles are merely dealt with by the way, when trade is bad and lovers possibly may be scarce. Under ordinary circumstances the task set himself by the psychologist is "particularly to remedy cases of unrequited love or jealousy." This gentleman will "educate and divert these ideas — provided the subject is willing — so that the loved object may become a mere annoying incident in one's life." Further good news is contained in the declaration that "husbands and wives who get bored with each other may be made happy and contented in each other's society." It is altogether a glorious vista that this modern warlock opens up to humanity. His subtle spells and magically acquired powers will give us — at a certain fee per head — a taste of the fearful joys of a charlatan's elysium. We smugly pride ourselves that we live in an enlightened age; but the appearance of the psychic treatment for misplaced affection and other ills to which we are heirs suggests some doubts on the fact.

A Sportsman of Note

Adam Beck figures prominently in all that concerns "the sport of kings." Here are his hobbies in descending order of importance — his family, his ideal, his horses. Both wife and child are as fond of horses as Adam Beck himself, and they make a handsome trio on the frequent occasions when they seek pleasure and relaxation on the quiet bridle paths that lead from Springbank to London.

Madison Gardens know the Beck thoroughbreds, and world-famous Olympia has aplauded the favourites of his stud. Adam Beck has never yet succeeded in landing the King's Plate, although he has more than once pushed the winners hard. Delayed success has never discouraged him in other spheres, and he is by no means likely to retire empty-handed from this pursuit.

He comes of the sturdy German stock that invaded the pathles forests of Waterloo County and transformed them into the prolific farmlands of to-day.

WHO'S COMING AND GOING

The "Maids of Havelock," are giving a dance in the town hall to-night.

Mr. William Cowan, of A. Laidlaw's, has gone to Chicago for a trip.

Mr. Robert Brown is in Port Perry attending the funeral of the late A.H. Seymour.

Miss Grace Kirk, of Windsor, is on an extended visit to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Courtney, East City.

CONGREGATION OF ST. JAMES' WERE LIBERAL

Subscribed $3,200 Towards Building Fund of the Church

Last evening was an interesting and successful one for St. James' Methodist church congregation and its pastor, when a rally and business meeting was held. The pastor was chairman, and called on an enjoyable program, in which a male quartet: Mr. Williams, Mrs. Rehill, Miss Bacon, Mr. J. John, and the Brotherhood class lead by Mr. G. N. Baker, took part.

The second part of the program was the business meeting to deal with the matter of the church debt.

Rev. Isaac Couch, pastor of George street church, gave an address and in a happy way undertook the task of inviting subscriptions to the building fund. Rev. Mr Couch succeeded in arousing a good deal of enthusiasm in the large congregation present and as a result $3,200 was subscribed by members, to be payable within the next three years, and a number of others promised to subscriptions already made.

The meeting was exceedingly encouraging and aroused the hope in the congregation that the entire indebtedness would be wiped out in the next three years. The Ladies Aid kindly provided luncheon and the evening was enjoyed by all present.

Dominion Member Suggests Such be Sent to Ottawa

Mr. Jas. Kendry Proposed as Member of Senate

Mayor Morrow has received a communication from Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., who suggests that as the County Council appears before the Minister of Railways and Canals on Friday, the City Council also send a deputation to press upon the minister's notice the absolute necessity of providing a grant towards the building of a bridge at Bald Lake Narrows.

Mr. Burnham also says "Your honorable body might think it well for us to have a Senator, and I think Mr. Kendry would meet with the general approval of the people. I merely suggest this.

LAURIER'S EFFORTS TO

ish West Indies and British Guiana, he did not think much was to be gained, but he did not want to discourage the Government.

Great obligations rested on the present administration. The conditions which induced the Liberal Government to negotiate the reciprocity pact were not new, but they had received added impetus from the rapid growth of the country, which felt the need of a market for its increasing surplus natural products. The British preference and the treaties with Japan and France were examples of the measures being taken to relieve this need.

Far from rendering a service to England by the defeat of reciprocity, Canada had done an injury to England and the Empire. In the contest of the future, a contest not of war but of peace, the friendship of the United States would have been the greatest asset to Great Britain. The Canadian people had done nothing at which the Americans could take umbrage, but human nature was human nature. In support of the argument he quoted the statement of The New York Times, that President Taft's plan of arbitration with Great Britain seemed deader than the wool bill. An impression was growing in the west that western interests had been sacrificed to eastern interests.

"There is a naval question," the Liberal leader continued, "of which not a word has been heard in the speech from the throne."

He recalled the amendment to the naval proposals of the late Government moved by Mr. Borden, which, he took it, laid down the policy of the present Government. The House should know what course they were going to pursue.

Is it the Imperialist lion that has swallowed the Nationalist lamb, or is it the Nationalist lamb that has swallowed the Imperialist lion?" he asked amid general laughter.

Mr. Monk has not opened his mouth on the naval question since the election. In an address at Hull the other day, he had advised the young people to eschew the civil service. Why had he not advised them to eschew the naval service?

Had the Government no naval policy to thus abdicate responsibility and say "we wash our hands of it."

"It is a scandalous and immoral violation of the elementary rules of Parliamentary Government," he declared.

Sir Wilfrid then moved an amendment to the address approving of the principle of Imperial naval defence and expenditure therefore, and declaring that the inclusion in the Cabinet of members holding diametrically opposite views to be a violation of the principles of responsible government.

Hon. R. L. Borden rose amid enthusiastic Conservative applause. He twitted Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his hallucination that the prosperity of Canada was due to him rather than to the resources of the country, and the independence of its people.

Mr. Borden took straight issue with Sir Wilfrid on his declaration that the opposition to reciprocity had been carried on the national and not economic lines, quoting paragraphs of his own manifesto to prove the contrary.

The verdict of the people was not the result of an appeal to prejudice, but of well reasoned consideration of the arguments placed before them.

Sir Wilfrid thought that the Government should have come down with a full-fledged naval policy. In 1896 he met Parliament with not a single measure to present, though he had had more time to formulate a policy than the present Government, and had the whole Ottawa platform before him. The new administration had, however, come down with a pretty full program. As to the naval policy Mr. Borden declared that he stood still where he did on his manifesto to the electors. The measure proposed by the late Government meant the expenditure of $55,000,000 in the next ten years, the creation of a fighting force that would be useless in time of war, and established the principle of a disunited navy, and by the time the ships were completed they would be obsolete.

"There is only one thing to be done," declared Mr. Borden, "and that is to stop such an absurd and wasteful expenditure. It is better to be right than to be in a hurry."

The Government would formulate their policy, and the people would be given a chance to pronounce upon it.

It was quite true, said Mr. Borden, that in the debate of two years ago he and Mr. Monk did not see eye to eye on the emergency then suggested but that was not a question of policy, but of fact. In the meantime conditions had changed, and there was no emergency.

Mr. Borden concluded with a protest against the attempt of the leader of the Opposition to excite dissensions which did not exist and to bolster up fortunes which were reduced to a very low ebb.

Hugh Guthrie and Hon. George E. Foster also spoke.

F. B. Carvel (Carleton, N.B.) will resume the debate to-day.

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

THE BLOOD AND THE BRAIN

To Get the Best Brain Work the Blood must be Maintained in Healthy Condition.

As all brain action is dependent upon the blood — that is the heart action — we frequently look for an explantion of unhealthy mental conditions in the state of the blood. Unusually low blood pressure is generally associated with the mental states characterising brain-fag, neurasthenia, etc.; anaemia or poorness of the blood quality will produce also mental incapacity and dulness—a man whose blood is not healthy cannot be alert and decisive. Bad food combinations (such as cheese and tea together) and ignorant eating are responsible for much more than indigestion, serious as that is in itself. It is by such mistakes that the blood is rendered less valuable to all the organs of the body, including, of course, the brain. The powers of memory are directly influenced by billousness and an over-acid condition of the blood. Again vigorous brain action depends largely upon the regular and speedy elimination of the waste products of the body; if these do not get out by way of the bowels and kidneys they are taken into the blood, and this, fouled as it is, is yet sent by the wonderful pumping mechanism of the heart to the remotest corner of body and brain. Simple food, plenty of water to drink between meals, fresh air by night and day, regular exercise and deep breathing will keep the blood at its best, and that in its turn will do good work for the brain.

The Latest in Guns

During the recent extended manoeuvres of the German army there were many night attacks, in which use was made of the newly-introduced illuminating pistols. According to the new regulations, these are to be employed wherever the configuration of the land makes their use preferable to that of the ordinary searchlight. The machinery necessary for the use of the latter device is very inconvenient, and especially in rolling and otherwise difficult country, where the main manoeuvres take place, it cannot be used to advantage. The illuminating pistols have not this disadvantage, as they are easily transported. Further, the searchlight is useless in valleys and deep-lying plains, as their rays shoot over these and leave them apparently in still deeper shadow. For this reason, such valleys serve as excellent covers at night against the searchlights. The illuminating pistols have done away with this advantage of shelter, as the cartridges which they throw light up the deepest and darkest gulleys. There are two different sorts of cartridges, producing respectively white and red light. The white ones serve exclusively for illuminating the country, the red ones for signalling purposes between widely separated commands or divisions, even where the distance between them is several miles. The illuminating cartridges develop a light that makes everything within 650 feet visible, and lasts eight to ten seconds

Edison's First Invention

The story of Mr. Edison's first invention will bear retelling. One day, when he was a small boy of five, his parents missed him, and after a long search his elder sister discovered him in the fowl-house, where he said he intended to remain three weeks. His clothes were in a terrible condition, being smothered with crushed eggs. "What were you doing that for, Tom?" asked his sister in alarm. "Well, I thought if the hens could hatch eggs by sitting on them I could," was the reply of the youthful genius.

Mr. Edison has often been credited with inventing things which even for him would have been remarkable. Some time ago, an American paper stated that he had invented a wonderful shirt which would last a man for twelve months without requiring to be washed. This shirt, it was stated, was made of 365 layers of material, the composition of which no one knew but the inventor, and all the wearer had to do to restore it to its original spotlessness was to tear off one of the layers, when he would have practically a new shirt. This announcement was reprinted in various other papers, with the result that Mr. Edison received no end of orders for the mystery shirt.

New White Metal Alloy.

Metallurgical investigation has resulted in the perfection of a new white metal alloy. 'Atherium' it is called, and it is stated to be lighter than aluminium. The metal is said to be superior to the pure metal, to make good, sound castings, and to work well in rolling and turning. It can also be soldered, welded, and forged; it does not tarnish, and is impervious to corrosion and the action of sea-water. It should prove an excellent substitute for German silver under these conditions, and be effective for a great variety of purposes for which aluminium would be used were it stronger, and lightness combined with strength is the superlative consideration. Owing to its electrical conductivity, the new alloy should be extremely useful in a wide range of applications in this phase of industry.

To Locate Underground Water.

A French inventor has contrived an application of the microphone to the discovery of underground water. One end of a tube is inserted in the ground the upper end being attached to the microphone. The sounds of flowing or dropping water are conveyed to the ear from great depths. In the Marne valley two springs were discovered with this apparatus at a depth of about 50 feet below the surface of the ground. It is believed that the apparatus will be of great service in mining operations both for indicating the location of concealed springs and for communicating with imprisoned miners.

PROGRESS IN THE WEST

A piece of railway construction that is almost unique is now under way on the British Columbia Division of the Canadian Northern Railway. It is a three mile stretch between Spence's Bridge and Welhachin located at a point about an equal distance from the towns of Lytten and Ashcreft and in that strip of right of way four tunnels are to be built. One will be fifteen hundred feet in length another a thousand feet and the two others five hundred feet each.

Recently six hundred men were employed there but this number will probably be doubled in the immediate future. Owing to the anxiety of the Canadian Northern to complete the entire section of their line from Edmonton to Vancouver it is probable that construction work will be proceeded with during the winter. This however, should prove in no sense a hardship because of the mellow climate of the coast province and of the fact that this underground cutting will place the men employed beyond the interference of conditions obtaining outside.

In addition to this section of heavy rock work there are two other tunnels to be built in this mountain district that are even of greater size. One of these, which is located near the town of Yale is to be almost half a mile long, or to be exact 2,970 feet. The other bore is to be made in the Black Canyon close to the town of Ashcroft.

PILES

Nothing known to Science is better for this painful ailment than Zam-Buk. It reduces inflammation, stops bleeding, ends the agony. Easily applied and cleanly. Why go on suffering? Why not try it? Read the following cures.

Some Proofs of Zam-Buk's Power.

MR. THOMAS J. HOGAN, Champion Clog Dancer of Canada, 60 Chambord Street, Montreal, writes:—

"For some time past I have been troubled with Piles, but this year I suffered so much that I was obliged to cancel a number of engagements. I tried all the so-called remedies that were recommended, but they seemed to do me no good. Having been advised to try Zam-Buk, I purchased a fifty-cent box and after applying it a few times I felt marked relief. I continued with the Zam-Buk treatment and the relief was extended into a permanent cure.

MR. WILLIAM KENTY, of Upper Nine Mile River, Hants Co., N. S., says:—"I suffered terribly from Piles, the pain at times being almost unbearable. I tried various ointments but all failed to do me the slightest good. I was tired of trying remedies when I heard of Zam-Buk, and thought as a last resource I would give this balm a trial. I procured a supply, and after a very short time Zam Buk effected what several other ointments and medicines had failed to effect—a complete cure."

Zam-Buk also cures ECZEMA, BLOOD POISON, ULCERS, COLD SORES, CHAPPED HANDS, SCALP SORES, CUTS, BURNS, BRUISES, SCALDS and all SKIN INJURIES and DISEASES. All druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, post free for price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

DAMPNESS AND DISEASE

Three Good and Sufficient Reasons Why Humanity Should Keep Away from a Moist Environment.

Dampness is injurious because of the favourable environment it provides for bacterial growth; it affects the health by reducing the supply of life-giving oxygen, and it prevents the body from performing its normal function of elimination.

A damp atmosphere makes us feel cold. This in turn affects the sweat ducts, which close to keep in the animal warmth of the body, and the sweat glands cease filtering out of the blood the impurities they are intended to eliminate. These impurities are then thrown back on the kidneys and lungs for removal, or are retained within the system to crystallise in the form of uric acid, and cause rheumatism or gout.

In the second place, the average person, when engaged in ordinary pursuits, inhales from .3 to 6. cubic feet of air per minute. Naturally, if this air is taken from a place where the air is pure and of normal quality, the amount of oxygen available for the blood will be appreciably more than if taken from a damp place where the humidity in the air has reduced the amount of oxygen and the air is tainted with musty odors and gases of putrefaction and decay.

Lastly, a moist, warm environment is the most suitable for low forms of vegetable life, like yeasts, bacteria and molds.

Best Position in Bed

There can be no particular rule in such a matter, says a medical expert on sleep, since everyone must take the position which is most comfortable to him, the great thing being to have the body thoroughly relaxed. Few people, however, realise that the mind is an important factor in this matter. If on waking you find you have been clenching your hand tightly, shutting your jaw rigidly or keeping the legs tense, this is a positive proof that both mind and body are tense during the day. Some effects of such unfortunate daily habits may be counteracted by thoroughly stretching the body on getting into bed. Raise first one arm then the other above the head, and while pushing and stretching them up, push downwards with the legs. Do this vigorously, for a few moments and follow it by a complete letting go or relaxation of all the muscles of the body. Turn your mind to pleasant, unexciting thoughts, repeat a few lines of verse or the like, and the effect of this will be felt on the body which will naturally assume a restful attitude. Very few people lie perfectly still all night, and it is no use trying to compel oneself to lie in a certain position. That would at once produce the tension one desires to avoid, and would be like staying awake to find out how to sleep.

Early School Text-Books

The earliest text-book for the instruction of children was the hornbook, invented in 1450 and used up to the close of the eighteenth century. A thin slab of hardwood was covered with parchment, on which were printed the capital and small letters, numerals, and some elementary syllables and words. Over this a thin sheet of transparent cow's horn was placed and firmly bound. This, the Bible, and the sampler on which little girls painfully stitched the letters of the alphabet, and a border of "herring-bone stitch," or some conventional pattern of impossible flowers and foliage, comprised the bulk of the education given until the commencement of the eighteenth century.

Some folk are under the erroneous impression that ivy on the outside walls of a house tends to make it damp. A thought on this subject is enough to convince one of its fallacy, since the ivy must perforce extract the damp from brick or stone work in order to live, for this moisture is essential to the plant.

LONDON AND PARIS

The British Capital Wears a Sombre Face but the Laugh Is Ever in "Gay Paree."

London is the world's male-city. It ever remains a city, or if it take on a soul it is that of some terrific, almost inhuman, force. You never turn smiling on it when you arrive, or smile to yourself when you think of it, as one thought of a loved one. London receives you with a preoccupied air, is sombre, heavy browed. It has serious affairs to think of, and cannot relax to smile on you and make you welcome. You cannot take it by the arm and make free with it. You feel there would be wondering, accusing eyes on you if you did anything which would break the sober monotony of the usual, the ordered. You must walk sedately, be of the crowd, keep on the pavement.

In Paris one who does anything, however foolish, however odd, to bring some colour, some variety into life is welcomed. Parisians love the unusual, the improvised, the daring. You know approving, sympathetic eyes on you as you parade your emotions, air your eccentricities, or defy convention in any form. The French do not see why shows should be kept for theatres only; they would have their streets a stage, with a thrill at every corner. That is why the flamboyant Bohemian, the poet, the dreamer, the lover, all half-mad souls those who scorn conventions because their minds are on bigger things are at home there.

The soul that looks out of the eyes of Paris is that of one who has lived, and loved, and tasted life's many goblets, and remained young, and gay, and above all tolerant in spite of all her experiences. She will look with an indulgent eye on your follies, for she has known them, and will know them again; she will laugh on a sigh at your extravagances, knowing how fleeting is the season when one dare be exuberant; she will take you to her heart, and with strange lures make you forget she has had other lovers; she will let you go, the old half-mocking, half-tender smile still on her lips. Gone with her may be your illusions and your faith, but forget her you cannot, ever.

CHLOROFORMING PLANTS

Latest Idea to Promote Raped Growth of Plants Is to Compel Sleep.

One would think, at first sight, that an anesthetic would retard the blossoming of a plant, instead of hastening it. The action would seem, however, to resemble that of a man who takes a sleeping-draught in the afternoon so that he might get to sleep earlier and wake at 2 a.m. to take a train.

It was found by experiment that in plants, as in animals, ether and chloroform cause every indication of sleep, and during the past few years the system of treating plants in this way, to hasten them through the resting periods, has been adopted commercially with extraordinary success. Thus, "a lilac-bush may be lifted from the ground at the end of the summer, while the leaves are still on it, and kept for several hours under the influence of ether. By this means such an effect is produced on the tissues as it would have taken Nature months to accomplish. It is now easily possible to flower lilac twice in the same year by etherising the plant and subsequently forcing it in the hot-house. Plants to be etherised are brought first into a dry condition at top and root, and then placed in an airtight structure. The door is sealed, and the ether applied through a small hole in the roof into a vessel in the house, and the fumes, being heavier than the atmosphere, hang about near the floor, where the plants are arranged. The ether has the effect of drying up the moisture in the tissues, and it is thought that in the natural rest of plants there is a gradual drying process at work, which, for want of better knowledge, the cultivator describes as the ripening of the tissues."

Bad Times for Nobles?

One sign of the prevailing hard times in Germany is the appearance in the newspapers of advertisements of noblemen seeking ready-made fortunes with wives attached. The demand for heiresses, American and otherwise, was never so great as now. Titles in the market range from Princes downward, and even the staid old "Vossische Zeitung" contains the following advertisement:—

Prince, 28 years old, of noble appearance, wishes immediate marriage condition, $125,000.

This is typical of many other advertisements. It would seem also that there are almost as many heiresses looking out for titled husbands, as witness the following tempting announcements:—

Lost Her Vivacity

A few days ago two young ladies hailed a tramcar, entered it, and found only standing room. One of them whispered to her companion:—

"I'm going to get a seat from one of these men. You take notice."

She looked down the row of men and selected a sedate gentleman who bore the general settled appearance of a married man. She sailed up to him, and opened fire:—

"My dear Mr. Green! How delightful to meet you! Such a stranger. Will I accept your seat? Well, I do feel tired. I heartily admit. Thank you so much."

The sedate gentleman — a total stranger, of course — looked, listened, then quietly rose and gave her his seat, saying:—

"Sit down, Jane, my girl. Don't often see you out on a washing day. You must feel tired, I'm sure. How's your mistress?"

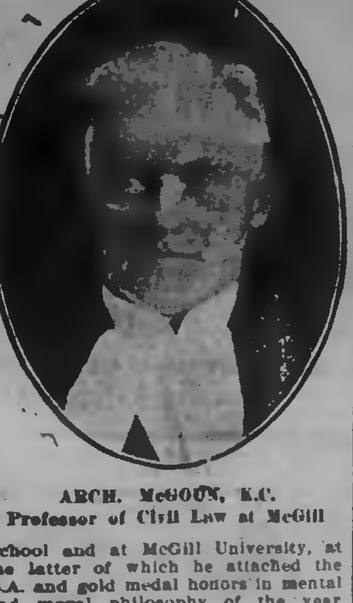
WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

Prof. ARCHIBALD McGOUN

Mr. McGoun is a gentleman of wide and varied capabilities, and his legal connection aside, is well known and much esteemed by Canadians in many walks of life. The son of Scottish parents, his father hailing from the old-world village of Douglas in Lanarkshire, and his mother from "Auld Ayr, wham ne'er a toon surpasses" — our McGill professor was born in Montreal in December 1853, and imbibed knowledge at the High School and at McGill University, at the latter of which he attached the B.A. and gold medal honors in mental and moral philosophy of the year 1878, that of M. A. coming in 1889. Here he also graduated B.C.L. in 1878, was called to the Bar in course of the same year, and for considerable period was associated in business with Mr. F. L. Beique, Q.C. Mr. McGoun, it should be added spent portion of his educational years at the L'Ecole de Droit, Paris, France.



ARCH. McGOUN, K.C. Professor of Civil Law at McGill

Appointed professor of Civil Procedure, and afterwards of Legal Bibliography in the Faculty of Law of his Alma Mater, he was, in 1896, on the resignation of the then Dean, conferred the further honor of being chosen lecturer on constitutional law, and about the same time was recommended for Q. C. by the Tupper administration.

Mr. McGoun was long prominently identified with the Imperial Federation movement, was, indeed, one of the founders of the Canadian League and is now vice-president of the British Empire League in Canada. Forming one of the deputation to the Imperial Federation Conference in London in 1886, he it was who drafted and moved in Council the resolution upon which the League acted, in inviting Lord Salisbury to call the Colonial conference of 1887. The professor now lectures at McGill on Corporations and on Agency and Partnership, and in addition to a close personal attention to all the details of his extensive legal business, takes a real live interest and share in public matters generally. He was for a number of years a member of the Council of Westmount, of which delightful city he is a resident. Politically he is a liberal, but separated from the party many years ago on the policy of unrestricted reciprocity with the United States.

Professor McGoun has contributed much to the literature of his time, his publications covering such subjects as "Federation of the Empire"; "Commercial Union with the U. S. with a word on Imperial Reciprocity"; "A Federal Parliament of the British People"; "Imperial Reciprocity"; "A Revenue Tariff within the Empire", and a host of newspaper contributions on many subjects of imperial and local interest. He worships amongst the Presbyterians.

The new Liberal Leader of the Ontario Legislature recently chosen to succeed Hon. A. G. McKay, is a native of Middlesex County, where he was born on 1st November 1867, his father being Mr. Joseph Rowell, of London Township. He entered upon the study of law in London and moved to Toronto in 1891, where he was called to the Bar the same year. He has been practising law in that city for twenty years; was made a King's Counsel in 1902 and elected a bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada at the last election in May of this year.

Reared in the Liberal faith Mr. Rowell is not without political experience, having contested, though unsuccessfully, the seat for East York in the Dominion House of Commons in 1900.

He has been active and prominent in religious affairs, and particularly in the Laymen's Missionary Movement, with which he has been connected intimately from its inception. He was elected chairman of the Canadian Council of the movement in 1907, and continued so till 1910, when he retired. On most of the general boards and committees of the Methodist Church Mr. Rowell holds a seat.

The new leader is a member of the Senate of the University of Toronto, and also of the Senate and of the Board of Regents of Victoria University.

MINISTERS ATTEND THE KING

King Is Always, when outside London, Accompanied by Member of the Cabinet.

When the King goes abroad, or stays for any length of time outside the capital, he is accompanied by a Minister in attendance. The position is supposed to be filled by each member of the Cabinet in turn, the period of duty varying from a week to a fortnight, or even a month. In actual practice only two or three Ministers are called upon to be in attendance upon the King, and the duration of their visits depends in great measure upon their personal popularity.

The late King Edward frequently dispensed with the service of a Minister when he went abroad, and the old custom of having a member of the Cabinet at Windsor when the Court went there does not now prevail. In these advanced days of telegraphs and telephones, motor-cars, and other methods of rapid intercommunication it is not considered necessary that a responsible Minister of the Crown should leave his official duties for so lengthy a period.

Compulsory Dinner.

The duties of a Minister in attendance are not arduous, except at times when the political horizon is clouded, or when this country is engaged in war. When things are normal — that is to say, dull — the Minister has little to do but enjoy himself, and nowadays every facility is given for his doing so after his own particular fashion. Breakfast is served in his private sitting-room, if he so desires it, or he joins the gentlemen of the Court.

Luncheon, too, is a meal at which the attendance of the Minister is optional. When the King is out shooting or fishing — and scarcely a day passes but sees him engaged in one or other of these sports — luncheon is taken, of course, in the open; and if the Minister happens to be a sportsman, he is naturally invited to join the Royal party.

The Minister's presence at dinner is, however, insisted upon, and he is required to be present in the drawing-room afterwards. Queen Victoria used to go through official documents with her Ministers twice a day — in the morning and after dinner. King Edward, who was exceedingly methodical, devoted the first part of the morning to official business, and unless despatches received during the day were specially urgent they were not submitted and discussed until the following morning.

King George is equally methodical. His Majesty is an early riser and is often at work at half-past nine. The King expects all documents, to be ready for him, and business is therefore got through very expeditiously, and no time is "cut to waste." Unless any matter of urgency should demand attention business is then dismissed for the day, the evenings being devoted to amusement and general conversation.

All official despatches are opened by the Minister, who masters their contents and makes such notes as may be necessary before submitting them to the King. If His Majesty approves of the manner in which it is suggested they should be dealt with replies are dictated to the private secretaries, of whom there are usually two. In the event of the King desiring information on any subject it is the duty of the Minister to obtain it.

MR. HALL WRITES A LETTER ON HAMILTON AND CORDAGE CO'S

Peterborough, Nov. 21st, 1911.
To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Mr. L. M. Hayes at Mr. Peck's Saturday evening meeting as reported in Monday evening's Review, made an unfair attack upon me on account of my connection with the William Hamilton Company, and the Canadian Cordage Company.

I am very much surprised that Mr. Hayes, who knows all the facts in connection with both of these concerns, should have so far forgotten the duty that he owes to himself and the citizens of Peterborough that he would wilfully conceal from his audience the true facts of my connection with these concerns.

Mr. Hayes knows that I undertook to organize the Wm. Hamilton Co. in the spring of 1907, but through no fault of my own, I was unexpectedly stuck with a personal liability of $240,000.00 being the amount of the purchase price. That I offered to forfeit my deposit of $5,000.00 and drop out, but the liquidator would not accept it but compelled me in the midst of a financial crisis that prevailed in this country to make a further deposit of $25,000.00 on account and close down the works or else that they would sue me and close both myself and the works down at the same time.

Had the financial statement of the William Hamilton Company been correct I could have carried through the transaction without closing down the works, as Mr. Hayes well knows, but on account of their financial statement being untrue, the works were closed down and I was forced to sue the liquidator and after the expense of a 25 days law suit, I finally recovered judgment against the liquidator for $45,000.00. This in no way affects the present company.

In my eager desire to preserve this important industry to Peterborough I regret to say that my public spirit and enterprise has been rewarded with the meanest and most vicious lying abuse.

It is true I helped to organize the Canadian Cordage Company and it is true that for nearly ten years these works have given employment to upwards of 200 hands.

During the time the works were being organized, I from time to time acquired stock in the company to the extent of $20,000.00 and after every shareholder had invested his money in the Company I took an additional $15,000.00 of stock, in order to increase the Company's working capital but on account of the fact that binder twine was upon the free list and that the Company was subjected to a world wide competition, and on account of the violent drop that took place in the fibre market following the financial crisis of 1907 this Company in common with other twine companies in the United States was forced into liquidation.

Until the company is wound up, it is impossible to say whether or not the shareholders have actually lost their money in the Company, at all events I have reasonable grounds to believe that the shareholders will be able to get something out of it. In the meantime, however, the workingmen of Peterborough have nothing to complain of in connection with these two institutions because the William Hamilton Company has been preserved to the city, and is still running, giving employment to men, and the Canadian Cordage Company will be running full blast in the course of a few weeks giving employment to its old staff of employees.

I sincerely trust that my opponent Mr. Peck will see that malicious slanders are not used by his friends, as one of his weapons in this campaign as my earnest desire is to conduct this campaign on its merits.

Yours truly,
R. R. HALL.

CROUTER TO STAND TRIAL

On Charge of Stealing $25 From William Stewart

Other Charges Against Prisoner and His Wife Dismissed

Occasionally a little amusement brightens the sordid police court proceedings, and the usual crowd of hangers-on were given something to laugh over to-day, William Stewart was the man responsible for the fun: his manner of giving evidence being interlarded with a flow of up-to-date slang, worthy of George Ade himself.

Stewart was the star witness against Albert Crouter, who was arraigned on a charge preferred by the former accusing him of the theft of $25 from his person on the night of Nov. 18th. Crouter and his wife were both in court on other charges, the former being charged with keeping a disorderly house and the latter with being an inmate. This charge against Crouter was withdrawn and the one against his wife dismissed

TRIAL BEFORE JUDGE

On the charge of theft Crouter elected to be tried by jury in the county court on Dec 12th. Stewart and Detective Newhall were the only witnesses who gave evidence this morning.

Crown Attorney Wood prosecuted.

GAVE HELPING HAND

Stewart told of coming to Peterborough from Emily and meeting Crouter, trotted him to his home, Crouter, so witness said, asked him for money which he gave him, and with which groceries were purchased, and he also bought a $1 bottle of whiskey.

The remainder of the doings of the witness in the house became at this point such a delicate subject for him to be questioned upon, that he desired the Crown Attorney to desist.

Mr. Wood remarked, that it was a matter of public morals and that nothing squeamish should be allowed to debar truth from coming out.

Witness, who is a man over fifty, and rather garrulous, denied indignantly having done anything improper while in Crouter's house, and that his relations with Crouter's wife had been perfectly proper. He was lying in bed, he continued, when he felt Crouter come in and feel his pockets, stating that he was in search of a bottle. Witness drove him away he said, but about a half-hour later he came back and took the money, and witness immediately reported it to the police.

THREE BILLS FOUND

Detective Newhall, who, with P. C. McHarry and P. C. Meagher, visited the Crouter home Saturday instituted a search for the missing money and found three $5 bills in Crouter's pockets, which he said he had put there for safe-keeping.

The evidence was sufficient for Crouter being committed for trial.

Q. Why do school children with good sight, require Glasses?
A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength, the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.

Q. Why do children squint?
A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain, this is nature's way. Study glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squint.

Q. Why do children have eye headaches?
A. An eye headache is a reflex pain caused by straining the eyes; the pain may be over the eyes or through the temples. The remedy for eye headaches is relief-glasses, to be worn while studying

Meet the Increased Cost of Living By Increasing the Yield of Your Capital

When investing money—if you insist on theoretically perfect security, you must be satisfied with very small interest.

The increased cost of living has caused many to seek investments which while perfectly sound, and proven to be practically absolutely safe, yet yield a much larger return on the capital.

In investing in this latter class of security, close investigation should precede the purchase of any securities, the points to be covered more especially being,
Stability of the enterprise,
Stability of the management.

Granted satisfactory replies on these points such securities are just as safe as the best mortgages or other so-called "gilt-edge" values, while they offer most tempting returns in the way of interest.

We have secured a block of stock in an enterprise which has been most closely looked into and we are able to offer in lots of one share or more a limited quantity of its 7% preference stock which carries with it profit sharing with issues of common stock, making very probable an even larger return than 7%.

This enterprise has been in actual operation for over 20 years.

It has been uniformly successful during this period.

It has been under the same management or group of managers, for practically this entire period, and has shown, and still shows constantly increased earnings and profits and its resources owing to increasing values of the raw material, which it controls, show very considerable increase every year.

In a word this investment is one which deserves the attention of any investor seeking to increase the earning power of his capital.

COAL

NAVY TENDERS EXTRAVAGANT; WHY NO ACTION WAS POSSIBLE

Hon. J. D. Hazen Makes Important Announcement in the House — Pugsley on Reciprocity.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The mortuary comedy continues. Without the full paraphernalia of the modern three-ringed circus, it has developed, to the limit of wearisome iteration a loud-lunged chorus of antiphonal censure, with the navy and reciprocity as the alternate. Hon. Dr. Pugsley supplied the heavy tragedy.

In the tones of a Jeremiah he called on the people of Ontario to repent of their sins in withholding the fiscal salvation held by the late Government from the dejected and downtrodden electors of the Maritime and prairie provinces. To a weary length he driveled on revamped election arguments in support of a dead issue.

He drew a glowing picture of the dissatisfaction which he declared would spring from the Government proposal of Federal aid to the provinces in the improvement of the highways.

Hon. J. D. Hazen made the important announcement that, of the nine tenders received for the construction of the four cruisers and destroyers contemplated by the late Government for the Canadian navy of which, though received five months before the election, they had not seen fit to make an award, the lowest, that of Camell, Laird & Co., was $11,280,000. That of Swan Hunter was $12,174,000, while another was $13,055,804. This did not include armor plate armament or special supplies and under the terms of the contract the ships could not be completed till six years hence, when they would be obsolete. He would have been remis in his duty, he said, if he had signed a contract for any such wasteful expenditure.

F. B. Carvell (Carleton, N.B.), continued the debate on the speech from the throne.

"I wish to tell my hon. friend, the Minister of Trade and Commerce," he said, "that reciprocity is not dead as far as the Maritime Provinces are concerned. The admission of natural products into the United States would be the greatest boon that could be offered the Maritime Provinces in a generation.

"The Minister of Trade and Commerce says that we should sell in the home market. Why, we can't sell 1,000 feet of our lumber in the Maritime Provinces."

At least three-fourths of the exports in natural products, he declared, had gone to the American market and would continue to go there. No one could say that these people did not want reciprocity.

J. A. M. Aitkins (Brandon) expressed his surprise that the Opposition had begun by attempting to sow seeds of discord, east against west. The prairie provinces had prospered without the supposed benefits of reciprocity. So prosperous were they that thousands of American settlers were flocking in to share the benefits.

The farmers of Manitoba had said: "Home markets for us." They knew perfectly well that the United States exported fifteen times as much wheat as western Canada, and that reciprocity would not mean the opening of the markets of the U. S. to their natural products, but rather the reverse.

The West wished, he said, to conserve what the Liberal party had left them in natural products, whether of coal or timber, or what not. Settlers piloted by immigration agents, located by homestead agents, had prospered not by what the Liberals had done for them, but by what God Almighty and nature had done for them, somewhat naturally were influenced as regards the Government by these agents.

There was a real danger of divergence of sentiment between east and west. What had the Liberal Government done for the West? Was it the St. Andrew's locks which were fifteen years in building? Was it the National Transcontinental with its exorbitant cost of construction and the resultant effect on freight rates?

E. M. MacDonald (Pictou) took up the "unholy alliance." The Cabinet, he insisted, was not a Conservative Cabinet, it was a coalition Cabinet. Mr. Borden had capitulated to the Nationalists. The House had a right to know the terms of the capitulation, which party in the coalition had made the necessary sacrifice of principle. The Premier had not told them. He hoped the Minister of Public Works (Monk) would do so.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley referred to the denial to the Maritime Provinces of their natural market in the United States. In the able presentation of the transportation question by the last speaker, he saw confirmation of his own arguments during the campaign that, with the great St. Lawrence route, Canadian railways and boats would transport if reciprocity carried, not only the products of the Canadian, but of the American west as well.

That the United States would have under reciprocity thrown off $1,200,000 duty collected on Canadian lumber for $50 collected on American lumber, was an argument, he said, which appealed strongly to the people of New Brunswick.

Turning to the naval question, he declared it was absurd for the Government to frame a speech from the throne in which it was ignored, this, the question of which all Canadians were thinking. There was a strong ad potent force in the present administration which said we should have no navy and if we had one they should not be available to go to the assistance of the British navy.

BERNHARDT DENIES THE STORY

Paris, Nov. 21.—Sarah Bernhardt indignantly denies the report that she is about to marry Lor Lellegen, a 26-year-old Flemish actor, who has been playing subordinate parts in her company. When your correspondent called at Madame Bernhardt's house to-night to enquire about the report he encountered a French journalist who had been on the same errand making a hasty exit after having barely escaped having his ears boxed.

Mme. Bernhardt received your correspondent in the most polite manner. She had difficulty in finding words to express her opinion of the stupidity of the report.

SUFFRAGETTES FAIL IN THEIR EFFORT TO STORM COMMONS

London Bobbies Were at Their Post—Many Arrests and Some Disorder—Record-Making Event.

London, Nov. 22.—The suffragettes fared badly at the hands of the police last night. They had threatened to force their way into the House of Commons and make a protest on the floor of the House against the Prime Minister's refusal to pledge the Government to a bill giving equal suffrage to both sexes, but they failed even to reach the entrance to Parliament.

Thwarted by the police, who made upwards of 180 arrests, the suffragettes resorted to a campaign of window-smashing. Driven from Parliament square by the police, 1,800 of whom were on duty, the women, accompanied by sympathizers and gangs of rowdies, proceeded through Whitehall, armed with bags of stones concealed under their coats, and broke the windows in the public offices, the Liberal headquarters and the National Liberal Club. They even extended their operations to the Strand, where windows of the postoffice, bank and other private concerns suffered form the onslaughts.

Strong detachments of police, both on foot and mounted, guarded the streets from Caxton Hall to the House of Parliament. They broke up the deputation into units, which, when they reached the cordons surrounding the square, were thrown back, or if too persistent, were arrested and passed along to a receiving squad in the square, and thence through a double line of constables to the police station.

The greatest confusion prevailed. Several women were injured in the scramble, while others fainted or became hysterical and required the attention of the ambulance men. The battle was fierce but short.

An hour after the women emerged from the hall Parliament square had been cleared of the attacking forces, except half a dozen women who had chained themselves to the railings, and whose chains the police had to file or break.

The demonstration was not so large as those of last year. The damage to property was greater than ever, however, and the number of arrests establishes a record. Canon row station in Whitehall was crowded with prisoners and the police were occupied for hours in making charges against them. Among those arrested was Mrs. Lawrence, who is joint leader for "Votes for Women"; Lady Constance Lytton, sister of Lord Lytton, and the Hon. Mrs. Evelina Herfield.

SIR JAMES WHITNEY SAYS THE PAPERS ARE TELLING LIES

There Are Many False Impressions Being Spread as to Bi-lingual Shools, Says the Premier - Sir James Glad to See Independence.

Fergus, Nov. 22.—"Abominable and absolute falsehood" is the way Sir James Whitney last night described the newspaper articles being published on the bilingual school question. A large crowd filled the opera house and several speakers also addressed the meeting.

"In this land of peace and where good feeling should be fostered and encouraged owing to the racial differences of the people, we see newspapers filled with abominable and absolute falsehoods about this bilingual question," he declared.

Sir James calmly reiterated his statement again last night, that there is no such thing in Ontario as a bilingual school. "Let's get the idea of teaching the French language out of our heads. It's only a question of teaching young French-Canadian children the public school subjects in French until they can understand the English language."

Sir James said he was especially pleased with Col. Craig's record and attitude in the Legislature. There was a great big streak of independence in J. J. Craig and he was the better for it. He was not a hide-bound party candidate unattentive to the interests of all his constituents. Sir James was glad to see this spirit of independence both in the Legislature and out of it.

"We have now a sympathetic Government at Ottawa, who will not attempt as the Laurier administration did to block the progress of Hydro-electric extension in Central and Eastern Ontario. Hon. Frank Cochrane, the new Minister of Railways and Canals, worked with Hon Adam Beck in aiding the project in Ontario, when Mr. Cochrane was a member of my Government," he said.

MARION CASE A PUZZLE YET

Inquest Into Marion Tragedy Fails to Settle Question.

Montreal, Nov. 22.—Witness after witness was probed by Coroner McMahon at the inquest which was renewed yesterday in an effort to discover whether murder or suicide accounted for the recent death of Mary Louise Marion, whose body was found in a north end quarry.

The girl disappeared from home some five or six weeks ago, and some of her clothes were found on the quarry bank. The police dragged the quarry in vain. Later the mother appeared and insisted on another attempt, telling of a visit to a "clairvoyant," who had two visions, first the girl walking with two men, next her body lying in the quarry. The police then found the body in the position described by the clairvoyant. The police believe it a simple case of suicide, but the girl's relatives insist that she met with foul play.

New facts brought out indicated that the victim had been ill-treated by her stepmother some time ago. The only love affair brought to light, was that between Joseph Bourge, aged 17, and the girl, who was not 16 years old at the time of her death.

Screams from the direction of the quarry were plainly heard on the night of Oct. 16, when the girl disappeared, according to the testimony of Mrs. Joseph Prenovost, who lived near the quarry.

George Marion, the father of the victim, admitted that the little girl had complained before him and before Mrs. Gauvreau of having been ill-treated by his wife. He also admitted that on the night of Oct. 15 last, he had been put out of the house by his wife and his mother-in-law, because he was in liquor.

"We shall be obliged to adjourn this inquest again," said Coroner McMahon at the conclusion of Detective Lajoie's evidence. "We can safely say now that there is suspicion over this whole affair, and we shall give the police another delay of eight days to sift this matter to a finish."

SUFFRAGETTE GOES TO JAIL

Preferred Fourteen Days Imprisonment to Small Fine

Special To The Review

London, Nov. 22—Miss Mary Oldham was the first of the suffragettes to be tried at Bow street, this morning, and a sentence of fourteen days imprisonment with the option of a fine of $17, was imposed. She chose to go to jail. Other sentences were gradually according to the amount of damage done by the women arrested. The majority was bound over to keep the peace,

WHAT THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC MEANS TO PETERBOROUGH:

Mr. Strachan Johnston of Toronto, the lawyer who represented the Electric Power Co. interests at the Cochrane interview in Ottawa, acknowledged that the Otonabee Power Co. was controlled by the Electric Power Company interests.

Peterborough is at present completely in the hands of one big power ring, which has spent $4,000,000 entrenching itself in this district Peterborough is at the mercy of this big corporation, except where the franchises limit the rates to be charged.

Now that the Laurier government is gone, and George P. Graham's method of handing to political favorites, power concessions, the Whitney government has a chance to introduce its hydro-electric power scheme to the Trent Valley. Sir James Whitney, a man of determination and of his word, says he will do it. He could not venture during the past six years because the Dominion government stepped in and refused to acknowledge provincial rights to the waters.

R. R. Hall is in the $4,000,000 power corporation ring. E. A. Peck stands as the advocate of the Whitney policy of power for the people at cost—not at a big profit. It is not a question of how much power or lighting is in use in Peterborough—nature has been generous to us—nor a question of whether the present rates are not exorbitant. It is a question of whether, with the great natural advantages in power to be derived from the Trent canal system, we should be so tied up that we are dependent on the good-nature and good will of the corporation which has a monopoly of the power situation.

The introduction of hydro-electric power in Toronto made a saving to the people of 30 per cent. in their lighting bills. The private monopoly had to come off its perch, and equal the hydro-electric prices. Would the people of Peterborough deliberately deliver a knock out blow to the Whitney hydro-electric power scheme—which will probably bring power to Peterborough at cost—by electing a member of the $4,000,000 power ring? Power to the people as low as the charges can be made is the policy of the hydro electric. Peterborough should have power competition. Give Whitney the opportunity to get every help in accomplishing his purpose; to give Peterborough in power matters

COMPETITION,
INDEPENDENCE,
LOWER PRICES,

and then watch Peterborough forge ahead as it should.

WINCHESTER'S TRIAL OF BANK CASES WILL SETTLE CHARGES

Justice Riddel Holds Trial to be Valid, but Traverses Cases to the Next Assizes to Await Judge Winchester's Decision

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Justice Riddell to day gave judgment in the disputed point as to whether the trial by Judge Winchester of the conspiracy charge against J. R. Stratton and J. J. Warren, in the Farmers Bank cases, was legal, holding that it was. He held that the defendants' election was not final. Justice Riddell also found that the indictment against Messrs. Stratton and Warren was formed slightly differently from the indictment as worded by the grand jury which found the true bill. His lordship traversed the case to the next assizes, when the two defendants may plead to the conviction or the acquittal, as may be found by Judge Winchester on the trial, this finding not yet having been given.

BRITAIN FORCED GERMANY TO BACK UP IN MOROCCO MATTER

J. E. ARMSTRONG, M.P.
East Lambton, chairman of the ministerial caucus.

Report of Secret Sitting of Budget Committee of Reichstag is Published, and it Shows That Germany First Made an Angry Reply to England's Threat of Intervention, Then Thought Better.

Berlin, Nov. 22.—The official repo of the secret sitting of the budge committee of the Reichstag on Nov 17, when Foreign Minister Von Kiderlin-Waechter made a report Anglo-German relations as affected b the Moroccan dispute with France was published yesterday.

The Foreign Minister's account the interview between the British Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, the German Ambassador at Londo Count Wolff-Metternich and of th communications that passed betwee England and Germany show that th situation was most tense from Jul 21 to July 27 and the language use on both sides was so sharp that peaceful outcome of the affair unde the circumstances is considered mos fortunate.

Great Britain, according to Her Von Kiderlin-Waechter, after recei ing on July 1, an individual, as wel as a general explanation of the object of the despatch of the German wa ship Panther, to Agadir, remained lent until July 21. Sir Edward Gre then had a conversation with the Ge man Ambassador, in which he declare that the time had come for Gre Britain to intervene in the Franc German negotiations, since those a parently were about to be broken owing to Germany's unacceptable pr posals, which would raise the que tion of the future of Morocco, where by British interests would be affect He requested an explanation of t German designs at Agadir.

The ambassador replied sharply th the Minister had no right to stat that Germany had made unacceptab demands, nor had Great Britain ha any right to intervene in the negoti tions on the mere supposition th Germany eventually was aiming at naval base at Agadir, for which the was no proof. He challenged t British Foreign Secretary to speci any British interests affected by t German action. He suggested th intervention had better be postpon until this could be done.

Germany then sent a formal rep giving assurance that she had nev contemplated a naval base at Agad nor the acquisition of Moroccan ter tory. She expressed regret that Gre Britain had credited such hallucin tions. Threats would not turn Ge many from asserting her rights. was pointed out again that Great B tain was at liberty to intervene whe ever her interests were affected, a Sir Edward Grey was formally inv ed to end the tension by declaring Parliament that these had not be touched in the curernt negotiations.

On July 27 an inspired stateme was published that the British G ernment did not contemplate parti pation in the negotiations and th the fleet movements were not co nected with the Moroccan situati This brought an end to the crisis.

ROWELL IS ON THE FENCE YE

Rowell Almost Takes a Stand on lingual Schools.

Lindsay, Nov. 22.—Bilingual scho and New Ontario were dealt with N. W. Rowell, K.C., Liberal lead last night in his first fighting spe of the campaign. Mr. Rowell ch lenged Sir James to answer some qu tions with regard to his acts in past and his policy for the future.

"Our concern is that every ch should learn and know English, necessarily English alone, becaus man who knows two languages m be a little better off than the m who knows only one, but every ch should have a working knowledge English." On our policy of teach in those schools and policy of ma taining peace and harmony betw French and English races, the Libe party is prepared to stand or fa he said.

With regard to the statement Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General, t the law did not authorize biling schools, Mr. Rowell said: "It is the law, but the administration of law which has created trouble."

"If Sir James is ignorant of pres conditions with regard to biling schools, then there must be incom tency in management of our edu tional affairs, more than we had e expected," said Mr. Rowell.

On the temperance question, Rowell said that Sir James Whit "could be almost insulting" to t perance people when they went him, but the spoils faction wante use the license system to further interests.

The meeting was held in the op house. C. E. Weeks of Woodville, cal Liberal candidate, and Dr. J. White, chairman of the meeting president of the Liberal Associati also spoke.

"It would be foolish to say that Whitney Government is all bad," Dr. White. "Intelligent people wo not accept that statement." He mitted that the Hydro-electric pol and prison farm project were g works.

The failure of the Government frankly states its position on question of bilingual schools and evident desire to run with the and hunt with the hounds is larg responsible for a widespread ag tion which is disturbing the pu mind to-day in this province, said Rowell. "Sir James evidently ho to avoid a declaration of policy bringing on the elections before receipt of Dr. Merchant's report, b use Banquo's ghost. It will [illegible]

Doctors Condemn Oily Liniments

The Public are Warned to Be Careful of These Strong-Smelling Oily Liniments Containing Harmful Acids, Ammonia, Etc.

Many people have clung to the old-fashioned idea that a thick, greasy liniment is the best kind. Doctors say not—and they know.

Recently a number of these white, oily liniments were analyzed, and they were found to contain an enormously high percentage of harmful acids, and such irritating chemicals as ammonia, etc. For the moment they may cause a warm sensation when first applied, but their continued use never cures rheumatism, and only deteriorates the skin, sets up inflammation and causes endless trouble.

When a doctor warns you to quit using a white, oily liniment—do so. He knows that a thick liniment can't penetrate, can't sink through the pores and reach the seat of the pain.

When asked his opinion a few days ago, Dr. Roberts stated that he considered a strong, penetrating, pain-subduing liniment such as "Nerviline," to be superior to any of the white, ammonia liniments. In his twenty-five years of practice he had witnessed cases of rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago that simply would not respond to ordinary treatment—but Nerviline cured them. The same physician also spoke of the great advantages of keeping a preparation like Nerviline in the house always, because of cramps, diarrhoea, stomach disorders, earache, toothache, headache, and such minor ailments. Nerviline is a first-class cure. There is scarcely an ache or a pain, internal or external, that Nerviline won't cure. In thousands of homes no other pain-relieving medicine is used. Fifty years' continued success and the endorsement of the profession are proof that Nerviline is the liniment for the home.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

The Daily Review

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 22, 1911.

THE DEMONSTRATOR

That fertile genius, Robert Richard Hall, has evolved something to catch the hard-headed Missourian, the farmer. It is not Binder Twine, but something a great deal better than that. It is an advice bureau, where wisdom may be secured for the asking. Mr. Hall is now advocating a change in agricultural regulations, so that in Peterborough at least, a "demonstrator" will be established to act as a fountain of information, a Delphic oracle, to the ignorant farmers of this county.

We were under the impression that the farmers—the men who make their living off the soil—know something about farming. But it seems that they do not. Mr. Hall proposes that the "demonstrator" shall hand out chunks of advice as big as a Stilton cheese about how to make a hen lay two eggs a day when eggs are 40 and 50 cents a dozen; how to induce cows to yield solid cream, and how to blow up the noxious weeds in the fields by the judicious use of a little salt and pepper.

This demonstrator shall be a wonderful person. Of course to be able to do wonders for the ignorant farming community of Peterboro county he must be an encyclopedia of new and scientific methods of how to get more out of the soil. For instance, if a man has a field that is literally submerged by the mustard plant, all he needs to do is to call his lordship the demonstrator, a magic wand is stretched over the field, and presto! the mustard is gone, and in its place are fine new cabbages with heads, so big that they remind one of Hon. Mackenzie King before the election.

The demonstrator must be able to give advice for all sorts of distressing cases. If a chicken has the pip, his excellency, the demonstrator, must be able to remove the pip with a pair of curling tongs. If a farmer has a wife, who makes his life miserable with her demands that she shall do the plowing, Mr. Demonstrator must teach her how to turn the furrows. If some of the pigs persist in sticking their noses into people's business as well, where is that Demonstrator? Adviser-general, counsellor-general, his sympathetic soul would almost make the earth quake with joy at being so scientifically and artistically called. Instead of using the stern steel teeth of a harrow, his lordship would tickle the earth with a feather duster, and brush away the stubble, and in its place would grow crops of as many varieties as Joseph's coat had colors. The problem of how to get back to the land would be once and forever solved, and we should all return to the lap of that good old Mother, Earth, and be happy forever more.

A beautiful picture, truly. To such wondrous length does the Hallian effort to do something for the poor farmer, whose friend Mr. Hall is, was and forever shall be—while life shall in him last—extend. It seems a pity that one cannot forget that this generous and fertile mind should have caused the loss of thousands of dollars to the farmers of the county. It is a melancholy case.

MR. KENDRY

There would be no more popular appointment around Peterborough by the new government than a senatorship for Mr. James Kendry. Mr. Kendry has earned the honor by his efforts extending over nearly a quarter of a century, in the interest of the Conservative party. He has been a steadfast and stalwart factor in the preservation for Canada of the aims and ideals for which Conservatism exists, and now that after fifteen years of effort, the Conservative party has at last come into its own, there should surely come in due season, this fitting recognition. The members of the city council in discussing this matter last night touched a chord which will find ready sympathy in Peterborough. The suggestion should reach the ears of Premier Borden without much delay.

ENGLISH IN ONTARIO

Toronto News.

On the subject of French teaching in the schools Mr. Rowell is eloquent and independent. The Toronto Star and other organs of the party are laboring to excite the English-speaking population against the government. The leader by his calculated qualifications manoeuvres for French support while through his organs he would take advantage of any feeling that may be aroused in the English-speaking constituencies.

If any fault is to be found with the party leaders, Mr. Rowell will not profit to the disadvantage of Sir James Whitney. The Premier has declared that when Mr. Merchant's report has been received prompt action will be taken to end any abuses that may have developed. He does not appeal to passion or prejudice in any direction. He gave a blunt pledge of effective action and his whole career proves that what he promises he will perform.

Moreover, it is clear that many of the Conservative members of the next Legislature will not be contented with any evasive dealing with the question. They are determined that Ontario shall be an English province and that in every school English shall be the language of instruction. They go beyond Mr. Rowell's deft qualifications. They use plain words instead of the Liberal leader's rolling eloquence. It is not suggested that "French in the home" should be abolished. No one believes that any such attempt could succeed. They do believe that in this province English should be the language of the schools and that any child that does not go out into active life with a fair mastery of English will labor under a permanent disadvantage.

It is to be hoped that we have reached the end of feeble concessions in education both in Ontario and in every other English province. With Quebec no one desires to interfere. But we cannot afford to establish a new Quebec in Ontario. If we respect every constitutional guarantee to minorities we have done our full duty. If advantage has been taken of privileges or concessions granted under existing legislation there must be straightforward action to reform abuses. There must also be a firm and steady refusal to give new concessions and privileges.

EDITORIAL NOTES

What has Mr. Hall ever done for the workingman?

Peck and straight-dealing with the electors. Hall and a wriggle and twist for vote-catching purposes.

The remodelling of the Workmen's Compensation Act was ordered by Sir James Whitney long before Mr. Hall or Mr Rowell were thought of, in the provincial campaign.

"Wanted—A few more chickens for my roost," says Liberal Leader Rowell. Evidently Mr. Rowell's chickens have not yet come home to roost.

Mr Hall is making a noise about Compensation Acts, farm "demonstrators" and various other things, but he declines to tell us that he is in favor of and believes in the "People's Power scheme."

The chairman of the British-born meeting in the last campaign is working in the United States, under the flag against which he used his influence. And yet there are some of his compatriots who would vote for Messrs. Stratton, Hall & Co.

There is no doubt as to the result of the election in Peterborough. Mr. Hall will be a worthy sacrifice. At the same time, over-confidence by Mr. Peck's followers should not be permitted to endanger the return of a supporter of Whitney.

Peterborough needs a supporter of the government as its representative. An opposition man cannot carry the influence in the legislature that Peterborough wants, especially when the Beck scheme is to be brought into play in the Trent valley.

The "Postage stamp" province is to receive the additional territory north to Hudson Bay, for which it has clamored for years, in vain. Laurier refused Manitoba justice, and lost the province. Borden is more in touch with the needs of this growing country.

It surely hurts Sir Wilfrid Laurier that there should have been a successful amalgamation of the Conservative forces of Quebec and British Canada. Sir Wilfrid the great healer of racial differences, is now in a new role—that of creator of racial strife and ill-will.

Seven Toronto men refused to help coal the steamer Macassa, and thereby broke the law, being brought up in police court. The law permits liberty of opinion and action, and yet there is labor which may be compulsory. It would be a hard jolt for some men to be forced to work.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier says that the blessing of Chamberlain on the government must have come to some of the members like holy water on the head of Satan. Sir Wilfrid thinks that this would produce contortions, but he should see our own Robert Richard Hall, if he wants a first-class act in the contortion line. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Stopped Kidnapping of Child.

Kingston, Nov. 22.—Police Constable Bateson arrived at the Grand Trunk station yesterday with a warrant and prevented the kidnapping of a nine-year-old son of a prominent resident.

It was a purely family affair. The boy's mother died when he was a year old and he was given over to his grandmother. The latter gave up house this week, and the boy's uncle, going west, wanted to take him with him against the father's consent and the father got out the warrant to prevent him kidnapping the lad.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 21.—The demand from European sources for all grades of Manitoba spring wheat was active again to-day at a further advance in prices of 3d to 6d per quarter, and sales of over 200,000 bushels were made for December-January shipment. There were bids in the market for much more, but exporters were not in a position to accept them.

A number of orders for oats, which were booked by local exporters some time ago, have been cancelled during the past two days by foreign buyers at a good profit to shippers here, as they have sold the oats on spot for local consumption. American corn on spot is scarce and strong, and prices have advanced 1½c per bushel.

There was considerable inquiry from foreign buyers for spring wheat flour, but millers state that the prices bid were not in all cases satisfactory, and only a small volume of business was done. The local trade is fairly active and firm. Demand for millfeed continues good. Cheese is quiet; butter in good demand; eggs fairly active.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—The railways reported 90 carloads of live stock at the City Market, comprising 1325 cattle, 1141 hogs, 1824 sheep and lambs and 131 calves.

Butchers.

Besides those bought by Mr. Rowntree, there were many light steers and heifers bought to kill at prices ranging from $3.50 to $4.75.

Stockers and Feeders.

The market for stockers and feeders was quiet, not many buyers being on the market, especially farmers. Stockers were quoted at from $3.25 up to $4, and feeders, 900 to 1100 lbs., at $4.25 to $5.

Milkers and Springers.

There was not as much activity displayed on the market for milkers and springers, especially for the medium class of milkers and late springers. Prices ranged from $40 to $75, and we heard of two top-notch cows going at $90.

Veal Calves.

There was a heavy run of rough, grassy, heavy calves, 250 to 275 lbs. each, that sold at $3 to $3.50; veal calves of choice quality sold at $5 to $7.50 per cwt., and a few extra quality at $8 to $8.25 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Another heavy supply of over 2000 sheep and lambs at the two markets had the effect of keeping prices down to Monday's quotations, as follows: Sheep, $3 to $3.75, and lambs at $5 to $5.25 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris was paying $6.75 for selects, fed and watered at the market, and $6.40 was the price quoted to drovers at country points for hogs f.o.b. cars, which would mean about $6.25 to the farmer. There were 2500 hogs reported at the two markets for the day's receipts.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

—BY—

CLIVE PHILLIPPS WOLLEY

(AUTHOR OF "GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO," ETC.)

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

For what seemed like an hour the five savage figures crouched upon their hams around Combe, like wolves around a kill, their mouths shut, their limbs motionless, only their eyes alive, but those so vigilant that they seemed to follow his very thoughts. It is his vigilance and his eternal patience which enables the Indian to win in his life-long battle with the wild things around him. The beasts' senses are keener than those of his pursuers and he loves life, but the tireless patience of the hunter wears down the patience of the hunted.

Jim felt the power of this watching silence. It was as if he were being mesmerized. At last he broke it.

"Well," he said. "What do you want, Khelowna?"

The chief shifted his seat a little.

"What you doing here?" he asked.

"Taking a cultus coolie" (stroll).

"Too much cold wind. Cultus coolie no good."

"Then why are you out?"

"Indians got no grub. Got no guns now. Indians very hungry. You got any grub?" and he reached out his hand like a cat that steals from the table, his eye all the time upon Jim, and drew away the cartridge case which had contained the sandwiches.

That was the first move in the game.

Until that day no Indians on the Risky lands would have dared openly to take a white man's property from under his very eyes without leave, and Jim when he saw the chief take his cartridge case and search it, understood that the old restraint was breaking down and that a change was in the air. All the food had been eaten, but the flask remained in the bag, and this Khelowna opened, unscrewing the top with clumsy fingers and sniffing at the mouth of it like a beast.

"No more fire water?" he asked.

"No, there wouldn't have been any for you anyway. Think I'm going to be run in for giving Indians whiskey?"

Khelowna laughed, and his laugh was like a wolf's snarl.

"Whiskey very good for Indians. Any water here?"

"Plenty. Nothing but water in this cursed hole."

"You go get some," and the chief held out the flask to Jim, but though the blood rose to his face at the insolence of the bidding, Jim neither stirred nor held out his hand for the flask.

"You go, I say, hyak (quickly)," and the chief, who misinterpreted Combe's silence, pushed the flask almost into his face.

"Go to hell and get it yourself," the cowboy replied and his steady eyes met Khelowna's without flinching.

For a moment the chief hesitated. Then he threw down the flask with a laugh, and the murderer under the pretext of picking it up, edged a thought nearer to Jim.

As, even so, the Indian was not near enough to strike or grip him, the watched man never moved, and again the silent game of cat and mouse went on.

"You got good rifle, Jim?" asked the murderer, and he writhed forward and laid his hand on the stock of Jim's Winchester, pulling at it gently.

"Take your hands off," snapped the white man, and certain now that the Indians had not pluck enough to rush him all together, he whipped out his six-shooter and covered his man.

Instantly the Indian's hand was withdrawn and a change came over the five faces.

The Chilcotens had only calculated upon the rifle, which they could see.

"What for you so mad, Jim?" asked Khelowna. "Indians all time good friends. He not want to take you gun."

"I know, I have plenty very good friends. Six here, the very best," and he glanced at the revolver in his hand.

Then he reached forward in his turn and took back the empty cartridge bag from between the chief's knees, and the silver flask from the ground where the murderer had dropped it.

For a moment he looked at the flask, and then a grin-smile flickered round his mouth, and looking Khelowna squarely in the eyes he said, "I think you go and get me some water," and as the chief hesitated, he tossed up the black muzzle of his revolver and added "Get."

At that moment the roan snorted, and Jim's quick eye noticed that there were only four Indians round him. Whilst he had been playing his game with the old chief, Kineeshaw had slipped from the circle. In a flash the white man was on his feet, and his revolver shot was echoed by a sharp cry of pain.

"Come back," he roared. "Kineeshaw; leave the knife there," and then dropping the muzzle so that it looked Khelowna straight between the eyes, he added, "You next if you move."

"Now get," he said, as Kineeshaw came back. "I want that horse and I want you out of this blanked quick. Hump it. March," and for the second time in a week he drove the five redskins before that deadly little weapon which has done so much in the States towards the equality of man.

CHAPTER XI.

Soda Creek

"You think you heap savvy Indians. You dam fool. I fix you plenty."

As they made for their horses, Kineeshaw shook his bleeding hand at Combe, and that was his last message. He knew that at a hundred yards a revolver was practically useless, and though when Jim picked up the Winchester the five hurried to horse and galloped swiftly away, at the clank of its pump, he almost wished that he had fired.

"As well now as later," he mused, "and it has got to come. It is pretty near a blood fued between us now. If they'd had a gun amongst them I'd have let them have it."

As he tightened the cinches of the roan, it worried him to remember that these five red devils had ridden off in the direction of the Risky Ranch. They meant mischief, of that he felt sure, but after all they were only five, Indians and unarmed, and he had left more than that on the ranch, white, and well armed.

It was his business to go and fetch the doctor. That was what Kitty wanted him to do, so he swung himself into the saddle, and rode steadily east.

Twice that morning he saw Indians, in small bands, but on both occasions he thought that he had been seen before he saw them, and was uncertain of the direction in which they were heading, and once, just before reaching the Fraser, he came across a large camp of Chilcotens, just preparing to move.

To his questions they replied that they were en route to Tatlo Lake, but they struck him as unfriendly, and lying for some set purpose.

If such things had ever happened in B. C. he would have suspected that an Indian rising was on foot, but that was practically impossible, and Jim dismissed the idea as born of fatigue and an empty stomach.

And then he heard the voice of the Fraser, and presently came over grey bluffs to that great river. It is never a pretty river, no, not even in springtime, when the patches of white flowering olali bushes do their best for it. Grand as it is at times, and at Hell's Gate and other places, picturesque, a show for the C.P.R. and a pleasing horror for tourists who ride safely along its precipitous banks in a luxurious Pullman car, its waters are too turbid, and its strangely shaped mud cliffs too weirdly colored with mineral matter, to be more than grotesque and uncanny. At the crossing where Jim struck it, the river was certainly not looking its best. Like the whole country it seemed in evil mood. The river had already felt the first touch of winter; small cakes of ice were thickening its dun-colored waters, grinding against one another, and rendering a crossing a matter of some difficulty.

However, the ferry man made light of it.

"It's all right, sonny, for twenty hours yet, and maybe for a week after that, but it's coming, it's coming sure, and if I was you I wouldn't get on no tear in Sody Creek as'll keep you more'n a week. If you do, you may have to wait there until you can walk across. A week on bug-juice ought to do you, though cow punching does seem to make man powerfully dry."

The ferryman was new to Caribou, and did not know Jim Combe, but he spoke from a long experience in other parts of the North-West, where prohibition had mightily increased the thirst of the people.

"All right, Cap." Everyone is a captain who owns anything bigger than a canoe in Canada. "I'll see to that. You be on hand in an hour's time."

The man laughed good-naturedly.

"Sure," he said, "I will, but you won't be. I never knowed a man yet as didn't calculate to do his business in half an hour, nor one as did it in a day. Seems to me this here metropolis had ought to be called Whiskey Creek 'stead of Sody."

Jim laughed at the old joke. There were many worse towns than Soda Creek, but of course there was whiskey in it.

"Do you know where I can find the doctor?"

"In the bar of the Ideal. Or no, stay! You won't get the doctor there to-day neither. He's away up to Snow Gulch."

Snow Gulch was fifteen miles outside Soda Creek, and Jim fretted at this new delay.

"What is he doing up there?"

"Guess he's gone as one of a reception committee to old man Hayes' place. The old man's got a raise."

"I thought he always was mine manager. Is he owner now? Got the mine for his wages?"

"No, thought that wouldn't make him a bloated millionaire by all accounts. The old man raised himself, sort of informal, with a stick of giant."

"Blown himself up? Is he much hurt?"

"Don't complain any, and I don't know as he ought to. He's only blowed the roof off his head, and that was never any good to him, even for carrying his liquor."

"Do you mean to say he's dead?"

"Dead as a mutton."

"Then why has the doctor gone out?"

"Give that chunk of ice a boost with the pole will you? That's bully," as the great cake slid down the side of the boat with a dull rasping sound. "Well, I don't know, I'm sure, why the doc's gone, 'cept that Sody is slower just now than a funeral. It's nothing here now but bug juice all day, and more bug juice all night, with interludes for crib. Not as a man really tires of bug juice, but it's monotonous even the way as the doc fixes it."

"How does the doctor fix it?" asked Jim, humoring him.

"Wall, the doc, he's got a sort of lay helper, what the gospel sharks back east call a deakin, and they've arranged to make what the doc calls a concession to the conveniences. They does it this way—doc he takes morning watch and the bottle, deakin, he takes the patients. Then doc and the deakin take dog watch together, both drunk for a spell. Then doc comes in for night watch, and in general manages to sober up before any of the boys get around. Drunk or sober, he's better nor the lay helper, so I guess your friend had better hit him a lick in the night watch."

"Cheerful for an invalid," commented Jim, as the ferry touched the bank.

"Oh, it's all right. This country ain't meant for cripples. I'll come along," and the philosopher who had really hit the nail on the head, tied up his boat, and loafed after Jim for his morning eye-opener.

The town (alone among its peers it never aspired to be a city), had once in the good old days of the Caribou excitement, been a place of some importance. Its grass-grown streets worn bare by many feet, but since then it had fallen a prey to stagnation.

The houses were mean and far apart, and except for stray dogs, and one or two melancholy looking horses tied to a rail, there was no outward visible sign of life.

As the horses were tied in front of the Ideal, Jim followed the ferryman's advice, and made his way into that high-sounding hostelry, a wooden building apparently of two stories, though its appearance was as deceptive as its name. Closer inspection revealed the fact that its top storey was a "bluff," being only a board extension of the front with nothing but the free air behind it.

But if the outside of the Ideal was dull and gloomy, inside the gloom was intensified. A more sordid interior than that of this saloon no man ever saw. A great stove which made a red glow in the middle of the bar room, and raised the temperature to something nearly tropical, was the only apparent apology for any man's coming inside.

The floor, which had not been swept for weeks, was a chaos of dead cigar ends, and a table at which three men sat thumping down their aces in a game of Steamer whist, was foul with kerosene oil, whilst the small windows wore blinds to keep out any ray of sunlight, which might be deluded into entering the place.

A drowsy bar tender leaned on his elbow across the bar, watching the game listlessly, spitting and encouraging the players by turns, and in front of the stove a middle-aged man of immense brawn, sat bunched up, looking wearily into the glow.

Jim, who knew the man's story, wondered what he saw in the fire. A few years ago the loafer had been a steady and prosperous rancher in a small way, but his wife had died in child birth, and since then the Ideal had been his home.

Unless he lived only in his work the Ideal would have to be Jim Combe's home in the future. For lone men with nothing to look forward to there are only two alternatives in the West, work or drink, and Jim knew it. With a shudder he pulled himself together and turned to the bartender, who had begun mechanically to polish up certain solid little tumblers at the advent of a newcomer, whilst the whist players moved restlessly in their chairs, ready to "line up" to the bar at the first sound of those magic words, "What shall it be, gentlemen?" But Jim did not utter them, and the hope died out in their face. Instead, he asked civilly where the doctor was.

"Gone to a buryin'," the bar man replied. "It's all deadheads to-day," he added with a sneer, which invited the approval of the disappointed whist players.

CRIPPLED BY RHEUMATISM AND KIDNEY TROUBLE 10 YEARS!

RANDOLPH, MASS., May 15, 1911.

"I suffered from Rheumatism for the last ten years, and at the suggestion of a friend I decided to try your No. 7 Tablets. Before I had taken one dozen I could notice a change—and as I always had a bad pain across my kidneys I found to my great delight the pain was gone by the time I had finished the first box. I used several boxes, and my Rheumatism gradually left me. I gave a box to a friend to try, and he is getting well very fast. No. 7 is a Great Remedy, and was the only thing that would help me. However, before using it I had tried everything I ever heard of, besides several good doctors, and all without success. I hope every sufferer will read of my cure, and try No. 7 if they want quick and sure relief."

MY LADY'S COLUMN.

TO LAUNDER WOMEN SUITS

Hints on Washing to Bring Out that "Just Like New" Appearance.

A young woman who has had exceptional success in laundering linen suits this summer says that one factor in achieving the 'just like new' appearance is to avoid wringing or twisting the garments before hanging them out to dry. If you wring a linen suit the material gets pulled awry, and the garment needs considerable manipulation to put it back in shape. Of course, if it has been badly cut to begin with, the first laundering is apt to prove fatal to the 'hang' of it.

For washing linen suits, the best quality of soap should be used, made into a lather with soft water, but not rubbed directly on the linen unless it is very much soiled. Usually soaking the garments in warm soapy water for an hour or so will leave them in a condition to be cleaned without much rubbing. Colored linens should not be soaked more than a few minutes before washing, and no soap should be rubbed on them. Rinse all linens in several waters, then put them through the stiffening water. Some stiffening is necessary to give the linen the appearance of freshness which it has when it is new. On the other hand the greatest care should be taken not to have too much stiffening. There is wanted just enough to give the linen body and yet not take away from its suppleness.

To free from the water, fold the garment and press it between the rollers of a wringer, or fold and place it in a sheet and twist the sheet from each end. It requires two persons to do this.

Partially dry the garments out of doors in the air, but do not hang colored linens where the sun will shine on them. Iron before the linen has become quite dry.

PRETTY FUR SCARF

It does not make any difference whether muffs, scarfs and coats, this season are of plain coon, muskrat or skunk. Costly furs will still hold their own, but the woman who cannot wear these on account of their high price, may be assured that she is just as well dressed with a scarf of wolf, coon or black martin around her neck and carrying a muff to match.

Every Husband Knows.

According to a recent issue of Life there are a few facts that every husband knows. First:

That it isn't safe for him to invite any old friend home to dinner without arranging for the privilege a week or so ahead.

That it is wonderful how even the simplest gown has advanced in price, compared with what it was last year.

That the day is coming when he will rise up in his might and assert himself, not suddenly and undignifiedly, but calmly and permanently.

That the household expenses could easily be cut in half if he only had the time to put his gigantic intellect and business experience upon them.

That one and one make four or five.

That there is always one room in the house that simply cannot wait any longer to be decorated.

That the 'little affair" to which a "few friends" are to be invited means in the end about two weeks' hard work, a house full of people, and an expenditure of hundreds.

That his own ideas about disciplining children are always too radical to be carried out.

That everybody works father.

Young Children's Teeth

"When a child has cut all his first teeth and has reached the age of two years, or thereabouts, it is time to begin using a tooth-brush and a very simple powder," says "Health." "The cleansing of the teeth should be very carefully superintended. The brush should be soft and small, and as soon as possible the child should be taught exactly how to use it. The brush should be worked up and down and not crosswise, except very gently."

"When cavities occur in the first teeth they should be filled by a dentist, in order that they may be kept until the second teeth are quite ready to take their place. If the temporary tooth is allowed to decay until the pulp is exposed, great pain is caused and abscesses under the tooth cause a flow of pus into the mouth, which secretion is extremely unhealthy. Have the little one's teeth filled while the cavities are small and spare it future suffering."

A group of Chicago women propose to open a departmental store to try and reduce the cost of living.

A Result Worthy of Consideration

Endowment Policy No. 34022 was issued to a local citizen twenty years ago for which he paid in ten annual instalments to the Company in all premiums, amounting to $688.50. BIFOCALS on —
DOUBLE VISION GLASSES

Most people think, when buying Bifocal Glasses, that a large segment or reading area is required. With very few exceptions this is not so, as most bifocals are required for constant use, and the successful fitting of these lenses depends not so much on furnishing the largest reading portion possible, but on placing a minimum disk or wafer in exactly the correct position. A small wafer accurately placed will afford ample field for reading, writing and sewing, and will overcome the tendency to make mis-steps in going up and down stairs, an experience not uncommon to wearers of bifocals with too large reading segments.

We make a specialty of filling Bifocal Lenses in VISIBLE, SEMI-INVISIBLE and INVISIBLE.

WOULD DEBAR PRESS REPORTERS

Silly Suggestion From One of the City Fathers

Would debar

"Will the reporters be asked to discontinue attending city council meetings?

It was learned from a reliable source to-day, that one of the aldermen had made a suggestion that the reporters be debarred from attending council meetings, and that they secure their reports of the sessions off the clerk's minute book.

Another alderman was asked to-day by a Review reporter if such was to be introduced, but he replied negatively, nothing of that nature having come to his ears, he said.

"The reporters are very good," he remarked, "in withholding discussions in the council which are not ready for publication, and whenever requested, invariably comply with the wishes of the council."

Should Know Better

SOLDIER BOYS HAD GOOD TIME

Good Program at First Concert In Recreation Rooms

A very successful concert was held in the recreation rooms of the armories last night, and a large number of members and officers was present. The different numbers were loudly applauded. The following was the program, with Quartermaster Sergt. Edwards as chairman:

Instrumental solo—Mr. Renshaw.
Song—Mr. Dudley.
Recitation—Mr. John
Comic song—Mr. Renshaw.
Comic song—Mr. M. Palmer.
Comic song—Messrs. Huycke and Pollard.
Reading—Mr. J John.
Song—Mr. A. Johnston.

Lieut.-Col. Clegg gave an address, complimenting the committee and those taking part for the splendid program, the success of which was largely due to the good work of Quartermaster-Sergt. Edwards, and committee, and also to Caretaker Sergt. Methegal, who did a lot of "hustling." There will be a weekly concert, held every Tuesday night this winter, and every two weeks will be open for ladies. The first of the latter series commences next Tuesday night.

OBITUARY

The Late W. J. Martin

Peterborough suffered another loss last night about ten o'clock, when Mr. William James Martin, a lifelong resident, passed away after a very short illness. The late Mr. Martin, who was a contractor and carpenter by occupation, was seized with a weak spell at his work on Aylmer street, Monday, but was able to walk to his home at 253 Dalhousie street. His condition became worse and a hemorrhage hastened the end. He was conscious to the last. The deceased had always enjoyed the best of health, but he had no doubt over-exerted himself, being, as he was, in his 72nd year. He was one of the oldest members and a Past Master of Peterborough Masonic Lodge.

Forty-eight years ago he married Eliza Steele Jeffry, who, with a family of seven children survives. The family is,—Agnes, at home; George H., of Los Angeles; Clara T., at home; Robert J., city; Albert, of "The News" Toronto; Eliza Ida and Wm. J., at home.

In the course of his work Mr. Martin deservedly gained the respect and confidence of the whole community. He was of the very highest type of workman, conscientious and ever reliable. His work was always well done and reflected the industry and thoroughness of the man in every particular. Scattered all over the city are buildings he erected that will stand in security and usefulness until they are torn down. In the palmy days of the lumber business when mills were being erected, his advice and assistance was ever in demand.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from the late residence to the Little Lake cemetery. Service at the house at two o'clock.

IMMENSE NEW GAS WELL AT BOW ISLAND

Daily Production of New Well 5,000,000 Cubic Feet

Widespread interest is being manifested in the opening of another new news well, at Bow Island, which is producing natural gas at the rate of 5,000,000 cubic feet every 24 hours. Attention was first attracted to Bow Island when the gas well, known as "Old Glory," was discovered. At the time of its discovery, 'Old Glory," with its daily production of 8,565,000 cubic feet of gas, was the largest natural gas well on the American continent. But in addition to "Old Glory," Bow Island has four other gas wells, one of which is producing 28,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

The opening of this new gas well gives Bow Island a daily production of 61,365,000 cubic feet of gas every 24 hours and the distinction of being the world's greatest natural gas field.

The Canadian Western Natural Gas Co., which controls the Bow Island natural gas field, and in which the Canadian Pacific Railway is understood to be interested, is to supply natural gas to Calgary, and the work of piping the gas from Bow Island to Calgary is now under way.

In its enormous supply of natural gas, Bow Island, with its practically unlimited supply of cheap fuel, will be able to offer unusual inducements to manufacture and it is generally conceded that Bow Island will become an important manufacturing centre. The town, although less than two years' old, already has a population of 400, and presents to the eye of the visitor a scene of remarkable activity and development.

The Grand Falls Land Co., Limited, with head offices in Winnipeg, Man., controls a part of the town site of Bow Island, and has appointed George Ruth & Co., 395 Water street, Peterborough, as its exclusive Peterborough representative for the sale of Bow Island lots. Complete information as to the World's Greatest Natural Gas Field, and the opportunities for profitable investment in Bow Island may be had by calling upon or writing George Ruth & Co., at Peterborough, or the Grand Pacific Land Co., Limited, at Winnipeg.

SENATE FOR MR. KENDRY

Council Discussed suggestion of Dominion Member

Board of Works Deputation With County Council

For the position of Senator at Ottawa, Mr James Kendry's name was discussed at the meeting of the committee of the whole council last evening, following a suggestion by letter from Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P.

A resolution advocating the proposal will be voted upon at the next council meeting. A meeting to further discuss the matter is called for in the office of R. Ruddy, K.C., on Thursday evening.

It seemed to be the general opinion of the committee that the move would be a good one.

The principal reason for last night's meeting was to consider a letter from Mr. J. H. Burnham in which he advised the city council to go to Ottawa with the deputation from the county council on Thursday re the construction of a bridge at Pigeon Creek. The matter of deepening the Trent Canal to 8 ft. 4 in. could also be taken up.

Mr Burnham also notified the committee that he had asked ten M.P.'s to be present with the deputation, should they decide to come, when the interview with the Minister took place.

DEPUTATION WILL GO.

The mayor informed the meeting that the council had not received an invitation from the county council to join them in their proposed interview with the Minister regarding the construction of a bridge, so that they could take no action. A deputation from the Board of Works, however, will arrange to go to Ottawa with the County Council to take part with the county councillors along any lines in which the interests of the city are concerned.

TO DEEPEN TRENT CANAL.

The deepening of the Trent Canal came in for considerable discussion, and Mr Burnham's letter was taken up at some length. It was felt that the matter was one of such consequence that it required a deputation composed of representatives of all places along the route of the canal, and whenever such a deputation can be gathered together they will interview the government. Mr. Burnham was phoned to that effect last night.

CHAMBERLAIN STREET.

Mr Fuller waited on the committee requesting some action in regard to remedying the condition of the road at the west end of Chamberlain street. In wet weather the rain floods and lies on it to a considerable depth. He suggested the filling it in with earth. The Board of Works will take the matter up.

RIVER WATER GOOD.

A very thorough report on the results of an examination of the water in the river by the M.H.O. was read at the meeting. The introduction into it of a number of scientific terms had the committee puzzled for a while. The report was generally favorable, save in two or three localities, where it was tested and reported to be suspicious.

The city commissioners will be asked for an acre of land near the Isolation Hospital on which to erect a shack for the storing of the smallpox furniture and fixtures.

All the members of the council were present.

ONE METHOD OF BOOSTING

Samples of the Spirit Shown by Western Business Men

The Review has received from Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., who is on an extended business trip to the west, the front page of an issue of the Calgary Albertan, which contains an article relative to a ten day campaign in that city to raise $100,000, as an industrial fund for publicity purposes, the same to be spent in the next three or four years. A committee with a Chicago expert at its head is busily at work and the business men of the city are co-operating in a manner that will doubtless bring success to the scheme.

Already subscriptions of $5,000 and other amounts have been received. The president of the Board of Trade subscribed $1500.

A statement which is characteristic of the western business men is published as follows;—"I have made all my money in this city," declared Mr. Devenish, "and feel I owe it to the city to help along its industrial development."

A striking cartoon illustrating the idea of the scheme, also appears on the page.

LAND SHOWS.

In another column appears the particulars of a record sale at a Land Show, made in one night, when one firm sold property to the amount of $186,595. Between 6000 and 7000 people were present on that particular night.

SERIOUS CHARGE IN COUNTY COURT

Has Arisen Out of Sale of Farm Stock

A rather serious charge was heard in county police court this morning against an elderly man named John West, who has been residing in the vicinity of Crawford's Grove. Briefly stated, it is alleged that the prisoner, who was arrested last night by Constables George Cochrane and Archie Moore purchased stock consisting of two horses and a colt, and two cows, from Mr. John Watt, a young man engaged in the cattle business. West, it is said, gave a lien note for the full amount of the purchase, $650, the same note being produced in court. While under obligation of payment to Mr. Watt for the total amount, West is alleged to have sold the cattle and horses, the former to Mr Mervin, the butcher, and the latter to the late R. H. Leary, both gentlemen being unaware of the nature of the transaction alleged to have been conducted by Mr. West.

G. N. Gordon, who is acting for Mr. Watt, related his knowledge of the affair, telling of his trip yesterday, accompanied by his client, to Crawford's Grove, the residence of the accused, who was living with a family by the name of Millan.

The prisoner so far, has refused to state what was paid to him by the men to whom he is alleged to have sold the cattle and horses.

Mr. Watt testified to selling the stock, which were of thoroughbred pedigree.

The prisoner is fairly well known in the city, having resided here for some time. He is an old soldier, and is very respectable and intelligent in demeanor and conversation, and about sixty years of age.

F. D. Kerr is acting for him, and made no election. The prisoner was committed for trial by Magistrate Edmison and his case will likely be heard in December.

THE MESSAGE OF THE FLOWERS

They Mean Much to the Traveller and the Station Agent in the Far West as Well as East

What might be called a flower chaplet crowns the heights and beautifies the valleys of the great trans-continental railway from the Pacific to the Atlantic sea coast. It is an astonishing thing when you come to consider it, that a big corporation engaged in the supposedly hard-headed business of making steel spans for a nation should consider so apparently small a thing as "a flower," but each year the Canadian Pacific Railway sends out thousands upon thousands of packets of flower seeds, bulbs as well, and offers, in addition, prizes varying from five to twenty-five dollars for the best results by their employees.

During the past year 125,000 packets of seeds were distributed and half a million bulbs sent out to almost every station along the company's lines. Much enthusiasm amongst the agents and very much pleasure expressed by travellers crossing the continent has been the result. The keenest competition is shown in the pleasant occupation of garden making and prize winning; agents, locomotive firemen and also section hands, whose wives and daughters aid materially in bringing to perfection those tiny gardens which have become so strong a feature of the company's work.

This year the big prize winners hail from Woodstock, N.B., Sherbrooke, Que., Rossport, Ontario and Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, while from far away Agassiz, in B.C., the wife of a station agent (herself the mother of thirteen children) bore off the grand prize for a garden which has attracted the notice and admiration of nobility itself passing through the Rocky Mountain scenic section of the Wonderway.

The correspondence files of the Floral Department make interesting reading matter, for here you get the "human documents" which touch the heart. "Please send me a few more packets of seeds this year," writes one of the toilers of the great highway. "We all take great pleasure in the little patch of blooms which remind us so much of the old home."

Within a month indeed a very high official of the road wrote the Floral Department: "Apart from anything else you have accomplished in other ways, your unremitting labors in the Floral Department, have, I may say without fear of exaggeration, had a wonderful tendency for good on the morals of our employees."

"Twenty-five dollars for a flower." Why not, if its influence is to uplift the mind of the garden-maker—if it cheers the eye of the passer-by—and may not the planting of a little flower be considered a great thing in itself if it brings a supposedly hard-headed corporation to the realization that a department of Flowers is an essential to business life?

SPOKE TO MINISTERS AND THEIR WIVES

The ministers of the city and their wives enjoyed a scholarly lecture at the Y.M.C.A. parlors last night by the Rev. S. Harper Gray, B.D., of Old St. Andrew's church, Toronto, who spoke on the subject of "The Method of Art," dealing particularly with literary art and using illustrations by reference to Shakespeare's King Lear. The ladies served refreshments and Rev. J. R. Webb, president of the Ministerial Association, occupied the chair.

DE PACHMANN
The great Russian Pianist, expresses admiration for the New Scale Williams Piano

November, 1911
The Williams Piano Co., Limited,
Oshawa, Ontario.

Gentlemen:—
As Rubenstein once said when asked to designate the three most important qualities in a piano, "The first," he replied, "is tone, the second is tone, and the third is tone," and in the New Scale Williams Piano you have given the public a piano that fulfills its ideals.
After using your instruments at all my recitals in Canada on my farewell tour, and giving them a thorough trial, I do not hesitate to pronounce the New Scale Williams a beautiful piano.
Sincerely yours,
V. DE PACHMANN

FIRE BROKE OUT IN TOP STOREY

Was Used as Workshop by Mr. H. Baker

The fire department received a call at 9.15 o'clock last night to the home of Mr. Henry Baker, 576 Charlotte street. Mr. Baker owns the house which is a splendid two and a half storey solid brick building. He had the top storey fixed up as a work shop and last night as usual, he had been working for a couple of hours, and had left the room but a short time, when the neighbors discovered the house on fire in the neighborhood of the top floor. Chief Thompson, who lives near by sent in a telephone call to the fire station, and when the fire department arrived, there was considerable fire and smoke emerging from the top storey windows, and for a time, the situation looked critical. Quick work by the firemen, however, resulted in the control of the fire, without the use of water, the small chemical fire extinguishers, playing the important part.

The real need of a chemical engine is more apparent every day. The Chief has brought this matter to the attention of the committee, in his report on several occasions, but the members of the Fire, Water and Light committee, have never as yet felt as though they were warranted in recommending such a large expenditure of money.

When the council were in Ottawa the other day, Ald. Morgan introduced Fire Chief Graham of that city to the members of the Peterborough Fire, Water and Light committee, and Chief Graham gave them a joy ride in one of the new chemical engines which Ottawa has purchased within the last month.

This important quetion may be reopened and definite action taken for the purchase of an engine.

SOME INCONSISTENCIES

To The Editor of The Review.

Sir—Friday your reciprocity contemporary appealed to young girls to forward their names and addresses to the police. On Saturday the police are of no use but to catch boys and drunks. On the lighting question; awhile ago the city was in darkness, but now under the same conditions, it is the best city in the world. There is not much light my way.

W. A. BAILEY

MR HALL AND THE WORKER

To The Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir,—No doubt you have often heard the expression "it would make a horse laugh" when something very ridiculous has been said or done. I would suggest that all the horses in Peterborough be gathered on the market square and Mr. Hall be requested to address them and repeat some of the speeches he has made and shed some of his crocodile tears over the hardships of the working men. If there is such a thing as making a horse laugh, then we will have such a chorus of laughter as will be heard for miles. Notwithstanding all Mr. Hall's bluff and bluster I challenge him to mention one kind act he ever did a working man. I understand he has $10,000 to spend in this election, and if so, I think it would show a better Christian spirit for him to retire from this contest, where he has not the ghost of a chance for election and hand over the $10,000 to be distributed among some of the poor people who have lost their all, in purchasing stock in some of the companies he has floated. Will Mr. Hall kindly inform the electors how much stock has been sold in the following companies, viz; The Peterborough Underwear Co., The Colonial Weaving Co., The Cordage Co., The Shovel Factory, The Rapid Tool Co., and The Big Bend Lumber Co. I am told there has been over a million dollars stock sold in connection with the above companies and that he and those employed by him are the only people who have made any qmney.

Y.M.C.A. CAMPAIGN NOTES

Where is the best place for a young man to spend his spare hours? Here is how a former Peterborough young man answered the question. A few years ago he came to Peterborough a country boy without knowledge of town ways, without friends, but with lots of courage and a great big determination to make good. He avoided the pitfalls that cause so many of our young men to lose their ambition And a few years later, only three years later, he was sent on to the road as a traveller by the company that employed him at a salary that the most of us would covet.

There were a dozen young men in the concern just as good, apparently. Now, why did they choose this young fellow above them all. The manager had had his eye on all these fellows. One, the successful one, had spent his spare hours improving himself mentally, physically and spiritually at the Y.M.C.A The others were found more frequently in the moving picture shows or on the streets.

Abe Lincoln once said; "I will study and get ready and perhaps some day my chance will come." This young man got ready by making use of the Y.M.C.A. His chance came and he was fitted for it.

"The Peterborough Y.M.C.A. has had a lot to do with my success," said he to his friends when he left town. On his visits here he never forgets his old friends at the Y.

There are young fellows working in the campaign now on who are preparing themselves for bigger things by making use of the Y's privileges. They consider their $5 membership their best investment. They want other young men to benefit likewise. Hence they are going to get 169 new members by Nov. 30th.

The Y needs new members. There are about 2000 fellows in Peterborough who need the Y, even more than the Y needs them. The boys are trying to get some of these fellows to join a partnership that will be mutually advantageous. They are telling their friends that if they won't believe them just to ask any good business man in town whether he doesn't consider the Y a good place or not

Funeral at Port Hope

A number of Peterborough people attended the funeral at Port Hope yesterday of the late John Richards, the remains having been brought from Vancouver, B.C. Mr. Charles Dummitt was one of the pall bearers.

ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY MET

"How the lunar surface became rough" was the topic at the meeting of the local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society held last night in the Collegiate. President H. O. Fiske was in the chair, and H. Pearson, of Antrim street and Jas. Frowde were received into full membership. The name of F. O. Greber was proposed for membership, by Mr. Segar, and seconded by Thomas Elliott.

The reports of the observations showed considerable diligence among the members, and the president brought to the notice of the society of the society the fact that mars will be nearest to the earth on the 29th day of this month. This will not occur again for some years.

In the course of his lecture Dr. Marsh explained the rough surface of the earth by the shrinkage of the surface, the buckling up of the outer crust, and the oozing forth of molten matter, forming mountains. It was also probably caused by pressure from the interior, making fissures, and causing volcanoes, which are now extinct.

Dr. Marsh also drew the attention of the society to the physical features of the earth, pointing out the mountains with cones, and the hollow mountains with smaller craters.

His address was distinctly interesting.

Are you going to see "Aunt Mary" grow young at the Opera House To-night? Lots of laughs. Don't miss it.

A WONDERFUL HOTEL

In keeping with the general surroundings of the Chateau Laurier, the new $2,000,000 hotel, constructed by the Grand Trunk Railway system at Ottawa, the pictures for the bedrooms have been purchased and consist of some of the best reproductions of famous masterpieces from the London, Paris, and Berlin galleries. They will be framed in moulding that will harmonize with the fittings of the several floors, including Louis XV, Louis XVI and Colonial styles. Care and great taste has been used in the selection of the pictures so that they will add to the cheerfulness of this magnificent hotel.

LAID TO REST

The funeral of the late Archie H. Seymour was held from Oshawa yesterday morning to the Prince Albert cemetery in Port Perry, when a large number of former friends assembled to pay their final respects to the departed. That his popularity was widespread and his premature demise deeply regretted was plainly evidenced by the numerous beautiful floral tributes laid on the casket. Included among them were wreaths and designs from the following: Prudential Insurance Company, Mrs. Hagan, Mr. and Mrs. Fursey, Miss Wesley and Miss Cann, J. I. Allen and E. J. McIver (jointly), of the Prudential company.

The funeral was under the Knights of Pythias direction, the casket bearers being all members of that fraternal society. An impressive service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Greatrix, of Oshawa. Besides the sorrowing survivors, there were present from Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. R. McGill Hood, Miss Jennie Browne, Mr. Robert Browne and Mr. Charles Seymour.

KETCHECUMS HAD TAG DAY

Children's Aid Society Receives Donation of $10 From Club

The Children's Aid Society has received a donation of $10 on behalf of the Ketchecum Hunt Club from Mr. Archie Jackson, and thereby hangs a tale.

It was tag day with the Ketchecums on November 11th, as well as for the citizens of Peterborough and while the fair workers were hustling in the city the hunters were listening to what is said to be a touching appeal from Chef Jackson, whose oratorical contribution melted his audience for a matter of $10. This isn't exactly how the members of the party report the "gathering," but is near enough.

The society wishes to acknowledge the donation so kindly given

ON THE STEELS AND TOBOGGAN

Peterborough young people will be enabled this winter to disport themselves at the skating rink and toboggan slide at Jackson Park, as they have in previous winters. Mr. J. H. Munro, manager of the Radial Railway company, intends to proceed just as soon as weather is favorable to put the rink in good shape and get the toboggan slide in working shape. It is moreover his intention to direct Mr. Swantson, who will again be in charge of the slide, to extend the slide, by clearing away some of the small scrub near the terminal of the run. This feature will be greatly appreciated by the young people.

A restaurant proprietor has been negotiating to open up a stand at the park this winter, and although permission has been granted to him, he has not yet notified Mr. Munro definitely regarding the proposal.

ITINERARY OF SCOTTISH CURLERS IS ANNOUNCED

Will Come for Visit to Peterborough Curling Club on January 22.

Montreal, Nov. 22— Starting on January the second, at Halifax and finishing with the Winnipeg Bonspiel for which they will arrive in the Western Metropolis on February the eighth, the Scottish curlers, who will visit the Dominion this year are going to put in six weeks of sightseeing and curling, which will surely beat anything of its kind which has ever been attempted previously.

The itinerary of the trip has at last been adopted and passed. It provided for visits to thirteen cities in all, eleven Canadian and two in the United States, and arranges for stays of one week in Montreal and Toronto and for a practically unlimited visit to Winnipeg to finish with, which will take in the big Winnipeg bonspiel, when curlers from all over the West from both side of the border will compete.

The trip planned brings the visiting besom experts to this city between January tenth and sixteenth. This means that the visitors will be here while the Gordon Medal play is going on. The Gordon Medal matches are to be played in Montreal this year and rinks from Boston, Schenectady, Utica and other curling centres in New York and Massachusetts will be on hand. The object is to provide as varied entertainment for the visitors as is possible.

The full program of the tour, as announced by Dr. J. T. Finnie, president of the local branch is as follows—

January 2nd, at Halifax.
January, 5 to 6, St. John.
January, 7 to 9, Quebec.
January 10 to 16, Montreal.
January 17 to 19, Ottawa.
January 20 to 21, Kingston.
January 22, Peterborough.
January 23 to 29, Toronto.
January 29 to 31, Hamilton.
February 1 and 2, London.
February 3 and 4, Detroit.
February 5 and 6, Chicago.

Arrive in Winnipeg for Bonspiel on February eighth. Final arrangements to be made later.

It is important that every member of the local club attend the meeting to-morrow night in the upstair chambers of the Montreal Bank.

SPORT TALK

The Ottawa College fourteen are being banqueted by the University Athletic Club to-night.

Frank Heffernan will have as partners this season Malan, of Kingston Frontenacs, and Jack Spratt, the Lindsay boy, who was the sensational rover of the St. Michael's senior seven.

The West Ends and T.A.S. are the only clubs to come forward with any definite action in regard to senior city league. Lakefield is said to have a team. Whether it will materialize is another question.

Although Herb McMillan recently stated he was through with life on the rails, he has taken a route on the Toronto North Bay run for the G.T.R. and will not be a candidate for the line of the local intermediates.

Lindsay has the intermediate team "bug." Spugogville sports no doubt would dearly love to resurrect a team to face Peterborough again as in the days of yore.

Ty Cobb, the phenomenal gardener of the Detroit Tigers, appears in Toronto during December in the "College Widow." Ty, besides being a ball player, can do a turn before the footlights.

The Church Hockey League did not do much business last night, owing to the non-appearance of representatives from the Methodist denomination. Another meeting is called for next Tuesday night, when it is hoped all interested will be present.

All those who intend making the trip to Toronto for the Dominion rugby finals, between Argonauts and Varsity, are asked to register at their earliest convenience at the C.P.R. ticket office.

EXIT JARRY

To The Central for Five Months—Was Cocaine Fiend

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Albert Jarry, whose display of wealth through his signing of worthless cheques appealed to the eye and heart of a Richmond street girl, which ultimately developed into a marriage ceremony, was sentenced to five months in the Central Prison by Magistrate Denison yesterday. Jarry was arrested at Webbwood, charged with stealing an overcoat from a roomer in the house of the girl whom he married after purchasing houses, automobiles and jewelry by writing cheques upon an imaginary account in a local bnk. His actions were brought about principally by cocaine, to which he was addicted.

Cholera Is Waning.

Chiasso, Switzerland, Nov. 22.—According to the report of the Italian Government there were 113 cases of cholera and 55 deaths in Italy from Nov. 5 to Nov. 11 inclusive. There were no cases in Rome. The epidemic is diminishing.

IMPERIAL WIRELESS POST

An early announcement may be expected that negotiations have been concluded between the British Post Office and Marconi Company for the erection of a chain of wireless telegraph stations around the world linking up the British dominions, and giving Great Britain an independent system of telegraphic communication with any part of the globe. Connection with the Western Hemisphere will be affected by means of a station already existing at Glace Bay, and it is proposed to establish another station at Montreal to communicate direct with the West Indies, where all the Islands will be connected by short-distance stations. From Glace Bay it will be possible to communicate direct with Vancouver, where a large power station is to be established which will provide direct communication with Hong Kong.

A FOOTBALLER, BRAINY, HUSKY AND FAST

Frederick Conklin leads Michigan eleven. Conklin made a name for himself last year, playing through the schedule with his hand in splints suffering from a broken finger, which did not interfere with his effectiveness.

Conklin is a husky, tipping the scale at 187 and standing close to six feet. He is a brainy player, and remarkably fast for so large a man. He captained his high school team at Schoolcraft, Mich.

Capt. Conklin is a senior medic and the first blond leader the Wolverines have had in years. He will doubtless play left tackle, the position he filled on last year's eleven.

THE HEAVY HITTERS

Batting Is the Ball Players Chief Asset and Heavy Sluggers the Heroes.

The most spectacular feature of a baseball contest is the batting and correspondingly the most showy talent of the individual player is his work with the stick. Some really great players have been poor batters, but a glance through the list reveals the fact that almost all the real stars of the game have been heavy hitters.

Of the individual members in the team it is generally the pitcher who gathers in the largest number of laurels of any individual member of a team. He has more of an opportunity to distinguish himself, individually, than any other member of the team, and is censured or praised in accordance with his work. His place on the team is held only by his pitching ability; his stick work is not considered if he is a great twirler. With other infield positions, however, it is slightly different. A player must not only have the ability to cover his position with credit, but must have a batting eye as well. Both qualities come in for an equal share of consideration.

AUTO SPEED HAZARDS

That automobile track racing is hazardous sport as compared with reliability tours is shown by the tragedy recently at Syracuse, when Lee Oldfield, driving a high-speed racing car, crashed into the fence, killing nine persons and injuring many others.

Oldfield will be remembered as the driver of the pilot car in the Munsey Historic Tour last year. This tour, which was the biggest automobile event of the year in the East, was run without a single accident. Tommy Skeggs, Lewis Strang, and Walter Donnelly, three men who drove cars in the Munsey tour, have since met violent deaths while driving racing cars, and Oldfield's accident may cripple him for life.

That the American Automobile Association will put a ban on automobile racing on dirt tracks, is expected by many followers of the game, says Harry Ward in the Washington Times. The tragedy has stirred up in the minds of the public a feeling of antipathy to this form of sport, and if the automobile makers who support racing and the association that makes and enforces the rules do not do something to stop the slaughter of drivers and spectators the Legislatures may take a hand in the matter.

It is known that almost a majority of the automobile makers are opposed to these dirt track events because the results do not prove anything. Track racing on mile and half mile courses formerly used for horse racing has not ranked high in the estimation of the public during the last year or two. There have been too many flukes and fiascos in connection with them, to say nothing of the loss of life, and it is probable that automobile racing may be restricted to the big road events and to the speedways, where the public may be given protection.

Dr. Theodore Lessing, one of the most distinguished scientists of Germany, declares that man's desire to make noises is inborn, can never be eradicated, and is as natural in him as breathing. In this case as in so many others, man, of course, embraces woman too.

GETS TEN YEARS.

Edward Wilkie Is Sentenced for Manslaughter.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Edward Wilkie, convicted of manslaughter at the criminal assize court yesterday afternoon, was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. It will be remembered that Wilkie beat his wife to death at their home on Claremont street on August 14 last.

In sentencing Wilkie, his lordship said:

"Edward Wilkie, you have been convicted by twelve of your countrymen, and upon perfectly satisfactory evidence, of the crime of manslaughter. The jury would have been quite justified in finding you guilty of murder, but I am glad that they have seen their way to acquit you of the graver offence and find you guilty only of the lower, but still heinous crime. It remains now for me to award your punishment.

"This is another added to the long and hideous list of victories of which King Alcohol can boast — a woman dead by her husband's hand, a man behind prison bars, children motherless and worse than fatherless. Such cases as yours might almost cause those who see no harm in the sale and use of intoxicating liquors to be willing to be themselves deprived of what they consider a legitimate pleasure derived from the use of these liquors in moderation, if only the use which becomes the abuse might be forbidden those who cannot—or will not use them without excess.

"The jury, although almost invited to do so, declined to recommend you to mercy, and I see no reason why great mercy should be shown you. Still I shall not inflict the maximum punishment, hoping that you may reclaim a position among your fellowmen, and knowing that you must go through life with the blood of the wife of your bosom, the mother of your children, upon your hands and upon your soul, in itself no light punishment.

"The sentence of the court is that you be imprisoned in the Kingston Penitentiary for the term of ten years, and that you be then discharged."

ARE YOUR HANDS CHAPPED ?

Zam-buk Will Cure Them

The particular danger of chapped hands and cold cracks (apart altogether from the pain) is that the cold is likely to penetrate and set up inflammation, festering, or blood poison. Directly the skin is broken by a cut, graze, or scratch, or chafed and cracked by the action of the cold winds and water, the one necessary precaution is to apply Zam-Buk freely.

The pure herbal juices from which Zam-Buk is prepared are so perfectly combined and refined, that the immediate effect of these Zam-Buk dressings is soothing, antiseptic, and healing. Pain and inflammation are allayed, disease germs expelled from the wound or sore, and the latter is quickly healed.

Zam-Buk is not only a powerful healer and skin purifier; it is strongly antiseptic and germicidal, and so forms the ideal protection for the skin against disease germs.

It quickly heals cold cracks, chaps chilblains, cold sores, etc.

Mrs. O. O. Phoen, Neuchatel, Alta., writes—"I must tell you how pleased I am with Zam-Buk. My husband an old frost bite on his foot for many years, and had tried almost every known remedy without any effect, but the first application of Zam-Buk seemed to help him so much that he persevered and the sore is now cured. We would not be without Zam-Buk in the house."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for piles, eczema, ulcers, abscesses, scalp sores, blood-poison, bad leg, eruptions, etc. Its purely herbal composition makes it the ideal balm for babies and young children. All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk, 50c box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Try also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. tablet.

The Greatest Man of All

A man who has made a happy home for his wife and children, no matter what he has not done in the way of achieving wealth and honor; if he has done that, he is a grand success. If he has not done that, and it is his own fault, though he be the highest in the land, he is a most pitiable failure.

We wonder how many men in a mad pursuit of gold, which characterizes the age, realize that there is no fortune which can be left to their families as great as the memory of a happy home.

Who is Hansard?

Webster's dictionary says Hansard is an official report of the proceeding of the British parliament, so called from the name of the publishers. In Canada, also, Hansard is the official report of proceedings in parliamentary sessions. When you heard speakers referring to Hansard they had reference to the official report of debates, etc., on the floor of the house.

BANTAM WEIGHT

Knight of England Who Started Wrestling When Fourteen Is Man of Much Promise.

F. W. Knight, the bantam-weight champion of England, started wrestling when about fourteen years old. Six years ago he joined the Hammersmith A.W.C., then run by Ferdinand Gruhn. In 1907 he entered his first championship, and was second to E. Kaiser (Swiss), losing on points after two bouts of 20min. He entered the Swiss G. S. open 8½st., and was second again. The following year he entered the Swiss G.S. open 8½st., and won it, following up with the N.A.W.A. 8½st. championship at the Stadium. This he won against the pick of English bantams, there being 16 stripped to wrestle. In the same year he gained the German G.S. open 8½st., then in 1909 he won the Olympic 9st. open comp., also the Swiss G.S. open 9½st. comp. After that he entered and won the N.A.W.A. 9½st. championship. At Bradford, in 1910, he reached the final with Cockings, who, however, defeated him twice very easily, but the other day he won the N.A.W.A. 8½st. championship, beating W. Trappschuh in the final. In the Olympic Games he was beaten on points by Davis.

GIRL GOLFER IN TEENS SURPRISE OF TOURNEY

A 13-year-old girl was the sensation of the first annual tournament of the Southern Women's Golf association.

Miss Alexa Stirling, of Atlanta, is the phenomenon. She won the low medal score, and went to the semi-finals — defeating several of the best women golfers of the south — and was only vanquished by Mrs. Rogers-Smith, of Nashville, who won the championship.

Besides running away with the low medal score, she went to the winner of the driving contest and the approaching and putting contest.

If the Southern Women's turnament next year doesn't bar players under 21, little Alexa Stirling bide fair to be Dixie's champion.

DONT'S FOR ASPIRING QUARTER-BACKS.

Don't think about getting hurt. You'll get hurt if you do.

Don't think you can make a 50-yard run if you run 10 yards bacb of the line.

Don't think about that girl in the grandstand.

Don't think about what may happen if your kick is blocked.

Don't think you know it all.

Don't let the other players run the game for you.

Don't call a man down for a poor play. Encourage him.

Don't try to pass the ball to a man before you have it yourself. It means a fumble if you do.

Don't make a forward pass with your eyes closed.

QUARTER TIPS WORTH WHILE

Don't advertise that the ball is about to be put in play.

Learn to pass fast and sure.

Get the ball to the runner so he can handle it without losing speed.

Remember fumbles mean lost ground. When tackled hang on like grim death.

Don't fail to cut in sharply on end runs.

The forward pass is a ground gainer — master it.

Use the straight arm freely. Tacklers don't like it.

Catch the ball before you start to run back a punt.

KICKS IN FOOTBALL

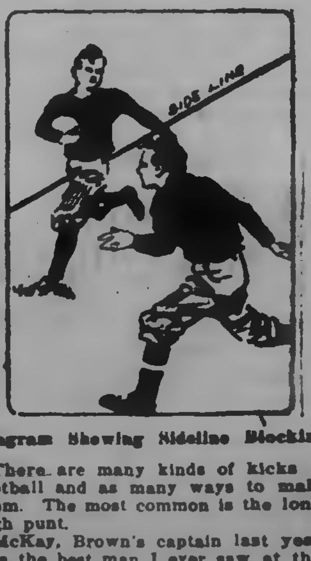

Diagram Showing Sideline Blocking

There are many kinds of kicks in football and as many ways to make them. The most common is the long, high punt.

McKay, Brown's captain last year, was the best man I ever saw at this style says Earl Sparkling of the Brown (United States) University. He held the ball at arm's length and on a level with his head, the ball pointing in at an angle of 30 degrees. He brought his leg up straight to the knee until his foot turned inward at the same angle as the ball. He caught the ball on the side, giving it the spiral twist. His kick continued through until his foot was over his head.

In the east, the long low punt is gaining favor.

Boy Wonder Puts His Dad in the Hospital.

To display his son's ball tossing ability, a Montreal fan organized a baseball team. While pitching in a practice game Aaron, the boy, found his father at bat. His "inshoot" hit dad in the ribs. "Son," groaned the father as they hauled him away to the hospital, "I'm proud of that speed, but—but, please try to improve that control."

MANY MIXED MARRIAGES

Cupid is Undaunted by the Denominational Barrier

Toronto, Nov. 21—The fulminations of the pulpit and the press against mixed marriages and the religious bitterness that has been fomented since the issuance of the Ne Temere decree, do not seem to have appreciably diminished the number of such alliances according to the vital statistics, which have been compiled by the registrar general's department and announced.

On the contrary, the ubiquitous cupid has recked little of denominational barriers and mixed marriages were contracted to an astonishing extent. Out of the total of 7,351 Roman Catholics, no less than 1,509 married out of their denomination. There were 665 Catholic bridegrooms, who married non-Catholics brides, and 844 professed Catholic girls who became the brides of non-Catholic bridegrooms. Of these marriages the larger number were between Catholics and Anglicans, then came Presbyterians, Baptists and Lutherans in order, but rather strangely, no marriages between a Roman Catholic and a member of the Salvation Army, is recorded, while two Roman Catholic married Jewesses, and five Roman Catholic ladies threw in their fate with as many Jews. In addition to this two Jews married Anglicans, two Presbyterians, six Methodists, two Baptists, one a Congregationalist and four persons who are described as being of no denomination. Of the seven Jewesses who married Anglicans and two Roman Catholic husbands.

The beauties of the face are lost is the eye brows are thin and scanty, and the lashes are thing and scanty. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. FRANCE AND SCOTLAND

At One Time the Land of Cakes Had an Alliance with the Land of the Lily.

The Franco-Scottish League, which so long bound the two countries in such intimate association, was first and foremost a political one. But it not only for several centuries made its mark on the political history of France and Scotland. It materially affected their institutions and their culture, and there is no other instance in European history of so close, potent, and long enduring a relationship of one nation to another.

This unique relationship took its rise in the historical complication which at the end of the thirteenth and the beginning of the fourteenth centuries made Scotland and France the enemies of England. But the marriage of Queen Mary to the Dauphin threatened to lead to the union of the crowns, not of England and Scotland, but of Scotland and France. This danger had the effect of drawing Scotland and England together in an opposition League, and coalescing with the growing potency of the Reformation movement, which brought the two countries into line in 1560 on religious as well as political grounds, practically put an end to the old alliance.

French Influence.

Of the influence of French institutions on those of Scotland evidence is also not lacking. Scotland took, for instance, her legal system from France, not from England. Her Parliament was modelled on the French States General, in which the various orders assembled together, rather than on the assembly of Lords and Commons which formed two Houses instead of one. The Court of Session, founded in 1532, was fashioned after the Parliament of Paris, and the pre-Reformation Scottish universities after that of Paris, the greatest of mediaeval scholastic institutions. Not less remarkable is the French influence on her ecclesiastical institutions. From French Protestantism she borrowed her Presbyterian system of church government, and even in its smaller details the French impress is unmistakable. The Moderator of Scotland's ecclesiastical courts — Presbytery, Synod, Assembly — is an importation from France, where it was the designation of the President of an ecclesiastical court; whilst another term, applied to a motion in these courts, an "overture," is derived from the practice of the Parliament of Paris. At an earlier time ecclesiastical as well as baronial architecture affords additional exemplification of the tendency to borrow or adapt from Scotland's old ally.

MISSIONS AND TURKEY

Progress of this Part of Europe Due to Missionary Enterprise.

The first electric telegraph instrument in Turkey was set up by missionaries. They introduced the first sewing-machine, the first printing-press, and the first modern agricultural implements. They brought the tomato and the potato and the other vegetables and fruits that are now staples; they built the first hospitals; they started the first dispensary and the first modern schools. The mighty uplifting force of education came with the mission schools, and is having the tremendous force it has everywhere, in overthrowing old errors and outworn forms of despotism and misrule. The most far-reaching work of the missionaries is educational, which comprehends all races, all religions, and all languages. They are of the different races of which the Turkish Empire is composed, regardless of religious faith — Turks, Arabs, Egyptians, Armenians, Kurds, Persians, Macedonians, Bulgars, Druses, Nestorians, Greeks, Russians, Georgians, Circassians, and others too numerous to mention. Their influence is thus extended to every community, because no student leaves an institution without carrying with him the germs of progress which must affect the family and the neighborhood.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cured

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor, and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular, and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night, and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was reading of a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system, and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again, and all my color, spirits, vigor, and health of former days have returned to stay."

Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone, Co., Kingston, Ont.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

COST OF AMERICA'S DISCOVERY

Less Than $8,000 Was Expended by Columbus on His Great Voyage to this Continent.

This is rather a difficult thing to ascertain, but some deductions have been made and some conclusions arrived at. Professor Rege says that the cost of the first fleet of Columbus was 1,140,000 maravedis. The value of a maravedi was about ⅔ of a cent in modern money. The contribution, therefore, that was made by Queen Isabella was about $7296.00, without taking into consideration the higher purchasing power and money in these days. The city of Palas, Spain, also had to furnish out of its own means two small ships manned for 12 months. The cost to the State, therefore, of the journey of discovery was not more than $7,500.00, about the price of a modern first class automobile. Of this sum the admiral received the sum of $320, the captains $192 each, the pilots $128 each, and a physician $38.50. The sailors received for the necessaries of life each month about $2.45. Not a very expensive trip considering the value of the discovery.

Making Bad Worse

A clergyman was severely reprimanding a man for regularly going to sleep every Sunday afternoon when he (the clergyman) preached.

"Well, sir," said the man. "I don't think it's your sermon sends me to sleep. If you notice, I'm asleep before you start to preach. The fact is, sir, I have been in the habit of taking a nap at about that hour of the day for years, and now I can't get out of it."

"It's a very bad habit," remarked the clergyman, though somewhat mollified at the thought that his preaching wasn't the cause of the man's somnolence; "and, apart from its being very improper behaviour in church I should think it must interfere with your Sunday night's rest."

"No, sir, it doesn't — thanks to you," replied the man.

"Thanks to me! What do you mean?" inquired the astonished clergyman.

"Why, sir, my son is learning shorthand, so, for practice, he always takes down your sermon, and when I am in bed he begins to read it to me and I drops off to sleep in no time!"

The clergyman's feelings can better be imagined than described.

WASH THAT ITCH AWAY

If you druggist told you that you could simply wash away that awful itchy Eczema—yes—that the very first drops of a soothing, cleansing wash would give you instant relief, it would seem to good to be true, wouldn't it?

But it is true, every word. We keep on hand a supply of such a liquid known as the D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema, because we know that this wonderful compound of oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients actually does wash away Eczema and all other skin impurities—that it clears the complexion over night and leaves the skin as healthy and smooth has that of a child.

We could not recommend D.D.D. so positively, unless we knew of the wonderful cures wrought by this remedy. We vouch for the merits of D.D.D. and know positively that it takes away the itch instantly. When your own druggist can give you certain relief from that awful itch, you don't need to suffer another day.

Wash away all your skin troubles with D.D.D. and then keep your skin in perfect condition with D.D.D. Soap. Let us tell you more about this wonderful remedy, or write the D.D.D. Laboratories, Dept. P.W. 49, Colborne street., Toronto, and get their free trial bottle.

IN THE SCIENTIFIC WORLD

LURE OF INVENTION

The Longing to Introduce Something New Affects all Classes and Conditions of Men.

The lure of invention is one that influences all people and spares no class or condition of men. From the clergyman in his study to the convict in his lonely cell, it exerts its attraction, and both are found enrolled among the list of patentees, although not so precisely identified. The stimulus is not always the hope of fee or reward, for we find the millionaire as strongly interested as the very poor. There is something in the attraction that cannot be resisted. Someone has said that writing is like flirting. If you cannot do it, no one can teach you to do it, and if you can do it, no one can keep you from doing it. So it is with invention; no one can teach you to do it, and if you have the divine afflatus, no one can prevent you from exercising it. This is fortunate; for the inventor is subjected many times to discouraging influences in the first instance. Have you ever noticed, however, the pride with which anyone will display an invention even of the simplest character? Surely this is commendable, for we all admire originality, and invention is originality, often of the highest order. While the lure may be regarded apart from the results, we cannot help realising what a poor world this would be except for the beneficent works of the inventors of all times.

WHAT THE ALCHEMISTS SOUGHT

A gramme of radium dispenses energy chiefly in the form of heat at a rate which is about one hundred and twenty gramme-calories per hour; or, to draw a comparison, a given weight of radium radiates the same amount of heat-energy in sixty-five hours as would be given off by the complete combustion of an equal weight of good coal; and, while the latter would be entirely consumed, the capacity of the radium for continued radiation would not be materially lessened, for its exhaustion would only be complete after a period of from seventeen hundred to two thousand years. Thus a minute quantity of radium distributed throughout the earth would cause a rise in temperature of the surrounding rock, and a scientist has expressed his surprise that, from an investigation of the outer layers of the earth's crust, the internal heat is not even greater than it is from this cause.

The experiments of Professor Soddy show that radium is not directly formed from uranium, but that there is probably an intermediate substance formed in the uranium-radium series, with a long period of life which may be ten thousand years. The radium is therefore only one stage of a series of transformations which we have been able to isolate, and it is hard to resist the conclusion that in this series we find to some extent what the alchemists of old were in search of, the transmutation of one element into another, though all of them bear a resemblance sufficiently close to justify their common relationship to a distinct group.

Pure Air and Horses.

The "oldest inhabitant" never remembers a time when the street odour has been less unpleasant than was the case in towns during the recent heat. In the pre-motor days the smell of horse manure was at times quite unbearable, and we therefore have to thank the motor with all its faults, for this improvement. Without it the intense heat we have lately experienced would have been much more terrible. Possibly also there is more oxygen available for human use now that the equine ranks have been so greatly thinned. During the 24 hours a man will vitiate about 1750 cubic feet of air to the extent of 1 per cent. A horse (as, of course, a motor) will do much more than this, so perhaps it is just as well he is gone or going — so far as the streets are concerned.

First Railroad Signalling

It was not until the year 1846 that the present system of signalling was first thought of. Up to that date the pointsman used to have to sit in a hut near the switch for which he was responsible, and, at a given signal, get up and alter it by hand. It is to the laziness of one of these old-time pointsmen that we have to look for the present-day system of signalling. He had to attend to two sets of switches some distance from each other, and in order to save himself the trouble and exertion of walking to and fro between them he fastened the levers together by a long piece of wire. A broken iron chair served as a counter-weight. The wire ran on into his hut, and there he sat nightly and worked the two signals without setting a foot outside. This went on for several months, but one day the old signalman was discovered, severely reprimanded, and afterwards promoted.

Queen Ant and Queen Bee

It is claimed that the queen ant has not had justice done her by naturalists. As compared with the famous queen bee, she is regarded by Dr. W. M. Wheeler as a far more admirable creature. In fact, they are, in many important respects, diametrical opposites. The queen bee is, it is pointed out, a degenerate creature, unable to nourish either herself or her young, to visit flowers, to build combs or to store them with honey. With the queen ant quite the reverse is true. She is held to be a perfect examplar and embodiment of her species, and the worker ant suffers from incomplete and retarded development. The queen ant is a very industrious and intelligent worker, and, in the opinion of the authority mentioned, she forms an exceedingly interesting subject for study, and has not hitherto been well understood.

THE OLDEST NATION

China is the Oldest Live Nation with the Most Homogeneous People.

The age of China is, says a writer so great that the beginnings are lost in the mists of antiquity. It was probably old when Egypt was young. China was China when Abraham went out from Ur of the Chaldees and became the founder of a new nation. Beyond all questions, China is the oldest living nation, and most homogeneous.

The sages, rather than the kings have shaped China. The teachings of Confucius, who lived in the sixth century before Christ, expounded a moral philosophy and a scheme of human government which, roughly speaking, made China. His "five relations" have fixed the social order; these are the relations of ruler and his officials, husband and wife, father and son, elder and younger brother and friend and friend. These account for the formalism and fidelity of social ties in China, and for the complete subordination of the individual. Filial piety is the cardinal virtue. The Emperor, who is the "Son of Heaven," is an absolute autocrat, because the people stand toward him in the relation of children to parent. The system of government is thoroughly patriarchal. Through all storms and stress, this doctrine has held the literati loyal to the throne and has furnished, down to recent days, sublime instances of devotion. Confucius is the Atlas who has borne the "Middle Kingdom" upon his shoulders. And Confucius kept his own face, and the faces of his people turned toward the past. The colossal conservatism of China is directly traceable to the sage's teaching concerning the "good old days" and the rights of the dead.

But Don't Like Cricket.

Football, and the English movements generally, is producing a new type of young man in France. Clean-shaven faces are almost as usual there as amongst us and it is recognized that the one-time popular long blond beard would be dangerous to wear in a rugby "scrum." The few young Frenchmen who twenty years or so ago introduced rugby to Paris, were regarded with something like horror — or, perhaps, pity — by their compatriots. The mud which adorned their "shorts" was a veritable brand of shame. But now rugby is in the van of a movement which is expected to do much for young France and so far as vitality goes, there is quite as much latent force stored up in the young "Froggy" as in the young "Angliche." But in spite of the popularity of games, cricket has never properly 'caught on" in France and is never likely to do so. They will have none — or next to none — of it and English teams in Paris find it hard to get a French team to play against. It is significant that cricket has so far been left out of the programme of the French club in London.

Auto Track Dangers

As pointed out by an authority, spectators must be protected no matter what the cost, and if the automobile sport-governing body does no make the promoters to whom sanctions are issued furnish that protection, then the courts will step in and demand the protection or legislate against track events.

The racing drivers believe that much of the danger and many of the accidents attendant on automobile racing are brought about by inexperienced pilots, and they are seeking to have them divided into classes, so that experienced men may not have to be exposed to the peril of competition with drivers not familiar with racing. The proposition is to divide the professionals into two classes, first class and second class, instead of dividing them into professionals and novices.

What is home without a horse? That is, a gentle horse, one that the boy or girl can harness and drive to town for necessary supplies.

Peerless Peninsular

A DURABLE CAST-IRON RANGE WITH MODERN CONVENIENCES

You don't want to use a range as a step-ladder — not as the ordinary thing — but you do want a strong, well-built range. This picture is given here to show that the oven door — a weak spot in most ranges — is a firm, strong piece of construction in the Peninsular and it is typical of the whole make-up of this durable range.

Some people prefer a cast-iron range but want one or two features usually found only in steel ranges.

is designed for just such people.

It has the perfectly-fitting doors and parts, the firm, substantial body and the cosey, homelike appearance peculiar to cast-iron ranges.

At the same time it has an oven made partly of iron and partly of steel — an oven that will heat quickly and evenly all over.

It has a large oven, two inches deeper than any other range of the same size—just large enough to cook four pies at once.

Low Closet for Pots and Pans

Grates Easy to Remove

It has a drop oven door, which is not usual on a cast-iron range.

It may be had with a hot water reservoir and a steel warming closet with drop door.

The Part You Cannot See

These are all things that you can see—very important things, but not more so than the things you cannot see—the interior construction, which decides whether or not your pies will burn, whether your oven will be perfectly tight so as to keep out dust and smoke, whether it will wear.

These unseen points you can be sure of when you buy a Peninsular range.

Fifty years of building stoves—honest stoves — are behind every range that bears the name "Peninsular." That name says the materials are good — the fine arrangement is good—the oven is built to heat evenly—the range will wear.

There is a Peninsular range to suit every purse and to please every taste in range architecture.

"The Cost"
illustrates some of the more popular lines and explains why Peninsular ranges cost less in the long run than others. Don't buy a range before reading this book. It's free.

NEWSY NOTES FROM OMEMEE

Special Correspondence

Omemee, Nov. 21.—We are pleased to see Mr. George T. Wilson back again after a three months' tour of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. George gives the "land of the setting sun" a great name, and says, "No more of the east for me."

On Thanksgiving day the Omemee Rifle Association held the last of their six prize day competitions. There were thirty riflemen present, and the shooting was good. The first and second prizes were won by men who have not figured in the prize list before, Mr Milton Sherin, score 46, first prize; Mr. Vincent Jones, 43, second, and Mr. Harold Laidley, third, with 41.

The event brings to a close what has proved an exceedingly interesting season's shooting. Besides valuable trophies upwards of one hundred dollars was awarded in prizes. The first prizes were won by the following members: A. C. Hodgetts, T. C. Stephenson, H. Laidley, Sam Grandy, H. Murry and Milton Sherin. The "King's Prize," for the highest aggregate score on four previously appointed days, goes to T. C. Stephenson with a score of 286 points. The next highest score was H. Murray with 227. This trophy is a very valuable one, being a beautiful silver salver bearing the coat of arms of the Dominion of Canada, as well as the name of the winner, and is awarded by the Canadian government once every year to each rifle association, and can not be won twice by any one member. The number of members this year was 46. This should be increased easily to 100. The association wishes to tender its thanks to Mr. R. Ford for the use of the range on his farm. The government engineer, Lieut. Hughes, was here a short time ago, and with the captain of the association went out examining the topography with a view of establishing a permanent range here. He had already been to Peterborough and Lindsay with the same object in view, but the value placed by the farmers on the land and the mineral they evidently thought was underground, was prohibitive.

Mr. Ely Dandey is rushed each week with large shipments of stock.

Mr. and Mrs. George English, of King street, quite recently entertained their son, Thomas, who was home on a visit from Maine.

Messrs. Ira Toole and Vic Mitchell returned from a deer hunt on Friday, each bringing home a fine specimen.

Last week a party of surveyors were at work in town, taking levels, &c., for the proposed electric railway from Port Hope and Peterborough via Omemee to Lindsay. They are making three different surveys through Omemee. Mr. Graham, the foreman, was a guest of the Commercial house, and intimated that a number of teams to haul gravel were required and good wages would be paid.

L.O.L. 113 has secured a troupe of entertainers for their annual concert in the new town hall on Christmas night. Reserve that date.

Messrs W. E. White, of Peterborough, and H. Woodward, of Cannington, were in town Thursday.

Messrs. J. J. Lamb, E. Hayes and R. Williamson were business visitors to Peterborough on Saturday.

On Friday evening Mr. Hugh Murray returned from a deer hunt. He reports a splendid time and his looks endorse the assertion. He secured a fine specimen of the antlered tribe.

We regret to report the somewhat serious illness of Mrs. Barron and Mrs. T. W. McLean and baby. Latest reports of their condition are favorable.

It is expected that the new town hall will be opened some time before or on the 25th of December.

We note that our late townsmen, Rev. J. H. Teney and J. A. Wylie, of Toronto, spent a very pleasant and successful time hunting deer in the Nipissing district.

Mr and Mrs Herbert Blackwell, of Omemee, wish to express their thanks to their neighbors and friends, who did so much for them during the hard work building their barns in the place of those destroyed by fire on August 1st. Their thoughtfulness cannot be responded to individually, but it will be long remembered.

The pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. Robert Burns, preached a special sermon to the young men on Sunday evening. His text was taken from Joshua 1. 8: "Then thou shalt have good success."

The coming of Winter brings thoughts of various clothes needs. Permit us to suggest that it is an excellent plan to make your selection of Shirts, Underwear, Hosiery, Gloves, Mitts, Hats, Caps, &c., for your winter needs now.

JERMYN NEWS

Special Correspondence.

Jermyn, Nov. 21—As the reporter has just got back from his trip, we shall still continue to keep Jermyn news breezy.

Nearly all the farmers were about done ploughing when it froze up. Mr. Hugh Fife was an exception as he was put back on account of the building of his new barn. But we hope that the spring will open out early so as to enable him to do the work before the seeding season sets in.

Another skunk was recently caught by Andy Hall. Farmers should be glad of this, as these animals are liable to steal their chickens at night.

Miss Emma Usher was the guest of Miss Janet Breckenridge last Sunday.

The brick house which still stands idle at Jermyn looks rather lonesome but we hear that a young couple may occupy it after Christmas.

The blacksmith butchered a fine hog which will keep him in pork most of the winter.

People will soon have to get out their cutters, as the snow still continues to come. Although three or four farmers have not got their turnips in yet, that is worse than not having the ploughing done.

Freddie Fife has a great time choring in his new stables. He only wishes, that was all he had to do, as it is far nicer in there than outside this cold stormy weather.

Says Murderer Is Insane.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 22.—A declaration that Bertram G. Spencer, who is on trial for his life, charged with the murder of Miss Martha B. Blackstone, was insane at the time the young school teacher was shot and killed was made late yesterday by Dr. E. S. Lane of Jamaica Plains, an alienist in the employ of the defence.

Canadians May be Sent Home on Furlough

Toronto, Nov. 22.—News of the missionaries in Sz Chawn has at last reached this city. During these weeks of silence a number of the 80 known Canadian missionaries had been making their way slowly towards the coast, and a cable sent from Shanghai yesterday announced their arrival in that city. The rest of the missionaries are expected at any time.

The cable recommends also that most of the missionaries be sent home on furlough. Thus relatives may look forward to having the missionaries home with them in a short time. The cablegram reads as follows: — "The following missionaries have arrived at Shanghai:—Rev. A. C. Hoffman and family, Rev. C. J. P. Jolliffe and family, Rev. W. B. Albertson and family, Rev. J. W. A. Henderson and family, Rev. A. J. Elson and family, Revs T. W. Bateman and family, Rev. R. B. McAmmond and family, Dr. Crawford and family, Rev. G. G. Harris and family. Misses Switzer and Norman. Manitoba Wins Boundary Dispute.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Hon. R. P. Roblin and Hon. Colin Campbell of Manitoba go back to Winnipeg, having settled the vexed question of the provincial boundaries.

Premier Roblin announced yesterday that the agreement arrived at with the Federal Government provided for territorial extension north and east as laid down in the proposal of the late Government.

The financial settlement which the Laurier Government refused to make has been conceded by the Borden Ministry. Manitoba, in respect to the added territory, being placed on exactly the same financial footing as the Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Section Hands Going to War.

London, Ont., Nov. 22.—Large numbers of Italians from all over the district are purchasing tickets during the last few days for their homes in Italy, and it is expected that there will be about 50 from the district surrounding London leave Thursday for New York, where they will embark on the steamer Duca d'Aosta for Naples Saturday morning.

Many of the Italians are section hands on the C.P.R. and some of them are from the G.T.R., who are reservists in the Italian army and are going home to see if they are needed to guard their homes while the main army is in Tripoli.

War Befriended Him.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 22.—Disappearing on the night that Noura was severely wounded, a year ago, James Jisi, returned here yesterday and was arrested, charged with stabbing. When the police found Noura had gone to Italy to join the army when the war broke out, Magistrate Fraser dismissed the case, there being no evidence.

There were 266,833 immigrants arrived in Canada between April 1st and November 1st.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Sentence on Roy Brintnell, whose auto killed Mrs. Elizabeth Silter, an Oshawa lady, on Yonge street, Toronto, last September, has been postponed for one week, the judge desiring to look into the case further. A verdict of wilful neglect was returned by the jury.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. First Conservative Caucus.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The first Ministerial caucus was hold yesterday morning. Joseph E. Armstrong of East Lambton, was appointed permanent chairman. The meeting was the first get together of the members since Sept. 21.

There was a general discussion on the proposed reduction in the numerical strength of the standing committees. The conclusion will be shown in the report of the striking committee, and will probably mean that the committee will be considerably reduced.

Premier Borden was given an ovation, and at the close cheers were given for the King and for the Prime Minister.

The Nationalists attended the caucus.

Four Lost With Schooner.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 22.—News of the total loss of the schooner Heroine of Burgeo, Nfld., at Fox Roost, Nfld., reached here yesterday when Robert Moulton received a telegram advising him of the loss of the Heroine, with all on board.

The wreck took place Monday during a heavy storm. The Heroine was bound from Sydney to Burgeo with coal for Moulton. Fox Roost is a point of land a mile east of Port Aux Basques.

Those on board were Capt. John Rose, who was also owner of the schooner, and three sailors, all belonging to Burgeo. The captain and one or two of the crew leave large families.

Can't Avoid Car Shortage.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The car shortage that prevails on all Canadian railways this year came in for considerable attention at yesterday's sitting of the Railway Commission.

"It is impossible for any railroad to supply all the equipment desired during three or four months of the year when the crops are moving," said Mr. W. J. Brownlee, transportation manager of the Grand Trunk Railway. "Not in 15 months have we had enough car."

In consequence of the railroads' explanation, however, the board deemed an order unnecessary.

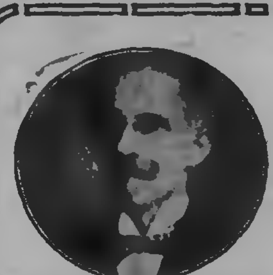
Revolt Means Reforms.

London, Ont., Nov. 22.—Dr. W. E. Taylor, son of Rural Dean Taylor, and associate general secretary of the Chinese Young Men's Christian Association in Shanghai, China, was in the city yesterday on his way home on a visit.

The inevitable outcome of the revolt in China will be the establishment of an important reform movement, in the opinion of Dr. Taylor. He does not think the public need look for a bloody revolt decimating the empire.

"The rebel, or constitutional party, is committed to reforms within the bounds of law and order," he says.

The proposed skating arena for Brantford, has fallen through.



ANSWERS

By J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist

Q. Why do school children with good sight, require Glasses?

A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength; the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.

A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain, this is nature's way. Study glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squint.

Q. Why do children have eye headaches?

A. An eye headache is a reflex pain caused by straining the eyes; the pain may be over the eyes or through the temples. The remedy for eye headaches is relief-glasses, to be worn while studying

QUEBEC WILL NEVER FORGET OR FORGIVE LAPSE OF LAURIER

Hon. Mr. Monk Says ex-Premier Failed His Compatriots --- Dr. Clark of Red Deer, on Free Trade Question.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—Some spice was lent to the debate on the address which opened yesterday afternoon with the somewhat dreary and long-winded effort of a Liberal back-bencher, by the first instalment of the eagerly expected speech of Mr. Monk. The Minister of Public Works was in fine form and took a rise or two out of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

The late Premier, he said, had preached throughout Quebec the doctrine that he and he alone could protect the French-Canadians from the encroachments of the Conservative party. It was owing to the proved falsity of that claim that he had lost a confidence which he would never again regain in that province.

Mr. Monk also indulged in some recrimination with the leader of the Opposition on the subject of his loyalty, recalling that at the Imperial Conferences of 1902 and 1907 Sir Wilfrid had refused to entertain the idea of aid in Imperial naval defence.

D. D. McKenzie (Cape Breton) resumed the debate on the address, declaring that Sir John Macdonald and the Conservative party had always believed in reciprocity.

The Maritime Provinces, having been deprived of the natural market across the border for their coal and fisheries, he hoped that some measure of compensation would be found for the former in the improvement of the canal system to the upper lakes and for the latter in better railway communication for the fishing villages of the Atlantic coast.

A. De W. Foster (Kings, N.S.), the man who beat Sir Frederick Bordon, pitched into Mr. McKenzie and charged him with swallowing his principles.

Dr. Clarke (Red Deer), the uncompromising western apostle of free trade, treated the House to a witty dissertation on the composition of the Borden Cabinet, and the reasons for the result of the late elections. He pictured Mr. Borden as regaling himself in the Quebec campaign with the wines of Old France, while in Ontario he flavored his liquor with more than a touch of Orange bitters.

"Who taught the doctrine of east versus west?" he asked. "Not the western men."

"You did," came from the Government benches.

"The highest thought of the world," declared Dr. Clarke, "is not national, it is not Imperial, it is international."

International protection, he said, was a contradiction in terms. It was anti-social, the very quintessence of selfishness.

He called on the Government to reduce the tariff on British woollens; else all the talk about the British preference was a gold brick.

The progress of the naval policy of the Government he displayed as a four-act drama.

First act—German scare — speedy construction of navy.

Second act—German scare still on—

BERFSFORD ON THE WARPATH

London, No. 22.—Following the sensational speech by Captain Faber, M. P. a few days ago, Lord Charles Beresford made a dramatic exposure tonight of the failure of the Government to keep the fleet "instantly ready." In a speech delivered at Southsea he declared that at the time of the recent crisis over Morocco the British fleet was divided, had no reserve of coal, had no military guards over the magazines, had no guards over the dock gates or caissons, had no mine-clearers for forts or fairways, had no cruisers on the trade routes, and had no oil supplies in the north for destroyers which consume oil and not coal. These deficiencies, he said, compelled the Admiralty to make hurriedpreparations in a time of crisis making Britain appear to take up a belligerent attitude.

SIR JAMES WHITNEY SAYS HE WILL REFORM ASSESSMENTS

HON. R. P. ROBLIN
Premier of Manitoba

Happy in the settlement of the Manitoba boundary question.

Premier Discusses at Durham the Existing Evils of System — Nothing as to Local Option.

Durham, Nov. 23.—A surprise was sprung by Sir James Whitney last night when he undertook to discuss the question of taxation on improvements and announced that an assessment committee would be appointed during the next session of the Legislature, who would, during the coming summer's recess go into the whole question of taxation and find a remedy for existing evils.

"It is a difficult subject," said Sir James, "and I don't like to talk anything more about it than I can help."

In contrasting the conditions of taxation in Ontario, with those of the northwest, Sir James said. "It is altogether different here from what it is in the west. Different municipalities are liable on bonds. There are old debts outstanding and the limit of taxation for the ordinary taxation is two per cent. If you say that only land should be taxed in a township, you will get into such confusion that you won't get out of it for years.

"But I have said it before and I repeat it that when the farmers of Ontaro want such 'new' conditions of taxation no Government will refuse to give it to them."

Sir James urged every assessor to get himself saturated with the workings of the taxation system and he would be able to adopt a definite attitude on this question for himself.

"The assessment of land values only is the Henry George system," said Sir James. "A very good man he was, but he had a bee in his bonnet, wrote a book and died some years ago."

The Premier omitted saying anything about local option in taxation reform, or about giving separate municipalities the right to adopt taxation reform if they chose to do so.

Wm. Scarf, president of South Grey Liberal-Association, occupied the chair, and among the speakers were Dr. David Jamieson, the late member and Liberal-Conservative candidate in South Grey; ex-Mayor Laidlaw of Durham and Wm. Allen. The opera house was crowded to its utmost capacity, and there were many ladies present.

SIR WILFRID SAYS HE WILL CONTINUE AS HEAD OF PARTY

Banquet to Laurier on Attainment of His Seventieth Birthday.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—Liberal members of the House of Commons and Senators to the number of nearly one hundred and fifty last night tendered a banquet to Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Commons restaurant, at which Mr. Hugh Guthrie presided. The guests at the head table included several of the ex-Cabinet Ministers, who now occupy seats on the front row of the Opposition, and Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. George P. Graham and Hon. Sydney Fisher. Mr. Guthrie felicitated the ex-Premier on having reached his 70th birthday in better health and strength than he possessed ten years ago.

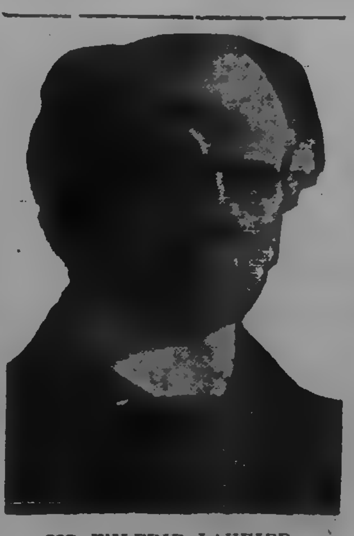
Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who was greeted with much enthusiasm, said that he was ready to give his services to the Liberal party either as leader or in the ranks as long as they were required.

Touching on the defeat of his administration on the reciprocity issue, he declared: "I would rather be right than be Premier."

The declaration by Sir Wilfrid that he proposed to remain at the head of the party was greeted with prolonged cheers.

Other speakers included Messrs. Fielding, Graham and Fisher, ex-Speaker Marcil and Senator Dandurand. They all agreed in saying that it was the duty of the Liberals not to be downcast by the defeat of Sept. 21, but to put up a strong fight both in the Parliament and the country to gain the ground which had been lost.

Sir Wilfrid was deeply touched by the many expressions of loyalty to himself and to his leadership.



SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

Paris, Nov. 23.—From sixty to eighty persons are believed to have perished by the plunge of a passenger train, into the Thorret river, near Saumur, to-day. The bridge was carried away by a heavy flood and the train running at high speed, leaped from the first abutment into the water. Some of the bodies have been recovered by the large number of rescuers at work.

CHINESE WILL PAY THEIR DEBTS TO PREVENT GRABBING

Are Afraid European Powers Are Watching Chance to Intervene—No Pretext Will be Given.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Determined to avoid giving any pretext for foreign intervention for financial reasons, the Chinese Government has ordered all receipts from maritime customs, including the 1901 Boxer indemnities, to be deposited with the foreign banks, to the credit of China's foreign debtors.

It is intimated at the U. S. State Department that it will be for the Council of Foreign Ministers in Pekin to determine whether troops are needed at all, and if so when and in what proportion they shall be furnished by the Powers interested in China. It is understood as to this latter point that some such agreement—removing one threatened cause of friction—has been reached as the result of the State Department's enquiry into the various foreign offices about two weeks ago.

Both the Chinese Government and the revolutionary leaders are desperately alarmed at the possibility of foreign intervention in their struggle. Probably it is owing to the appeals reaching the Ministers from these sources, to keep foreign troops out of China to avoid precipitating a possible massacre of all foreigners at unprotected points, that the foreign ministers are hesitating to give the word for the landing of their troops.

Advances of the rebel forces, both naval and land, toward Nanking, where, it is expected the decisive battle of the present rebellion will be fought, were reported to the Navy Department yesterday by Rear Admiral Murdock, commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, which is looking after foreign interests in Chinese territory.

BALLOT FOR THE WOMEN

Lloyd George Tells Them to Wait a Year

London, Eng., Nov. 23.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer, David Lloyd-George, has addressed a message to the National Union of Woman's Suffrage Societies, in which he says:

"The Premier's pronouncement on the attitude which the Government is adopting towards the question seems to me to make the carrying of a woman's suffrage amendment, on broad democratic lines, to next year's franchise bill a certainty. I am willing to do all in my power to help those laboring to reach a successful issue in the coming session next year, which provides a supreme opportunity and nothing but unwise handling of that chance can compass failure."

May Be Called Home.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 23.—"The action of the London police courts in sending suffragettes to prison yesterday morning is the enemy's declaration of war," declared Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, a leader of the militant suffragettes in England, in this city yesterday. "It means that the truce which has been on for a year is ended and a more desperate struggle than ever before is to begin."

Mrs. Pankhurst, mother of Sylvia and Chrystobel Pankhurst, the latter one of those imprisoned yesterday, is touring this country in the interest of woman suffrage. She addressed two meetings yesterday and left later for Cincinnati.

"Another 12 hours' developments may show the situation grave enough to call me home," Mrs. Pankhurst said. "The putting of my lieutenants in jail may make it necessary for me to go straight to the front without collecting any more supplies.

"It is the Government's latest bill, automatically enfranchising everything in trousers, which has precipitated the latest developments. A year ago we accepted the conciliation bill and granted a truce. It was the best we could get at the time.

"Then came the treacherous action. The Government presented its manhood suffrage bill, enfranchising 10,000,000 of the lowest types of men who live off their wives, who prey on other women and have so little political self-respect that they would not even register as voters. Government officials will seek them out and put them on the register."

Mrs. Pankhurst eagerly welcomed a number of interviews during her afternoon here, and anxiously sought news from London.

All Go to Jail.

London, Nov. 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Unrepentant suffragettes to the number of 223, many of them apparently still in their teens, appeared at Bow street police court yesterday morning and were sentenced to fines or alternative terms of imprisonment varying from a fortnight to a month. The women invariably chose prison instead of a fine.

Many of the women are prominent in society as well as being leaders in the women's suffrage movement. Lady Constance Lytton, sister of Lord Lytton, has been in jail on several occasions since 1909, and caused considerable sensation during one of her sentences by refusing to eat the prison food. Mrs. Evelyn Haverfield, a daughter of Lord Abinger, has also been in jail before for resisting the police during a suffragette demonstration, while Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, editor of "Votes for Women," has been arrested on several occasions.

Counsel for the public prosecution said to the court that he could not adequately describe "the disgraceful and discreditable scenes of organized disorder," of which the accused were guilty on Tuesday evening.

ROWELL ON PATRONAGE

Says He Would Institute Service Commission

Mr. Rowell Still Side-stepping on Bi-Lingual Schools

Napanee, Nov. 23.—Civil service reform, bilingual schools and the temperance question were handled by N. W. Rowell, K.C., the Liberal leader, in his address here yesterday afternoon. He dealt fully with the civil service question for the first time during the campaign and threw new light with regard to his views on the other two questions.

On temperance, he said that when the Liberal party got together they would formulate a policy on that question.

"It may not please everybody, but it will please the best judgment and the best sentiment of the majority of the people of this province, the people who are in favor of good Government, progress and moral reform," said Mr. Rowell.

His remarks on civil service reform are summed up as follows:

"The spoils and patronage system tend to degrade the civil service. The only remedy is the appointment of a permanent civil service commission, the establishment of competitive examinations and the opening of the service to all who can qualify by examination.

"Men should be selected for merit rather than for any services done to a political party.

"It's present condition has an indirect influence on the whole tone of public life. There is no more degrading influence in public life than the spoils and patronage system."

Mr. Rowell made some more charges, stating that the present Government, when coming into power, dismissed a great number of officials and appointed their own friends to the number of thousands to fill their places."

The meeting, which commenced at two o'clock, was held in the opera house. There were about 400 present. H. B. Sherwood, president of the Lennox Reform Association, was chairman. M. S. Madole, the local Liberal candidate, also spoke. Mr. Madole waxed warm on the school question. With respect to bilinguals he asserted that if no other man on the floor of the House would introduce a bill to force the teaching of English in all the schools he would be greatly honored to do it himself.

The public school question in this county was a burning one. He had been told, he said, that out of 136 teachers in Lennox and Addington, 100 were teaching on permits only, and were not qualified teachers.

KING GEORGE DISMISSES HIS CHAPLAIN ; SERIOUS CHARGES

Great Sensation in Londo Over the Disappearance Royalty's Rector.

London, Eng., Nov. 23.—A tremer dous sensation has been caused t social and religious circles throug out the country by the annou ment in last night's London Gazet that King George had ordered the di missal of his domestic chaplain, Rev Frederick Percival Farrar, rector Sandringham.

It is stated that the royal chaplain' dismissal is in consequence of ious charges.

Rev. F. P. Farrar, who is a son the late Canon Farrar, has been close friend of royalty for sever years, and frequently dined at t royal table.

He has also been dismissed fr his position as honorary chaplain Queen Alexandra. As royal chapla and rector of Sandringham the di missed clergyman frequently p ed and administered holy comm ion to the late King Edward a Queen Alexandra, and also to th present King and Queen during the residence at Sandringham.

Rev. Mr. Farrar was married July 6 last to Miss Nora Davis, si ter of Richard Harding Davis. She i a daughter of the late Clarke Davi of Philadelphia.

Central news reports says Rev. Far rar "has absconded and a warrant out for his arrest."

London, Nov. 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Much comment has been caused by the cancellation of the appointmen of Rev. Frederick Percival Farrar a chaplain to Queen Alexandra. Th official announcement to that effec was issued from the Lord Chamber lain's office. When an attempt wa made yesterday to obtain the rea sons for his retirement it was state that Mr. Farrar had gone away, leav ing no address.

Borden [illegible] Autonomy.

London, Nov. 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Yorkshire Observer says Mr Borden's determination that no measure of Imperial preference should exist that is not compatible with adequate protection for Canadian manufacturers, shows clearly enough that the essential autonomy of Canada will be as jealously guarded by him as by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Stand on Navy Approved.

London, Nov. 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Daily Telegraph's naval correspondent says Mr Borden's decision anent a naval policy will be received here with satisfaction. The old scheme was as economically as it was strategically unsound.

"From the first it seemed Sir Wilfrid Laurier had accepted the necessity of some action with evident reluctance. The Imperial navy needs ships, not men, and the overseas have the natural surplus for a naval service, whereas we have an overabundance of men.

The Morning Post says: "Mr. Borden's announcement is entirely consistent with his attitude when in Opposition."

CARPENTERS MAY RETURN

American Federation Problems to the Fore

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 23.—When the convention of the American Federation of Labor meets this morning it will be with the expectation of passing on the reports of two of its most important committees, that on the adjustment of industrial disputes and that on the president's report.

The adjustment committee has in hand the long-waged controversy between the carpenters and the sheet-metal workers, which resulted last year in the expulsion of the former from the building trades department. It is expected that the committee will recommend the reinstatement of the carpenters if they will agree to abide by the decision of the department in future disputes.

All the recommendations made by President Gompers in his annual report have been considered by the committee to which it was referred. Chairman Wilson declared yesterday that the committee would make some recommendations of vital importance to the federation.

The convention will adjourn on Saturday. President Gompers and the other officers probably will be re-elected easily, as the Socialists have not developed sufficient strength to make serious opposition. It is regarded as practically certain that the 1912 convention will be held at Rochester, N.Y., although Richmond, Va., is waging a strong fight for the meeting.

The following resolutions were adopted yesterday: Favoring the construction of all Government vessels in Government shipyards. Endorsing the strike on the Harriman lines. Changing Memorial Day from the second to the fourth Sunday in May. Advocating compulsory education, free school books in public schools, and night schools. Petitioning President Taft to recommend to the governor of Porto Rico larger school appropriations, an eight-hour day and other beneficial legislation.

A Discovery of Vast Importance

It Is Now Admitted That Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Coughs, and Colds Can Only Be Quickly Cured By Mixing a New Medicine With the Air You Breathe.

Scientists acknowledge that medicated air treatment is the only treatment that will cure these diseases, and that stomach medicines are worse than useless.

Catarrhozone air treatment has been found to be the most effective way to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. Its action is so prompt that in less then an hour an ordinary cold is cured, and after a more thorough use of Catarrhozone, bronchitis, Catarrh, and all diseases of the throat and lungs are completely cured.

Catarrhozone is a very simple and powerful method of treatment. You simply breathe it through the inhaler and it immediately passes over every air cell of the throat, lungs, and bronchial tubes, curing and healing as it goes.

Catarrhozone treatment affords little drops of healing for sore places in the lungs, throat, and nasal passages.

THE COMPENSATION ACT

Some of the militia officers at the military conference were talking about conscription to fatten the ranks of the militia. Conscription talk is rather foolish in this country, and decidedly harmful to those who wish the militia well. The people of the country good naturedly bear the cost of the militia, believing that it is necessary, but, at the same time, not so essential as the militia officers believe. If there were some way of elevating the tone of the militia, as in respect of drinking, there would probably be better results in enlisting. As it is at present, the associations which a rural young man gets into sometimes are anything but pleasant. Only the other day an instance came under notice where a young man of exemplary habits, usually—a straight, and clean young man,—and a member of an infantry regiment, had to be assisted home because he was intoxicated. That young man would not think of going into a bar-room for a drink, nor does he associate with the bar-room class of the community. Yet there we have him making the first steps on the broad path through his military connection. Before the militia officers talk of conscription, they had better remove from the path of the young man the evils of the canteen or the people of the country will let the militia "go hang" before they will consider conscription.

THE POWER MATTER

The Examiner complains that Western Ontario municipalities are forging ahead faster than Peterborough, because of the cheap power policy, and in the same breath it condemns any effort to bring the power policy to Peterborough to inject new life into its business. This surely is an anomalous position for the organ to take.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Stratton speaks truly when he says that in the progress of a city cheap power was not everything. There were locations, free sites, exemptions, and other inducements that figured largely in the location of factories in a town. To some extent, the progress of the western municipalities has been due to these factors, though no one can deny the influence cheap electric power has had in building up the industrial life of these communities.

At the same time, it must be remembered that cheap electric power is a great mercantile asset to a city. Peterborough to-day has power and lighting at prices that cannot be regarded as unreasonable, but there remains the fact that the only limitation on the rates to be charged is that set by the franchise agreements with the city, and the fact that the city might appeal to the Dominion Railway Board for assistance, if it thought the rates were excessive. With power competition on behalf of the public, the situation alters entirely. Then the onus is not on the city or the citizens to prove that the power or lighting rates are higher than they should be—a most difficult task—but the onus is on the private corporation of meeting the power at cost charges, which might be made by the [illegible] hydro-electric affair.

The introduction of the hydro-electric power policy to the Trent valley district is a serious matter. It means the breaking of the virtual monopoly established by the Electric power company and a forward movement for the district such as it has not experienced for many years. The Liberal candidate in Peterborough stands opposed to the hydro-electric power policy, not alone for political reasons, but because of his financial interests in the other direction. Mr. Hall would be a big snag in the way of the Ontario government assisting the Trent valley people to their rights, as regards power, and there can only be one answer. The general record of the Whitney government, the force and power which has been shown, the strength and honesty of its purpose, the many reforms which it has accomplished, all indicate that Mr. Peck is the man for the riding, and the sustaining of the government.

CONSCRIPTION

The Liberal candidate in this riding and the Stratton organ are making a great ado about helping the poor workingman through the changes in the Compensation Act. The objective is all right and deserving of the greatest commendation, but there are a few facts in connection with this Compensation to which the workingman in Peterborough should give attention.

The Whitney government appointed before the elections were thought of, Sir William Meredith, one of the most eminent jurists of Canada, to investigate the working of the Compensation Act, and draft a new bill for presentation at the next session of the legislature.

The present Compensation Act was passed by the Liberal government of Ontario in 1895. For nineteen years not an "i" was dotted or a "t" crossed, in the way of change. For nineteen years the Liberals slept, regardless of the working of the Act, and there were the same abuses then as now.

Mr. Peck wants changes in the Act, and if elected will be in a position to give weight to his views. Mr. Hall would have to oppose in the house any measure for the relief of the workingman, because he would be in opposition, and the new Act would be a government measure.

There is no possible chance for Mr. Hall to get any measure through for the benefit of himself or his beloved friends, with the Whitney government in power.

Mr. Peck is sincere in his wish to remedy the defects of the present Act. Mr. Hall is merely out for campaign purposes.

The workingmen of this city, be they British-born or Canadian born, or American-born, will do well to remember that Mr. Hall's history belies the fair promises he makes. Talk from the platform is easy, if the audience will swallow it.

The workingman is a sensible individual. He ought to be able to sift the wheat from the chaff, and most certainly he most discount Mr. Hall's hypocritical ardor in the cause of those who have votes to cast.

THE Y.M.C.A.

Young man, are you a member of the Y.M.C.A.? If you are not, you ought to be. You will have five dollars worth of benefit in health, strength, increased mentality and in general moral uplift in two weeks attendance at this splendid institution. The parents of the city who neglect to give their boys the chance to become associated with the Y.M.C.A. spirit and the Y.M.C.A. work are doing their sons a wrong. The money is nothing when compared to the broadening and elevating of the young man's character, and the better fitting he will receive for the struggle of life.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Do your Christmas shopping early.

The handsome Christmas box which the electors of this riding will present to Mr. Peck is a seat in the Ontario legislature.

If Mr. Hall has $10,000 to spend on this election, he ought to take enough out of the fund, to make a trip to Europe after December 11th. He would be that much ahead.

Two thousand persons made their bow before the Duke and Duchess of Connaught at the first drawing-room Ottawa will soon be known as the Big Bend city.

The Hamilton firemen are asking for an increase of pay. The pay runs now from $15 for first year men to $20 for fourth year men. By the way, if workmen are to be compensated for every accident while at the post of duty, do not the firemen qualify also? Theirs is a risky calling. Should they not be compensated?

THOMPSON'S BIG MEETINGS

Enthusiastic Gathering at Zion and Stewarts Hall

Mr. Thompson Tells of the Work of Government

Two fine meetings were held by James Thompson, Conservative candidate for East Peterborough, in Zion and Stewart's hall on Monday and Tuesday nights. Mr. Graystock was chairman and Reeve Knox, of Havelock, made a stirring address of forty minutes on the provincial issues. At the Stewart's hall meeting Frank Kitney was the chairman.

Mr. Thompson who followed, briefly referred to the change of leadership paying a tribute to Hon. A. G. MacKay. Mr. MacKay had failed to satisfy the Liberal party, because he was unable to bring forward a progressive platform. This was not Mr. MacKay's fault, but because the Whitney government had anticipated and brought forward every progressive measure in the interest of the people. The new leader assisted by a large committee had spent much time in formulating a platform, and yet they produced nothing new except a measure of tax reform, which is not a solution of that important question. They advocated the development of New Ontario, the creation of agricultural schools, demonstration orchards, etc., forgetting, as they evidently do, that the Whitney government has created 20 agricultural schools with 40 expert instructors and one of those schools has been established in Peterborough county, which has had a decided influence in creating greater interest in agriculture. As an example, the seed judging and stock shows held in Peterborough city and in other parts of the county during the past two years had encouraged many of the farmers to raise the standard of their stocks, and to start to build up pure bred herds. We are also having orchard demonstration in the county and the work will be extended next year. The build up New Ontario plank; the good roads plank; the public ownership plank; the increased grants to rural schools, among other planks advocated by the Opposition has been anticipated and put into effective operation by the Whitney Government. In 1904, $475,000 was spent for agricultural and colonization roads and in 1911 $1,000,000 was expended for agricultural and colonization roads. In 1911 there were 91 orchard demonstrations and 132 drainage demonstrations attended by 4300 farmers. In 1904 there were no field crop competitions; in 1910 there were 1630 competitions. In 1904 rural school grants for Peterborough county were $2,962.62 and in 1910 $12,047.39 and in every other department the Whitney Government had shown the same interest in legislating in the best interests of the people. Central Ontario, including the Peterborough district, had the greatest water powers in Ontario, except Niagara district. And why are the farmers of Peterborough county not getting cheap electricity? Simply because the late government had given away to private individuals and companies which rightly belongs to the people. The Whitney government have taken steps to secure cheap power for the people of this district and if necessary, will expropriate the water powers, as they are determined that Central Ontario shall share in the great blessing of cheap electricity. After a brief review of many reforms brought about by the Whitney government, the meeting closed with the usual cheers.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 22.—Business in all grades of Manitoba spring wheat was much quieter, and cables were weaker, with prices bid 3d to 6d lower, the market being affected by the free offerings from the Argentine, which tended to check the demand from foreign buyers for wheat here.

There was no change in the condition of the local market for coarse grains, business being quiet and prices steady. A good trade continues to be done in flour for local account, but the foreign demand was again quieter. Millfeed continues active and firm. Demand for cheese is quiet, but there is a good trade passing in butter and eggs. Provisions steady under a fair demand.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 22.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Nov. 18 were 2250 cattle, 2525 sheep and lambs, 3620 hogs and 600 calves, while the offerings on the market this morning for sale were 2250 cattle, 1500 sheep and lambs, 2300 hogs and 250 calves.

On account of the very heavy run of cattle, which consisted of common and medium stock principally, a weaker feeling developed in the market for such, and prices, as compared with Monday, show a decline of ¼c to 1c per pound, but owing to the limited supply of good to choice steers values show very little change.

A stronger feeling prevailed in the market for sheep and lambs, and prices advanced 25c per 100 pounds, notwithstanding the fact that the supply was much larger, for which there was a keen demand from butchers and packers, and a brisk trade was done. There was no change in calves, for which the demand was good.

The tone of the market for hogs was weaker, and prices declined 10c to 40c per 100 pounds, on account of the increased receipts, but at the lower range of prices the demand was good, and sales of selected lots were made at $6.35 to $6.65 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars, and some mixed lots sold as low as $6.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6; do., medium, $4 to $5.50; do., common, $3.50 to $3.75; canners, $1.75 to $3.25; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5; do., medium, $3 to $3.50; do., bulls, $3.50; milkers, common and medium, each, $30 to $40; springers, $30 to $40; sheep, ewes, $3.75; bucks and culls, $3.25 to $3.50; lambs, $5.50; hogs, f.o.b., $6 to $6.65; calves, $3 to $10.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

— BY —

CLIVE PHILLIPPS WOLLEY

(AUTHOR OF "GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO," ETC.)

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

"Will he be back soon?"

"It all depends, Mister, on how the corpse travels. Corpses ain't gay on the hoof, as you may have heard, and it's all of fifteen miles to Snow Gulch. Don't see why they couldn't have left the old man where he was. One place is as good as another to be planted in to my mind."

"There you're plum off the track, sonny," broke in one of the players reprovingly. "There's no call for a man to demean himself if he does live in Sody Crik. Old man Hayes was a decent citizen, fix it which way you will; took his glass reg'lar, an' paid for it when he had any dust, and if he owes you a blanked cent, say so, and I'll foot the bill," and the speaker, who looked anything but opulent, eyed the bar tender fiercely, and pulled out a greasy deer-skin sack.

"No, Jake, the old man didn't owe me nothin'. I didn't say as he did."

"An' you hadn't better, you slab-sided cross between a galloot and a buck nigger. I say as old man Hayes has a right to all the frills he has a mind to when it comes to buryin,' and I'd like to hear from the gent as thinks contrary."

To patch up the breach, Jim stood drinks. It is the only civility you can show to your neighbor in some places; and then for want of anything else to do, rather than in the hope of hurrying a funeral procession, Jim borrowed Jake's cayuse, and rode out to meet the burying party.

CHAPTER XII.

A Backwoods Funeral

On a steep bluff, through the heavy brush of which a narrow trail had been roughly cut, Jim found a party of about a dozen men, half of whom wore black coats. They were almost the only black coats in Cariboo, and had been collected with infininte trouble to give tone to the proceedings. There was also one top hat. That belonged to the doctor, and was worn by him. The bottle, too large for a medicine bottle, which protruded from his coat pocket, belonged to the party.

When Jim first sighted them, the proper spirit of their occupation possessed them. Two and two they paced behind a sorry nag, at whose head paced the doctor and another. All had their hats off, and their coats on and no one spoke.

Upon the horse's back was all that remained of old man Hayes, a white handkerchief bound reverently over his face, and his body decently disposed in a blanket.

In a corner of this, unfortunately, was caught one of those sharp-ended boughs which B. C. people call a rampike. Gently and without a word the doctor wrestled with the impediment, and the horse stood still whilst he did so.

At the next step a small bough caught the handkerchief and lifted it off the face. It was recovered and replaced without a word. As soon as this had been done the horse stumbled over an unseen log, and its pack moved up a foot nearer to its neck. The doctor's companion caught the beast by the head and jerked at its bit, as a hint to it to take more care, and at the same moment another rampike caught in the blanket. This time the horse could not stand still, neither would the rampike loose its hold. For nearly thirty seconds the two at the horse's head did their best to undo the tangle, then the horse plunged forward. the blanket tore, some of the lashings gave, and old man Hayes rolled out with a thump, brandishing one stiffened limb in ghastly fashion as he fell.

"This is a positive scandal, boys. It's irreverent to the dead," Jim heard the doctor say.

"It's blanked poor packing, that's what it is," retorted one of them. "Ed don't know enough to tie a granny knot let alone the diamond hitch."

"You tie it better yourself, you web-footed blue nose."

"That's dead easy, and I'll tie your blamed neck in a knot when I'm through with it," said the other angrily, taking off his coat to work and swear more easily. But he did not find it "dead easy."

"Cinch the beggar good and tight," suggested one. "Corpses ain't got no feelin's," and putting his foot against the horse he threw his weight into the rope.

"Hold on, Mo; you'll break him all up."

"Not much. He's stiff enough. There, git up now," and he gave the horse a slap on its quarter.

Frightened by its mishap, or more conscious of the dead nature of its burden than its masters thought, the horse bolted, galloped through the range of timber, and on to the open hillside, where Jim was standing, and there with two or three vicious bucks sent the body of Mr. Hayes rolling down the slope.

This denouement evoked a volley of imprecations from the mutes, but even that had no apparent effect upon the gravity of the late Mr. Hayes.

Never in his life had he proceeded with more deliberate dignity than he did then in his death. The pitch of the hillside was only just steep enough to induce a bale of goods to roll, so that the swathed body went down it in slow time, with grave pauses, whilst the limbs of it, which had broken loose, swung in solemn mockery as the body rolled over.

In spite of pauses, it would not stop. As soon as one moved to catch it, it swung its arms and started again, recovering its momentum sufficiently to elude its would-be captors.

It was as if the dead man was playing a grim game with his old cronies. At last it reached the road, which wound round the base of the hill.

"Well, I'm blanked, if that don't beat everything. The old man always was pig-headed, but who'd have thought he'd have kicked like that at being packed, and he's a corpse!"

"Guess he thinks he can take care of hisself now same as he allus did. He's crossed this trail many a night when he hadn't any more sense than he has now."

But the stillness of the body brought back some of the old feeling of awe.

"Hush!" said one. "What are you giving us? That ain't no way to talk before corpses."

"Corpse or no corpse," said a bolder spirit, "it's a long time between drinks, and this burying is a mighty dry entertainment. Doc! Let's have a look at that bottle."

The doctor produced the medicine, which was labelled Scott and Mackay's Special, and in turn each of the mutes drank to their old companion.

"Guess he'll travel more sociable now," said Al, wiping his mouth with his coat sleeve. "But we'll have to pack him ourselves. Got to take off our frills for that business," and with a sigh of relief every man took off his coat, and tied it in a back on his back.

At this point Jim Combe joined them, was given a drink and solemnly introduced to the corpse.

In return he lent a hand at bearing it, and abandoning all ideas of a processional pace, or the decorum of silence, the party in its shirt sleeves, trotted to within sight of Soda Creek before dark. Here, however, the procession paused, reformed, put on its coats and funeral face, and marched with great pomp to the door of the Ideal.

Here, again, an unexpected difficulty met them. The Ideal was the only place to which any one went on arriving at Soda Creek, but in spite of the former habits of their charge, it was evidently now no place for Mr. Hayes.

"Poor old hoss. I guess you ain't allowed in here now. Where'll we take him to, doc?"

An empty house was suggested where the body would be safe from the dogs until the clergyman came for it next day, and there it was locked up for the night.

But even then the doctor was not ready for his patient at the Risky Ranch. By unanimous consent it was held fitting that Soda Creek should celebrate old man Hayes' reception in due form, and no protest on Jim's part was of any avail. The men had had enough whiskey to make them as stubborn as mules. Jim Combe was in despair. Every drink that the reckless crowd took made it more noisy and more quarrelsome, whilst the doctor was rapidly progressing from the convivial to the maudlin stage of drunkenness.

"Let him alone where he is," urged Ed. "He won't understand now."

"Wonsh undershtand, wonsh he? You think he'sh gone away. Nonsensh; he'sh here all right. He'll undershtand, you bet."

The idea was too grizzly. That any poor devil should be condemned even after death's release to hang round the Ideal, struck Jim as the climax of horrors to which hell itself would be a mild punishment.

But he saw in the sot's determination his own opportunity. Going up to the only man in the place who was still sober, he touched him on the shoulder.

"Bill, would you do something for a woman?"

The big man, who was still drowsing by the stove, started from his apathy.

"A woman? There ain't no woman here. It's only whiskey and hell."

"But there's women elsewhere, down to the Risky Ranch, for instance. Will you do something to help one of them?"

"Anythin'," he said, rising.

"Then go up into that fellow's room," pointing to the doctor, "and corral all his outfit, instruments and grip-sack, whatever he takes along with him when he goes visiting. No one will notice you as you live here, and if they do they are too drunk to mind."

"What do you want it for?"

"There's a woman dying down to the Risky, and I've got to get that little hog and his fixin's to save her. You heard him say he wouldn't come."

"I did, curse him; but he won't be any good like that. They never are any good when you want them," and he sank back into his dreams.

"He won't be like that when I get him to the Risky. Will you do it?"

"All right; if it's for a woman," and he slouched off to the part of the house where its boarders slept.

Meanwhile Jim Combe went out to secure his own horse and another. The latter part of the business was horse-stealing, almost the worst offence in Cattledom, but he ha dlied already to a friend, and was meditating a worse offence than horse-stealing.

When he had tied the two horses at the back of the empty house in which old man Hayes lay, he returned to the bar room.

There he found his ally, Bill.

"Have you got the things?"

"Yes."

"Then sneak out and cinch them on tight behind the saddle of my horse, a big red roan, tied up behind the house where Hayes' body lies, and wait there for me. Don't make any mistake, and don't speak till I do."

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.
Midgie Station, N. B.—One can hardly believe this as it is not natural, but it was my case. For ten months I suffered from suppression. I had different doctors, tried different medicines, but none helped me. My friends told me I would go into a decline. One day a lady friend told me what your medicine had done for her, so I wrote you for advice and received your reply with pleasure. I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and at the second bottle showed improvement. Now I am regular and never was so well in my life, thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's medicine.
Please publish my letter for the benefit of others.—MRS. JOSIAH W. HICKS, Midgie Station, N. B.

EXPERIENCE WITH SMUGGLERS

Officer Captured 100,000 Cigars

In his experiences in getting after the tobacco smugglers Donohue, a recently deceased member of the customs service at New York, had a number of narrow escapes from death. One, which was particulalry dangerous and was an excellent example of the man's fearlessness, occurred in 1882. There was one ship plying between Cuba and New York which Donohue suspected. One day it arrived on a regular trip and the detective boarded her. The customs man knew every place on a ship where contraband stuff could be hidden, but after a thorough search, he found nothing.

But Donohue was sure that there were 100,000 cigars on that vessel and he was determined to locate them. Finally he noticed that although the firemen were free to go ashore, many of them were still on the ship, apparently enjoying his discomfiture. Then Donohue had an idea. He procured a lantern and a hammer and made his way to the boiler room tapping each boiler with the hammer. One sounded differently from the rest and he ordered the circular cover, about the size of an ordinary can hole, removed.

There was a moment's hesitation, but the order was fulfilled and Donohue went down in the big iron cavern. There heaped at oneside he found the 100,000 cigars. But while he was below some one clapped down the iron cover and the inspector was trapped. He yelled and pounded, but all in vain. Then his lantern went out. The detective remained there for several hours until a watchman, hearing the hammering, released him.

New Life Preserver.

Recent consular reports describe a new form of life preserver, which is proposed to introduce into the German Navy. It consists of two swimming cushions bound together by straps and arranged to lie upon the breast and back. The novel feature of the apparatus is an electric lamp which is worn on the forehead. The lamp burns three or four hours, and is provided with a reflector, which throws its light for a distance of several hundred yards at night. The life preserver can be buckled on in five seconds.

Woman Again

"I tell you you can't beat my wife for presence of mind," said the man at the club, proudly. "Listen to this. One day last week an old gossip of our neighbourhood called, and I left her and wifie alone in the parlour.

"An hour later, having the impression that our caller had departed, I bounced into the room with, 'So the old cat has gone, eh?' Well, as I lifted my eyes, there was the woman herself in front of me. But my wife — bless her — was there with the goods.

"'Yes, dear,' she said, calmly, 'I sent it to the cats' home in a basket first thing this morning.'"

SOFA RUGS

During the colder months the afternoon nap and the sofa rug are so closely associated that the one seems impossible without the other, although many people object to sofa rugs on the score of appearance. Many recent specimens are made of fleecy wood, light of weight, and in the prettiest pale shades, richly embroidered in bold design in self-coloured and contrasting silks; others are of plain satin, wadded and handsomely embroidered at the corners and in the centre. Although made of practically the same materials as are elder-downs, these sofa rugs are quite distinctive in appearance.

One very dainty home-made sofa rug was built up of patchwork squares. Each "patch" was in reality a four-inch-square bag, duly wadded with vegetable down. When a sufficient number of thees padded squares was made, they were simply seamed neatly together side by side. The maker had made a special purchase of "patchworks" from a silk merchant — a matter easily arranged — with the result that the rug was a collection of charming "patches" of bright brocades, silks, and satins.

Get Breakfast on Time

Punctuality is one of the chief rules in a well-ordered home — whether it be a small or large house. Meals must be prepared and served at the pre-arranged hour. Especially does this apply to breakfast in order that husband may have time to make a good meal before going to business. Much more depends on this than the average young wife can realise. If a man is compelled to hurry off to town with only a cup of coffee or a "scramble" through some imperfectly cooked dish, he will feel the need of something before noon, and this something may take the form of stimulants. Therefore, let there be no carelessness or delay over the first meal.

Unless quite unavoidable, never be from home when your husband returns from work or business. This is one of the special duties you undertook when you married him. On those rare occasions when you may be obliged to go out, leave his meal ready for him to take, and if this does not often occur and he is a good natured man, he will not grumble.

An Attempt to "Crinoline."

The vogue for narrow dresses has for some time past caused loss — it is alleged — to cloth manufacturers, and more than once or twice there have been rumours that the excessively wide skirt was about to be introduced in company with the old-time crinoline.

At last something in the crinoline line has made its appearance in England. But it has little in common with its ancestor except its stiffness. The new crinoline is, in fact, nothing worse than a stiffening of the skirt hem, the skirt itself being the present normal width. The balloon-like appearance expected is entirely absent from the crinoline models now on view, though those but mark the cautious beginnings of the dreaded revival. What Fashion has power to induce one to do of course "you never can tell," but it is difficult to believe that we ever can be persuaded to go back to the full-blown crinoline, which had neither use nor beauty to recommend it.

First Sewing Needle

It is believed that the first fine steel sewing needles were made in London at any rate, in the reign of Queen Mary. The implement, however, did not receive much favour, and not until 1566 were they really taken into general use.

A Result Worthy of Consideration
Endowment Policy No. 34022 was issued to a local citizen twenty years ago for which he paid in ten annual instalments to the Company in all premiums, amounting to $688.50. He now receives a single cash payment of $1273.65 which as an investment is over 4% compound interest, or he may accept $750.60 in cash, which is $62.10 more than he paid in, together with a paid up policy for $1000, payable at death which earns profits every year during the balance of his life.

BIFOCALS
OR —
DOUBLE VISION GLASSES

Most people think, when buying Bifocal Glasses, that a large segment or reading area is required. With very few exceptions this is not so, as most bifocals are required for constant use, and the successful fitting of these lenses depends not so much on furnishing the largest reading portion possible, but on placing a minimum disk or wafer in exactly the correct position. A small wafer accurately placed will afford ample field for reading, writing and sewing, and will overcome the tendency to make mis-steps in going up and down stairs, an experience not uncommon to wearers of bifocals with too large reading segments

We make a specialty of filling Bifocal Lenses in VISIBLE, SEMI-INVISIBLE and INVISIBLE.

WORKS OF ART BY CANADIANS

Will be Exhibited at Display in Public Library

The exhibition of pictures, arts and crafts and some English water colors, productions of Canadian artists residing in London, Eng., which are to be shown at the Women's Art Association exhibition next week, promises to be well worthy of viewing. The exhibits will consist of oil paintings, pottery, book-binding laces, hand wrought silver, enamelled jewelry, and homespuns, etc. The public library lecture room has been secured for the occasion.

A number of oil paintings will be exhibited, that are the productions of Miss Marion E. Jack, a Canadian artist, whose home is in the Maritime provinces. Some of her landscapes grace the Paris salon, and have received considerable attention as have also her studies in mural decoration, the latter principally consisting of views of Lake Lucerne.

Another Canadian, whose work will be shown, is Mr. H. Frank Waring, whose work, a London art journal criticizes most favorably. One reference states that in the artist's pictures, there are all the best qualities—freedom with restraint, and strength with sensitiveness. They are full of weather, and homely beauty.

The exhibition will be open every afternoon and evening from Tuesday November 28th to Friday, December 1st.

Tickets are on sale at Payne's drug store.

PERFECT IMPERSONATIONS OF A FINE OLD "GRANMUM"

Miss Robson Scores Great Success in Comedy "A Night Off" Don't Miss Seeing it at the Grand To-night

Those who did not have the pleasure of seeing Miss Robson as Aunt Mary last evening at the Grand Opera House surely missed a great treat. For pure fun and hearty amusement it certainly proved the best comedy seen here in months. You will regret it if you don't get the whole of your family, young and old, together and go and see Miss Robson to-night in an equally charming comedy, "A Night Off."

Miss Robson is a feminine Joe Jefferson—and although it may seem a sacrilege to say so, she's a much better actress than even that distinction would seem to indicate. Joe had the ability to make a most unmoral old person called Rip Van Winkle seem to be heroic. Miss Robson chooses better stock to work with. The dear old ladies she pleases to impersonate are among the fondest recollections of real life. Everybody has had his Aunt Mary and everybody has had a "granmum." Everybody's Aunt Mary didn't have as much ginger and good sense as Miss Robson's Aunt Mary, and by the same token, there are few grandmothers like the one she shows us at the Grand Opera House in her new play, called "A Night Off." But such persons are quite possible, even probable—so there is pleasure in seeing them.

A woman remarked to Whistler that she had never seen a sunset like the one shown in a picture of his. "I know it, Madam, but don't you wish you could see one?" was the artist's retort.

Perhaps none of us ever had a grandmother who was exactly "one of the boys," but it's a pleasant speculation to imagine what would have been the result if such had been the case.

That's the kind of Grandmother "A Night Off" shows us. She was one of the boys and being the eldest of the lot, naturally led them into all kinds of extravagances. They were her grandsons and their mother was pretty strict and correct. The boys inherited grandmother's love of a good time and when they embarked on a little excursion to a restaurant, which they assured her was a perfectly respectable place, she decided to accompany them. Her exodus from the house was made by way of the fire escape, and her return by way of the climbing ivy.

At the restaurant a police raid makes a rather hurried departure imperative. Granmum is bustled into the street and later "reports" in a rather disheveled condition. Then she discovers that a bond has been stolen from her strong-box. A detective who works on the case shows up with a brooch, which, in the mix-up Granmum lost at the restaurant. She also lost a key. Suspicion points to the boys, her grandsons, but she never loses faith in them. To the finish she is "one of the boys" and of course everything ends happily, which completely justified her attitude towards youth and life.

MR. G. N. GORDON WILL RUN IN THE CENTRE WARD

Announces Intentions to Offer Himself as Aldermanic Candidate

To a Review representative today, Mr. G. N. Gordon, of the firm of O'Connell & Gordon, consented to allow his name being published as a prospective candidate for aldermanic honors for the year 1912.

"I intend to run in the centre ward," said Mr. Gordon.

Mr. Gordon's qualifications would ably fit him for a seat in the city council, and he would be a worthy successor to Ald. Bradburn, who has announced himself as a mayoralty candidate. None of the other aldermen have announced their intention of dropping out at the end of the present term.

MANY INQUIRING REGARDING GIRL

The Review Sought a Home for Young Orphan

An article which appeared in the Review some weeks ago, in reference to a little girl, for whom a good home was desired, has been the cause of nearly fifty communications being addressed to Mr. G. H. Howson, the immigration officer, inquiring more about the child, and offering to provide for her a good home. The letters came from Norwood, Port Hope, Ennismore, Stony Lake and even one from as far west as Medicine Hat. Every letter contained the information that they had noticed the article in the Daily Review.

It has kept the immigration official busy replying, to the effect that the child is in a real good and comfortable home in the vicinity of Keene. Many of the offers were people who evidently by the tone of their epistles, were in comfortable circumstances, who would be glad to surround the child with wholesome home influences.

SACRED HEART T.A.S. AT HOME

Good Time Provided for the Large Attendance

One of the most enjoyable "At Homes" of this season, was held last evening in the St. Alphonsus Lyceum under the auspices of the Sacred Heart T.A.S. The affair took the form of a progressive euchre contest, which was followed by dancing. It was estimated that nearly two hundred were present and the entertainment was one of real pleasure to all.

About thirty-nine tables were in use in the euchre contest and the prizes fell to Miss Frawley and to Mr. W. S. Merrell.

The contest broke up about ten o'clock and dancing was commenced and continued till early in the morning, with intermission for refreshments.

Fraelick's orchestra supplied the music in their usual acceptable style.

THEATRICAL

Uproariously funny and brimful of dialogue, breezy and also strikingly replete with some good old fashioned advice, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary was received by a large audience at the Grand Opera House last night, with every evidence of hearty approval.

Miss May Robson, designated the funniest woman on the stage was immense, from the moment of her first appearance to the finale, when surrounded by the small family of friends she declared that "God meant us all to be happy, but some of us don't just know how to begin." As "Aunt Mary," she ruled as the spirit moved her. One moment she was stormy and cold as 40 below zero, the next, meek and forgiving. Jack Storey, her nephew, ever busy in sowing his wild oats, is called upon to face numerous frigid outbursts, as is also dear Lucinda, who is Aunt Mary's property, body and soul.

The process of rejuvenation commences when Aunt Mary is called to New York, by an artful letter written by Mitchell, one of Jack's friends and her progress is remarkable for its speed.

Throughout the performance, Miss Robson is splendidly supported by a strong company, all of whom give faithful interpretations of the various characters, found in Anne Warner's story.

To-night Miss Robson will be seen in "A Night Out" another farce comedy which is sure to please, including as it does, such a talented comedienne as Miss Robson.

Newmarket will loan $5.000 to the Harding Auto Co., of London, who will locate there.

WEDDING BELLS

McILMOYLE—ROBESON.

"Riverview," South Monaghan, the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Latimer, was the scene of a pretty wedding Nov. 15th, when Clarissa Mabel Robeson, of Enniskillen, was married to Harry C. McIlmoyle, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McIlmoyle, of Selwyn.

The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Mr. Robeson, father of the bride, assisted by Rev. F. W. White, B.A., of Fraserville. Mrs. Kadd, sister of the bride, played the wedding march as the bridal party entered the drawing room and took their places under an evergreen arch draped with white ribbons.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a beautiful empire gown of white Brussels net over white silk, with point lace, and satin trimmings, and carried white chrysanthemums. Miss Florence Orchard, of Oshawa, who acted as bridesmaid, looked charming in a dress of pink ninon, with gold spangled net and pink satin trimmings, and carried pink chrysanthemums. Mr. Ernest Horter of Peterborough, supported the groom. The drawing room was beautifully decorated in yellow, while the decorations of the dining room were pink and white.

Among the numerous presents was a handsome cheque from the groom's father. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome set of blue wolf furs, to the bridesmaid a pearl crescent brooch, and to the groomsman a pearl tie pin.

After dejeuner and a short reception, Mr. and Mrs. McIlmoyle left for a short trip, the bride travelling in a smart tailored suit of grey tweed with a plumed hat to match.

Mrs. McIlmoyle, when a resident of Fraserville, was very popular, and her numerous friends wish her and her husband bon voyage through life. Mr. and Mrs. McIlmoyle will reside in Toronto.

Peterborough, Nov. 21.

Dear Mrs. Mowry,—At this time of thanksgiving, we, your co-workers in the Park street Baptist Woman's Mission Circle, feel the time has come to show our appreciation of your long and faithful services in aiding to spread the gospel, the good news of salvation in the home land as well as in the foreign fields.

At the inception of this circle you were our first president, a position you held for a number of years. In times of discouragement and difficulties you were ever hopeful and prayerfully guided us upward and onward. As a proof of our esteem for you as a friend and fellow worker, also to show the value placed on your untiring labors in the cause dear to us all, we ask you to accept this life membership certificate in the Foreign Missionary Society. In doing this we are pleased to know this is not a parting gift (as is often the case), but your fellow-workers will look forward to years of service together in spreading the gospel to our heathen sisters in darkened lands.

Signed on behalf of the Park street Baptist Mission Circle.

MARGARET MANN,
President.
CELIA JOHNSTON,

Mrs. Mowry, in a few well-chosen words, gratefully thanked the members of the circle and friends for their kindness in thus honoring her.

Meet the Increased Cost of Living
By Increasing the Yield of Your Capital

When investing money—if you insist on theoretically perfect security, you must be satisfied with very small interest.

The increased cost of living has caused many to seek investments which while perfectly sound, and proven to be practically absolutely safe, yet yield a much larger return on the capital.

In investing in this latter class of security, close investigation should precede the purchase of any securities, the points to be covered more especially being,
Stability of the enterprise,
Stability of the management.

Granted satisfactory replies on these points such securities are just as safe as the best mortgages or other so-called "gilt-edge" values, while they offer most tempting returns in the way of interest.

We have secured a block of stock in an enterprise which has been most closely looked into and we are able to offer in lots of one share or more a limited quantity of its 7% preference stock which carries with it profit sharing with issues of common stock, making very probable an even larger return than 7%.

This enterprise has been in actual operation for over 20 years.

It has been uniformly successful during this period.

It has been under the same management or group of managers, for practically this entire period, and has shown, and still shows constantly increased earnings and profits and its resources owing to increasing values of the raw material, which it controls, show very considerable increase every year.

In a word this investment is one which deserves the attention of any investor seeking to increase the earning power of his capital.

Peterborough boys will attend the Orillia conference.

This conference, which has been held about this time for the last six years, is conducted under the auspices of the provincial committees of the Y.M.C.A., of Ontario and Quebec. The rate of transportation will be one fare and a third. At both points of meetings the delegates will be billeted and entertainment will be provided.

WHAT THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC MEANS TO PETERBOROUGH:

Mr. Strachan Johnst of Toronto, the lawyer who represented the Electric Power Co. interests at the Cochrane interview in Ottawa, acknowledged that the Otonabee Power Co. was controlled by the Electric Power Company interests.

Peterborough is at present completely in the hands of one big power ring, which has spent $4,000,000 entrenching itself in this district. Peterborough is at the mercy of this big corporation, except where the franchises limit the rates to be charged.

Now that the Laurier government is gone, and George P. Graham's method of handing to political favorites, power concessions, the Whitney government has a chance to introduce its hydro-electric power scheme to the Trent Valley. Sir James Whitney, a man of determination and of his word, says he will do it. He could not venture during the past six years because the Dominion government stepped in and refused to acknowledge provincial rights to the waters.

R. R. Hall is in the $4,000,000 power corporation ring. E. A. Peck stands as the advocate of the Whitney policy of power for the people at cost—not at a big profit. It is not a question of how much power or lighting is in use in Peterborough—nature has been generous to us—nor a question of whether the present rates are not exorbitant. It is a question of whether, with the great natural advantages in power to be derived from the Trent canal system, we should be so tied up that we are dependent on the good-nature and good will of the corporation which has a monopoly of the power situation.

The introduction of hydro-electric power in Toronto made a saving to the people of 30 per cent. in their lighting bills. The private monopoly had to come off its perch, and equal the hydro-electric prices. Would the people of Peterborough deliberately deliver a knock out blow to the Whitney hydro-electric power scheme—which will probably bring power to Peterborough at cost—by electing a member of the $4,000,000 power ring? Power to the people as low as the charges can be made is the policy of the hydro-electric. Peterborough should have power competition. Give Whitney the opportunity to get every help in accomplishing his purpose; to give Peterborough in power matters

COMPETITION,
INDEPENDENCE,

and then watch Peterborough forge ahead as it should.

MR. PECK SCORES AT GOOD MEETING IN MAY'S SCHOOLHOUSE

Dominion Government to Cooperate With Province for Improvement of Highways

A meeting largely attended by the electors was held at May's schoolhouse last night in the interest of the Conservative candidate. Addresses were delivered by Mr. Bradburn, Mr. Kendry and Mr. Peck, and much interest was shown in the discussion of the affairs of the province. The chair was occupied by Mr. George May.

The proposed amendments to the Workman's Compensation Act were discussed. It was pointed out that a commissioner had been appointed by the present government several months ago to investigate the laws of other countries in respect this matter, to report the changes that it was desirable to make, and to prepare a bill for submission to the House embodying these changes. It was also pointed out that the present measure was one placed on the statute book by a Reform administration, and which they had always upheld as affording a sufficient protection to the workingman.

The changes in our educational system were dwelt upon, the improvement in the standard of teachers which was being brought about, and the very substantial grants made by the government in order to encourage the payment of larger salaries to induce teachers to remain in the profession.

Mr. Hall's objection to a grant to the Provincial University was referred to, and it was pointed out that the Reform government had also contributed to its maintenance, that no objection had been made by Mr. Hall's leader, Mr. Rowell, and that the great majority of those in attendance were the sons of farmers and workmen, and who would be deprived of the opportunity of obtaining advanced education if such grants were withheld.

Highway improvement was also discussed, and the fact that the Dominion government contemplated co-operating with the province with a view of having the leading highways in the counties improved was dwelt upon. Reference was also made to the promise that in the near future cheap power would be available in this district, so that farmers and others would be enabled to take advantage of the facilities which use of electric power on their farms would afford them.

The meeting closed with cheers for the King, the chairman and the candidate.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

MR. HALL'S CIRCULAR ON EDUCATION

To The Editor of The Review:—

Sir—Mr. R. R. Hall's circular on the educational policy of the Whitney government is so full of false statements and untruths that it calls for a speedy denial and a showing up.

He asks, "why are their own friends denouncing their educational policy. He then tells a deliberate untruth when he says "even their own candidates in this election are not wholly in favor of their educational policy. Speaking for Peterborough, I emphatically deny this. The Conservative candidate and the Conservative party are proud of the record of Sir James Whitney's government, not only regarding education, which the Whitney government have kept and carried out to the letter, all the promises made to the electors at the last election.

His next statement is so grossly untrue that I wonder even at Mr. Hall making it. He says, "Sir James Whitney boasts that his government is giving $488,000 to assist in the education of 3950 sons and daughters of wealthy parents attending Toronto University, while that same government only gives $234,432 to assist in the education of 288,256 pupils attending the public schools in our cities, towns and villages.

These are his exact words. Notice his bid for the ear of labor by saying "sons and daughters of wealthy parents. Now, the University of Toronto is open to all to receive a university education. A young man's parents need not be wealthy to enable him to study at the University at Toronto, and lots of them are children of parents who are indeed very far from being wealthy. Mr. Hall is up to all the tricks of the political game and he is using all his tricks, as he knows he will need them. But use your reason when you read his circulars and you will soon see their real worth. We Conservatives have no need to appeal to class distinctions in this campaign. We know that if the true record of Sir James Whitney's government were known by every elector, every man and woman would be a follower, and an enthusiastic follower of Sir James.

Now as to his figures, like his statements they are not true, to put it in the most charitable way. Here are the TRUE figures, and I challenge Mr. Hall to dispute them. They are taken from the governments blue books.

GRANTS TO PUBLIC SCHOOLS

	1904	1911
Rural schools ...	$123,000	$188,000
Urban schools	120,000	190,000
Assisted schools ...	15,000	53,000
New district	45,000	91,000

1904 was the last year of the Ross government. How does Mr. Hall's figures stand now. Take Peterboro in 1904, the grant to schools was $2,246 in 1911 the grant to schools was $9,965 an increase of $7,719.

Now to the University of Toronto, the total grant last year was $488,575 and mark this, the management was handed over to a board of governors, composed of Reformers and Conservatives alike and chosen without reference to party politics.

Notice the great difference between the true figures as to grants to education and Mr. Hall's figures and statements and form your own opinion as to their worth.

As to his statement that the Whitney government give $150.00 per head for the education of children of wealthy parents for every $1.00 that is given to educate in our public schools the children of mechanics and workmen, weigh it up yourself. A little arithmetic will soon show you the truth or otherwise of such a statement. Really, Mr. Hall is overdoing the game there. Sense alone is required to see that.

Now, regarding the number of unqualified teachers, again Mr. Hall is exaggerating. Honestly, there are a great number of unqualified teachers in Ontario. I know that and I readily admit it. The blame, however, is not in the Whitney government, but in the late Liberal administration, and this is why; under the system of Model schools anyone who trained there for 4 months was qualified to teach. Now I put it to you as business and sensible people, can anyone be sufficiently educated and trained to teach children in 4 months? Is it reasonable? Mr. Hall calls for more and better education for our children to fit them to fight their way in life, and yet he wants to replace again the Model schools and their teachers with 4 months' training. Now, honestly, what do you parents think of a man with such a policy? The Whitney government have abolished the cause of the unqualified teachers and have removed very many of the unqualified teachers, too, and yet because in a few years there are still some left, Mr. Hall blames the Whitney government, and more absurd still, he wants to replace the cause of the trouble to remedy the trouble. Can you imagine anything more absurd. Mr. Hall knows the great mass of the electors do not read the figures, so he trades upon that and gives them his own statements and his own figures. I will gladly show anyone who would like to see them the true figures. I know that if everyone knew the true figures and facts of the record of the Whitney administration they would say as I say, that it is a record to be proud of, a good, splendid record of reform in all directions and of Liberal abuses remedied and Liberal debts paid off. The Whitney record to me only needs to be known to win the honest applause and heartiest approval of all who have the true welfare of the province, and all in it, to heart. In conclusion, Sir James Whitney is not "dumb as an oyster." His followers are satisfied and proud of his great record, and so are the electors, as they will show on Dec 11th. In a word, the Whitney government have cheapened school books. The courses of study in our schools has been brought up to date and carefully adapted to the necessities of the different parts of the province.

All schools have been greatly improved in efficiency, in accommodation and in equipment.

Teachers are better paid, better trained and are directly represented in the advisory council.

There are more schools, more teachers, more grants and better education, etc., and all this I can prove.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Two games were played in the intermediate basketball league Tues. night, the first bringing the Shamrocks and Hustlers together. The Hustlers were true to their name and hustled off with the game, score 27 to 2. The second game was very fast and close and at half time the Burglars had the Dimes tucked away in their loot bag, but after a most strenuous period in the second half the Dimes recovered and succeeded in fighting off the Burglars until time was called. Score, Dimes 9, Burglars 8.

Members who are taking part in the entertainment at Lakefield tomorrow night are requested to be at the association building at 5.45 p.m. sharp, as the 'bus will leave on time.

Y.M.C.A. CAMPAIGN

Investment of Membership Fee Brings Good Returns

Only a few more days to complete that list of 189 new members for the Y.M.C.A. There has to be some hustling, too. There are still over 100 to get.

Looks like a big proposition, doesn't it? But it should be easy. Did all the present members do their share of the work, many more than 189 would be received by Nov. 30.

The reasons which are advanced by a few active canvassers as to why Peterborough young men should join the "Y" are too numerous for enumeration. Here is how one young man puts it: "Most of the young fellows around town live 24 hours a day. I don't know of many who sleep more than eight hours of that 24. Few of us work more than 10 hours, many of us only 8. What are we going to do with the other 6 to 8 hours? The way we spend our spare time determines our success in the business world. I fear that many of us waste the most of it."

Here's where the "Y" comes in. They have a gymnasium, baths and swimming tank that are invaluable. They have a reading room with all the latest magazines, such as would cost us a hundred dollars or more, and we take them privately; and then they have a pleasant parlor to sit in, and, above all, a dandy fine lot of fellows to associate with and make life worth living and we get all these privileges for only a $5 membership.

Just to Get Married.

Kingston, Nov. 23.—"We are married and very happy." These few words on a picture postcard cleared up the mysterious disappearance of Miss Mabel Breeland, stenographer of Watertown, N.Y., and Thomas Kinney of the same place. A friend of the bride received a card yesterday telling her that the couple had been married in Cleveland. They disappeared a week ago.

Duke Will Not Interfere.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—On the advice of the Cabinet the Duke of Connaught has declined to interfere in the sentence of death passed upon James [illegible] who murdered his wife and her parents near Saskatoon.

SPORTING COLUMN.

YUSSIFF MAHMOUT

Mahmout is the man whom Frank Gotch declares is the best heavyweight wrestler of them all. Gotch ought to know; he has beaten the bunch.

It is not strange, but interesting to those who keep tab on the work of the promoters, that Mahmout is not given another chance at the real stars.

Last year, it may be recalled, Mahmout met Zbyszko twice. The first was a handicap match, in which the Bulgarian was to topple the Pole in one hour. After working the public into a near-frenzy with the bluff that they were to meet in private, they consented to let the public give up good money to watch them.

Yussiff Mahmout

The result was that Mahmout didn't throw Zbysko. It is doubtful if he really tried. But the thing looked so exciting that when a return match was announced, the public was tickled. That's a weakness the public displays occasionally. The pair met and Zbysko won, although those who had seen Mahmout upon other occasions could not understand how he managed to let his huge opponent to turn the trick.

But Zbyszko was due to win. He was to meet Gotch later, so could not be defeated.

Later, when Gotch was talking retirement, the men near the top of the game decided Dr. Roller would be next champion. He had been with Gotch, and having a noodle, was supposed to have picked up a lot of inside stuff. Roller was so nutty over this championship thing that the squirrels barked every time they got near him, and he fell for the bunk.

But Mahmout settled the Seattle man's aspirations. A lot of people imagined Roller was due to beat Mahmout, and when the Bulgarian put on the work the fact that Roller had been crossed out was apparent to good judges of physiolognomy — The wise guys showed their surprise so plainly.

GOLF'S FINEST AMATEUR

Harold H. Hilton, who may fairly be rated as the finest amateur golf player the world has seen — and probably the equal of any professional either — is rather a small man. He stands five feet six inches, weighing about 155 pounds. He was born at West Kirby, England, in 1869, so is now 42 years of age.

Twenty years ago Mr. Hilton first came into prominence as one of the two final contestants for the amateur championship of England.

The following year he made a sensation by winning the "open" championship of Great Britain, beating all the best professionals and amateurs of the day. In golf there is no bar to amateurs playing against professionals. But prior to 1892, no amateur had ever won the open championship.

In 1896 he was again "runner-up" for the amateur championship.

A year later, Hilton repeated his extraordinary feat of 1892, winning the open championship of 1897 against such men as Harry Vardon, J. H. Taylor and a field of 70 others of the best players in England.

Hilton again came into the lime light in 1900 by winning the amateur championship, and repeated it the following year.

From that time his gold seemed to fall off and the experts supposed that he was past his prime, but this year at the age of forty-two Hilton re-emerged by again winning the amateur championship of Great Britain and then coming over to America to win that of the United States.

Hilton thus has the remarkable record of having won the open championship of the world twice, the amateur championship of Great Britain three times, and the amateur championship of America once.

In letter-writing, with men the greatest difficult is in beginning a letter; with women it is more difficult to leave off. Hence the feminine postscript.

One morning Hacke received the following letter:

Dear Mr. Hacke,—

Here is a song called Canoodle-oodle-oo. The words are rotten, but the music is all right. I want you to get your brains to work right away to fit up a real original lyric to it for Miss Lanchester in the second act. I ... something that they will eat without smelling it, something refined, humorous, not too naughty, but bright and light, and with a real smart Christmas catch-line. Please bring it this afternoon. I hope there will be a good deal of remunerative work to come your way over this piece.

Yours faithfully,
OTTO STEIN.

P.S.—Make it just naughty enough.

Hacke caused his ailing wife to rise from her bed that she might play the tune over to him. It was a syncopated American importation, and after he had heard it over twenty or thirty times, Hacke sent his pianist back to bed and wrote out three trial verses, each one ending in a different tag. These he took to Mr. Stein's office. After waiting in the anteroom for an hour and seventeen minutes, he was admitted; and read them over to Mr Stein, who accepted one and made a mental note of the tags to the other tow. Hacke spent the rest of the day in forging a lyric on the lines imposed by the selected tag, and finished five verses in time to catch the midnight post.

Three days elapsed, and then Hacke was enchanted to receive the following letter:

Dear Mr. Hacke,—

Miss Lanchester has soured on the Canoodle music, but she thinks your lyric enormous. I am therefore putting Moscardi on to it right away. I enclose my cheque for five dollars in payment of all rights in your lyric. Kindly execute and return accompanying assignment of same.

Yours faithfully,
OTTO STEIN.

Hacke went up to the Street to cash the cheque, so that he might buy some medicine for his wife and a stamp to post the assignment with (for itw as beneath his dignity to leave it at Mr. Stein's office). In Mooney's bar he met Moscardi, who told him that he had just seen Mr. Stein. Moscardi was greatly pleased because Mr. Stein had accepted his setting of a lyric.

"It's one of the best things I've ever done," said Moscardi. "Haunting, my boy, absoloolty. The lyric is too rotten for words, and it'll have to be altered here and there to fit my melody. Haunting, my boy." And after drinking another small Bass, at Hacke's expense, he filled his pockets with biscuits from the counter, and went off humming his air delightedly.

Next morning Hacke received the following letter:

Dear Mr. Hacke,—

I return your lyric with Moscardi's setting. He has done a very good tune, and I do not want to lose it. Will you alter your words where necessary, and let me have both back this afternoon?

Yours faithfully,
OTTO STEIN

Hacke stirred up his wife once more, and found that as Moscardi's music was in waltz time (a peculiarly haunting measure), his verses required such radical alteration that it was necessary to rewrite them. He took them up to Mr. Stein's office himself. When he got there he found that Mr. Stein had gone to a theatre but had left word that he would be glad if Hacke would follow him there with the words. This Hacke did. Mr Stein did not like the new version at all. Hacke sat up all night making another, which he posted himself while he was going to fetch the doctor for his wife.

He heard nothing more about his song for several days, and was beginning to wonder if Mr. Stein had abandoned him, and was trying to screw up his courage to call at the office and make sure, when he received the following telegram:

"Come at once.—Stein."

Hacke was delighted with this telegram. He thought it meant more remunerative work. When he got to the office, Mr. Stein told him that he had decided to give the song to the baritone, because the music was too vocal for Miss Lanchester. Would Hacke therefore, make out a good rousing entrance song for Rupert, which would give scope for chorus business for the Fluffy Girls; something real new? And so, after recommending Hacke to stoke up and get full steam on his brains, Mr. Stein wished him good day.

Of the production Hacke was pardonably proud; and with the carelessness in money matters of the self-satisfied artist (who is anxious to get back to an invalid wife as quickly as possible) he took an omnibus instead of walking. Mr. Stein condemned the verses without any regard either to Hacke's feelings or the decency of language.

"I want something new," he said, "and you bring me stuff that's so shiny you can shave in it. Here am I breaking my heart to get this piece up to sample for Christmas, and you fellows won't do a thing to help. I'll have to get some one else to write this song, Hacke."

At these awful words Hacke begged to be allowed to try once more; and there was something so desperate in his voice and face that Mr. Stein relented, and let him have his way. He even gave Hacke a cigarette.

On his way home Hacke had an inspiration which, before morning, he hewed into a comic song of eight verses, and sent it off to Mr. Stein by express messenger.

This song was subsequently used (with music by Holme St. Loo) in the second act, and made the fortune of the piece.

But Hacke has no cause for complaint. He got a $5 note.

PROPHECY BY FATHER STANTON

Frank Heffernan to Become Another "Lawson" He Declares

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The Ottawa College football team, which finished second in the Intercollegiate Union this season, was tendered a complimentary banquet by the Prefect of the college to-night.

Father Stanton congratulated the players on their good showing, but made no reference to the protests which followed the crucial game against University of Toronto. Cheers, however, were proposed for "the greatest team in Canada."

It was afterwards announced that every man of this year's team might be available for next fall. Quilty and Kennedy are graduating, but it is probable that both will be back for extra courses. Father Stanton predicted that College would win the Dominion championship next year, and prophesied that Heffernan, the Peterborough boy who did the sensational work in the Intercollegiate final, would prove "another Lawson." The College team has a surplus of $2,500, and in a week or so each of the members of the team will be honored with a souvenir of their successful season.

Jerry Harrington appeared at the festive board with his right hand in a sling, and it was announced that two small bones had been broken during the first half of the match against Varsity, though he played until the finish without knowing it.

Phil. Cornellier, the phenomenal kicking half, who was among the speakers, announced that he had a brother coming to the college next year who is a better punter than himself.

TIRED OF WORK DOWN ON THE FARM

Two Newcomers Were After Positions as Overseer

Some of the queer experiences of an immigration officer will be shown by the following little incident:

Two middle-aged men who came to this country from the mother-land last May, were given positions as farm-hands by the immigration officer on two farms in the vicinity of Lakefield. Apparently tiring of the work, they popped up recently at the Water street office in a state of intoxication and began inquiring of Mr. Hewson, if he had any positions on farms for them as "bailiffs," or overseers.

When told by the officer that such an office was not in the curriculum of Canadian farms but that a farmer managed his own business, they then became very belligerent, and insisted that other positions be given them right away. Mr. Hewson, with his usual care, tried to talk to the men in a reasoning manner, but they became very abusive, and informed him that it was their intention to write to the immigration headquarters, and, to use their own words, "expose him." What they were to expose is a mystery, but the booze undoubtedly was accountable for the obstinate and unreasonable behavior.

SHIP MILK IN BAGGAGE CARS

New Regulation Approved by the Railway Commission

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—An order of great interest to farmers has been issued by the Railway Commission as a result of an application made on June 22, by the Montreal Milk Shippers' Association.

This provides that every can shipped must have the owner's name stencilled on it, and cover firmly attached. They must all be loaded on the cars by shippers and the empty ones will be returned by the railway companies without extra charges.

If there are under 20 empty cans the railway will unload these; if there are under 40 the shipper must supply one man to aid; if there are over 40, the shipper must supply two. If any train is delayed over 30 minutes, the trainmen must load the milk. After Sept. 1 next year the railway companies will not be forced to take any can less than eight gallons. The commission took no action in the matter of rates, as they have already been scheduled.

Duty on Homing Pigeons.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Homing pigeons brought into the United States from Canada to be released for the purpose of flying back to the Dominion, are officially known in this country as "poultry," and unless imported under bond, are liable to a duty of five cents per pound. The Treasury Department so decided yesterday. The point was raised by the Forest City Homing Club of London, Ont., which has sent birds across the international border at various times and duty paid in each instance.

May Revise Russian Treaty.

Washington, Nov. 23.—There was a well-defined report in Washington yesterday that President Taft in his forthcoming message to Congress, might have something to say on the subject of possible negotiations between the United States and Russia, looking to a revision of the treaty of 1832, principally to remove the present restrictions upon the rights of travel and domicile of American Jews in Russia.

The rumor was coincident with the beginning of the official calls of Geo. Bakmetieff, the new Russian ambassador. Mr. Bakmetieff had quite a long talk with Secretary Knox at the State Department and soon will present his credentials to the President.

London, Ont., Nov. 23.—Last Tuesday afternoon E. T. Essery, acting for Mrs. Julia Hanson, issued a writ for unstated damages against William W. Wallace for alleged breach of promise of marriage. Yesterday Rev. Thomas H. Mitchell, pastor of New St. James' Presbyterian Church, robbed the court of an interesting case by uniting the contending parties in marriage.

Third act—The capture of the omnibus by the member from Jacques Cartier (Monk), and the determination to have a plebiscite.

Last act—Let slip by the Minister of Marine in his speech last night, that they intended to go, not to the people, but to the British Admiralty.

"And I hope," added Dr. Clarke, "that when he goes over, he will take with him Mr. Monk and Mr. Bourassa.

Hon. F. D. Monk replied to Dr. Clarke by referring to him as a hide-bound free trader, who seemed to take a singular satisfaction in the fact that for fifteen years he had supported a protectionist Government.

What was the purport of the amendment to the address? he asked. It was a representation to the crown of a supposed division in the Cabinet. There was no precedent in English constitutional history in the last 300 years for such a representation. In modern times the complexion of the Cabinet was in the control of the House of Commons.

Passing quickly to the question of reciprocity. Mr. Monk declared that it was not only sentiment, but a careful weighing of all the conditions and facts that had led the people of Canada to determine to keep their entity, to remain in the Empire, and to develop their resources regardless of all foreign influence.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his campaign in the Province of Quebec had endeavored to instill the idea that he and he alone was capable of protecting his compatriots against the encroachments of the Conservative party. He owed his loss of influence in that province, said Mr Monk, to the falsity of that charge and the refuge he took under it so long.

"That loss of confidence," he continued, "he will never regain in our province."

In connection with the Manitoba schools and again in the constitution of the new Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, Sir Wilfrid had chances to show his care for the French-Canadians, but he deceived the confidence that was placed in him.

WHO'S WHO IN CANADA

SIR HENRY M. PELLATT

Few men of the Dominion have done better work in the direction of bringing to the attention of the world beyond the seas what sort of men they are who compose this Canada of ours. Others have done their part with the pen, with the brush, and in other literary connections of a more or less beneficial character. Sir Henry produced the goods, so to speak. At his own financial expense, and doubtless at no inconsiderable personal trouble and inconvenience, he took to the old country the "Queen's Own" of Toronto of which he is Lt.-Colonel, first to the coronation of King Edward, and on the second occasion to the Aldershot Manoeuvres, thus showing to the folks in the old land how well Canada was following in the footsteps of her martial progenitors, and at the same time holding out in front of all whom it might concern, a suggestion that should occasion arise there was a conjoint Imperial army of good men and true to be taken into account.

SIR H. M. PELLATT
Lt.-Col. "Queen's Own" Rifles

From the mere advertising point of view, it was undoubtedly a great producer for Canada of brain, brawn and capital.

By those capable of judging, the Colonel is reckoned a clever business man, methodical to a degree, with the virtue of patience running all the time in the correct direction. His knowledge of public affairs is wide, and his application of that knowledge is directed along lines that are broad enough to bring appreciation and of commendation from men of all colors of politics and shades of religion.

In addition to these, and a number of other admirable points, Sir Henry is first and all the time an Imperialist, — and a strong type of the breed at that.

Born at Toronto in 1860, the Colonel had his civil life education at Upper Canada College. His military attainments were handed out by nature. At the age of fifteen, young Pellatt entered the office of his father, and if he did not actually scrub out the floor and polish up the handle of the big front door, he no doubt went through the usual ordinary schedule of the office lad of the times. From the outset it was on evidence that his business acumen was right, and when yet a young man he blossomed out as junior partner with his father in the firm of Pellatt and Pellatt. Since then his name has been associated with a large number of commercial and industrial concerns, and in every instance, be it said, with honor and success.

Amongst other things, Sir Henry is a director of The Crow's Nest Pass Company; is president of the Toronto Electric Light Company, of the Toronto and Niagara Power Company, and the Cobalt Lake Mining Company; vice-president of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company; director of the Toronto Railway Co., the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co., the Dominion Iron and Steel Co., the British America Assurance Co., etc., etc., and also finds hours to devote to the duties that fall on a governor of Grace Hospital, and a trustee of Trinity University.

Joining the Queen's Own regiment in early life, Sir Henry has passed through all the commissioned ranks to the command, and was, it will be remembered, major of the Canadian contingent to the Queen's Jubilee celebrations in England in 1897. He is member of such clubs as the Toronto, National, and Rideau, and all the recreation demands of his nature are satisfied in connection with his military duties.

H. R. H. WAS DELIGHTED

Since his arrival, H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught has signified his pleasure at the complete arrangements made for his transportation from England to the Canadian Capital both on board the Empress of Ireland and on the special train by which he was carried from Quebec to Ottawa, and he has highly complimented the C. P. R. officials on their forethought and attention. One of the minor details that especially pleased the Royal party was a special edition of their annotated time-table, provided for the trip from Quebec to Ottawa. The time-table was bound in white padded kid, bearing the Duke of Connaught's coat-of-arms embossed in color.

Corn-mills are often mentioned in the Bible. The original corn-mill much resembled the modern druggist's pestle. Moses forbade corn-mills to be taken in pawn, for that, he thought, was like taking a man's life in pledge.

MORE THAN FRUIT AND WINE

Contrary to Popular Belief, Portugal is one of the World's Highly Mineralised Countries.

In the popular mind Portugal is generally associated with wine and fruit as its only industries and products, yet there are several important mining concerns which add materially to the wealth of the country. For its size it is one of the most highly mineralised countries in the world; but while in the time of the Romans it was the scene of much mining and metallurgical activity, in these days its resources are not developed to the extent that they should be.

The great belt of copper-bearing iron pyrites which springs from the Sierra Morena in Spain passes through Algarve and Estremadura in Portugal, and is lost in the sea near Lisbon. All through its course it is associated with manganese. These are the only minerals south of the Tagus. The Spanish end of the belt is much wider than the part which passes into Portugal, and is worked by many large companies, the most important being the Rio Tinto and the Tharsis mines. The former is the largest mine of any kind in the world. On the Portuguese side the largest mine is the San Domingos, in the extreme south; farther north the Aljustrel mines, and nearer Lisbon the Mina da Coveira. Besides these there are several others of less importance. This is the copper district of the country.

In one of the Portuguese mines where the gossan attains a thickness of one hundred and thirty feet it is treated with marked success for the small quantity of gold and silver which it contains.

It is a noteworthy fact that no mine of any importance in either Spain or Portugal has been discovered that has not been worked by the Romans during their occupation of these countries. Wherever mineral outcrops appear the Roman workings are to be found, and in many cases heaps of slag amounting to many thousands of tons.

The Cry of the "Devil-Bird."

Of all the awe-inspiring sounds emited by wild creatures none is to be compared to that of the "devil-bird" of Ceylon, whose cry has been likened to the scream of a human being undergoing the most frightful torture. Naturalists have identified this bird with the brown wood-owl found in Hindustan. The "devil-bird," or ulama, as the Cingalese call it, is an elusive creature. The natives of Ceylon regard the cry of this bird with superstitious horror, for, it is claimed, its scream heard at night presages the most dire misfortunes. An official of the Ceylon civil service has given some study to this curious bird. Its ordinary note, he states, is a magnificent clear shout like that of a human being, heard at a great distance, and producing a fine effect in the silence of the night. But the sounds that have earned for the bird its bad name, and which this officer reports he heard to perfection but once, are said to be well-nigh indescribable, the most appalling that can be imagined, and scarcely to be heard without a shudder. It has been compared to the cries of a boy in torture, whose screams are being stopped by strangulation.

Stronger than Dynamite

The recent death of the inventor of the Japanese explosive, shimose powder, which played such an important part in the Russian war, adds interest to the announcement made by B. F. B. Wright, a former professor of chemistry at Harvard, that he has discovered a new explosive that is almost safe to handle and three times as powerful as dynamite. Of course the ingredients are being kept a secret. It is said that the new explosive will not damage anything unless fired in an airtight chamber. A bag of it has been dropped from a six-story window of the sidewalk, grains of it have been pounded on an anvil, and a rapid-fire gun has been shot into a mass of it, all with no explosion following. Mr. Wright claims that it will stand 275 degrees of heat without igniting and so the danger of spontaneous combustion is obviated. It will not freeze, and it can be used 15 minutes after being compounded Dynamite must be stored 90 days before it can be used.

Why Your Fingers Crack.

Dr. Howard Marsh tells in a recent paper that the "snap," which is often both felt and heard when a joint that has long been stiff or at rest is suddenly moved, is a phenomenon to which bonesetters point as a plain demonstration that a bone was out and has been put in. These snaps, however, are not produced by the concussion of two joint surfaces as they come suddenly into contact but, on the contrary, are due to the sudden separation of two surfaces which have been stuck together by a too viscid and tenacious synovial fluid (the synovial fluid is of the consistency of white of egg, and is Nature's lubricator of our joints, in the cavities of which it is present). Many persons can make all their fingers crack by steadily pulling at them till the joint surfaces suddenly separate.

The Ivory Supply.

In view of the rapid disappearance of the herds of elephants which formerly roamed in Africa, and the limited number of those animals remaining in Asia, attention has been called to the enormous supply of ivory, which exists in the frozen tundras of Siberia, and which, it is thought, will probably suffice for the world's consumption for many years to come. This ivory consists of the tusks of the extinct species of elephant called mammoths. The tusks of these animals were of great size, and are wonderfully abundant at some places in Siberia.

Three Windsor men have been arrested in Chicago on charges of opium smuggling.

INDIAN RIVER

Special Correspondence

Indian River, Nov. 22—The Baptist church concert, held here on the 14th was a decided success and the efforts of Park street choir in entertaining greatly appreciated. The proceeds were something short of thirty dollars.

Mr. P. C. Towns shipped fowl yesterday, and is reported to have done a big business.

Many of the Indian River inhabitants are talking rather seriously of erecting a hall for the benefit of the community at large. Now this would be a fine thing, and a great social improvement. Messrs. David Kidd and Arthur Devlin are quite enthusiastic over it, and we expect they will do much to push it along.

Miss Maybelle Elmhurst was in the city last Saturday and returned home on Sunday.

We are deeply grateful for the "Musical Instrument" Mr. P. Walker has brought into the village, not only is it of great benefit to himself but gives daily, nay hourly pleasure to the surrounding neighborhood.

Oshkimong, Nov. 23.—Talk about runners C.A.C. can produce them Jack Jacobs, one of the Chemong braves, went out fox hunting with his dog the other day, after toiling and tramping through the woods, he and his dog succeeded in starting Mr. Fox, who was enjoying its repose under some dark thicket. The dog took after it as fast as its four legs could go, but gradually losing its gain. Jack seeing the swiftness of the canine, was not sufficient to bring the fox to bay, and in a sense, almost "laying aside every weight," Mr. Jacobs, to relieve his dog took after the fox, employing every muscle and sinew, gaining up to it at almost every stride, the fox occasionally looking up to its pursuer as much as to say, "no Jack, you will have to go a little faster if you will keep up," then the fox would re-double its pace. Prompted by ambition to secure his prize Jack in like manner, would re-double his, the dog still following several hundred yards behind, barking furiously probably at the fox, or applauding Jack for his extraordinary fleetness. Finally the fox discovering the locomotive powers of Mr. Jacobs, was more than a match at five or six hundred yards dash and the situation was very critical. The poor fox voluntarily made up his mind that Jack was the best runner of the three, and submitted itself to the unmerciful hands of John, for he was not at all lenient to the poor fox John and Sanks congratulated themselves for being able to run down a fox even in its own choice of, course They divided up the spoil, Jack kept the pelt and Sanks the meat.

An Innovation in Oil Heaters

The Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater, with its drums enameled in turquoise, is an ornament to any room, whether in the country or city home.

No home is quite complete without a Perfection Oil Heater. It is a necessity in the fall and spring, when it is too warm to start the regular heating apparatus, and too cool to be without heat. In the midst of winter it is often convenient as an auxiliary heater, as there are always some cold corners in a house.

The enameled heater always presents a nice appearance, as the enamel will not tarnish or burn off. It is not an "enamel paint," but it is the same as the enamel of your cooking utensils.

The Perfection is the most reliable and convenient portable heating device you can find. An automatically-locking flame spreader prevents turning the wick high enough to smoke.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Splendid Paper on the Aims and Objects of Organization

Special Correspondence.

Warsaw, Nov. 22—The subject of this paper is one that is becoming of general interest throughout the country; therefore, a few remarks in regard to the object and progress of the Woman's Institute may not be out of place. 1st. Woman's Institute was organized at Stony Creek in 1897. The object of the Woman's Institute is as follows: 1st. To promote the knowledge of household science, which shall lead to improvement in household architecture, with special attention to home sanitation, to a better understanding of hygiene and economic value of foods and fuels, and to a more scientific care of children, with a view of raising the general standard of health of our people, mutual improvement by interchange of views by essays, lectures or other means found [illegible], upon all subjects pertaining to the welfare of our homes and our families. This is certain, woman's age, and the weal or woe of our country lies largely in the hands of the mothers, and I think my readers will agree with me, that in order to bring about a better, truer, and purer state of our mothers and daughters, must have a more scientific, or intelligent understanding of the duties that devolve upon them as home makers and nation builders (the men are also interested) while the home is certainly woman's kingdom, do the men owe no allegiance to it? Have they no responsibility? If anything is to be accomplished in the home or in the world, there must not be division of interest. The idea in the past has been that women could manage the affairs of home, and men the affairs of state, but if, as Mr. Gladstone has said, the home is the foundation of the state then surely the interests of the home and the nation are one. When I say division of interest I do not mean division of labor, for while woman's work differs from that of man, and is intended by the Creator to be different, yet there should be a common interest in home and national affairs. The formation of the W.I. in conjunction with the Farmers' Institute is essentially qualified to fulfil these requirements. The question is often raised, "What is woman's sphere?" I think it has been truly said that where her life touches another life, there she has responsibility, and there is her place.

"Should women be reformers?" Who are so intensely interested in the great reforms of the day as women? The question is now raised, have women any right to be interested in these reforms? But what is the best method of dealing with these questions from a woman's standpoint? In answering that question I would say, from the standpoint of the home. If the homes of Canada were what they ought to be, in this 20th century, we could look forward to the future, feeling assured that these reforms about which we are so anxious would be speedily effected. Then, is the work of home making to be despised, to be looked down upon, or is it rather to be accepted as a sacred responsibility and trust from God? Now, if a woman is to rule wisely and well in her own home, it is absolutely necessary that she come in contact with others, that she should keep in touch with the great outside world. What would we think of the sovereign of any nation who would shut herself within her own kingdom and refuse to come in contact with other countries? We know that before long her people would degenerate and her kingdom be destroyed. We have only to look at China as an example of this. She has shut herself within herself and refused to come in contact with others, until she has become a cat's paw for other nations. Then, is it not just as necessary that women should mingle with others in order that she may be better fitted to manage her own home. Since the foundation of the farmers' Institute, farming has received a new impetus, the farmers are now fond of their profession, and the old cry of drudgery is not often heard. However, the cry is still heard in some of the farm homes. The same work is done day in and day out, with no other thought than getting one thing done to get to the next. You have no doubt heard the lines (the daily round, the common task, will furnish all we ought to ask.) Well, that may be true enough if we could realize the wonderful forces in nature with which we are coming in contact continually in our daily round of work, our work would no longer be the common task, but scientific research; even dishwashing would become less of drudgery and more of pleasure. For instance, did we know something of these microrganisms that are all around us we would realize the importance of plenty of hot water and sunlight in caring for dish clothes, etc., and in thinking of the effect of sunlight and other forces our mind would be so pleasantly occupied that our work would be done before we realized it. At our institute meetings all subjects for the uplifting of the home and the bettering of house keeping methods are discussed, and I am sure there are many advantages to be gained, and it will promote a spirit of sympathy and co-operation with the Farmers' Institute, which has hitherto been able to contribute much knowledge of practical benefit to the women. There never has been a time when the important relation, which good cooking bears to good conduct, was so thoroughly understood, or when there was so much thought given to the hygiene of the kitchen as now. Then intercourse broadens our lives. Our farmers' wives, aside from their attendance at church, get out none too often, but coming into contact with other lives we get new ideas and new thoughts and these greatly widen one's sphere of usefulness.

Now, to make a success of farming there must be co-operation between the farmer and his wife. I know of no other occupation where the wife must so necessarily be a co-partner in the business with her husband; but we are sorry to say, there are some wives who appear to be only a dead weight on their husband's hands; some are looked upon as only bills of expense. I remember telling a young practical farmer about our institute and asking him to tell his wife about it, he replied, "oh, she is no farmer." Well now, I almost felt sorry for that man. But we know there are many excellent wives, to whom their husbands owe their prosperity and will tell you they now own dollars, where they would not have owned cents, if it had not been for their good wives. There are so many interests about the farm closely connected with the work of the thrifty housewife, that they are almost a part of her work as well. It is not necessary for a woman to work in the field, but there is a distinct woman's work in the country and on the farm as well as in any condition of society and there is no notion so disastrous as to begin to feel above one's business. There are some who may not think it worth their while to try. They will say, "what chance have farmers' wives in the country to be anything, there is so and so of their friends have a good position in some fine establishment, and Miss Somebody else has taken a high standing in some of the professions; my dear friends it is very doubtful if you and I were trying to fill those positions if we would give satisfaction; but one thing we may be if we choose and that is a good house-keeper, and that is just as honorable and noble as any other occupation and not nearly so wearisome as some. There is a measure of success for all who will strive for it in this line as well as in others if we are willing to pay the price for it, which is honest industry and perseverance. A woman's duties are many her responsibilities are even more. The young girls who shall in the future, preside over the agricultural homesteads of Ontario will be far better fitted to assume the responsibility than were a majority of their mothers when they came to preside over the new homes which marriage gave them. This is due to the different education they are receiving.

We are told by economists that every skilled laborer is a benefit to his country, then surely every farmer and every farmer's wife must be even more valuable as an economical factor as they are props upon which the whole humane structure rests.

How often do we hear the remark, and it is a true saying "that the farmer feeds the world." It was the first occupation given to man to till the soil. Let the young farmers and their wives unite in general demand for mutual advantage and not as it has been, a one-sided development; with this end in view, place before ourselves a high ideal and strive to attain it. Cultivate a fondness for our calling, for what we love to do we will do well.

JERMYN NEWS

Special Correspondence.

Jermyn, Nov. 21—As the reporter has just got back from his trip, we shall still continue to keep Jermyn news breezy.

Nearly all the farmers were about done ploughing when it froze up. Mr. Hugh Fife was an exception as he was put back on account of the building of his new barn. But we hope that the spring will open out early so as to enable him to do the work before the seeding season sets in.

Another skunk was recently caught by Andy Hall. Farmers should be glad of this, as these annimals are liable to steal their chickens at night.

Miss Emma Usher was the guest of Miss Janet Breckenridge last Sunday.

The brick house which still stands idle at Jermyn looks rather lonesome but we hear that a young couple may occupy it after Christmas.

The blacksmith butchered a fine hog which will keep him in pork most of the winter.

People will soon have to get out their cutters, as the snow still continues to come. Although three or four farmers have not got their turnips in yet, that is worse than not having the ploughing done.

Freddie Fife has a great time choring in his new stables. He only wishes, that was all he had to do, as it is far nicer in there than outside this cold stormy weather.

HALL'S BRIDGE

Special Correspondence

Hall's Bridge, Nov. 22.—On Monday, the 6th of November, one of the earliest pioneers of Smith township was called from labor and toil here in his 83rd year, in the person of Mr. James Freeborn, of the 8th concession. Very early in life he came with his parents from the North of Ireland across the Atlantic and spent the greater part of his allotted four score years in Canada. He was always known as a quiet, industrious man, and a good, obliging neighbor, which was shown by the large gathering of friends and neighbors at the funeral service at his late home, conducted by the Presbyterian minister, of Lakehurst and Hall's Bridge. He was buried at the Lakefield cemetery. He is survived by his widow and five children, three sons and two daughters, all of whom but one live near Hall's Bridge.

Q. What is Astigmatism of the eye?

A. Astigmatism is an uneven curvature of the eye and causes double focus. As the eye always strives for clear vision this double focus annoys the brain and causes headache and nervousness. We make lenses called cylinders to correct astigmatism.

Q. What causes double vision?

A. Double vision is caused by the eyes not being in line, that is, one may turn up or have a tendency to do so, or both may turn in, a weak muscular system is back of it all.

We would be pleased to have you call and let us explain how such conditions can be relieved with glasses.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC COMMISSION GETS DAMS NO. 4 AND 8 FROM THE DOMINION

SIR ED. GRAY IN DISFAVOR

Policy of Secrecy in Diplomacy Unpopular

Secretary of Foreign Affairs May Resign

London, Nov. 24.—The belief prevails in political circles that Sir Edward Grey, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, will retire from the Cabinet after the eagerly awaited exposition on foreign relations on Nov. 27 in the House of Commons and that James Bryce, Ambassador to the United States will succeed him.

The resignation of the Foreign Secretary will almost certainly be handed to the Prime Minister should any lack of confidence be shown in his policy during which will follow his statement on Monday.

Sir Edward Grey, who during the earlier years of his occupancy of the Foreign Office received the almost unanimous support of all parties, has recently been the object of continuous attack, not from the Opposition, but by members of his own party, or rather the extreme radical element in that party. The secrecy with which diplomatic negotiations have been carried on has aroused the fire of the radicals, who latterly have received some support from the more moderate Liberals.

The disclosures regarding the Anglo-German conversations with respect to Morocco and the statements that these two countries were on the verge of war, have given the Radicals another opening, and they are now, it is understood, pressing for the retirement of Sir Edward, declaring that "We won't be drawn into war without knowing the reason why."

The Radicals favor an Anglo-German agreement and accuse Sir Edward Grey of balking their efforts in this direction, either by his own design or through the influence of anti-German officials to the Foreign Office. Should Sir Edward resign, Viscount Haldane, Secretary of War, and Reginald McKenna, will likely follow him.

James Bryce is the man thought most likely to be his successor, as Mr. Bryce would be supported by the entire party, as he was when the Unionists attacked him for the part he took in the negotiations on the subject of reciprocity between the United States and Canada.

By a tacit understanding the Unionist leaders support the Government's foreign policy or at least refrain from criticizing it. They, like the moderate Liberals argue: "Why turn a brilliant diplomatic victory into defeat by sacrificing the victor, in order to secure the goodwill of vanquished Germans?"

The lobby is full of rumors of other troubles besetting the Government. It is said in Unionist quarters that the Cabinet is not able to satisfy John Redmond's home rule demands, which have increased through fear of the growing O'Brienite strength in Ireland and the Laborites are dissatisfied with the findings of the royal commission last August with respect to the railway strike. They blame the Cabinet for failure to secure recognition of the unions.

The Prime Minister, it is true, is under moral obligations to avoid a crisis during the King's absence, but it may be beyond his power to do so.

Germnay Is Waiting.

Cologne, Germany, Nov. 24.—Foreign Secretary Von Kiderlin-Waechter's explanation leaves no doubt that an Anglo-German clash was imminent in July, according to an apparently inspired despatch from Berlin in The Cologne Gazette, which adds: "The acute crisis is passed, but the situation remains grave. Germany awaits with even greater tension Great Britain's coming explanations. Upon this will depend the relations of the two countries in the future—whether they are to be distrustful and unfriendly or whether a better understanding will be brought about. Germany is reluctant to believe in the possibility that a war could break out over night between two great powers without a real question being at issue, but late events have spoken early."

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC COMMISSION IS MOVING; POWER AT COST FOR THE TRENT DISTRICT

New Dams to be Built Along the Canal in Addition to the Two Which the Commission Has Received From the Dominion Government.

SPECIAL TO THE REVIEW

Toronto, Nov, 24—The hydro-electric Commission Officials stated to-day to your correspondent that new dams were likely to be constructed in the Trent Valley district besides the two which the commission has acquired, and which it will develop in connection with other dams to be expropriated.

" Now we have obtained a foot hold " said the official " we will not stop until that entire territory gets power at cost."

DAMS NO. 4 AND 8 ARE OBTAINED BY COMMISSION TO DEVELOP

Commission Scores a Victory in Fight for Cheap Power For This District—Whole District is Included in the Scheme.

Toronto, Nov 24.—The Provincial government yesterday obtained the much-longed-for authority which will enable it to bring cheap power to the cities and towns and villages and farmers of the great eastern expanse of Ontario This important announcement was made yesterday afternoon in the form of a wire received from Hon Adam Beck, at Ottawa, stating that the Dominion government had granted leases on dams No 4 and 8 on the Trent Canal to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission At dam No. 4, which is on the Peterborough and Lakefield division, it is stated, about 3,000 h p will be developed to supply Peterborough and Lakefield and the immediate vicinity; while at dam No 8, which is on the Rice Lake branch, 5,000 h p will be generated to supply electrical energy to the lower districts of Eastern Ontario

This extension of the Hydro-Electric scheme will cover the large district comprising the following municipalities: Kingston, Belleville, Trenton, Cobourg, Napanee, Picton, Whitby, Peterborough, Lakefield, Lindsay, and many other lesser places A large number of municipalities will vote on power by-laws in the coming elections

Hon Mr. Beck stated that the Hydro power scheme had been retarded two years in Eastern Ontario by the late Dominion government, which leased most of the available power on the Trent Canal to private corporations such as the Seymour Power Company On Friday last, however a large deputation, comprising representatives from Peterborough and Lakefield, and other municipalities, led by the Hon Adam Beck, waited on Hon Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals; Hon J. C. Doherty, Minister of Justice, and Hon F. D. Monk, Minister of Public Works, and applied for a lease of the power rights to dams No 4 and No 8. They were opposed in the application by the representatives of the Seymour Power Company, and judgment, which was then reserved, was delivered yesterday according to the foregoing advice

Nov 24.—Not guilty of unlawfully conspiring to fraudulently obtain a certificate for the defunct Farmers Bank from the treasury board was the judgment given last night by Judge Winchester in the case of Mr J. R. Stratton and Mr. James J Warren, who appeared before him in County Court last week With this decision all the men accused of conspiracy and theft in connection with the bank failure are cleared of all criminal liability, except Dr Beattie Nesbitt, who is still a fugitive from justice

Despite this judgment, however, Messrs Stratton and Warren will appear in the Spring Assizes, according to the indictment, on the ruling of Mr Justice Riddell The presiding judge in the case in the Assize Court will likely act upon the judgment delivered by Judge Winchester.

The judgment reads:

"J R Stratton and James J. Warren appeared before me on a charge that they, in the year 1906 at the city of Toronto, unlawfully did conspire, combine, confederate and agree together with each other and other persons to represent to the treasury board that a sum of not less than $250,000 had been bona fide paid by the subscribers to the capital stock of the Farmers Bank of Canada, with the intent to unlawfully obtain from the treasury board the certificate mentioned in section 14 of the Bank Act, being chapter 29 of the R.S.C., 1906, and amendments thereto, permitting the said the Farmers Bank of Canada, to commence business, and thereby committing an indictable offence.

NO WRONGDOING

"The Crown produced evidence in support of this charge, the main witness being W. R. Travers, formerly manager of the Farmers Bank In his evidence, he stated, that he applied to Mr Warren, then manager of the Trusts and Guarantee Company, for a personal loan of $80,000, and with the authority of the provisional directors of the Farmers Bank, who endorsed without recourse certain promissory notes given by subscribers for shares in the bank, he offered a number of these notes as security for such advance Subsequently he found that he required $30,000 more, and he offered Mr. Warren additional security for such a loan; that these were personal loans: that upon the cheques being made out for the amounts thus borrowed he, Travers, directed the same to be paid to the Bank of Montreal, so that they could be utilized for the purpose of depositing it with the Finance Minister to assist in making up the deposit of $250,000 required by the Bank Act. He stated that there was no agreement with Mr. Warren or with Mr. Stratton as to any unlawful act, or had they any knowledge of any wrongdoing in connection with these deposits; that, so far as they were concerned, it was a pure matter of business with them, for which they received interest and a bonus. This bonus apparently was divided up with the Manufacturers Life Association, who advanced $55,000 of the $80,000 and received 55-80th of the interest and bonus. He stated that Mr. Warren and Mr. Stratton acted in the utmost good faith in the transaction, and had no knowledge of the improper use that was made subsequently by him with the moneys received from the Trusts and Guarantee Company and with the subscription list. At the conclusion of the hearing I felt that the evidence was insufficient to warrant a conviction under the charge before me, but in consequence of counsel for the Crown referring me to a number of cases to support his contention, I reserved judgment for the purpose of considering the same. I have since then considered not only these but a number of other cases bearing upon the question at issue.

OTHER CASES CITED.

"In the case of Rex v. Brailsford, 75 L.J., K.B., 64, the evidence showed that the two defendants charged with conspiracy made false representation in obtaining a passport in the name of of one of them with the intent that it should be used by a different person, and it was held that such act tended to bring about a public mischief, and therefore an indictable misdemeanor. In the case of Dominion Salvage and Wrecking Co. v. the Attorney-General of Canada 21 C.C.R. 72, it was held that a fraudulent subscription had been made by one of the directors in trust, not for himself, but actually for the company, with the understanding that he would not be called upon to pay it, and that the deposit in a chartered bank by the directers was not real but only simulated, and the charter was set aside as being obtained by fraud. The evidence in the present case is entirely different from that given in the above. While it showed a wrongdoing with intent to commit an offence in those cases, the evidence herein shows no intent on the part of the defendants to do an unlawful act. I therefore find the defendants not guilty of the charge against them upon the evidence produced before me."

MR. ROWELL IS A TIMID MAN

Fears a Portfolio of Power Would Be Bad.

It Would Lead to the Patronage System.

Woodstock, Nov. 24.—Back in his own riding, North Oxford, N. W. Rowell, K.C., the Liberal leader, delivered another fighting speech last night, declaring that the Liberal party stands unalterably opposed to transferring the great business enterprises of the municipalities — the Hydro-electric system, to a department of the Government, where, he alleged, spoils and patronage systems will have free play. He asked for support "in order that we may prevent this wrong from being done to the municipalities."

"Neither party can claim the credit for forwarding the scheme," he said. The representatives of the municipalities brought up the scheme and carried it along with co-operation of the Government, he said.

"The Hydro-electric was under way before Mr. Beck became connected with it," said Mr. Rowell. "But I would like to give him a great deal of credit for the work he has done."

"The Hydro-electric should be kept from political influence and intrigue. We take issue with Sir James when he proposes to turn it over and make it part of the political organization of this province.

"Public ownership of public utilities will only justify itself provided you have efficient economical and nonpartisan management. No worse blow could be dealt to public ownership than by subjecting the management of this great public utility to the influence of the spoils faction of either party. Against such a proposal all the municipalities of this province should enter their most emphatic protests. It must be free from political influence. That is our policy. Upon it we will stand or fall."

The meeting was held in the local opera house, and there were about 300 present, the place not being nearly filled. Dr. McKay, who resigned his seat for Mr. Rowell, was chairman. Col. T. R. Mayberry, former M.P.P. for South Oxford and present Liberal candidate, and E W. Nesbitt, M.P., also spoke.

"Neither the Liberal nor the Conservative Government is entitled to the credit of originating or setting in motion this Hydro-electric power scheme," said Mr. Rowell. "The idea was conceived by and the movement was pressed forward and took practical shape under the direction of the representatives of the municipalities."

Col. Mayberry said that Hon. W. A. G. MacKay, lately leader of the Opposition, was first in ability in the Opposition. He was glad that a man of the calibre of Mr. Rowell had taken his place.

HON. MR. MONK STATES HIS POSITION ON THE NAVY MATTER

Ridicules Charge of Disloyalty—When Danger Comes He and His Friends Will be in the Forefront of the Patriotic Movement.

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—"The moment of danger to the British Empire will never be the moment that I and my friends will choose to discuss our relations to the Mother Country."

In these words Hon. F. D. Monk gave answer to the critics of the Opposition and repelled the charges of disloyalty, which had been hurled against him.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux charged that the dominant issue in the Quebec campaign was the navy, and brought forward a veritable symposium of quotations from speeches and newspaper articles to show that the Nationalists and especially Mr. Monk had indulged in an anti-British appeal to the electors.

Hon. F. D. Monk, in resuming his debate on the address, carefully dissected the claim of Sir Wilfrid Laurier that the defeat of the late Government was due to passion and prejudice. Even in the matter of reciprocity he thought no page in the history of Canada would be written down as a finer display of calm, courageous judgment and determination than that which the leader of the Opposition called an emotional page.

Numerous scandals had sprung up under the regime of the late administration, declared Mr. Monk. The scandal of the Quebec bridge had a serious effect. Never in the history of the Parliament of Canada had there been such a glaring dereliction of duty. Then there was the North Atlantic trading scandal. Two officials were concerned in the expenditure of half a million dollars on immigration, and had refused, under the protection of the then Government to tell what persons received the money.

Opposition orators had talked of a Government of coalition. He did not think there was very much to be said in condemnation of coalitions as such. He would like, however, to draw the attention of the House to the fact that Laurier, when he came into power in 1896, took in elements that till then had been somewhat diverse. He took in Hon. Mr. Dobell of Quebec, a Conservative. He took in Hon. Mr. Tarte, who had since been a cause of great bitterness to him.

Mr. Monk emphasized his assertion that there was no dissension in the Borden Cabinet.

He went on to compare the acrobatic feat of clearing the backs of four elephants, Laurier's leap on the navy. Clearing at a bound the platform he enunciated at the Imperial conferences of 1902 and 1907, he had brought down the resolution of 1909. "I voted for that resolution," said Mr. Monk, "and I would do so again under similar circumstances." (Government cheers.)

There had been a panic in England, the British navy had been declared unequal to the defence of the Empire and the control of the seas. "I have been unfairly taxed with disloyalty," declared Mr. Monk. "But the moment of danger to the British Empire will never be the moment that I and my friends will choose to discuss our relations to the Mother Country. (Cheers.) But the panic, he continued, "had quickly disappeared. The British navy, it was realized, was still in a position to retain the supremacy of the seas."

He concluded with a renewal of his asservation that absolute harmony prevailed in the ranks of the Government.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who followed, claimed that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has done more than any man living to improve the relations between the various races in Canada. He had introduced the British preference, reduced postal rates, made the port of Montreal a successful rival to the great port of New York, and, by a wise and prudent investigative policy, had filled the great lone land of the west. Over $121,000,000 had been spent on the transportation system.

As to the result of the election, "I bow to the decision of the majority," said Mr. Lemieux, but I offer no apology for the stand taken by the Liberal party. It was a victory of fear over self-reliance, a victory of passion over reason."

Mr. Lemieux read from Hansard of Jan. 12, 1910, to prove that Mr. Monk had declared himself opposed to the navy motion, while to-day he had said he adhered to it.

In the Quebec campaign, while the Liberals were being charged with being too drastic, the Nationalists had declared that Mr. Monk had not been Sir James Whitney Says the Late Government Fixed Boundaries to Shut Out Ontario.

Alvinston, Ont., Nov. 24.—The generosity of the Manitoba Government is all this province has left to rely on in its hopes for getting an Ontario port for ocean-going vessels on Hudson Bay. That is the position that this banner province has been placed in through the wilful act of the Laurier Government, in taking the present boundary between Manitoba and Ontario, and thereby handing both the Hudson Bay ports to Manitoba. Sir James made this point plain at his Alvinston meeting last night.

"All the way down Hudson Bay, on the Ontario coast line," said Sir James, "there is no way that a craft large or small can go from this province through Hudson Bay to Europe. That's the way they've fixed it, all through the unjust methods of the Laurier Government.

"We have hopes that the Manitoba Government will treat us more fairly than the Dominion Government has done, and that they will, out of good nature, give us some arrangement whereby we can have a port on Hudson Bay. I don't know anything about that just yet, because now it is in the hands of the Manitoba Government, to take over the territory that has been given them by the late Dominion Government," he said.

Sir James stated that explorers and professional men say it is impossible to find a harbor at Port Nelson, Port Churchill might be found suitable.

"We don't object to Manitoba getting the territory. What we want is a port on Hudson Bay, and we made representations to the Laurier Government to get the boundary so arranged that Ontario, as well as Manitoba, should have a port on Hudson Bay for ocean-going vessels," he added.

John Farrell of Forest presided and J. B. Martyn, the Liberal-Conservative candidate in East Lambton, also gave an address.

Both Sir James Whitney and Mr. Martyn were presented with beautiful bouquets, presented by little Misses Myrtle Dene and Madeline Oke. Sir James was also made the recipient of an address of welcome from the Liberal-Conservative Association of East Lambton.

Dr. Martyn said that there was no need for an alarm clock to wake up the Whitney Government, as was suggested in The Globe. The Hydro-electric policy alone was sufficient to disprove any such inference. He showed faith in his constituents by describing Lambton as the best county in Ontario. He wanted some method of raising the value of land, and urged the establishment of a demonstration farm here, one that will be absolutely self-sustaining.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC

Mr Hall talks about the way Lindsay turned down the hydro-electric commission proposal. That is all right. Lindsay has about six or seven thousand population. There can be enough corporation influence spread through a place of this size to defeat almost any by-law of this nature. Peterborough should go ahead to get competition in power matters for itself. If the hydro-electric proposition is not acceptable, it need not be accepted. It would be foolish to stop the effort to help Peterborough merely because some other place did not see fit to take an offer. We must deal with every proposition on its merit, and Lindsay's action neither commends nor discredits the hydro-electric commission. We need not accept any offer before it is made, as Mr. Hall knows very well, but would it not be the height of absurdity to refuse to let the hydro-electric commission figure out a proposition for Peterborough's relief, merely because we might not want to accept it!

What has the hydro-electric power commission been able to do in Toronto? Only a few months ago it began its distribution to the citizens. Its prices were thirty per cent and more, below the prices that had been charged by the private corporations. These corporations had to meet the hydro-electric prices, and as a result hundreds of thousands of dollars are being saved annually to the electric light users of Toronto, through the introduction of the people's power.

Any policy which refuses to induce competition in such public matters as the supply of electricity is insane. The corporations would like nothing better, and we venture to say that Mr. Hall would be only too pleased to have Peterborough say "No; we are satisfied to be forever tied up to one big $4,000,000 corporation ring; you hydro-electric fellows who want to help reduce prices if possible for us, go away back and sit down." As for that fearsome phrase, "mortgaging" a city, every time the city builds a school it "mortgages" the city. That word "mortgage" is used simply to frighten those who are not familiar with debentures and bond issues—the modern and easy way of financing—but there are few people nowadays who do not see behind the phrase. If the issuing of debentures is "mortgaging" a city then Peterborough is already mortgaged to the tune of considerably over a million dollars. Does anyone around fear that his or her property will be confiscated to-morrow? This is really child's bogey talk Mr. Hall would like to say "Hushee, Hushee, or the Black Douglas will get ye."

WHITNEY RECORD

The Whitney record is one of which the people of the province have every right to be proud, and on which they may feel well satisfied. True, the Whitney government is not perfect. There may be some things that the government has done which it ought not to have done, and some things it has not done which it ought to have done. But these are only isolated instances, and the very fact that the Liberals have to concentrate their attack on these little side issues shows how non-plussed they are for real working material against a government that has won and has maintained popular approval.

They say Sir James is a czar and an autocrat. Would they have a man like Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the helm, a man who trims his sail to catch the passing breeze, a man whose opportunism was a by-word and a reproach along the highways? The ordinary, common people of Ontario—who are the men and women whose welfare are really at stake,—certainly do not wish to substitute for Sir James and his blunt, strong qualities, a jellyfish or a piece of waxworks. The people want a man who [illegible] will carry on the affairs of the province in a business-like way, with a disregard of the conventionalities of politics, where it is necessary.

At the same time, no man who attempts to run the province according to his own peculiar notions and genius will hit the right track every time. He needs the guiding and restraining influence of a sane, strong, public opinion, which may be usually depended on to regard matters in a sensible light. Sir James Whitney is not in the least unresponsive to public opinion. Of course he is bound by constitutional principles in all he does. As the official head of a province, he has to move carefully and guardedly, for every act and every word carries with it great significance. Is it to be wondered at that Sir James does not immediately caper to every tune which is played by sets or cliques, or interests? Sir James wants real solid public opinion behind him, and then he acts without regard to whose corns are trod on.

Surely such a premier is a man worth having. Men whose principles, whose ideas of what is honest and correct, are so strongly developed that they stand ruggedly in the face of pulling and antagonistic interests, are rare. They are rare among politicians at any rate.

The Whitney government has developed Ontario, has done much to improve educational, agricultural, mining and laboring conditions—how much we only realize when we compare conditions to-day with what they were at the end of the Ross mal-administration. Sir James Whitney is sixty-eight years old, but he is due for another lease of power that he may, like another celebrated leader,—but in a different sense—"finish his work," that he has so magnificently carried on.

MILITIA AND LIQUOR

It should be explained in connection with the remarks made in the Review editorial yesterday about the use of liquor in the militia, that the military regulations absolutely prohibit the use of liquor in the armory, outside of the officers and sergeants messes, and even in the latter only non-spirituous liquors are permitted. In justice to the officers and men of the local corps it should be made clear that these regulations are strictly enforced, and the officers are anxiously watchful that the full letter and spirit of the regulations is observed.

In reference to the instance cited yesterday, where a young man committed an excess, it should be explained, that at the company dinner in question, only tea and coffee, sandwiches, cake and candy were served, and that the liquor in this case was secured entirely outside of the armories, and away from the control of the officers. Of course, such cases are not for a moment to be blamed on the militia, or the system, any more than the hundreds of other cases of excesses in civilian life.

It may not be a matter of general knowledge that the general canteen was abolished in the camps, and only lately has it been practically decided that the best solution of the question is to provide a light, non-intoxicating beverage for those who are bound to get something of the sort to drink.

It has been considered much better for the cause of temperance that this shall be the course, rather than those men who are not total abstainers shall carry bottles in their pockets, or go to shops in the town, and get bad whiskey. In this course, we think the militia department has taken a wise step. In every gathering of four or five hundred young men, there are bound to be some "doings," and to repress these as much as possible, without enforcing the abolition that leads to secret and worse offences, is the most effective plan of handling such matters.

It might be pointed out that there is no need for any young man in the militia to conduct himself differently than in any Y.M.C.A., or other Christian association. As far as the local regiment is concerned, such exemplary conduct is much encouraged. The development of the military spirit the training of the youth of the land for purposes of defence is necessary. There has been a vast change in the last few years in the tone and quality of the militia of Canada, much for the better, and locally at least, every effort is made to have the association as clean and as upright as possible.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Hamilton Spectator refers to Col "Tom" Hughes. Hamilton people should beware of Lindsay after that.

We have been hearing several varieties of complaints about Whitney, the autocrat, the czar, etc But now comes Gordon Waldron, a candidate in one of the Torontos, who says that Whitney is not the premier of Ontario but Sir William Meredith is.

E. A. Peck stands for clean government, substantial and safe progress, regard for the just rights of the pro- [illegible] and advance in public policies.

The Peterborough man who has a sound regard for the welfare of the city cannot afford to block the advent of the hydro-electric power policy that has done so much for Western Ontario.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—A disposition to react against sensational reports of black rust in the Argentine led to considerable selling pressure here to-day in the market for wheat. There was also demoralization in the cash trade owing to a split between the principal owners and their leading brokers. Largely as a result, closing prices were at a net decline of a shade to 3-8c. The Rayo Lamp

The Lamp That Saves The Eyes

Children naturally never think of possible strain on their eyesight when poring over a fascinating book.

It is up to you to see they do not ruin their young eyes these long evenings by reading under a poor light.

The Rayo Lamp is an insurance against eye troubles, alike for young and old.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but it is constructed on the soundest scientific principles, and there is not a better lamp made at any price.

It is easy on the eye because its light is so soft and white and widely diffused. And a Rayo Lamp never flickers.

Easily lighted without removing shade or chimney; easy to clean and rewick. Solid brass throughout, with handsome nickel finish; also in many other styles and finishes.

Bill took his orders in silence, and whilst he slipped out at the back, Jim Combe went up to the bar, and called for drinks for the crowd.

"Thought you was going to take a drink with the old man," he said to the doctor, who was now half asleep.

"So I wash, but I can't get any fellow to go along."

"And you're too scared to go alone? I thought you were a scientific joker, who didn't believe in ghosts or spirits, or any of them things you can't see or stick a knife into."

"Don'sh know what I believe, and I don'sh know what blanked business it is of yours, anyway, but I'm not scared of anything, Mishter Jim Combe, if you are a foot taller than me."

Jim laughed aggravatingly. He knew the man's peculiarities.

"Why, you're afraid right now. I'll bet you the next round of drinks that you dare not go alone to take a glass with old Hayes."

The bet just suited the humor of the crowd, besides the form of settlement touched their personal interest.

"It's up to you, doc," they cried. "You're the little man to win his money."

To do the doctor justice, he was no coward, drunk or sober.

"Hand me the bottle, Ike," he said, rallying in the most extraordinary manner, and speaking quite soberly. "And one of those glasses. See you again, gentlemen," and he walked towards the door.

"I guess it's my money that's up, so if no one has any objection, I'll still hunt the doc and see that he goes right to it. That's the bet, isn't it?" asked Combe.

"I guess so."

"Nobody else leaves the room until we come back. I don't want the doctor's friends handy to keep his courage up."

"He don't want any. Don't you worry. The doc's got as much grit as the next man."

"Appears like it," said Jim, and stole out, shutting the door noiselessly behind him.

CHAPTER XIII.

Abduction

Very solemnly and placing each foot with carefully calculated precision, the little doctor made his way from the Ideal to the place where old man Hayes had been stored out of the way of the dogs.

The awful heat and closeness of the bar room which he had left, made the chill of the night air more noticeable. It struck him like a bar of cold iron across the forehead and made him catch his breath with a gasp. But his errand had no terror for him. He was one of those who, having learned a great deal about the mechanism of the human body, looked upon it as an indifferent piece of machinery capable of many improvements, and having about it nothing of the supernatural.

As a locomotive he considered it beneath contempt. Walking was at best but a succession of falls avoided. That had always been his opinion, but he had never known so much difficulty before in getting up that bind prop in time to save a collapse.

Before starting from the bar room door he had taken a line upon the house which he wished to reach, and he had contrived not to lose sight of his points, but it was difficult to keep them, moving as he felt compelled to do, as a knight moves at chess.

Earth seemed for once to have no solidity; the laws of gravity in his particular case seemed to have been suspended; his feet would not keep down and he suffered from an almost irresistible temptation to allow his legs to collapse altogether, a temptation which arose from a growing conviction that they really had nothing whatever to do with him, and that he could move perfectly well by the mere exertion of will power. But he was not sufficiently drunk yet to yield to this temptation. He still had some control over his memory, and he remembered that he had tried that game before, and had been found in the street very cold indeed the next morning.

Dr. Protheroe had a considerable knowledge of the many infirmities of the flesh, but his knowledge of the different expressions of alcoholic dementia was comprehensive. He even diagnosed his own case accurately as he staggered along.

"Drunk," he said, severely; "very drunk. Itsh the cold air has done it. Alwaysh does it; but I'm not 'fraid. Who said Doctor Protheroe was 'fraid?"

He stopped, swaying dangerously in the middle of the dark street to think out that problem, but even his mind could only move now as the knight moves. It would not go straight.

"Doctor Protheroe 'fraid?" he repeated this two or three times in a sort of sing-song, and then, suddenly: "Dr. Protheroe," he said. "Doc-tor Prother—oe, Thomash's, — London — England. Not Ontario! None of your bloomin' Canadian 'bout me. Doctor Protheroe, Thomash's, London, England. Gentleman; profeshional man," and then he burst into peal upon peal of derisive laughter, in the midst of which he fell flat upon his face in the mud.

After lying there for a few minutes chuckling still to himself, he rose upon his hands and knees, reached for his hat, put it rakishly upon the back of his head, and continued his journey upon all fours.

"Varicoshe veins," he muttered, as he went. "Shyatica, gout, notin' to do wi' whiskey. All rot. Cause—abshurd attempt violate lawsh of nature. Man dam fool; meant to walk on four legsh, tries to walk on two. Poshterior limbs over worked; painful shwelling followsh. Of course." But in spite of the excellence of his reasoning he was obliged after a time to conform to custom, and finished his journey in a wild burst upon two legs, which landed him in a heap at the old man's door.

The violent exercise did something to counteract the effects of the chill air upon his heated brain, but not enough. He could remember that the door fastened with a latch; he could even repeat to himself the necessary instructions for lifting the latch; but for the life of him he could not find it.

Sitting upon the ground with his eyes carefully shut, and talking rapidly but incoherently, he explored the whole door from the mud to within six inches of the lock half a dozen times, and at last concluding that he must have reached the wrong side of the house, began to crawl round it, until utterly weary, he sank despairingly into a peculiarly cold puddle, from which lowly station he beat intermittently upon the solid pine logs of the wall, imploring old man Hayes to "get up and let a fellow in." At last oblivion came to him, but not in the kindly fashion to which he had grown accustomed. There was a difficulty about his breathing which he did not remember to have noticed on previous occasions. It was quite natural that he should have turned over on his back, but his head was rolling about in an unusual way, and there seemed to be an obstruction in front of his mouth.

"Asphyxiashun," he decided. "Unusual symptom, rather think unnatural. Not had enough whiskey for that," and then he went out into space where nothing mattered, and thought itself became a mere succession of vague and disconnected suggestions.

One of these, the most persistent, was that he was flying. He remembered, as you do in dreams, that he had done this before. He had never been quite certain whether it was in dreams that he flew, or in waking life. The dream had always seemed so real, but he knew that he was flying now. He felt himself going up and up, and it was only will which supplied the motive power. He knew that because he tried to flap his wings and could not. They were tied to his sides.

. . . .

"Heave him up on to the pinto, Bill. He's dead to the world."

"How is he going to stick on?"

"You heave him up," insisted Combe from the other side of the stolen horse, "I'll fix that. He'll ride as well as the pinto's last passenger."

"The old man in there," replied Bill, looking over his shoulder nervously, and speaking in a hushed voice.

"Yes. Can you steady him like that whilst I throw a hitch around him. Don't let him roll."

"I'll try, Jim; but his legs are like water. You can't hold them. They slip all ways to once."

"They won't do that long. Now! How's that?"

Combe had taken the tie rope from the pinto's saddle, and with it had lashed the doctor's feet together under the belly of his horse, after which he had passed the bight of the rope round his victim's waist and secured him firmly by it to the horn of the saddle.

"I guess he'll ride like that for a bit," he said, looking critically at his work. "Seems pretty well packed, doesn't he?" and taking the doctor by the shoulder he swayed him tentatively in the saddle.

"Yes, he'll stay there till you untie him, but what are you going to tell the ferryman?"

"That's my trouble. I'm blanked if I know how I'm going to fix that, unless I gag him too. I wish the doctor was not too drunk to sit on by himself."

"If he wasn't he wouldn't go."

"Yes, he would, with this," and the light flickered on a barrel hardly harder than the speaker's face.

Bill looked at Combe, doubtfully. He had known Jim many years, but had never seen the man he saw now. The sight staggered him and made him doubtful of the share he had taken in the proceedings.

"You don't mean no foul play by him, do you?"

"No, of coarse not. A dead ass ain't no good. Hand me his bridle," and Combe reached from the saddle for it. But Bill held on to it.

"See here, Jim, this is a mighty ugly business. It is for a woman?"

"For a woman, sure. Hand over, or they'll be after us."

Still the man doubted, and Combe saw a bar of light in the front of the Ideal. Some one had opened the door to look out. The crowd was growing impatient for its drinks.

There was no time to be lost. It was cruel, but he had to do it.

"Bill," he hissed, "when she died, wouldn't you have done this or any other blanked thing to save her?"

"My God, yes," was the startled answer. Without further demur Bill handed over the bridle and Jim, turning the horses sharply down hill, disappeared into the night, whilst the widower slunk through the back premises into the Ideal.

CHAPTER XIV.

It seemed to the doctor that his pace was suddenly accelerated. In his dream flight he began to move with quite phenomenal rapidity. In all previous expeditions of the kind, the motion had been a steady sailing, so steady that if he had not seen the steeples and towns going by below him, he would have considered himself absolutely stationary in space. But now he was going at a great speed and jerkily. Yes, certainly jerkily, and the atmosphere was becoming distinctly colder. He had entered a stratum of cold air. Ah, yes, that must be it. He was getting higher; he was in fact rocketting. That was it, he was rocketting. Quite natural, he reflected. You hit a bird in the head and it rockets. The whiskey has hit me in the head and it rockets. Certainly I am rocketting.

But as his thoughts grew less vague his body grew more and more cold. The spirit was dying out in his blood, and his tightly bound extremities were beginning to freeze.

He became conscious that he was no longer in the streets of Soda Creek. He could hear horses' feet and gravel which rattled and slid beneath them, and a jerk which threw him heavily upon his horse's neck woke him to the fact that he was riding down an extremely steep incline into a grey sea of icy vapor.

It has been said that Doctor Protheroe was one of those men who had the faculty of becoming drunk a dozen times in the twenty-four hours. His recovery from the effects of drink was as rapid as his lapse into drunkenness and now his brain began to work again almost normally.

He realized that he was riding tied in his saddle, his arms pinioned and his mouth gagged, and that someone, also riding, was leading his horse along the edge of a grey flood from which came a roar and an incessant grinding sound. Dr. Protheroe's earliest impression of a river was the union of a dozen tiny springs which well up from the earth's heart amongst meadow sweet and fritillaries, in his native Wiltshire, or at the wildest a junction of little brown rills which wind chattering to their meeting place through the purple heather of that which English folk call a mountain, and so gathered and united, wander on, picking up a little friend here and another more fully grown further on, until together they turn a miller's wheel or dream through lush hay fields to the sea.

Urge Georgian Bay Canal.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—Premier Borden and Hon. F. D. Monk, Minister of Public Works, were waited upon yesterday morning by a deputation, which urged the necessity of an early commencement of the work of constructing the Georgian Bay canal. The delegation, which consisted of G. H. Brabazon, M.P., Pontiac; Gerald White, M.P., North Renfrew; E. A. Dunlop, Pembroke; Mayor Hopewell of Ottawa, and W. J. Poupore, asked that an appropriation be placed in the estimates to be brought down at the present session.

Mr. Borden is understood to have assured the deputation that the matter is already engaging the serious attention of the Government. He did not make any definite promise.

Many are of the opinion that the estimates for 1912-13 will contain an appropriation of a few millions for initial construction work.

Another Gain For Unionists.

London, Nov. 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The South Somerset bye-election has resulted in another gain for the Unionists. Hon. Aubrey Herbert has been returned by the Unionists, with 4,878 votes. Henry Vivian (Lib.) made 4,730. The vacancy was caused by the elevation of Sir E. Strachey to the peerage. Over 90 per cent. of the electorate polled votes.

The figures in the last election were Strachey (Lib.) 4,784, and Herbert (U.), 4,317. Sir E. Strachey had held the seat since 1892, and it was Liberal before that date.

Scholar Fought Teacher.

Kingston, Nov. 23.—When a teacher in one of the public schools was about to use a strap on the lad for impertinence the youngster attacked her, pulled a gold chain off her neck and tore her clothes. She eventually used the strap on him. It created a big scene in the school, and the Board of Education will likely investigate.

Members of the public school teaching staff threaten to resign if the board refuses to give them a salary increase. The matter is now in the hands of the management committee, and it is expected they will recommend the board that the teachers get the increase.

Just to Get Married.

Kingston, Nov. 23.—"We are married and very happy." These few words on a picture postcard cleared up the mysterious disappearance of Miss Mabel Briceland, stenographer of Watertown, N.Y., and Thomas Kinney of the same place. A friend of the bride received a card yesterday telling her that the couple had been married in Cleveland. They disappeared a week ago.

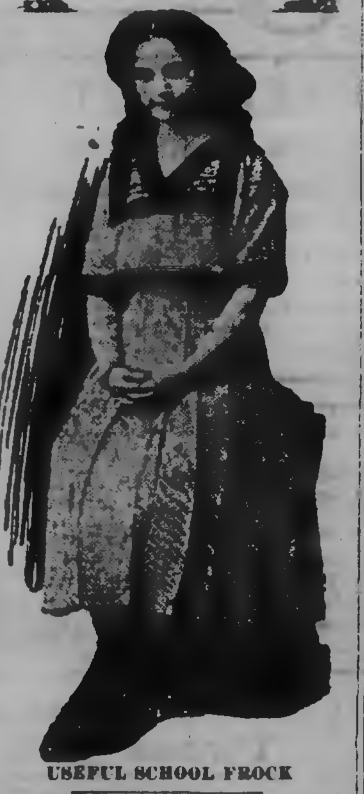
CONGENIAL WORK

Mothers Should Carefully Note Tendencies of Children So They May Be Put to Congenial Work.

Observant parents can usually trace a distinct inclination on the part of their children to take special interest in either one or the other — either head-work or hand-work. One child is never so happy as when given a book which keeps his brain busy; another finds chief satisfaction in making something with the hands — a wooden boat, a doll's frock, a paper kite, etc., etc.

These marked preferences can be a great help to parents when deciding upon the kind of work likely, later, to prove congenial to a girl or boy. But it is a mistake to allow a child, during school years, to follow only that line which most appeals to him. "Oh, Jimmy isn't cut out for book-learning," or "Janie's fingers are all thumbs, so I let her read," are examples of the kind of remark which should never be made in children's hearing. Instead, it should be taken for granted in their presence that Jimmy can become a good scholar if he but takes the trouble, and that Janie's fingers are as teachable as any girl's fingers. This would help largely to prevent that self-satisfied one-sidedness which so many people exhibit, and which leaves them so terribly at a loss when anything happens to hinder their doing the only work of which they believe themselves capable. Children's head-work and hand-work should go together and balance one another, so that no latent capacity be left undeveloped and unused.



USEFUL SCHOOL FROCK

The Romance of Irish Point Lace

Youghal point lace, of which a complete dress has been made for Queen Mary, is the most beautiful and costly of Irish lace, and originated indirectly from the failure of the potato crop in 1846, though the inspiration was furnished by a piece of point de Milan which fell into the hands of the abbess of a convent at Youghal, County Cork. Hitting upon the idea of setting up a lucrative industry for the half-starved children attending the convent school, she studied this stray bit of lace, unravelled the threads one by one, and finally mastered the complicated details. She then selected the children cleverest at needlework, and taught them separately what she herself had learned. From Youghal the point lace industry has spread to other parts of Ireland, notably to some districts in the neighbourhood of Kenmare, County Kerry. The chief characteristic of Youghal point lace is that it is worked entirely with the needle.

To Walk Well

An artist has lately been complaining that his chief objection to fashionable dress is that it reveals so completely the inability of the average woman to walk well. He says that most of us either slouch or strut, and he gives the following instructions on "how to walk":—

"The head should not be held erect as if by effort — a woman should not look like a soldier on parade. The steps should not be jerky — however quick, they should be 'smooth.' The movement should be from the hips, and the knees bent as little as possible. A slight — a very slight — bend forward is graceful, if the walker be tall and slim. The arms should not swing noticeably, but should hang freely — elbows should be unobservable. The feet should turn out slightly, and walking should appear to be done chiefly on the toes — the heel down first style is unpardonable. But the chief features and charms of a good carriage are its seeming leisureliness, the absence of 'strut' and 'slouch,' and a certain air of unconscious grace."

The same critic recommends daily practice in front of a full-length mirror — exercises to be taken preferably in cycling knickers, as the movement of the limbs can then be better studied.

A woman has always been the bearer of burdens, and if she complains she is treated worse than ever.

A Result Worthy of Consideration

Endowment Policy No. 34022 was issued to a local citizen twenty years ago for which he paid in ten annual instalments to the Company in all premiums, amounting to $688.50. He now receives a single cash payment of $1273.65 which as an investment is over 4% compound interest, or he may accept $750.60 in cash, which is $62.10 more than he paid in, together with a paid up policy for $1000, payable at death which earns profits every year during the balance of his life.

Where can a young man or woman find a better way of saving money as well as providing a protection for those dependent upon them.

The above is the result of a matured policy in the SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA, payable on December 1st., 1911.

MR. JAS. KENDRY FOR SENATOR

An enthusiastic gathering of the friends of Mr. Jas. Kendry, all supporters of the Liberal-Conservative party, and workers with Mr. Kendry in campaigns of former years, was held at Mr. Ruddy's office last evening. The object of the meeting was to further the movement on the part of many friends on behalf of Mr. Kendry, whose name has been suggested in connection with an appointment to the Senate. The proposition met with hearty approval and a committee was appointed to frame a memorial to the premier and cabinet, setting forth the claims advanced by the members of the party here in Mr. Kendry's interest.

This will be forwarded to Mr. Burnham to present, and further on a strong and representative deputation will go to Ottawa to press the matter. It is hoped, that while a vacancy in the Senate is not in sight, that by taking action, as indicated, the claims and interests of this district will not be overlooked.

WHITNEY'S WORK IN LABOR'S CAUSE

What the Conservative Government Has Done for the Worker

Protection and Safeguarding of Employees

The Whitney Government has done much for the working man. Below will be found a brief summary of the work done by free employment bureaus, showing how the inspection of factories has been improved; how legislation regarding scaffolding and child labor has been advanced, and compensation for injuries.

Free Employment Branches—
1901	0
1911	5
Employment secured for applicants—
1901	0
1907-8-9-10	2,128
Factory Inspector—
1901	6
1910	10
Female Inspectors—
1901	0
1910	2
Trades Union Reporting on Wages—
1901	208
1910	335
Employers making reports—
1901	174
1910	642

The above figures illustrate the growth of the efficiency and activity of the Ontario Bureau of Labor. Under the present administration the Bureau has also been instrumental in adjusting labor difficulties, and in securing the enforcement of the prevailing rate of wages on public works. It has compiled a vast amount of information regarding the industries of Ontario.

PROTECTION OF WORKMEN

For the protection of men employed in the building trade a measure was enacted this year providing for the supervision of scaffolding by qualified inspectors. Certain rules were laid down which are calculated to reduce the dangers of this occupation to a minimum, and thus reduce, if not prevent loss of life in this connection

WORKERS SAFEGUARDED

It having been found that the inspection of factories was inadequate for the proper enforcement of the law four more inspectors were appointed. The work was brought under the supervision of a chief inspector, and two lady inspectors were added.

CHILD LABOR RESTRICTED

The evils of child labor have been fully recognized. No child under 14 years of age may now be employed in a shop during the school term. At other times no child under twelve years can be employed.

COMPENSATION FOR INJURIES.

In order that workmen who sustain injuries while following their occupations may receive proper compensation the Government has appointed a commission to gather all available information on the subject and draft a measure which will be a satisfactory solution of this problem.

PRISON LABOR ABOLISHED

Under the present administration prison labor no longer comes into competition with free labor. Formerly the labor of prisoners was farmed out to contractors who used it to manufacture goods at a lower cost than free labor could manufacture them, and sold these goods on the open market. All this has been changed and prisoners are required now to work to supply their own necessities.

Miraculous Escape of Millard Maybee at Port Hope

Port Hope Guide.—Mr. Millard Maybee, of Bethseda, had a miraculous escape from death last night. While driving across the Midland tracks near the Ontario House, his rig was struck by the freight train known as "The Moonlight." Mr. Maybee was thrown headlong to the ground, but fortunately clear of the tracks, and escaped without injury. The buggy was smashed to match wood, but the horse suffered no injury.

In the mix-up the animal got away, but was caught on Walton street. Mr. Maybee hired a rig from Trenouth & Jarrell, and reached home none the worse for his exciting experience.

ONE MONTH FOR THE WIFE-BEATER

Antonio Mascarrow Sentenced by The Magistrate

"One month in the county jail with hard labor," was the sentence handed out at police court to-day by Magistrate Dumble, to the Italian Antonio Mascarrow, who was found guilty of beating and abusing his wife a couple of weeks ago. In addition to this, the prisoner made agreements to transfer to his wife, the quantity of goods and chattels that were justly due her out of the household estate.

His Worship in meting out sentence to the man, lectured him severely on the cruelty which he had displayed.

"In this country" he remarked sternly, "we do not allow men to beat their wives, but on the contrary, they are protected and guarded from such action by the law."

The prisoner will be out by Christmas.

POWER FOR FIRST TIME FROM C. G. E. POWER HOUSE

Splendid Success Attends Transmission to the Works of the Company—Will Pass To the City.

At three minutes to five o'clock last evening, power was sent for the first time over the transmission lines to the Canadian General Electric Company from the new power house at the water works dam, without the slightest semblance of a hitch. No word was given the sub station of the intended move, neither was Nassau power house which has fed the C.G.E. notified and therein lies the secret of what is a distinctly modern electricity producing plant.

The arrangement is so devised that instantaneous assistance can be given the Nassau power house, in case of trouble and the power can be transmitted without a switch being operated at Nassau.

DEVELOP 1200 H. P.

Twelve hundred h.p. can be developed and every provision is made for overloads. The machinery and apparatus when installation is completed will consist of 4 A.T.B. 100-300-72-6600 volts vertical turbine generators, M. P. 6-75-125 V. turbine exciter, M.P. 6-100 h.p. 125 V. with 1. 6.100. 500 V. induction motor. Ten Sun natural black slate, marine finish switchboard complete with instruments, switches, etc.

Lighting panel for lighting power house and waterworks dam.

Set of lighting transformers for switchboards, 3 30 kil. transformers for motor generator set, 4 Lambard generators, type Q. Woodward generator on exciter.

MODERN MACHINES

It is from two of the turbine generators that the present power is being transmitted. This type of machine is the most modern known to the electrical world and incidentally is a Peterboro product from the works of the C.G.E. The main shaft of about twenty feet in length weighs five tons, and is called upon to bear the weight of 17,000 pounds. Eighty nine inch water wheels are used. Despite the heavy burden imposed on the shaft, it revolves with but 1-64th of an inch, as space for lubrication, which is fed from an oil tank, by means of pipes. The principle of the bearing and the success which attends it does away with any possible trouble.

Lightning will play no havoc with the power house equipment, aluminum cone lightning arresters, a new feature in arresters, being installed. These carry the foreign electricity to the ground before its connection with the switchboard. Automatic water gauges designate the rise or fall of the water in either the head or tail race. All the live wires leading from the machines are hidden underfoot.

MR. B. COTTON IN CHARGE

In every department of the power house is shownn the electrical triumphs of the 20th century, and Mr. Robert Cotton has added to his widely known reputation, by the splendid success which attended the first message to the C.G.E. last evening. He has charge of all the work of installation and the result speaks for itself.

There is still much work to be accomplished before the power house is finally completed. It is not a separate building, but is connected with the waterworks plant.

AGREEMENT WITH CITY

The agreement between the city and the Canadian General Electric Company, is that the city gives to the Company the right to use the location and water for which it builds at its own expense the power house, installs the machinery and keeps same in repair for twenty years, besides paying the city $2,000 per annum, and the taxes. At the end of the twenty years the plant complete in every particular becomes the property of the city. At the time the agreement was under consideration, the Company had large extensions in view, and these have since been made.

BIFOCALS

— OR —

DOUBLE VISION GLASSES

Most people think, when buying Bifocal Glasses, that a large segment or reading area is required. With very few exceptions this is not so, as most bifocals are required for constant use, and the successful fitting of these lenses depends not so much on furnishing the largest reading portion possible, but on placing a minimum disk or wafer in exactly the correct position. A small wafer accurately placed will afford ample field for reading, writing and sewing, and will overcome the tendency to make mis-steps in going up and down stairs, an experience not uncommon to wearers of bifocals with too large reading segments.

We make a specialty of filling Bifocal Lenses in VISIBLE, SEMI-INVISIBLE and INVISIBLE.

THEATRICAL

The two appearances of May Robson at the Grand have been of such a character, that unconsciously she has stolen her way into the hearts of all who had the rare pleasure of witnessing this famous stage exponent a delightful acting. Another splendid attendance followed by her last evening in her delineation of the role of "Granmum" and the success of the impersonation was fully as great as her work in the same character on Wednesday night. Her acting is marked by vivacity and spirit, although in a flash she is capable of arousing through the power of a vibrant, sympathetic voice, the emotions of her audience. The presentation in which she shone last night was "A Night Out," a comedy that was simply crowded with laughs all the way through, although possessing at times, moments of real human interest. May Robson as "Granmum" to two college boys, restrained from exercising their high spirits by a puritanical, foolish mother, was immense. Her intense love for the youths, and her desire to see them safely through the wilder portion of their lives, furnish scenes of touching interest. Her escapade in company with them at the raided dance hall and her return, tickled the audience into perfect spasms of laughter.

Altogether, this famous actress established for herself a warm and lasting regard in the hearts of local theatregoers.

Remember the Concert at Mark St. Church to-night.

Gentlemen:—

As Rubenstein once said when asked to designate the three most important qualities in a piano, "The first," he replied, "is tone, the second is tone, and the third is tone," and in the New Scale Williams Piano you have given the public a piano that fulfills its ideals.

After using your instruments at all my recitals in Canada on my farewell tour, and giving them a thorough trial, I do not hesitate to pronounce the New Scale Williams a beautiful piano.

TWO SKIPS ONLY FOR THE OPEN CURLING BONSPIEL

Skips of District Cup Rinks Made Presentation to the Club — Committees Appointed.

The Peterborough Curling Club will hold a local and open bonspiel again this coming season, but for the latter competition not more than two skips will be allowed on any local rink. Mr. W. G. Ferguson brought in a motion to this effect at a meeting of the club members in the Montreal Bank chambers last night, he holding that it was up to the club to encourage the younger players and give every member a chance to play the game. Mr. Ferguson's motion caused considerable discussion. It was pointed out the outside clubs could come to Peterborough with an all skip rink and thus put the locals at a disadvantage. Still the majority conceded the move to be a good one, and as such, would reap material benefits to the club, in encouraging the young players. Mr. R. Neill seconded Mr. Ferguson's motion and it passed.

PRESENTATIONS TO CLUB

President Connal occupied the chair and the initial business was the presentation by Mr. "Pete" Lang, of the District Cup trophy to the club and of two framed pictures of the two winning rinks by Mr. T. E. Butler Yeates. The rinks were Messrs. Hicks, Moore, Read and Lang, and Adamson, Campbell, Taylor and Yeates. The District Cup has been won three times in five years.

Mr. Thos. Brightman reported that the membership committee had 123 members signed and others in view would bring the total to 152. This was considered very satisfactory.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

Messrs. R. M. Waddell, W. J. McDermid, Ross Cameron, Geo. Clarke and Dr McCulloch were appointed a committee to draw up the annual club schedule, while Messrs. W. G. Ferguson, S. T. Medd, Robt. Neill and R. M. Waddell will prepare a new constitution, the original documents having been lost in the fire.

Committees for the two bonspiels are:—

Local—Dr. Cameron, L. Hall, W. M. Lang, and Robt. Neill.

Open—Robt. Harstone, W. G. Ferguson, C. N. Brown, H. Foote, T. Brightman and Geo. Giroux.

EQUALIZE THE RINKS

The matter of defining a set rule for rinks entering the local bonspiel was warmly discussed and it was decided that the equalization scheme of the season 1908-9 be the ruling law.

The rinks will meet for the election of skips for the schedule games to be held December 1.

ANGUS ON THE JOB.

Mr. Angus McIntosh is again in charge at the rink and will place the ice at the disposal of the curlers just as soon as weather conditions permit.

SPORT TALK

Frank Carell, who refereed at the boxing program in the opera house last spring, may get a bout with One Round Hogan, who meets Knockout Brown to-night.

Tom Longboat is to race Fred Meadows at Guelph on Dec. 1 in a ten mile meeting.

Toronto fight fans are to see Battling Nelson, ex-lightweight champion, in action in the near future.

The appointment of a trainer for the Peterborough hockey club will come up at the executive meeting Monday night.

If a senior hockey league is to be organized again it is up to those interested to get busy.

No mention is made of Fred Whitcroft as a possibility for any of the teams of the British Columbia hockey league. So it would appear that the ex-Peterborough rover is done with the game for good. Tom Phillips, the Patrick brothers, Hugh Lehman, Walter Smaill, and other stars are booked for positions.

Mr. Arthur Perks, of the Montreal Bank staff, has been appointed assistant to the secretary of the Hockey Club, Mr. R. M. Glover. A meeting of the executive is called for Monday evening at 7.30 o'clock in the Examiner office, where the matter of appointing a trainer will be taken up.

HON. MR. MONK STATES POSITION

present and had not voted for the motion.

"I charge the coalition Government with varying its attitude according to circumstances," said Mr. Lemieux "It had one policy for Ontario and another for Quebec."

The Government's position on the navy, he claimed, was a "double-barreled policy" — a referendum to please the Nationalists and a cash contribution or Dreadnoughts to please Ontario. In Ontario the Canadian navy was set forth as a "tin pot navy"; in Quebec as an infernal machine. That Mr. Borden had never made a public appearance on the same platform with Mr. Monk in Quebec during the late campaign was a part of this double game.

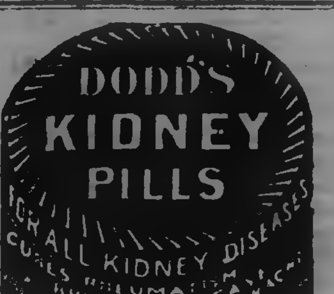
During the dinner recess an accident at the power works left the buildings in darkness and when the House met at eight, all it could do was to adjourn till to-day, when Mr. S. A. A. Mondou of Yamaska, who began his speech, will resume.

Off Go Three Heads.

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—Three of the nine members of the Quebec harbor board, Messrs. George Tanguay, J. B. Laliberte and R. Larue, have been removed by the Government. Their places are filled by J. B. Letellier, K. Belleau and Victor Chateauvert.

Sir Dick Is Censured.

London, Nov. 24.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Sir Richard Cartwright's speech has caused some sensation here. The Pall Mall Gazette says he has really gone a little too far. It is unfair to represent English ignorance of Canadian matters as stolid or complete.



SPORTING COLUMN.

WAKE UP CANADA

Is Canada sending a team to Europe next Spring?

Johnnie Hayes

I BELIEVE there are lots of boys back home who could have done the same thing if they had trained as I did," said Johnnie Hayes after winning the brilliantly run Marathon at the London Olympic game in 1908.

Johnnie was right. But to do what Johnnie did requires a world of ambition and hard work, especially if the lad who wants to go after a record has to labor at such a prosaic thing as clerking in a store, like Johnnie did.

At the last games Canadians came away with a good share of the prizes, but we fell down on some mighty important events. For instance Walker of South Africa, took the 100 meter (109.3 yards). Could you go better than 10 4-5 seconds, the winner's time? Could you train up to that?

We lost everything in the five mile race; Voight of England, landed the first; Owen of England, second, and Svanberg of Sweden, third.

Then Larner, also of England, walked away with two firsts, in the 3500 meter walk and in the ten-mile walk. Not only did we lose the firsts in those two events, but the seconds and thirds also. The hop-step-and-jump went the wrong way, too. Not a point for Canada.

The Greeks and Swedes beat us out in both of the javelin throwing stunts, France, England and Germany divided up the bicycle races.

The Britishers — women, too — put the eternal kibosh on us in the archery contests.

Have we no good wrestlers in all Canada? Relwyskow, Bacon, Kelly, of England and Gunderson of Norway cashed in on every amateur wrestling bout except one.

ENGLISH WEIGHT SCALE BAD FOR AMERICANS.

A proposal has been made by certain Gotham sportsmen to have the New York State athletic commission adopt a review scale of weights which would raise the scaling marks for all classes to conform with those set forth by the National sporting club of London. They tried this game in the east on several occasions, but other selections of the country in which boxing flourished failed to respond with enthusiasm and the scheme fell through.

The English system is to weigh in at 2 o'clock and weights are as follows: Bantam limit, 118; feather, 126; light, 135; welter, 148; middleweight, 160. Imagine Johnny Coulon being obliged to scale 118 at 2 o'clock, when he can go lighter than 115 pounds ringside if necessary. Abe Attell goes out of his class frequently to meet lightweights in 10-round bouts, but when his title is in question he holds strictly to the 122-ringside limit, as was evidenced when he recently refused to meet Joe Rivers unless the Mexican made that figure.

Wolgast can do 128 at 3 o'clock if needful. If the proposed new ruling be adopted he would find himself pitted again men who would enter the ring weighing easily 140 pounds. There are scores of youngsters fighting their way up the ladder who would be handicapped in like fashion.

Joins the Irish-Americans

Le Roy Dorland, former captain of the Pastime Athletic Club, and holder of the 300-yard indoor record, has been expelled from the club at which he developed into one of America's greatest runners and hurdlers.

For several months Dorland had not been in good standing in this club. Several times he asked for his release, only to be refused, and piqued by this he competed unattached. This earned the wrath of the officials of the club, and they preferred charges against him, with the result that when the meeting was held every one present but Harry Smith, the captain of the club, voted to expel him. Smith was present, but refused to vote. Dorland took his expulsion gracefully. In fact he seemed pleased.

Dorland has been in the athletic game for five years. He has won many titles. Besides the Pastime A. C. he was a member of the Seventy-first Regiment. Before developing into a champion both the New York A. C. and the Irish-American A. C. tried to get him for their club. Each time he refused. He is now a member of the latter club.

REBELS CAPTURE FORT.

Desperate Engagement Near Nanking Gives Them Advantage.

San Francisco, Nov. 24.—The revolutionary troops captured one of the forts on Shunsi hills, near Nanking, after several hours of desperate fighting, according to a cable received yesterday from Shanghai by The Chinese Free Press. The forts are outposts situated a few miles from Nanking.

The despatch says the revolutionary military committee had announced that the massacres in Shongsi were committed by mobs composed mostly of Manchus and not by the revolutionists.

Dr. Wu Ting Fang and others are working on a proclamation which will be issued shortly, asking all nations to recognize the republic, according to a Shanghai despatch received yesterday by the Chinese daily paper.

Will Not Press Abdication.

Pekin, Nov. 24.—Tang Shao Yi, ex-Minister of Posts and Communications, and prime mover in the scheme for settling the future government of the country, by a conference of representatives of the provinces, in an interview yesterday, said that he had refused to retain his portfolio in Premier Yuan's Cabinet in order that he might retain his freedom to approach both Government and the revolutionaries in the interests of peace.

"The Government," said Tang, "is now willing to meet the people, but the matter of abdication of the throne will not be pressed unless the compromise scheme fails. The Premier desires to prevent further fighting and agrees not to attack the insurgents anywhere, although the Imperialists must fight if attacked. The movement of the troops against Shansi revolutionaries, accordingly has been abandoned.

"The situation at Nanking is beyond the Government's control. Gen. Chang is acting on his own responsibility, and his defeat is only a matter of time. The Government has no sympathy with him."

Buildings for Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—Advocating a new Federal square, to be made up exclusively of the Dominion Government's buildings, a deputation composed of President Gourlay and members of the Board of Trade, with Mayor Geary and the members of the Board of Control and others, waited upon Premier Borden and his Cabinet at Ottawa yesterday. The city's requests were favorably received, according to the despatches received here yesterday.

After short speeches by Mayor Geary and Hon. A. E. Kemp, Premier Borden admitted that "the present accommodation is absurdly inadequate."

"I also agree," he said, "that in providing new accommodation regard should be had, not only for present needs, but to the further development of the city in years to come."

"We shall," he continued, "be very glad to take this matter into such immediate consideration as may be possible. In doing so we shall be glad to have the views of the city as to improving it from their standpoint."

Cummings Charged With Murder.

Montreal, Nov. 24.—That Belle Cameron Cummings came to her death as the result of two bullet wounds inflicted by her husband, was the verdict reached yesterday morning by the coroner's jury which enquired into the death of Mrs. Cummings, who was shot on Tuesday evening at 7.15 on Chauteguay street.

John Cummings, the husband, is under arrest and has confessed his crime. A number of witnesses were called at the inquest. Mrs. Cameron, mother of the murdered woman, testified that she had been threatened several times by her husband.

Ed. Packer, who was walking with Mrs. Cummings when she was murdered, identified Cummings as the murderer.

Germany to Expand Navy.

London, Nov. 24.—An indication that Germany is determined to proceed unswervingly with the expansion of her navy is furnished by the fact that the Messrs. Krupp, the great German armorers, have entered into a contract to purchase 1,000,000 tons of Spanish iron ore.

The ore bought is Parcocha, an unusually good quality for German manufacturers to buy, and one which it is unlikely would be used for other than naval purposes. The buyers were evidently very keen to have the contract accepted, because a stiff premium has been paid on the current quotations.

Four Drown In Icy River.

Three Rivers, Nov. 24.—Word comes from the upper St. Maurice of the drowning of four men last Thursday. These men, who were contractors for the Wayagamack Pulp & Paper Co., had gone up on the Flamand, one of the tributaries of the St. Maurice, had built their camp, and were on their way down to La Tuque to meet their wives, who were to winter in the camps with them.

Five Years For Highwayman.

Brockville, Nov. 24.—In the county judge's criminal court yesterday William Marks and Walter Darling, charged with highway robbery on John Kelsey, a Charleston Lake oarsman, whom they relieved of $97, were sentenced to five years each in Kingston Penitentiary.

Canada's Call to Britain.

London, Eng., Nov. 24.—"Open the Door!" is the title of a penny Tariff Reform League booklet explaining the significance of Canada's rejection of American reciprocity.

It is shown that Canada's preference to Britain has increased the wages of British workers by nearly $30,000,000 a year.

"If we are not to risk a repetition of the reciprocity offer," it is stated, "and with it the preference that Canada now gives us, and the still larger preference she is ready to give us, we must respond to her desires without further delay and deal with her as generously as she deals with us."

C.P.R. HAS CARRIED MANY SETTLERS

Nearly 150,000 Since the First of This Year

Special to the Review.

Montreal, Nov. 24.—That the Canadian Pacific Railway is doing all important work towards the building up of the Dominion of Canada is shown by the figures with regard to the colonization operations of the railway for this year. According to statements made yesterday the Canadian Pacific Railway since the first of the year have carried from Great Britain to this country over 150,000 new settlers, the actual figures for the ten months from January to Oct. 31 are 146,119, putting the number of new settlers brought into Canada during November at the conservative estimate of 5,000, the figures for the year up to date climbing to over 150,000. This reports only the actual paid transportation. If the number carried free is taken into consideration, it is not too much to add 20 per cent to the figures given, which would include the C.P.R. colonization figures for the year to the astounding total of over 175,000. These figures are unprecedented. Never before in the history of the Canadian Pacific Railway have they carried such a traffic. Not only has a new record been set, but the best previous record, that of last year, has been beaten by nearly 25,000 people. Compared with the record for 1909, the difference is still greater, the increase this year being near 850,000. Of the 175,000 new settlers brought into Canada by the Canadian Pacific Mr. R. Miller assistant superintendent of terminals of the railway at Montreal, states that fully 70 per cent. went straight through to Western Canada, twenty per cent of the rest settled in Ontario and Quebec and the rest drifted across the border. Most of the new comers were fairly well supplied with cash. In fact it is estimated that in ready money and personal effects the new-comers would average $300 each, in which case they have brought into Canada with them over $40,000,000. The work involved in the transportation of these new settlers has increased very considerably, and there was not a day when at least one special train was not dispatched from St. Lawrence ports carrying the late arrivals to their destination. As a matter of fact nearly five hundred special trains have been dispatched from the east, it is known, traffic by the C.P.R. this year. Allowing ten cars to the train, this means that it would take a train nearly five miles long to transport all of the new settlers brought into Canada by the C.P.R. this year.

CHRISTMAS IN OTHER LANDS

By James Murray

(Copyright by Publishers Press, Ltd.)

It is only fitting that we should commence our tour of the globe, to see how Christmas is spent in various countries, by a visit to Bethlehem — the one town in the wide world which claims to possess the grotto or manger where our Lord was born. The grotto of the Nativity is its greatest attraction, and will continue to be so as long as men believe in Christ. Even now traces of the approaching civilisation of the West have made their presence felt in the ancient city of David; but, notwithstanding this unwelcome intrusion, the town still wears the garb of Orientalism. Besides the manger, the traveller should ask to see the mother-of-pearl workers in their shops, and listen to their clear voices as they sing to the sound of the saw and the hammer. Those who happen to be about the place at this time should not miss the opportunity of attending the Christmas ceremonies held there on December 25th by the Roman Catholics and on January 6th by the members of the Greek Orthodox Church. The latter ceremony is far more picturesque than the former, and should on no account be missed by the pilgrim in the Holy Land. The Latin and Greek Patriarchs respectively perform the ceremonies in person, occupying a greater part of the day and the following night. The impressions of such a sight and scene are indeed indelible.

While we are in the Near East let us turn to Constantinople for a moment. It sounds rather incongruous to talk about the celebration of Christmas in Constantinople, but it must not be forgotten that there is a large European colony domiciled there.

Snow and tobogganing are not unknown in Constantinople at the Christmas season; while, on the other hand, the dinner-table may be decorated with roses, geraniums, heliotrope, and other blossoms gathered in the open.

In Pera, the European quarter of the city, there are few signs of festivity in the shops and streets, owing to the fact that the great Turkish Bairam festival — the nearest equivalent to Christmas — only synchronises every thirty or thirty-five years with ours, and the Greek Orthodox Church celebrates the feast some fourteen days later.

In the villages on the Bosphorus where Britishers have settled, however, Christmas is more in evidence. At Moda, which is the modern name of ancient Chalcedon, the season is thoroughly enjoyed. The little church is brightly decorated and the services are attended by all the residents, while at the social club a huge Christmas-tree delights the many children of the self-contained little community. But the chief Christmas event for many years past has been the annual pantomine, written, staged, and produced by the residents. What do you think of a pantomine in Turkey, in a village lying opposite the Golden Horn and the minarets of San Sofia? The late Sultan evidently thought very badly of it, for one year he sent to Sir N. O'Conor, the British Ambassador, to have the play of "Dick Whittington" stopped on the ground of its "immorality"! Fancy the feelings of the chaplain of Moda, who happened to be the author of the libretto, when he was told his play was immoral! The tactful Ambassador, however, put things right, and Dick Whittington duly lived out his stage life for the appointed five or six performances.

Germany is the home of some very curious Yuletide legends and customs and many quaint traditions, far older than Christianity, still linger on in the country districts. Boys and girls still look out for the coming of "Pelz Nickel" — at least, the good ones do, for he is the terror of naughty children, and comes armed with a huge birch rod wherewith to trounce them, whilst the good ones he rewards with toys and sweets, for "Pelz Nickel" is only another name for Santa Claus. A few years ago it was said that the German Emperor used to dress up as "Pelz Nickel" on Christmas Eve and scare some of his younger children who had not been as good as they might have been.

William II. is a great observer of the Christmas ordinances, though, as Bismarck said, "his patriotism stops short at his stomach," and he does not partake of all the very peculiar dishes which are eaten at Christmas-time in various parts of his empire and are supposed to bring luck to anyone who eats them — the lucky probably being those who escape indigestion, for no one but an ostrich or a German could tackle carp stewed in red vine and eaten with beer sauce; and there are others worse than that. There are, however, several dishes which the Emperor is obliged to eat "officially." One curious custom is that a deputation of the salt-makers of Halle comes to Berlin every December and presents the Kaiser, as King of Prussia, with an address and several presents, which include a quantity of pickled eggs and several large sausages. In return for this the men stop in the capital as the King's guests and are shown all the sights. A little later the bakers present their Sovereign with "Stollen", which are very much like plum cake made into the form of rolls.

Victim: "No!"

Doorkeeper: "Well, take this pass out check, anyway. You can hand it to some chap on the outside."

Victim: "My dear fellow, I haven't an enemy in the world."

"Charles the Second," said Charles the First, addressing his son, just before the execution, "let my fate be a warning to you: never be without an accident insurance policy."

WHAT THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC MEANS TO PETERBOROUGH:

Mr. Strachan Johnston of Toronto, the lawyer who represented the Electric Power Co. interests at the Cochrane interview in Ottawa, acknowledged that the Otonabee Power Co. was controlled by the Electric Power Company interests.

Peterborough is at present completely in the hands of one big power ring, which has spent $4,000,000 entrenching itself in this district. Peterborough is at the mercy of this big corporation, except where the franchises limit the rates to be charged.

Now that the Laurier government is gone, and George P. Graham's method of handing to political favorites, power concessions, the Whitney government has a chance to introduce its hydro-electric power scheme to the Trent Valley. Sir James Whitney, a man of determination and of his word, says he will do it. He could not venture during the past six years because the Dominion government stepped in and refused to acknowledge provincial rights to the waters.

R. R. Hall is in the $4,000,000 power corporation ring. E. A. Peck stands as the advocate of the Whitney policy of power for the people at cost—not at a big profit. It is not a question of how much power or lighting is in use in Peterborough—nature has been generous to us—nor a question of whether the present rates are not exorbitant. It is a question of whether, with the great natural advantages in power to be derived from the Trent canal system, we should be so tied up that we are dependent on the good-nature and good will of the corporation which has a monopoly of the power situation.

The introduction of hydro-electric power in Toronto made a saving to the people of 30 per cent. in their lighting bills. The private monopoly had to come off its perch, and equal the hydro-electric prices. Would the people of Peterborough deliberately deliver a knock out blow to the Whitney hydro-electric power scheme—which will probably bring power to Peterborough at cost—by electing a member of the $4,000,000 power ring? Power to the people as low as the charges can be made is the policy of the hydro-electric. Peterborough should have power competition. Give Whitney the opportunity to get every help in accomplishing his purpose; to give Peterborough in power matters

COMPETITION,
INDEPENDENCE,
LOWER PRICES,

and then watch Peterborough forge ahead as it should.

A DOUBLE WEDDING

Chicago, Nov. 23.—An international romance culminated in a double wedding at the home of Mrs. Jane Kitchen, of 5701 Monroe Avenue, last night, when her two daughters were married to men whom they had become affianced in Toronto, Ont., their former home. The brides were Miss Florence Kitchen, who was married to Vernon J. B. Eccles, and Miss Rose M. Kitchen, who became the wife of Herbert N. White. The service was read at their mothers' home, by Rev. Arthur M. Stevenson, of the Hyde Park Presbyterian church. The brides and bridegrooms formerly were school mates in Toronto. Only immediate relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Eccles left last night for Calgary, and Mr. and Mrs. White left on a trip through the east.

BRUCHESI'S STATEMENT

Montreal Archbishop's Statement On Marriage Question

Montreal, Nov. 23—"The marriage of Miss Graham to Mr. Shaughnessy had nothing to do with the ne temere decree," said His Grace Archbishop Bruchesi, to-day.

"People misunderstood the whole question, and the statement that the ne temere decree has been altered or broken is a mistake. The ne temere decree is made for Catholics only. It has nothing to do with Protestants. It is a measure requiring Catholics to be married before a Catholic priest, and declaring that if this is not done their marriage is invalid and is not recognised by the Catholic church. A Catholic to be validly married, must be married by a Catholic priest. In the case of a Catholic marrying a Protestant, a special dispensation must be secured.

"This was done in the case of Miss Graham and Mr. Shaughnessy. The diocesan regulations have not been altered in any sense. I have, however, for a variety of good reasons, given a dispensation of mixed religion in their cases, as I have done in other cases in the past. Their wedding ceremony was performed in conformity with all the regulations of the Catholic Church, by a Catholic priest, the Protestant party signing all the regulations of the Catholic Church. These regulations require that all the children shall be brought up in the Catholic faith, and that no other wedding ceremony shall ever be performed before a Protestant minister."

"In fact," said the Archbishop, "every regulation demanded by the Catholic Church was conformed with and to all intents and purposes the Protestant became a Catholic. The young lady signed an agreement agreeing to abide by all the conditions imposed by the Catholic Church."

MIXED MARRIAGES PERMITTED

"It is not true," continued the Archbishop, "that when I made the regulation prohibiting mixed marriages I said there would be no mixed marriages, I specially stated that under certain conditions which appealed to me, I would grant dispensation. In the past three or four years I have granted seven or eight dispensations, but as these were all for poor people there was no notice taken of them. In the present case, the people are well known, and the matter has got into the papers. Before I passed the regulation prohibiting mixed marriages the intermarrying of Catholics with Protestant became far too prevalent and left too many abuses. In one year before I issued my decree, I granted no less than 170 dispensations. Now we grant but one or two a year, and then only when we are satisfied that it is for the best."

RESOLUTION FOR XMAS SHOPPERS

Buy While the Buying's Good—Shop Early This Season

"Resolved, that we will do what we can to lessen the 'inhuman and unnecessary eleventh hour rush' of the Christmas shopping season by buying our presents early."

This little resolution should be unanimously adopted by the heads of every household in this city. The Christmas spirit is one of good fellowship towards everybody, and buyers should begin to display it as early as possible before the holiday. The twenty-fifth is only five weeks away, and this leaves but three weeks in which any really early shopping can be done. For the careful selection of gifts and their purchase from the cheapest available sources, this is none too long.

The store-keepers don't wait until the last moment before preparing their stocks. They are all on hand now and the buyer who purchases early gets the pick of the goods. The cultivation of the habit of putting off till next week results in disappointment for the buyer and overworked sales people in the store whose Christmas has been spoiled before it arrives.

In the past one of the most regrettable anomalies about Christmas has been the inhumanity of the eleventh hour rush, which has nothing of the universal good-will which is preached from every pulpit at Christmas about it.

Make out your list of goods early and proceed to systematically buy them in comfort to those who have to serve you.

Buy when the buying's good—shop early.

People who see themselves as others see them never believe what they see.

NEW METAL IS NAMED CANADIAN

Metallurgical Chemist Makes Another Important Discovery

Nelson, B.C., Nov. 24.—Andrew Gordon French, the famous metallurgical chemist, who earlier in the year discovered the presence of the platinum group of minerals in the Kootenay area, to-day announced the discovery of a new metal hitherto unknown to science, which he had named "Canadian." The metal is found in large quantities and is of high commercial value. It belongs to the platinum group and will be largely employed in the work of science. The announcement is expected to result in a vast impetus to the mining industry, which has already benefitted to an enormous extent by Mr French's discovery. Samples of the ore are being sent to all the leading scientific societies of the world.

SWORDS MUST BE MADE IN BRITAIN

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—If Great Britain cannot manufacture wholly the swords furnished to the Canadian militia they will have to be made in Canada, according to an order issued by Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia. At the recent military conference Lieut.-Col. Gwynne, of Regina, stated that he had directed to be sent back swords bought for his cavalry corps in England, but made in Germany. Since then there have been further intimations to Col. Hughes that these articles furnished the department for use by the Canadian militia are manufactured either wholly in Germany or other Continental countries, or that of the swords nominally made in England the chief parts are made in foreign lands and put together in England. Col Hughes, in a memorandum just issued, states his refusal to purchase any more swords from Britain of this semi-international manufacture or of the foreign-made article. His decision is that if Britain cannot manufacture swords wholly herself they will be made in Canada.

REGISTRATIONS FEW IN NUMBER

Opening Day Finds the Proceedings Very Quiet

Registration commenced at ten o'clock this morning at the various places chosen, and reports up to a late hour to-day, indicated a none too brisk registration at any of the booths. Considering however that this is the first day and that the majority of voters cannot secure an opportunity to register until the evening the reason can be easily recognized. Up till three o'clock this afternoon, the number who registered at the police court chamber was just twenty-five.

Registration can be made to-morrow and on Monday and Tuesday.

STREET CARS RUN ON SMALL CURRENT

New York, Nov. 22.—The most recent invention that Prof M. I. Hupin, of Columbia University, expects to spring on the world was spoken of by him at to-day's meeting of the National Academy of Sciences, in the lecture room of the new library. He said he was not ready to go into the particulars just then, but by the next meeting of the academy in April he would be prepared to explain to the scientists, how he could get incredible amounts of work done by the use of small quantities of electricity.

The machine that would do this, said the professor, had been discovered almost through accident, and in fact his first one was broken into bits at the first application of a small current. As an example of the utility of his machine he spoke of running street cars with the current which was found in a telephone circuit. The principle had not been known before, he was sure.

Is Arrested Again

James Pilling, a blacklister, who was served with papers not more than three weeks ago, was arrested this afternoon in a badly intoxicated state by two constables and marched to the police station. He will probably appear before the magistrate in the morning.

SMUGGLING IN CHINAMEN

Underground System to Evade U. S. Regulations

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 3—An underground system, through which hundreds of Orientals have been smuggled into the United States as merchandise and furniture, and whose ramifications extend from coast to coast, has been unearthed by the government, secretly, within the last two months. Seven arrests have been made in Chicago, one in Detroit, thirteen in New York, and single arrests in a dozen cities.

The revelation of the system—which for five months has been smuggling Chinamen across the border by the score—became public to-day with the arraignment of "Crappy" Nelson, of Windsor, Ont., before United States Commissioner, Mark A. Foote. With the holding of Nelson to the grand jury it became known that country jails in the vicinity of Chicago and New York are secretly holding several other prisoners. Among those under arrest in Chicago are Moy Sing "King" of Chicago Chinatown, 453 South Clark street, Lorne Stoneberg, Albert Arthur, alias "Tammie" Ouellette: Gordon Ferris, Moy Chung Hau and Moy Foor.

RAILWAY LINE BEING STAKED?

Workmen Are Busy in the Vicinity of Best's Station

The Review learned to-day from a reliable source that what may prove to be an electric railway route, is being staked out by about twenty men, who are working in the direction of Peterborough from Lindsay, and are now in the vicinity of Best's station. By persistent inquiry it was ascertained that there was considerable basis for the supposition that the work was intended for an electric transportation line.

The work is proceeding at a fair rate and is expected to reach Peterborough shortly, the route ending at Port Hope.

Mr Herbert Jackson, of Best's Station, was in the city to-day, and told a Review representative that the men were hard at work about two miles from his farm, and that a single line of stakes had been driven across a section of his land. This latter fact, however, would indicate that maybe the work is for the route of the pole that the Seymour Power Company intend building to carry power from the vicinity of Lindsay.

Inquiry at the Grand Trunk station failed to elicit any specific knowledge of the proposed route, save that there is a rumor current that the Canadian Northern intended building an electric railway over the route that is being now staked out.

PROPRIETY

They waltzed and waltzed to a wild, sweet strain.
The music throbbed in like a beating heart;
They waltzed and waltzed, and they waltzed again—
It seemed, in fact, that they couldn't part.
He held her close with his hand and arm,
Near to her cheek his own cheek turned;
Against his bosom her soft young form
Closely pressed as they twirled and turned.
Later, when taking her to her coach,
He caught her hand on the stairway dim—
"How dare you!" she asked, with a stern reproach,
And "What do you mean, sir?" she asked of him.

LABOR MEN MUST STAND FOR TRIAL

Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison's Motion Dismissed

Washington, November 23—Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell, and Frank Morrison, the labor leaders, must again stand trial in the Supreme Court of the district of Columbia on charges of contempt arising out of the Buck Stove and Range case. Justice Wright to-day handed down a decision over-ruling the motion of the labor leaders for a dismissal of the proceedings under the Statue of Limitations. The court held that contempt of court is not classed as criminal and consequently not subject to the bar of the Statue of Limitations.

MORE ANSWERS

By J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist

Q. What is Astigmatism of the eye?
A. Astigmatism is an uneven curvature of the eye and causes double focus. As the eye always strives for clear vision this double focus annoys the brain and causes headache and nervousness. We make lenses called cylinders to correct astigmatism.

Q. What causes double vision?
A. Double vision is caused by the eyes not being in line, that is, one may turn up or have a tendency to do so, or both may turn in; a weak muscular system is back of it all.

We would be pleased to have you call and let us explain how such conditions can be relieved with glasses.

SIR JAMES TALKS OF SCHOOLS IN HOME OF THE CONTROVERSY

Meeting in Essex Cheers Him to the Echo on Bi-lingual Question.

Essex, Nov. 25.—Sir James Whitney addressed a gathering of 2,000 persons in the rink here last night in the home of the original bilingual school controversy. Nothing new was added to the Premier's remarks on this subject during the other meetings of his campaign. "Some people say I'm afraid of this question," said the Premier, "but goodness knows I talk about it a lot," he said.

Dr. J. W. Brien of Essex, president of the South Essex Liberal-Conservative Association, presided, and among the speakers were Dr. C. N. Anderson, the Liberal-Conservative candidate in South Essex, Oliver Wilcox, M.P. for North Essex, and H. O. Fleming of Windsor.

Sir James paid a tribute to Dr. Anderson for his consistent attitude in the Legislature.

Sir James was enthusiastic over the progress of the Hydro-electric power policy in Eastern Ontario.

"In spite of the fact that a force of speculators, promoters and adventurers had determned to put every obstacle in the way of cheap power in Central and Eastern Ontario we have managed to complete arrangements for bringing it to the people in spite of every impediment," said Sir James.

As regards the sale of the Government House property in Toronto, Sir James said: "We haven't received the $800,000, because we haven't given over the land yet."

Dr. C. N. Anderson of Leamington, the Liberal-Conservative candidate in South Essex, delved right into the educational question. He could not see any reason for complaining of the Ontario teachers leaving the province to get bigger salaries out west, if bigger salaries were to be had there. Dr. Anderson said the new regulations compelling the teachers to remain one year in Ontario after receiving their certificate, would be of great benefit to the educational facilities of the province.

Oliver Wilcox, M.P., for North Essex, made a good speech, in which he paid a personal tribute to Hon. Dr. Reaume, the Ontario Minister of Public Works.

Dr. Reaume, said he, is a genial man, an honest man, and a man well worthy of the people's suffrage.

"Human ingenuity," he added, "has never devised a better method of government than party government, but, of course, we like to keep the Liberals in opposition."

Mr. Wilcox also lauded Sir James Whitney and his Government.

BRANTFORD WANTS IT TOO

Hydro-Electric in Demand by Progressive Cities.

Brantford, Nov. 25.—The Board of Trade, Paris, has passed a resolution strongly urging the Town Council to submit a Hydro-electric bylaw.

Paris has had an electric power plant of its own, and has made a success out of it, but owing to the industrial growth of the town, without large expenditure, the plant will be unable to meet the increased demands. Mayor Armstrong has taken an interest in the matter, and has asked the commission to send an engineer to make an estimate of the cost to the town.

It is more than likely that Brantford and Paris will endeavor to secure Hydro-electric jointly.

ORIENTALS CREEPING INTO PROMINENCE ON THE COAST

Vancouver Member Complains of the Delinquencies of the Late Government in Failing to Restrict Immigration.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—The debate on the address drags wearily on. H. H. Stevens (Vancouver) devoted considerable fervor to a denunciation of the delinquencies of the late Government in regard to Asiatic immigration. They had bequeathed to the present administration, he said, a racial problem before which the negro problem of the southern states would soon fade into insignificance.

The fisheries of the Pacific coast, said Mr. Stevens, were monopolized by the Japanese, who had made charts and photographs of the entire coast and these, he had no doubt, were now on file in the archives of Tokio.

In regard to the navy, he declared that there should be an imperial board of defence, at which all the overseas dominions should be represented. Canada should contribute to naval defence of the Empire pro rata to her share of Imperial trade.

J. H. Burnham, Conservative member for Peterboro, called on the Government to grapple with the situation created by the ne temere decree.

Dr. Sinclair (Guysboro) referred to Mr. Bourassa "as the man who presumed to act as godfather to Mr. Borden and his Cabinet."

In resuming his speech in the debate on the address, A. A. Mondou (Yamaska) told the Opposition that the naval question in regard to Mr. Bourassa was not of such importance as they thought. He had attended many meetings at which Mr. Bourassa had spoken, and on no occasion had the speeches of Mr. Bourassa been such as could not be repeated in any city of Canada from Vancouver to Halifax.

Mr. Borden and Mr. Monk had always thought together on the main question in regard to the navy. "I have always fought the battles of the Liberal-Conservative party in this country," said Mr. Mondou, "and I still believe that the people can speak on this question as they spoke on reciprocity. They spoke eloquently on Sept. 21 and can speak again to-morrow on the policy the Liberal-Conservatives will adopt on this naval question if it is necessary. There is not a French Canadian in this country who will not be ready to stand with the rest of the country on this question in pronouncing either for it or against it."

Mr. Mondou did not shirk the charge of Mr. Lemieux that his own position to the right of the Speaker was under false representations on the question of reciprocity. "I have no doubt that the policy which should prevail in this country," he said, "is the policy which was adopted in 1878 by the Liberal-Conservative party.

Alphonse Verville (Maisonneuve) called the result of the elections "the victory of the trusts over the masses of the people. He predicted that the British crown itself would be in danger in Canada by the discontent of the masses if these men were allowed to continue to work their will.

H. H. Stevens (Vancouver) expressed his astonishment that Mr. Verville, who posed as the special representative of labor gave his support to a political party that when in power had deliberately instructed their officials on the Pacific coast for a whole year to ignore the provisions of the alien labor act

MR. BURHHAM INITIATED A DEBATE ON NE TEMERE DECREE

Member for Peterborough Declares Laurier Government Side-Stepped the Question — A Warm Time in the House of Commons.

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—The attitude of the Laurier Government toward the "ne temere" decree was critized for the first time during the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne by Mr Burnham, the new Conservative member for West Peterborough, in the House to-day. Mr. Burnham, who is a vigorous speaker, said the defeated Administration had declined to state definitely whether or not it had power to protect persons the validity of whose marriages was impugned under the decree.

MR. BURNHAM'S ARGUMENT.

Mr Burnham charged that the late Government was responsible for the continued operation of the "ne temere" decree. This decree, he stated, was a type of all attempts on the laws of the country. "The question is; Are we married, or are we not?" he asked. "If we are, how dare anyone say we are not? If they do, we are entitled to protection by the laws of the country." Defiance of the law by the people was punishable in other cases, and why not in this? It was an unjustifiable interference of outside bodies in the administration of Canadian laws. Mr. Burnham charged that the late Government, through Sir Alan Aylesworth, had failed to state its position, in response to Mr. Taylor's question on the subject, and must be held responsible for the continuance of the decree.

HAS GOVERNMENT POWER?

Mr. E. M. Macdonald inquired whether Mr. Burnham held that the Dominion Government had power to deal with it and legislate under the British North America Act.

Mr Burnham replied that it certainly had the power. It was a question that Senates, Synods, Assemblies and Conferences had all taken up. It was a very important question in Ontario, and was one reason for the defeat of the Laurier Administration.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley asked if the question played a part in the speaker's riding in the last election and if it was used against the Government.

Assuredly," was Mr. Burnham's reply "The country demanded a Government strong enough and willing enough to enforce the laws of the country against all who would set them at defiance."

"May I ask the hon. gentleman," queried Hon. Mr. McLean (Halifax) "if in his judgment this question played an important part in the campaign conducted throughout Ontario, and, if so, what proportion of the result was attributed to it?"

FARMERS' BANK DEPUTATION

What Transpired at the Ottawa Interview.

Question of Precedent Figures Prominently.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—A large representation of shareholders and depositors of the defunct Farmers' Bank waited on the Government yesterday morning. The deputation was made up of people from all parts of Ontario. Premier Borden was present, also Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance and other members of the Cabinet.

Rev. Mr Gilmour as spokesman said that this was a peculiar case in the financial world and there must be exceptional relief in the case of the sufferers. He claimed that the former Finance Department was largely culpable in allowing a bank "conceived in fraud" to have been allowed to secure a charter.

Amongst others of the deputation who spoke were Mr. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, and William Laidlaw, K.C., of Toronto. They pointed out that they did not ask relief from the Government on legal grounds alone, but also on the grounds of the sympathies of the people and of the Government being with them.

Hon. Mr. Borden stated in reply to Mr. White that a relief fund meant the taking of money from the public treasury, which meant a good deal of responsibility.

It was pointed out that the company headed by Mr. Travers had not fulfilled the conditions of the Bank Act and that they had been led by a man, not of sterling integrity.

Mr. Laidlaw, in his address, said it was admitted that after the certificate had been issued, there was mismanagement. But the issuance of the certificate itself was a mistaken act. This could be proven by evidence in the trial and also in the facts placed before the Department. The sufferers whom he represented were quite willing, he said, to have the facts uncovered by a competent body appointed by Parliament. He pointed out further that the act of the Department, which was culpable was in not heeding the warning given by the president of the Banker's Association.

A little later in the course of his arguments, Mr. Laidlaw stated that there was no real stock paid for.

Hon. W. T. White asked if it was a case of negligence. He further asked him if he distinguished between careless and guilty negligence, but Mr. Laidlaw refused to be explicit on this point.

Hon. Mr. White asked what would be a proper measure of damage, but Mr. Laidlaw in answering would state no exact figures. Mr. Laidlaw further pointed out that the Farmers' Bank was not a legal corporation at any time and therefore had no power to contract liabilities.

The deputation asked for a commission to investigate. The Premier and Hon. W. T. White would not commit themselves to any definite plan, but promised a favorable outlook for their future welfare if it were possible.

A HYDRO-ELECTRIC SAMPLE

The Liberal organ in trying to discredit and discount the hydro-electric power policy, refers to Toronto as a sample of how the people's money gets tied up in such big municipal schemes. The Examiner said last night:

> "The Review calls upon the electors to vote for 'Peck and people's power at cost.' 'Power at cost' is a very pretty catch phrase, but what is the cost? It appears that the installation of Hydro-Electric power equipment is costing the city of Toronto nearly five million dollars. With interest at four per cent. upon the borrowed money, that means $200,000 per year to be met by the taxpayers, and $200,000 more for sinking fund, a total of $400,000 annual levy on the taxpayers. But that is not all the cost. The taxpayers will still have to pay a stiff rate for electric light and power."

Let us take Toronto as a sample of the working of the hydro-electric system. Let us for the sake of showing some facts in their true light, accept the Examiner's valuation of the cost of the civic electric system in Toronto at $5,000,000. On that cost there will have to be met from the sale of lighting and power annual charges of, say, $400,000, to carry that indebtedness and provide for wiping it out at the end of thirty years.

Now in figuring out the cost of power and lighting to the consumer, this annual charge of $400,000 is added to the price. The price for power and lighting which the hydro-electric consumer pays is sufficient to meet this charge, the first cost for the current, the operating charges, transmission—in fact, is the cost delivered to the consumer. It is not true, as the Examiner with petty cunning, asserts, that the tax-payers have to meet that $400,000, as tax-payers; but those who buy the current pay that charge, just as the man who buys an overcoat pays for the cloth, the making, and the delivery of it. The general taxes are not increased; the system is designed to be self-sustaining, or practically so, even in its first year, which is the hard year.

The Examiner uses a half-truth to convey a complete lie. The question is:—Does the civic treasury have to help meet the cost of the hydro-electric scheme? Again the answer is:—The price charged for the power is sufficient to meet all charges in connection with the scheme, interest on the money borrowed, the operating charges, etc.

Now let us look at the other side of the shield. What difference in the price of electric power and lighting has the introduction of public competition made? How much has the private corporation had to reduce its prices, to meet the power-at-cost figures of the hydro-electric? Following is a table well worth study. It quotes the price for power and lighting made by the hydro-electric, and the price previously charged by the monopolists—showing a saving of about thirty or thirty-five per cent; a saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to the users of power and current. The customers of the private corporation have benefitted just as much as the customers of the hydro-electric system, because of course the private corporation had to cut its prices to meet the power-at-cost figures of the people's system.

Class	Hydro-electric Rate	Toronto Electric Co. Rate Light
Residence lighting	4½ cents kil. hour	8 cents kil. hour
Commercial lighting alternating	4 cents kil. hour	8 cents kil. hour
Commercial power alternating	2 cents kil. hour	4 cents kil. hour
Commercial lighting direct current	5 cents kil. hour (storage batteries)	8 cents kil. hour no storage batteries
Commercial power direct current	2¼ cents kil. hour (storage batteries)	4 cents kil. hour no storage batteries

DETAILS OF MASSACRES ARE TOLD BY THE MISSIONARIES

Bandits Roamed Through Captured Cities, and Outraged Peasants—Rebels Restored Order and Punished Culprits.

Pekin, Nov. 25.—Missionaries arriving in Pekin from Tungchowfu, 80 miles northeast of Sianfu, give accounts of the recent revolution in the Province of Shensi, where the anti-foreign element declared its intention to exterminate foreigners, Christians and Manchus, but only partially succeeded.

The rebel general at Sianfu, they say, issued a proclamation to the people not to harm merchants, foreigners or non-combatant Chinese, but only to destroy Manchus. The Manchus thereupon prepared to defend themselves within their own walled section of the city, but nearly all were slain. According to the missionaries, the Chinese informed them that horrible barbarities accompanied the slaughter and that a number of Manchus women were speared or carried off by Chinese officials. After the massacre bandits took charge of the situation. They plundered shops and demanded money of the inhabitants and then set fire to and burned the school of the Scandinavian-China Alliance Mission and killed Mme. Beckman and another teacher. A missionary was wounded, but succeeded in rescuing a number of the school children.

When the rebels restored order they decapitated many of the outlaws. During the disorder the English Baptist Mission was threatened, but not attacked.

When the missionaries left Tungchowfu, the rebels continued to administer the city capably, but the brigands swarmed throughout the province. The country people near Tungchowfu organized and captured several of the robbers and killed them with their knives. In nearly every village trees were felled and barricades erected. The village missionaries were unable to escape.

Another party arriving in Pekin from Southern Shensi say they believe the Sianfu missionaries will be unable to get away owing to the bad condition of the roads.

FOR THE DEEP SEA MISSION

Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell's Great Work Before the People of Peterborough—Ministerial Association's Appeal.

The people of Peterborough are addressed with regard to a matter which will surely have much sympathy and heartiest co-operation. The whole civilized world knows of the splendid work of Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell among the deep sea fishermen of Labrador.

For years a number of interested citizens have held what was known as the Deep Sea Mission Ball in the month of December. As there will be no ball this year the Ministerial Association has assumed the responsibility of appealing ~~to~~ the public to make up the usual sum without the festivity of former years. Surely the Christian people of our city will respond promptly and gladly. Never did the mission require funds more than it does this year. Peterborough will not leave its share undone.

Contributions sent to the newspaper offices will be acknowledged promptly by Mrs. James Wood, who has consented to act as treasurer of the fund.

On behalf of the Ministerial Association.

J. R. WEBB, President.
J. G. BROWN, Secretary.

St. Kitt's New Hospital.

St. Catharines, Nov 25.—The new hospital, which has just been completed here at a cost of upwards of $75,000, was opened yesterday afternoon by Lieutenant-Governor J M. Gibson. Dr. Bruce Smith, hospital inspector for Ontario, was also present. The hospital is said to be the best equipped for its size in the province. It has a capacity of fifty patients.

ROWELL ON TAX REFORM

Talks About Campaign Issues at Ottawa.

Laurier Was to Have Been Present, But Had a Cold.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—N. W. Rowell, K.C., Liberal leader in Ontario, made his first appearance on a political platform in Eastern Ontario, here last night, when he addressed a big audience in the Russell Theatre. He made a strong impression and was accorded a splendid reception.

As in previous meetings, he has addressed in the campaign, he thoroughly discussed the planks in the manifesto issued recently to the people of the province, and criticized Sir James Whitney, the Premier, as being practically a demagog and said that he was emulating that ancient Norman King of Britain, James II., who believed he ruled by divine right, and who directed his lieutenants to support him in return for their being allowed privileges of selling "wine, beer and coffee." This reference to Sir James was received with cheers.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was to have spoken, but was prevented from doing so, as he was confined to his home with a severe cold. He sent a message saying that he was "heart and soul with Rowell." This message was read by Senator Belcourt, who made a brief address.

The other speakers were the two local candidates in West and East Ottawa, Dr. Gordon Henderson and Louis Kehoe. Dr. Henderson's remarks were featured by a statement that he would go further than his leader on the liquor question and say that if elected he would work for total prohibition in the province.

Mr. Kehoe touched on the bilingual school question, and said that no one had heard the voice of a Liberal candidate raised against the schools, and stated that the bungling of the present Government was the cause of the present agitation.

A feature of Mr. Rowell's speech was his lengthy statement on the tax reform. This is a question of great local interest, as the two Conservative candidates have expressed themselves as in favor of the plank against their leader, who opposes it.

Mr. Rowell also took the stand on the bilingual school question, the development of new Ontario, and the Hydro-electrical policy. He was opposed to the creation of a new Department.

PORT NELSON FOR ONTARIO

This Province Will Have a Seaport Also.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—Ontario's chances of having a port on Hudson Bay have not been completely buried in the arrangement so far completed between the Dominion and Manitoba Governments for the extension of the Manitoba boundaries.

Friendly negotiations are now in progress which will, if carried out, satisfy both Ontario and Manitoba, the net result probably being that both provinces will likely share in Port Nelson.

This can easily be brought about by slightly altering the proposed new easterly boundary of Manitoba by drawing a line from the present northeast corner of the province west of the 92nd meridian, north to the 58th parallel, and thence northwesterly to a point above the mouth of the Nelson River. From this point to Hudson Bay, the boundary would be the thread of the river.

Manitoba is said to be ready to agree to this change.

SCIATICA

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored by "Nerviline."

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold, and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended "Nerviline." I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day, and got relief. In order to build up my general health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, one tablet with each meal. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism, or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

CURED SIX YEARS

There isn't a more highly-esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 50 cents per bottle, trial size, 25c; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

WELCOME ANNOUNCEMENT

The announcement in the newspapers yesterday, that the Dominion government would lease Dams No. 4 and 8 to the hydro-electric power commission, and that the commission would immediately proceed to make a complete plan for hydro-electric power development for central and eastern Ontario, shows that the Whitney government means business.

Power at cost for the people of this district will be the slogan and the people of Peterborough will have the chance to vote on a proposition for cheaper power in a very short time. The end has come of the policy of handing valuable power franchises and concessions to the big private interests, we hope, and more attention will be paid to making public utilities serve the best interests of the public.

It did not take the Conservative government at Ottawa long to reverse the Graham policy, and it is to be hoped that the provision of a public competitive service in power for eastern Ontario will be carried out with the energy and promptitude which has characterized the movement so far.

EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

Premier Borden will introduce into the house of commons a bill to separate the department of external affairs from the department of state, and he will undertake the supervision of this new department himself. That this will be a change very advantageous to Canada there can be no doubt, because Mr Borden is perhaps the most qualified man in Canada for such a post, by reason of his wide knowledge of international politics, and his broad constitutional grasp of affairs

Canada in the next ten or fifteen years will become of increasing importance to the world; its relations with the world powers will become the subject of much delicate negotiation, it will be one of the nations whose commerce will attract every nation having foreign trade. That such foreign affairs should be under the guidance of the premier of Canada is right and proper, as befitting its importance, and under Mr Borden, who has been a keen student of international questions and politics, there is assured wise and capable handling

(Toronto News.)

Bi-lingualism in schools means confusion and inefficiency. In Manitoba there soon will be a very Babel. Every little group of transplanted foreigners takes heart from the example of French-speaking people near by, and demands teaching in some language other than English. Similar conditions are likely to develop in Alberta and Saskatchewan. Indeed, promise of their development is everywhere apparent. The Federal Government shackled the Western Provinces, curtailed their educational freedom, trampled upon the British North America Act, and by means of a servile majority enacted a law that was out of harmony with every true Canadian sentiment.

In the West a national school system could have been established. Without government meddling, that system would have grown and flourished, and would have been a potent aid in stimulating national sentiment. Instead we have sectional division, denominational sheep-marking, and all the evils which are bound to come from bi-lingualism.

In Ontario, clearly, there is an attempt being made to extend the use of French. The boast has been freely made in the neighboring province that before many years Ontario will be almost wholly French-speaking. To aid in the realization of the dream efforts are being put forth to increase the use of French in Public and Separate schools.

The school law which demands the thorough education of pupils in English has been evaded in some instances and the nature of the education some of these two-language schools have provided has been inadequate and sometimes merely fragmentary. Eager agitators in and out of this Province have been too busy for their own health or for that of our educational system. It is time for the people of this Province, the descendants of the pioneers, who won it from the wilderness, to make it particularly clear to the legislators that Ontario will remain an English-speaking country. National spirit must suffer by encouragement of a Babel of tongues.

The prime duty of the Ontario schools, whether Public or Separate, and in every section of the Province, is to give the pupils a thorough knowledge of English so that when they face the world they can have a wide and open market for their labor. And this does not interfere, and cannot interfere in any way with the rights of French-Canadians. The tongue of the minority may be an accomplishment. But English is necessary in Ontario, in Canada, in the United States and in Britain. The Ontario school system must not be allowed to become the tool of an organized race propaganda.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The weather predictions are for a terrible frost on the night of December 11

Mr Hall is working tremendously hard, but he is facing great odds His alliance with the $4,000,000 power ring, and enmity to the hydro-electric, is enough to condemn him in the eyes of the workingman

The fact that the registration is so light indicates how little real interest there seems to be taken in the elections Everyone seems to be quite satisfied that the noise made about two or three matters by the Liberals is just that much election bluff

It is said that the Manitoba boundary question is not yet settled It would be strange that Ontario should be left without a port on Hudson Bay, except through the good-will of Manitoba Ontario does not deserve such an unjust arrangement

There are such few issues in the campaign that the discussion of such matters as education and the workingmen's compensation act may be welcomed, as helping to enlighten the electorate on such matters as these Too often there is public indifference shown as regards these affairs

The Ontario Liberals' campaign ammunition has been almost used up The campaign is making not the slightest stir around the province, for the very good reason that the people are satisfied with the Whitney administration, as being a particularly good one

The Conservatives of Peterborough and those Liberals who will vote for Mr Peck—and they are many—should recollect that Mr Peck will not be elected by each one of them forgetting to vote, and expecting the other fellow to do his duty Over-confidence is fatal Each man should cast his own ballot, and then watch his neighbor also Thirty-Three Killed.

Liverpool, Nov. 25.—Late yesterday afternoon the known death list occasioned by the boiler explosion at the oil Cake Mills of J. Bibby & Sons, remained at 33, with upwards of 100 on the injured list.

The force of the explosion was so terrific that the roof of the great mill was blown off, while the walls split and crumbled, and the bodies of the victims, hurled high into the air, mingled with the flashes of flame which instantly followed the bursting of the boilers.

MR. BURNHAM ON WHITNEY'S SPEECH

You Can't Beat Him Says West Peterboro Member

Ottawa, Nov. 25—J. H. Burnham, M. P. for West Peterborough, in an interview to-day discussed the speech of Sir James Whitney at Durham Wednesday night, in which the provincial premier admitted that in the west some taxation remedy was needed but held that in the east things were different.

"Sir James Whitney," said Mr. Burnham, "acknowledges the principle ofSingle Tax! Such at least appears to be the case if we may judge by the report of his speech at Durham Ont., on Nov. 22. He admitted that for a new country like the west, single tax was not only right but necessary. He acknowledges the principle. It does not remain therefore for those who agree with him to challenge him further in this respect. Henceforth, it is merely a question of convincing him that what is right in principle is capable of application everywhere, it being but a matter of time to find the true rule of application, when once the correctness of the principle is ascertained. When you were good enough to invite me to say a word on this subject, I had no idea that Olympus was soon to shake with Jovian thunder in defence of the principle of Single Tax. Hitherto the signs had not been favorable but let bygones be bygones and let me be thankful that Sir James's concience would not let him rest in this particular.

"It is this overpowering concience of Sir James that is the real moving force of public life in Ontario," continued Mr. Burnham. "You can't beat him. He is not the most gracious of all people in the world to the deputant or the interviewer, but God help the man who is not straight. The late Sir Matthew Crooks Cameron was not a circumstance to Sir James in this regard, except possibly in strength of voice. From now on then, those in favor of the Land Tax, i. e., the taking back (by the community of that which has so unjustly been kept from it viz., the unearned increase in the value of land due to the accumulation of population) may bend their energies to the correct application of this great principle. Sir James is on their side. The triumph is as glorious as it is sudden. Industry will be freed once more, the people owe Sir James a debt of gratitude."

But He Found a Cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills

Quebec Postmaster was Confined to Bed When He Started to Use Dodd's Kidney Pills—They Cured Him.

Tippins, Pontiac Co., Que., Nov. 24. (Special).—Postmaster F. Tippins, of this place, who for three years has been more or less of an invalid, and who for some time was confined to his bed, is up and around again, a healthy and hearty man. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him.

"After recovering from an attack of Grippe," the Postmaster says in telling the story of his cure. "I took a pain in my back and I suffered for nearly three years, finally getting so bad that I was confined to my bed.

"One day I told my wife to go and get me some Dodd's Kidney Pills, as that would be the last medicine I would try. After using about half the box I began to feel better, so I kept on taking them. When I had taken two boxes I was able to get up, and ten boxes cured me completely.

The principal danger of Grippe is the after effects. The way to guard against this is strengthen the Kidneys so they can strain all the dregs of the disease out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills are always the last medicine anyone takes for Kidney Disease. It always cures and no other medicine is needed.

The half is better than the whole—if you are the one that has to give up.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

—BY—

CLIVE PHILLIPPS WOLLEY

(AUTHOR OF "GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO," ETC.)

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

But the Fraser, by which that silent figure led him, is not a river of this kind.

Born of the snows in that barren land where earth's ribs show above the last of the black pines, the Fraser is bitter and savage from its birth. There are no lush grass lands for it to flow through, no miller's wheels for it to turn.

Its course is through sand and gravel; that it is gold gravel makes it no more beautiful; past grey benches stained in leprous patches by vivid metallic colors. It has nothing to do with farming until, weary of life and retired from business, it reaches its muddy delta, where it farms because it is too feeble to do anything else.

Its life's work was mining. It is the great sluice box of northern British Columbia, the great water power which eats away the gold-bearing rocks, which builds the sand bars and feeds them year by year with much fine gold, which tempts the strongest of our men with the possibility of quickly earned wealth, and having sucked their lives out of them, leaves them stranded in such back waters as Soda Creek.

The banks of it under which Jim Combe led the doctor's stumbling horse, were sheer cliffs of gravel, the raw edges of a great earth wound, through which the river tore its course, and the brim of it was no place of primroses, but a fringe of great boulders, too heavy even for its strong waters to move, and here and there the bones of a stranded pine.

Far overhead the two could see a few tall conifers, towering in the night mist, and behind them, up stream, the dull red light which marked the centre of such life as there was in Soda Creek.

When a cable crossed the river they paused, and Jim dismounting went down to the water's edge. The ferry was there, moored to the bank, the ice-cakes gathering round it as it lay, but there was no boatman by it, and the little shack in which he sheltered was empty. Jim got into the ferry and tried to move it, but the chain of it was secured by a great padlock. It was kept for the public's convenience and the ferryman's profit, and the ferryman had gone.

"Curse it. That's what I might have expected," Jim muttered, "but I didn't see him in the saloon when we left."

For a time he wrestled with the lock and tried to break it with a boulder from the beach, but such attempts had been foreseen and the fastenings were too strong to yield to rude surgery.

"Doesn't matter much if they do come now," he said to himself, and began to hulloa on the off-chance that the ferryman might be within hearing. He even took out his revolver and fired a shot, but for awhile there was no response. The ferryman had concluded that his cowboy passenger of the morning was as other cowboys he had known, and would be as long over his half-hour's business as they had been, and, Caribou, being a free country, he had gone where he listed.

But the revolver shot had roused others, if it had not called the ferryman. The red glow in the centre of the townlet was redder now and larger. The door of the Ideal was wide open, and there were voices on the night air, the voices of men which grew closer as he listened. Possibly Bill's suspicions had found voice at the last moment, the revolver shot having confirmed them, and now the whole drunken gang was out looking for the doctor and his abductor. It did not matter much. He could easily escape such a posse as they were likely to form, but he turned towards his captive. It was no use keeping him any longer.

"Hulloa, you are awake, are you? Want them wraps off your mouth?" he asked, cynically. "They'll keep the cold off your chest," but he moved towards him and released the doctor from his gag.

"You might as well untie my hands whilst you are about it. They are nearly frozen already," said Protheroe in a matter-of-fact tone.

Jim looked at him in some surprise. The sobering effect of the ride had been even greater than he had anticipated.

"I guess you can sit on then by yourself," he remarked, unfastening the rope which bound his captive's legs, before freeing his hands. "Steady! Don't fall off as you ride back, and don't try any monkey tricks with me. It ain't worth it," and then, reassured by the doctor's appearance, he let his hands go.

"Now you might as well ride back and finish the night with your pals. Sorry I troubled you."

But the doctor remained sitting where he was.

"You ain't afraid about finding your way, are you?" asked Combe. "They'll be here pretty soon now, if they don't fall in and get drowned. I'm not coming along. Soda Creek might not be healthy for me just now."

Still the doctor sat where he was, stretching his cramped legs, feeling the stiffened muscles of his arms, swaying a little in his saddle, and looking at Combe.

"You must have wanted me pretty badly," he said at length, and there was no trace of anger in his voice, no protest against his attempted abduction.

"Guess I did, or I shouldn't have took you."

"What is it? A woman? You aren't married?"

Jim laughed a hard laugh.

"What is it then? You aren't drunk or a fool."

"Ain't I? That new tenderfoot, Anstruther, has broke himself up pretty badly. Miss Clifford is nursing him and wants a doctor."

"Ah!" grunted the doctor, and whistled a strange hollow whistle like that of a fog horn. It was a curious trick he had on occasions of insight. He knew the Risky Ranch pretty well, though he was no favorite there, and he knew its internal history, and could have made shrewd guesses about Miss Clifford and Jim Combe and even about Mr. Anstruther. The ways of the world are very much alike everywhere, and doctors know them better than most men.

"What is the matter with Anstruther?"

"Ribs broke, two or three, and may be something worse inside."

"Well he will get over that without my assistance or die. Does it matter?"

Jim looked at him stupidly.

"To you," the doctor added.

"No, I don't know as it does matter a whole heap. I rode that devil here in a day and a night to get you. He wasn't broke when we left," and he pointed to the weary roan. "I've lied to poor old Bill; I've stolen a horse and done my best to steal a man. I don't suppose it does matter," and he sat down on one side of the boulders whilst the hue and cry came nearer. He could see their lanterns flashing now like drunken stars along the edge of the bank not half a mile away.

"If you had told me that it was for a woman I would have come."

"But it wasn't."

"No?" hesitating questioningly on the monosyllable, "but you told Bill so. Why didn't you lie to me?"

"It wouldn't have helped. You didn't go for Bill's woman."

The doctor flinched for the first time, and opened his mouth as if to defend himself, but thought better of it, and shrugging his shoulders asked:

"Have you got all my instruments and things there? That is my bag, I think," and he pointed to the satchel strapped upon Jim's horse.

"Yes, I got them before I left."

"Very thoughtful of you. Hand them up for me to look at. I'm too stiff to get off my horse yet."

Jim obeyed, and by the faint light of a match, which Jim had to hold for him, the doctor explored the interior of his grip-sack.

"Our friend Bill got these, I imagine," he said. "He was thinking of his own case. He always is. Wrap them up in this and put them on the bank. Someone will find them and we shan't have any use for them on this trip. We don't want to carry any more than we are obliged to."

Jim struck another match and the doctor finished his examination.

"They have all the ordinary appliances for cases of accident at Roit's, I suppose?" He was quiet now and business-like.

"I guess so."

"Well, these will do then. We shall make them all in a devil of a mess, but the water-proof case will save some of them. I'm glad you brought that, Mr. Combe."

There was a pause whilst Jim fastened the bag in its place again, the lights were growing very close now, and the voices of the searchers plainly audible. Combe could distinguish his own name, uttered from time to time.

"Well, what are we waiting for? Aren't you coming?"

"Back to Soda Creek?"

"No, to the Risky. Isn't that where you wanted to take me?"

"We can't. That blanked ferryman has gone and I can't break the lock."

"Is that so, and Jim Combe can't cross this bit of a river without a boat to get back to the man Miss Clifford is nursing? Shaw! Here is the way," and the dare-devil, crammed the only top hat in Caribou more tightly on his head, spurred his beast into the edge of the grey flood that went roaring by, slipped and recovered, sitting his horse now as firmly as Combe himself might have done; slipped again, and the next moment was swimming, horse and man, deep in the angry waters of the Fraser.

Ringing Praise For "No. 10." Prescribed By Him 47 Years Ago.

Mr. Miles Maroney, Blissfield, N. B., says: "I had occasion to visit the Rev. Gentleman for treatment for lung trouble, which proved to be of such a serious nature that my friends looked upon my recovery as almost hopeless—but after taking his No. 10 Lung Tonic I am thankful to say I am in perfect health, and I recommend No. 10 to all the world."

Mrs. Malcolm Livingston, Rumford Falls, Me., says: "I cannot praise your No. 10 Lung Tonic too highly, because it cured me of throat trouble of long standing—it is now four years ago and I have not been troubled since."

Mr. Daniel McCarthy, Wood's Island, N. F., writes: "Thank God! my little girl is now well and able to go to school—your No. 10 saved her life, and I give you a thousand thanks that she is well again."

Mr. Jno. Aylward, Campbellton, N. B., writes: "While traveling on the Gaspé Coast I contracted a severe cold, which settled upon my lungs. I procured your No. 10 Lung Tonic just in the nick of time to save my life. After one month's use I felt like a new man, and I recommend it as the surest and best remedy I know of."

Mrs. George Desmarais, St. Jean, P. Q., says: "I can speak in the highest favor of your No. 10 Lung Tonic, as I suffered for a long time from lung trouble—and could get nothing to cure me until I tried your remedy. I used it regularly, and to my great surprise I got well, and now am completely cured. It is with sincere thanks and gratitude that I recommend this priceless remedy."

Mrs. Wm. Nar. Lavigne, Bathurst, N. B., writes: "I cannot find fitting words to say enough for your No. 10 Lung Tonic. It is indispensable to every home. It has done wonders for me when other remedies failed, and we are never without it in the home. The cures that have been made down here by this remedy are hard to believe—they are so wonderful. Everybody ought to use it."

Mr. Alex. H. McRae, Carnoustie, Sask., says: "I am glad you are pushing your medicines this way. Have used many kinds of cough medicine, but I never found anything to equal yours. Your No. 10 is all you claim for it. Believe your sales will be large out here, as these people appreciate a good thing."

The above prescription is not a "Cure-All" or so-called patent medicine. Dr. Morriscy prescribed it for 41 years, and it cured thousands after other doctors failed.

Montreal, Nov. 24—The McGill mark was overtopped at noon yesterday, inside of four days, one day before the committee expected to complete the task of raising $1,000,000, and the total is now rapidly on its way towards the million and a half mark, which has been demanded by Robert Redford, if the committee are to receive his large gift of $100,000.

E. A. Robert of the Montreal Street Railway, yesterday, $30,000; N. Curry, $25,000, and Sir Hugh Graham, $25,000; Dr. Milton Hersey has also given $30,000. The total announced is $1,132,633.

Barrie Man's Sudden Death.

Barrie, Nov. 24.—The family of Wm. Degear was startled yesterday morning as they finished breakfast to see their father reel suddenly and die instantly. He had been in his customary health. Before coming to Barrie the family lived at Minesing. One son is a resident of Toronto, Thomas, who is a carriage-maker of McGill street.

Italians Hemmed In.

Paris, Nov. 24.—That the Town of Tripoli is virtually besieged by the Turks and that Homs is in no better situation is the opinion of a correspondent of The Temps, who has succeeded in joining the Ottoman forces. He telegraphs regarding the Turkish side of the war under date of Nov. 12 and says that it is certain that after a month and a half war, after large expenditures and serious losses, the Italians are no further advanced than on the day following their disembarkation. If the Turkish forces are inferior in numbers to the Italians they make up in confidence what they lack in numbers.

The food of the Turkish army is frugal, but sufficient. Arms are adequate, many carrying rifles captured from the enemy. The correspondent did not find dissension among the Arabs and Turks.

MY LADY'S COLUMN.

THE NEW HOME

A Gradual House-Furnishing is Productive of Most Delight to the Bride.

The furnishing of the future home is always a subject of surprising interest to the prospective bride, and she is apt to feel aggrieved if every item, both of ornament and utility, cannot be installed in the house ready for the return from the honeymoon. The desirable thing, she thinks, is to order everything in complete suites and sets direct from a furnishing firm, so that nothing is left for her to do but to arrange the pieces to the best advantage in the space available.

Yet it is from gradual furnishing that she will derive most of the delights of house fitting and decorating. If she starts with the absolute minimum of furniture required for comfort and convenience, she is at liberty to add this, that, and the other, as the need arises, and, as the opportunity occurs, for obtaining that which exactly expresses her individual tastes. A room slowly furnished in this manner is far more likely to bear the impress of the occupant's personality than is one hastily supplied with the orthodox suite, which, as often as not, quite over-crowds the small sitting-room with chairs that are not needed, while leaving no space for other items which may be needed. Especially is it desirable to add slowly to the ornamental items, and to choose each of these separately for some marked and special attraction of its own, and not merely for the sake of filling up some vacant space on wall or mantlepiece. There are said to be people who choose pictures by their frames; there are certainly housewives who choose ornaments mainly for height and width rather than for shape, colour, design, etc. The charm of home-furnishing is greatly increased if one takes the trouble to learn a little about "period" furnishing, and knows the story of a class of pottery or the romance attaching to the painter of a picture — though the picture be but a painted copy of the well-known original. An intimate interest of this sort gives value and meaning to the objects around and prevents the boredom prone to follow the best laid ready-made plan.

A PRETTY RUSSIAN

PAOLONIA PAJITYKAIA

Karsavina is said to be the most beautiful woman that ever graduated from the Czar's ballet school. Kschesinska was known as "solo dancer to the czar," and, until this season, saving one appearance in Paris for the Messina earthquake sufferers, she has never been permitted to appear before other than a Russian audience.

Cut Flower Hints

It is a mistake to mix flowers when arranging them. Generally speaking, they are infinitely lovelier if each kind is kept by itself. There are, however, some which are more effective in combination, as, for example, mignonnette. The latter is nice with any flowers not having foliage, as it supplies the required green.

When flowers have short stems and one wishes to arrange them in a shallow, wide bowl, the matter is simple if a glass be placed in the middle. In this, filled with water, the first flowers are placed. The others, put in the bowl, will entirely conceal the central receptacle, and the result is more symmetrical than could be had otherwise.

Green pottery, either in shallow dishes or jars, rarely can be improved upon for holding flowers, while some of the terra cotta jars from Italy are perfection, with their soft creaminess of tone, which harmonizes with all colors.

The unvarying decorations on the big chimney shelf in one girl's room are four tiny little Italian pots, uniform in size and design. From the time the flowering season begins they are always filled with two different kinds of blossoms, two of the jars having the same kind, and so placed as to balance or match on the shelf.

Arranging flowers for the house every morning during the summer is one of the prettiest and most artistic duties a girl can have.

Apple Jelly.

Put water in the pan to boil, and when the apples are peeled and quartered drop them into the boiling water, allowing only enough water to cover the fruit. Boil quickly; when the apples are cooked to a pulp, pour in a quart of water, and let them boil for another half-an-hour, then run through a jelly bag until clear. Put away in jars covered with paper soaked in brandy, and again covered with bladder.

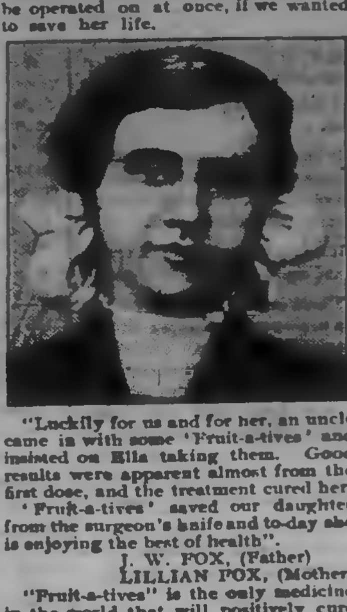
SAVED FROM THE SURGEON'S KNIFE

"Fruit-a-tives" cured Appendicitis

NEWBURGH, Ont., Feb. 12th. 1910.
"Just about a year ago, our daughter Ella (fourteen years) was taken with terrible pains in the right side. We at once put her under the care of a first-class doctor, who pronounced it a case of Appendicitis and advised an operation. We took her to a Hospital in Kingston where she was again immediately examined by an eminent specialist. He said she had Appendicitis and must be operated on at once, if we wanted to save her life.



"Luckily for us and for her, an uncle came in with some 'Fruit-a-tives' and insisted on Ella taking them. Good results were apparent almost from the first dose, and the treatment cured her. 'Fruit-a-tives' saved our daughter from the surgeon's knife and to-day she is enjoying the best of health".

The Perfection Heater burns nine hours on one filling and is always ready for use. You can move it anywhere it is needed. There is no waste of fuel and heat warming unoccupied rooms. Just the heat you want, when and where you want it.

The Perfection is fitted with an automatic-locking flame spreader that prevents the wick being turned high enough to smoke and is easy to remove and drop back when cleaning.

A Result Worthy of Consideration

Endowment Policy No. 34022 was issued to a local citizen twenty years ago for which he paid in ten annual instalments to the Company in all premiums, amounting to $688.50. He now receives a single cash payment of $1273.65 which as an investment is over 4% compound interest, or he may accept $750.60 in cash, which is $62.10 more than he paid in, together with a paid up policy for $1000, payable at death which earns profits every year during the balance of his life.

Where can a young man or woman find a better way of saving money as well as providing a protection for those dependent upon them.

The above is the result of a matured policy in the SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA, payable on December 1st., 1911.

The Peerless Peninsular

You don't want to use a range as a step-ladder—not as the ordinary thing—but you do want a strong, well-built range. This picture is given here to show that the oven door — a weak spot in most ranges—is a firm, strong piece of construction in the Peninsular and it is typical of the whole make-up of this durable range.

Some people prefer a cast-iron range but want one or two features usually found only in steel ranges.

is designed for just such people.

It has the perfectly-fitting doors and parts, the firm. substantial body and the cosey, homelike appearance peculiar to cast-iron ranges.

Grates Easy to Remove

At the same time it has an oven made partly of iron and partly of steel — an oven that will heat quickly and evenly all over.

It has a large oven, two inches deeper than any other range of the same size, just large enough to cook four pies at once.

It has a drop oven door, which is not usual on a cast-iron range.

These are all things that you can see—very important things, but not more so than the things you cannot see—the interior construction, which decides whether or not your pies will burn, whether your oven will twist and bend, whether it will be perfectly tight so as to keep out dust and smoke, whether it will wear.

These unseen points you can be sure of when you buy a Peerless Peninsular, or in fact any Peninsular range.

Fifty years of building stoves — honest stoves — are behind every range that bears the name "Peninsular." That name says the materials are good — the flue arrangement is good—the oven is built to heat evenly—the range will wear.

All modern conveniences have been embodied in the Peerless, too.

It may be had with a hot water reservoir and a steel warming closet or not, as desired. The warming closet has a drop door like the oven, making it easy to pull out dishes and adding double shelf room when needed.

Top Raised for Broiling.

There is a Peninsular range to suit every purse and to please every taste in range architecture.

"The Cost"

illustrates some of the more popular lines and explains why Peninsular ranges cost less in the long run than others. Don't buy a range before reading this book. It's free.

BIFOCALS

— OR —

DOUBLE VISION GLASSES

Most people think, when buying Bifocal Glasses, that a large segment or reading area is required. With very few exceptions this is not so, as most bifocals are required for constant use, and the successful fitting of these lenses depends not so much on furnishing the largest reading portion possible, but on placing a minimum disk or wafer in exactly the correct position. A small wafer accurately placed will afford ample field for reading, writing and sewing, and will overcome the tendency to make mis-steps in going up and down stairs, an experience not uncommon to wearers of bifocals with too large reading segments.

We make a specialty of filling Bifocal Lenses in VISIBLE, SEMI-INVISIBLE and INVISIBLE.

CHARITY BALL ON NEW YEAR'S NIGHT

To be Held by King's Daughters at Conservatory

The annual meeting of the King's Daughters was held on Thursday afternoon. Reports were read, showing a most satisfactory year's work, the Nicholls hospital and Protestant Home having been visited regularly. Fifty-four baskets were sent out last Christmas, besides presents to the old people at the Home and children at the Shelter. There is a good balance in the bank to begin this season's work, and it was decided to hold a charity ball on New Year's night in the Conservatory of Music hall, in place of the one which has been given in aid of the Deep Sea Mission for the past six years. The following officers were re-elected:

Treasurer—Miss Margaret English
Secretary—Miss Lillian Pearce

YOUNG GALLANT LANDS IN JAIL

He Had Romantic Inclination But Was "Thrown Down"

While walking home Sunday evening last on Charlotte street, a young lady, who has been in the city but a short time, was accosted by a local young man, who was a stranger to her and who tried to force his unwelcome attentions upon her to her home in the south end of the city. The girl spurned his advances and tried to "shake" him by increasing her pace but the would-be escort continued to follow her. Catching up to her again, he threw his arms around her, according to the young lady and attempted to press upon her lips a love token. The young lady naturally was terribly frightened, and on reaching home was in a severe state of prostration, which has such developed into illness, necessitating a doctor's care. She will, however, be sufficiently recovered to appear in police court to testify against her annoyer.

The young man, who is employed in a local mill, was arraigned this morning before Magistrate Dumble and remanded. He requested permission to proceed to work, as he would probably lose his position, but his worship told him he would have to suffer the consequences, and that he must stay in jail. The prisoner felt the delicacy of his position, judging from his apparent nervousness.

NEGATIVE WON THE DECISION

Splendid Program Given at Mark St. Lecture Hall

It was a thoroughly pleased audience which left the lecture hall at Mark street Methodist church last night at the conclusion of the concert given by the Debating Class and Ladies Aid Society. Every number on the well prepared program was enjoyed and as a result the success and proceeds of the affair were such as to encourage both organizations, the members of which went to considerable pains to prepare the entertainment. The feature of the evening was a debate between Mark street and St. James' church clubs on the subject of "Resolved that wealth rather than poverty tends to the development of true manhood," the affirmative being taken by Dr. J. C. Middleton and Mr G. C. Gray for Mark street and the negative by Mr. G. N. Baker and Mr. J. C. Drummond, for St. James'. The judges, Messrs. R. F. Downey, A. B. Cunningham and A. Brown, gave their decision in favor of the negative.

The speakers ably debated their subject and some striking points were brought before the audience, both by humorous and serious argument. Rev. C. E. Cragg acted as chairman and Rev. J. G. Brown, tendered greetings from Mark street church. The Charlotte street male quartet, Miss Gillespie and Miss Scott in vocal selections, and Mrs. Simons' reading from "Habitant," by Dr Drummond, added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening.

R. R. HALL'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

In Which He Sets Forth His Platform as Justification of the Support of the Electors---To Safeguard Popular Rights and Promote Progressive Measures

GENTLEMEN:

As the unanimously nominated candidate of the Liberals of this Riding, it is incumbent upon me to suggest some of the considerations and features of policy I favour in order to justify me in soliciting your support. I therefore submit to you some of the main planks of the Liberal platform and my own on which I stand and if, as a result of your support, I am elected, I shall use my best endeavours to have them given effect.

WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION ACT

The Workman's Compensation Act should be radically remodelled, embodying the best features of the English and German Acts and extended so that full and ample damages may be given to a workman or his family on account of any injury he may sustain in the course of his employment and that without a law suit.

Moreover, the workman or his family under such a law should not be called upon to fight an expensive law suit in the courts with a wealthy corporation and be dragged from one Court of Appeal to another with the evident advantage in the long run to the longest purse, or else be compelled to accept a mere pittance for the injury he has sustained.

THE FACTORIES ACT

In order to prevent accidents to workmen, provision should be made for a more frequent inspection by competent inspectors, whose duty should be to see that dangerous machinery and places are properly guarded, fire escapes furnished, sanitary and ventilation facilities improved, and every step taken to protect and preserve the life, limb and health of employees.

Many accidents happen to employees due to working them too long hours. The employer should be made liable for this increased risk. He should either be compelled to give shorter hours to his employees or else be compelled to assume increased risk which follows in consequence of an employee being over-tired and over-worked.

EDUCATION

A more progressive and adequate educational policy is urgently needed. More liberal grants should be given in aid of primary education, in the promotion of industrial training and technical schools in urban and rural communities; and in the establishment of night schools for the benefit of those who have been forced to leave school at an early age to earn their own living. Model schools should be restored with a view of increasing the supply of efficient and qualified teachers.

Two great general principles should underlie our educational system in this English-speaking province which forms such an important part of this English-speaking continent, namely:

(a) Every child in the Province should have a thorough elementary education.
(b) Every child should have a thorough knowledge of the English language.

To attain this end, necessary laws and regulations should be passed and enforced and liberal aid should be given to provide further adequate training schools and a sufficient supply of competent and qualified teachers for every School Section in every part of the Province.

Were this done, tens of thousands of our fellow citizens would not be as they are now deprived of the opportunity of acquiring any knowledge of the English language.

AGRICULTURE

The rural population of Ontario is declining in this Province, which contains the richest and best farm lands on this continent. This state of affairs can be reversed by bringing about the active immigration into this Province of suitable people for settlement and employment upon our farm lands; by the building of good roads throughout Ontario, and thereby facilitating traffic and insuring quick delivery of farm and garden produce; by increasing the rural telephone service; by the location of a demonstrator in every rural riding, and by the establishment of suitable demonstration farms in each riding, and by showing to the farmers through such demonstration farms the results of successful experiments in every branch of agriculture.

NEW ONTARIO

New Ontario should be developed and settled and its railway facilities utilized and the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway should be made to do service as a colonization road, and should be extended to the Hudson Bay, and branches should be built as the development of the country demands.

A speedy end should be put to the neglect to settle, and develop, the agricultural possibilities of New Ontario, such as has marked the past seven years. A government with an earnest desire to do something to develop the agricultural possibilities of this splendid farming region, would do something to facilitate its settlement which is now handicapped from lack of roads to give new settlers access to or egress from their premises. Without roads or the sympathic attitude of a government the settler in New Ontario is greatly handicapped and the settlement of the country is correspondingly retarded.

TAXATION

The Assessment Act should be so amended so as to permit a municipality, if it so desires, to exempt improvements from taxation, either in whole or in part, and to provide for the removal of the existing inequalities of taxation.

AID TO CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS

The alarming prevalence of tuberculosis calls for the aid of the Provincial Government, which it is not now receiving, (and is rudely denied) to assist in the provision of facilities for curative or pallative treatment for those whose means prevent this. To this end I would favor amendment of the Succession Duties Act so as to impose an additional percentage of taxation on the estates of very wealthy men, say $250,000.00 and over, to provide a fund to be devoted to the maintenance of tuberculosis sanitaria and the aid of the work of the Children's Aid Society.

PROVINCIAL AID TO RADIAL RAILWAYS

Peterborough is particularly well located for the establishment of a system of radial railways in this district owing to the large number of water powers that would furnish cheap operation. These railways would provide the city with more of the necessaries of life at a cheaper rate; would furnish cheaper and better accommodation to farmers in bringing their produce to market; and attract tourists to our summer resorts. Aid should be given to attain this end, with a percentage of profits to be returned to the Province, after roads are in operation and earning reasonable dividends.

In addition to what I have above recited I shall feel it my duty to support any measure to meet the legitimate demands of a progressive people. If you think that I shall be able to give you valuable and effective, as it shall be my aim to give you, faithful service, I respectfully ask your vote and support.

As it will be impossible for me to personally call upon all the Electors, I trust that this means of communicating my position will meet with your approval and secure me the favour of your vote and support.

Yours respectfully,

R. R. HALL

BRIDGE FOR THE NARROWS

County Council Had Satisfactory Interview With Hon. Frank Cochrane

A deputation of the county council and three or four other officials returned this morning from Ottawa, where they interviewed Hon Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals, in reference to the construction of a bridge at Gannon's Narrows. The proposition received most favorable attention from the minister, so the councillors state, and the outlook is bright for the granting of the request. They have nothing but praise to bestow upon the courteous and agreeable reception tendered to them during their visit at the capital by the member, Mr J. H. Burnham.

The deputation went down on Friday.

The county council have concluded their business, a full report of which will appear next week.

THAT AWFUL BACKACHE

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have the backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

ENCOURAGING MEETINGS AT LAKEHURST AND ENNISMORE

Conservative Candidate and Other Speakers Tell of Progressive Administrations.

Live, enthusiastic meetings were held yesterday at Lakehurst, and the Ennismore town hall in the interests of the coming Conservative member, Mr. E. A. Peck.

The evening meeting took place in the Ennismore hall and was most encouragingly attended, by a great many of the electors, and also many ladies. John K. Galvin made a very efficient chairman, and the meeting was addressed by T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., G. W. Hatton, L.M. Hayes K.C., ex-Ald. Phelan, James Kendry, and the Conservative candidate.

The matters principally dwelt upon by the speakers, were the careful administration of the finances of the province by the present government, the enforcement of the license law; the advance in the qualification of teachers, and the very considerable increased grants to the rural schools and the encouragement by the government of the establishment of continuation classes, in strong rural school sections; and also the expectation of active co-operation of the Dominion and Provincial government for the improvement of highways of the province, the encouragement of agriculture, and the probability at an early date of cheap electric power being furnished to farmers and others throughout the whole of the Trent district.

The afternoon meeting was also extremely successful and was addressed by Mr. Peck and Mr. Bradburn.

AN ORGAN AND VOCAL RECITAL

Before an audience that nearly filled the church, Mr. Herbert C. Treneer, the gifted blind musician of St. Andrews amply demonstrated his wonderful mastery and control of the keyboard last evening when assisted by three artists. Miss Olive Howell, Messrs Asa Huycke and Ernest Thompson, and organ and vocal recita was rendered that proved to be a genuine musical treat.

The program was of an extremely meritorious character, and delightfully varied. The organ selections by Mr. Treneer were revelations alone of the high quality of the sightless organist's musical ability, and his remarkable talents, carefully cultivated were spoken of, in terms of warmest praise by all who had the pleasure of hearing him.

In his opening organ solo "The Russian National Anthem" with concert variations, by Costa, his skill was afforded an outlet, and the snap and spirit with which he enthused his playing of the stirring air, drew hearty applause.

By request he gave Chopin's "Funeral March," in a most impressive and appealing manner. In an overture from "Lohengrin," the shading and grading of tone, and his easy command of the organ were revealed prominently. But it was in two compositions by Tobani and Schubert called "Hearts and Flowers" and "Moments Musicale" that the finer points of his playing had an opportunity to be displayed. Combined to the splendid performance of the two numbers, the melody was of such delicious quality that none could fail but be impressed. The spontaneous applause which broke out at the conclusion bespoke the favorable reception of the two numbers.

Miss Olive Howell never sang better, in the opinion of the audience. Her enunciation and clear, strong vocalism was heard to noticeable advantage, and in her first number, "The Lark now leaves his Watery Nest," by Park, was heartily applauded.

The popular baritone, Mr Asa Huycke, contributed a selection in a remarkably fine manner, exhibiting a resonance and power that impressed the audience most favorably, and which won hearty approval.

The following was the programme:

Organ Solo—Russian National Hymn with concert Variations..Michael Costa
Herbert C. Treneer.
Vocal Solo—"The Lark Now Leaves His Watery Nest"..........Horatio Parker
Miss Olive Howell
Organ Solo—Verspiel Overture from Lohengrin... ... ...R Wagner

POLICE COURT

Blacklister Was Fined $20 for Another Violation

That "the way of the transgressor is hard" must be apparent to "Jim" Pilling, who pleaded guilty this morning to again violating the black list decree. Unless he can raise $20 right away the fruit of his transgression will be a thirty day sojourn on the hill.

Pilling refuses to reveal who supplies him with liquor. The fine imposed for a previous offence has not yet been paid. He was arrested yesterday afternoon.

HIS FIRST APPEARANCE

An old man named John Middleton was arrested last night while drunk, acting in an uproarious manner on the street. He told the magistrate it was his first time in a police court, but pleaded guilty to the charge.

"Where is your money?" asked Mr Dumble.

"Well, I guess most of its in the taverns and here and there," replied the man.

"Are you a drinking man?" he was asked.

"No, your worship, but an odd time I do get a little too much."

"Well, its $2 or ten days," was the magistrate's decree.

Another well known local man came next on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. After hearing the police officer's story, his worship advised the accused to be more careful in future, and discharged him with some sound advice.

FINE CONCERT AT CHAPEL HALL OF ALL SAINTS'

By the Girl's Guild and Athletic Club

The Girls' Guild of All Saints and the Athletic Club were responsible for an enjoyable concert given before a large attendance in the chapel hall, last evening, when the Burnham Shield was presented to the All Saints Football team, champions of the Church League. Included in the program were selections by the male quartet and other members of the choir. The medals were not presented for the reason of their non arrival.

CROSSED THE LAKE

Dan Whetung Again in Front As First Performer

Mr. Dan Whetung, the popular mail-man rider of the Chemong stage, crossed Chemong Lake this morning for the first time of the season. Dan had his own outfit, but did not bring both horses across at the same time. He tested the strength of the ice yesterday and strengthened his route by breaking holes, thus causing a flooding which froze during the night.

Dan remarked to a Review reporter this morning that his feat this year was earlier than last season.

"I have no objection to answering it," finally declared Mr. Burnham. "The question certainly played a very important part in the election thoughout Ontario. The people wanted the laws of the country vindicated and the people protected."

"It was made the source of a discreditable and untruthful attack on Sir Wilfrid Laurier?" queried Mr. Macdonald, but he got no answer.

Meet the Increased Cost of Living By Increasing the Yield of Your Capital

When investing money—if you insist on theoretically perfect security, you must be satisfied with very small interest.

The increased cost of living has caused many to seek investments which while perfectly sound, and proven to be practically absolutely safe, yet yield a much larger return on the capital.

In investing in this latter class of security, close investigation should precede the purchase of any securities, the points to be covered more especially being,

Stability of the enterprise,
Stability of the management.

Granted satisfactory replies on these points, such securities are just as safe as the best mortgages or other so-called "gilt-edge" values, while they offer most tempting returns in the way of interest.

We have secured a block of stock in an enterprise which has been most closely looked into and we are able to offer in lots of one-share or more a limited quantity of its 7% preference stock which carries with it profit sharing with issues of common stock, making very probable an even larger return than 7%.

This enterprise has been in actual operation for over 20 years.

It has been uniformly successful during this period.

It is based on one of Canada's most important natural resources.

It has been under the same management or group of managers, for practically this entire period, and has shown, and still shows constantly increased earnings and profits and its resources owing to increasing values of the raw material, which it controls, show very considerable increase every year.

In a word this investment is one which deserves the attention of any investor seeking to increase the earning power of his capital.

PILSENER LAGER
THE LIGHT BEER IN THE LIGHT BOTTLE

Why Should You Buy Imported Lager When You Can Get O'Keefe's?

Imported lagers cost more than O'Keefe's "Pilsener"—NOT because they are as good, but because of the duty paid on them.

O'Keefe's "Pilsener" is brewed of the finest barley malt, hops and pure water.

The Canadian laws are very strict in this respect, although O'KEEFE'S was brewed of these choice materials long before the pure food laws were passed.

The same thing cannot be said of American lagers.

"No folks like home folks".

No lager like O'Keefe's "Pilsener"—brewed at home, under home laws, for home use.

Why should you pay more for imported lager—when less money buys such a pure, old, delicious lager as O'Keefe's?

BIG CHIEF "QUARTER-BACK"

He is Team General, and Ought Know Signals, Frontwards, Backwards, and in His Dreams.

I think the quarterback is still the chief factor for a football team's success, says Earl Sprackling, Capt. of Brown University Eleven, and All-America Quarterback for 1910. With the new rules last year, it was predicted that the quarterback would lose his powers and become simply a back, along with the two halves and full.

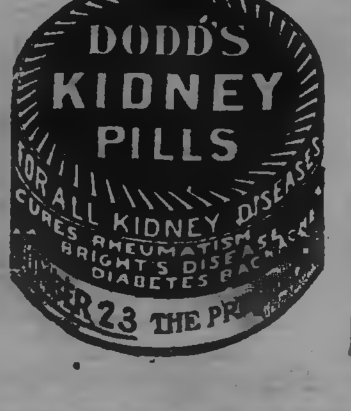
The quarter back is the general of the team. He should know the strong and weak points of his team's play. He should learn his opponents' strength and weakness. Which is another way of saying he must have brains.

A team is guided by signals by the quarterback and he should know them by heart, frontwards, backwards and in his dreams.

He should give them in a low, smooth, even tone, not in a series of short, shrill, jerky numbers. The tones should come from the diaphragm and not from the chest. The latter do not carry.

I have heard quarter backs about a few signals and seen them start a play with half the team wondering what was going to happen. They could not hear.

The quarterback should take plenty of time. United action is better than speed if you can't have both. It is well to have a code word for players to shout when they do not understand the signal.



RACE COURSE GAMBLING

Harness Racing Will Be Still Better When All Betting is Eliminated Says Track Authority.

Harness racing is undergoing a process of evolution.

Time was when stories of racing on the grand circuit were chiefly about the immense sums wagered by certain followers of the game.

The day of the plunger is past, even though the anti-gambling laws are not enforced in many sections and betting is legalized in a few.

The majority of the people now go to the races to enjoy the spectacle, rather than to wager on the result and this is a sure sign the sport is being raised to a higher plane.

The enforcement of laws against pool selling at certain meetings temporarily injures the sport in a way, for many stables refuse to enter these meetings; as a consequence the entry suffers and this, combined with the loss of revenue from the sale of speculative privilege, makes the meeting a financial loser.

I believe the time is coming, says Tommy Murphy, when pool-selling and book-making will be unknown on harness tracks. The change will no doubt temporarily injure the sport, but it has recovered from hard knocks in the past and in the end will be placed on a more firm basis and will be cleaner than it has been heretofore.

Harness racing is different from the thoroughbred game, which rested upon the gambling element; wherever that element was eliminated the sport went down like a house of cards; with the harness horses the speculative end is incidental, not over one in ten of the occupants of the grand stand giving it a thought.

Flapper Shooting

The English have a sport they call "flapper shooting." The flapper shooter takes an able-bodied and effective shotgun and goes out in August to shoot young wild ducks — a procedure that seems to be quite legal in the rightlittletightlittleisle. Why such a procedure should be legal, and why any man in his senses should consider it sport, no American, of course, can ever imagine — just as no American can ever solve the mystery of why it is considered fun to sit on a long-legged milking stool and shoot tame pheasants by the hundred as they are driven by.

The Grotesque Penguin

Of all the foreign birds to be seen in zoological collections, it is the penguins that gain the most popularity with the least attempt to do so; they do not affably converse with the public like parrots, or make grotesque grimaces like pelicans; indeed, they studiously ignore the visitors, whom they attract by their inimitably quaint caricature of humanity. No birds depart more in form from the usual bird-type, and there is something about them which irresistibly suggests an over-fed little boy in an overcoat with the sleeves very much too tight for him, as they toddle about with their stiff wings hanging down, or solemnly meditate a three-inch jump.

DO YOU USE PILLS?

If In Doubt About the Right Pills to Use Read the Following Letter Carefully:

"I am one of those persons whose system requires aid," writes Mr. Young Gledhill, from Picton, "but it is so easily affected by reason of the great sensitiveness of the bowels that ordinary drastic pills inflict great injury to the delicate coating, and excite such persistent activity as to be with difficulty checked.

"I wish in the highest terms to express the great value of Dr. Hamilton's Pills in cases like mine, and I am sure also for elderly people and the very weak there is no pill like them.

"Speaking of my own experience with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I can say they have proved the most stimulating pills for the liver I have found. I have proved their tonic action upon digestion, and the same results have been secured by friends upon whom I have urged their use. The manufacturers are to be congratulated upon possessing so valuable a prescription, and the public should know that so valuable a remedy has been placed at their command."

No other pill for constipation, for liver, kidney, or stomach trouble, compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild and sure always to restore health. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all dealers, 25c per box, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston Ont.

Lament of the ex-Premier, with the usual apologies to the author of the "Lament of the Irish Emigrant."

By Saxon North.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier writes:
I'm sitting at the desk, Mulock
Where side, by side we sat,
Before the days of 'ninety-six,
When our side went to bat.
The boys are here, from far and near,
And there's jobs to fill, galore
But Borden's at the bat, Mulock,
And we are there no more.

The House is rather changed, Mulock
Sir Freddy's left at home,
And Fielding's down at Halifax,
And Sydney's back in Brome;
And something hit Mackenzie King,
Our hope, our joy, our pride,
I've been through quite a lot, Mulock
Since you were by my side.

The Hoodoo's still at work, Mulock,
In the one it wouldn't take,
For Oliver came back of course,
Lemieux, we couldn't shake.
And Pugsley's goose was almost cooked,
And I prayed with might and main;
But the hoodoo's still at work, Mulock,
And Bill's on deck again.

I'm sitting at the desk, Mulock
Where I hoped I'd ne'er return
And I keep an eye on R. L. B.
Who has patronage to burn.
They say there's jobs and work for all,
And the boys are pleased as punch,
For the wait was long and weary, Mulock
And they've got a hungry bunch.

I'm rather lonely now, Mulock
For the friends I had galore,
For Tom, and Van, and Bill and Dan
They visit me, no more.
For the landslide lies between us, Mulock,
And they've given me the mi..
And the cold, lean years are here.

THE STAIRCASE TEST

If You Cannot Pass it Your Health is Failing

When you suffer acute palpitation of the heart, dizziness or faintness every time you go upstairs; when exertion of any kind leaves you breathless and trembling, it is a warning that your blood is defective—that you are anaemic. If these warnings are neglected worse disorders will follow—perhaps decline and deadly consumption. If you are in this condition, you need the new, good blood of health that has been given to thousands of sufferers by Dr. Williams Pink Pills. These pills banish all the ailments arising from poor blood, tone up the system and make weak men and women well and strong. Miss Elizabeth Campbell, Almonte, Ont., says—"I was living in Pembroke at the time my health failed me. I kept growing weaker every day until I at last grew so weak I could not walk up stairs without help, and I could not go down street without sitting down and resting. My mother got quite anxious about me and took me to a doctor who said he was quite sure he could restore my health. He gave me a bottle of medicine, and I continued its use until I had taken four bottles, but instead of getting stronger, I was growing weaker all the time, and was only a mere shadow of my former self. My parents believed I was in a decline and could not get better. My mother had heard so much about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that she decided I ought to try them. I did not notice much change until I had taken five or six boxes, when a decided improvement set in, and from that on I grew stronger and stronger each day, until through the continued use of the pills I was back to my old time health and strength. I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the best remedy on earth for sick people, and cannot too strongly urge other weak girls to give them a trial."

Sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Letter From a Prominent Traveller

A traveller who has travelled the continent from Halifax to Vancouver has recently forwarded a letter to Mr A E. Duff, District Passenger Agent, Grand Trunk Railway System Toronto, which reads as follows—

Have just arrived in Toronto from Nelson, B.C., travelling over the Grand Trunk Pacific from Edmonton to Winnipeg and unsolicited, I wish to state that I have made this trip several times, but the above mentioned road for service, equipment roadbed and speed of travel, surpasses any road I have ever travelled over and it is a pleasure for me to recommend this route. You sure have a great road

PASTOR BELIEVES IN ADVERTISING

"In the Tacoma Daily Tribune of October 8th there appeared a full page" ad of the Park Universalist church of that city. This, we are informed, is the first of a series of twelve such pages, which probably sets a new mark for church advertising. In arrangement and display the ad differs little from the usual commercial advertisement. It is written in the first place by the pastor, the creed and profession of belief are given, and what the church stands for and is doing is fully described. At the bottom a list of the services for the week is printed. Altogether it is a pretty good advertisement

"The man behind this advertising is the Rev. W. D. Buchanan, the pastor of the church. In four years he has built his church up from a poorly attended and financially weak one to one of the leaders of the city. Having got his enterprise on a sound and stable foundation, he proposes to advertise and tell people what he has to offer. Good business—and good religion.

"One reason why churches are not more largely attended is that they are not properly advertised, or not advertised at all. People who do not go to church hear about some service they would like to have attended—but the information gets to them anywhere from a day to a week too late. That is bad business—and bad religion.

"The church has much to offer which works to the distinct betterment of mankind. Therefore it becomes the duty of the church to make that fact known, and the way to do that is to advertise. Furthermore, if the advertising is rightly done, it will not only pay for itself but show a profit. The church needs money—all it can get—and the way to get it is to advertise."—From Advertising and Selling.

TWENTY FIVE BODIES ARE TAKEN FROM RUINS OF MILL

Many Others Yet to be Accounted for in Liverpool Horror.

Special To The Review

Liverpool, Nov. 25—Twenty five terribly mangled bodies were taken from the ruins of the Bibby Oil Cake Mill this morning. Many others are believed to be under the debris.

The force of the explosion yesterday evening was so terrific, that the roof of the great mill was blown off, while the walls split and crumbled, and the bodies of the victims hurled high into the air mingled with the flashes of flames which instantly followed the bursting of the boilers.

Nearly 400 workers were engaged in the building at the time. Every one was hurled to the ground through the violence of the explosion.

Those in the near vicinity of the boiler room had their arms and legs torn off, and their horribly mangled bodies fell into the adjoining streets together with the showers of brick and debris.

Fire immediately broke out and the whole building was soon in flames. Men frantically appealing for help could be seen at every window with fire raging behind them.

Fire escapes were quickly on the scene and many of the men were saved. The scorched clothing and burned hair of those brought down told of the terrible ordeal through which they had gone.

Many of those who were taken to the hospital are suffering from shocking injuries. Some of them have lost legs and arms and others are fearfully burned, so that many of them are no texpected to recover.

Exams. Too Stiff?

Kingston, Nov. 25.—That the Educational Department of the province is at fault in setting too high standard for examination, was the claim of Councillor Smith Elliott, in the County Council yesterday. He had asked for an enlargement to Sydenham school if the attendance in the various forms decreased as it had this term, the school would no longer be needed, he said. A small building would accommodate all the scholars. A decrease had been found in every form. There were but two pupils in the fourth form.

The Department must do something to remedy matters by providing teachers to municipalities that could not secure them. Children taught by inefficient teachers were handicapped, he said.

Senate Committees.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—The committees of the Senate met yesterday morning for organization. The chairmen were named as follows: Divorce, Senator Kirchoffer; banking, Senator Gibson; railways, Senator Young; standing orders, Senator Tessier; private bills, Senator Bostock; internal economy, Senator Thompson; debates, Senator Ellis; public health, Senator Deveber; civil service administration, Senator Power; public buildings, Senator Choquette; agriculture and forests, Senator Edwards; commerce and trade relations, Senator G. W. Ross.

ENTERTAINMENT AT LAKEFIELD

By Y M.C.A. Boys' Pleased Large Audience in Town Hall

The program given by the Y M.C.A. members in the town hall at Lakefield last night made a big hit with the large audience, which was most enthusiastic in approval of the entertainment. Mr. R. J. Soden made a happy chairman, and also contributed a reading of Dr Drummond's poems and also a recitation. In a short address Mr Soden explained the nature of the work carried on by the Young Men's Christian Association, and expressed the hope that Lakefield would become the home of an association.

Mr George Clarke was a favorite with the crowd with his coon songs, and when he doubled up with Mr Paul Trebilcock there was fun galore.

The physical end of the program was given as follows:

Think Borden's In Fix.

London, Nov. 25.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Manchester Guardian says if domestic peace is to attend R. L. Borden's term of office he will find it necessary to couple with inaction over Imperial reciprocity, which he approves, over the naval policy, which he avowedly does not approve. Neither of these is likely to bring much comfort to home Conservatives.

REASON WHY WOMEN SUFFER MORE THAN MEN

Man Returns Home to Rest, While a Woman's Work is Never Done
The Kidneys Give Out and She is a Martyr to Backache
Booth's Kidney Pills Her Best Friend

What woman does not know what tired, nervous backache days mean? But how many realize that the kidneys are the chief cause? Yet this is so.

Many a wife endures patiently the daily misery of backache, pains, or blue nervous spells and urinary disorders, expecting no relief, because she doesn't know that Booth's Kidney Pills are guaranteed to give her relief.

It is not true that every pain in the region of the hips and lower abdomen is "female trouble." When the kidneys get congested and inflamed there is constant backache, headache, dizzy spells, bearing-down pain, urinary disorders and other pains which are easily mistaken for sex ailments, but which are due to the swollen, sick kidneys.

Such sufferers will find Booth's Kidney Pills a great boon. They strengthen sick kidneys, cure backache, drive uric acid out of the system and bring bright, happy days in place of a mere existence.

MISERABLE FEELING OF DEPRESSION EXPELLED

Mrs Martin Traux, of Marlborough street, Leamington, Ont., says: "For a long time I suffered with a miserable feeling of depression across my chest. Pains would catch me in the sides and extend around the small of my back. I was weak and languid, and lost much of each night's sleep. My condition, through the inactive state of kidneys, had left me unable to get around. Several doctors had told me I had Bright's Disease, but none of them helped me. Booth's Kidney Pills were recommended and I procured a box. The relief was quick, and, continuing Booth's Kidney Pills, the depressive feeling had soon gone. My back has strengthened and I can now sleep right through the night and awake refreshed and strong. I feel grateful in recommending Booth's Kidney Pills."

Booth's Kidney Pills are guaranteed to relieve or your money refunded. Free trail sent on application to the R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. All druggists sell at 50c a box, or post-paid from the proprietors. Address as above.

REMARKABLE ACTIVITY AT BOW ISLAND

Fifteen Additional Gas Wells Are to be Drilled

One hundred car loads of material will be shipped to Bow Island to carry out this gigantic project.

Announcement has just been made that an additional 15 wells are to be drilled at Bow Island, Alberta, and that the work of drilling these wells will be prosecuted vigorously right through the winter months. Bow Island now has 5 wells, the present day production of which is 61,365,000 cubic feet or natural gas every 24 hours. This enormous production gives to Bow Island the distinction of being the greatest natural gas field in the world.

The Bow Island Board of Trade reports that hardly a day passes but that one or more enquiries or visits are received from the manufacturers seeking locations to establish industries. Cheap fuel in the form of natural gas will draw manufacturing plants to Bow Island.

During the past week there have been five different parties of surveyors at work in Bow Island. Two of these parties were made up of Dominion and C.P.R surveyors. Another party was engaged in surveying the Hopkins property, recently purchased by the Grand Pacific Land Co., Limited, of Winnipeg, Man. Representatives of the Grand Pacific Land Co. spent considerable time in Bow Island in order to learn where the future city of Bow Island would be built and it is believed that by the purchase of the Hopkins property, the Grand Pacific Land Co., controls the situation at Bow Island. This company has appointed Geo. Ruth & Co., 393 Water street, Peterborough, as its exclusive Peterborough representative for the sale of Bow Island lots. Complete information as to the remarkable development and the opportunities for profitable investment in Bow Island may be had by calling upon or writing Geo. Ruth & Co., at Peterborough, or the Grand Pacific Land Co., Limited, at Winnipeg.

Q. What is Astigmatism of the eye?
A. Astigmatism is an uneven curvature of the eye and causes double focus. As the eye always strives for clear vision this double focus annoys the brain and causes headache and nervousness. We make lenses called cylinders to correct astigmatism.
Q. What causes double vision?
A. Double vision is caused by the eyes not being in line, that is, one may turn up or have a tendency to do so, or both may turn in, a weak muscular system is back of it all.

We would be pleased to have you call and let us explain how such conditions can be relieved with glasses.

SIR EDWARD GREY SAYS THAT RELATIONS ARE STILL DELICATE

British Foreign Secretary Makes His Statement in the Commons---Reason to be Very Careful Over the Situation, as it is Not Free From Danger.

SPECIAL TO THE REVIEW.

London, Nov. 27.—Sir Edward Grey in making his speech in the house of commons this afternoon, dealt with the history of the diplomatic relations between France, Britain and Germany. "They are still very serious and delicate," said he. It was a pacific speech, yet firm and decided.

London, Nov. 27.—It is many years since such world-wide interest centered in the speech of a British Foreign Minister as upon Sir Edward Grey's utterance to-day. Every seat in the House of Commons was secured days ago, and many distinguished strangers will be present to hear the speech, upon which the peace of Europe is believed to hinge. Opinions in the best informed quarters are most hopeful that the debate will open an era of better understanding between Germany and Great Britain.

No bluebook of the despatches relating to the events in question has yet been published. Therefore, the British Foreign Secretary is liable to throw a deal of new light on the subject. It is fully expected, however, that he will deliver a peaceful and friendly speech dealing more with the future than the past.

The leader of the Opposition, A. Bonar Law, will follow Sir Edward in the debate, and it is expected that he will give reasonable support to the Government's foreign policy. Among other Cabinet members likely to participate in the debate are the Prime Minister the First Lord of the Admiralty, Winstor Spencer Churchill, and the Home Secretary, Reginald McKenna.

SIR EDWARD GREY.

Since there has been time to digest the German Foreign Minister's account of the Moroccan negotiations with Sir Edward Grey, opinion has taken a decided turn in favor of the Government's policy and in favor of the British Foreign Secretary's diplomacy. A few journals continue to criticize the secret diplomacy and question whether Great Britain had sufficient cause to join France in war. But there has been a decided decrease in the attacks on the Foreign Office, except by a group of Liberal papers, which have always been called pro-German.

One reason for the reaction is that Herr Von Kiderlin-Waechter's statement to the Reichstag ignored several important steps in the negotiations. Another is the feeling that any sort of repudiation of Sir Edward Grey would be taken by the Germans as a German victory.

The principal question the country is asking is: What were the German demands before Chancellor Lloyd-George's speech on July 21, and what they will be after Sir Edward's speech in the House of Commons to-day.

Sir Edward will move "that the foreign policy of His Majesty's Government shall be considered," and will then begin a debate which will likely occupy two days and take a wide range.

James Keir Hardie, Socialist and Independent Labor, will propose the amendment: "Particularly in relation to the presence in Persia of bodies of Russian and British soldiers and the danger thus set up to Persia independence, which we have bound ourselves to maintain."

The Pall Mall Gazette last night repeats explicitly what has heretofore been only rumored, that Germany demanded the dismissal of Lloyd-George from the Cabinet after his famous speech, as she did the dismissal of Delcasse in 1903. The paper adds that the Foreign Secretary absolutely declined to consider such a suggestion and also declares that Germany stayed her hand from war at the last moment through the influence of the financiers.

From a cloud of revelations and rumors certain facts seem to be established—that England and France had arranged a definite plan for a joint campaign, which, included the despatching of 150,000 British soldiers to the continent, almost the whole regular army—leaving the defence of the country to the Territorials; that several generals of the French staff visited England for a conference and that the Government stopped the railway strike by confiding to the directors and strikers that the country was on the verge of war and appealing to their patriotism.

An officer of the home fleet writes to The Outlook, corroborating Lord Charles Beresford charges that the crisis found the fleet insufficiently coaled, under-manned and lacking the necessary reserve of ammunition and big guns.

Revolutionary Forces.

Nanking, Nov. 27.—(By wireless to Shanghai.)—The revolutionary forces Saturday captured Tiger Hill Fort, outside the walls of the city, and which commands the city and river. Several big guns were taken. A number of Imperialists have joined the rebels.

CHINESE REBELS BESIEGING ANCIENT CITY OF NANKING

Rebels Gain Advantage In Sunday's Fighting.

Nanking, Nov. 27.—After more than half a century of silence, the hills overlooking the walled city of Nanking, the ancient capital of China, swarm with rebellious forces, eager for its occupation and determined to take the stronghold where the Manchus are making their stand south of the Yangtse.

From the Tiger Hill fort for several hours Sunday morning big guns spoke repeatedly, while further up, along the northeastern range from the top of Purle Mountain, overlooking the Ming Tombs, for a fifteen mile semi-circle westward to the Yangtse, smaller forts scattered shells into every section of the city. So far as is known, the casualty list is not large. Gen. Wong second in command of the defenders, is among those killed.

During the earlier part of the day, the Imperialists attempted a sortie against the attacking forces, with a view to recapturing their position and guns, but were driven back inside the walls with considerable losses. The Tiger Hill batteries, meanwhile, were pounding shells into Lyou Hill. They succeeded in silencing the batteries there, which it is suspected were of little value.

The object of the seizure of Tiger Hill was shown by the early appearance of four cruisers, and later in the day of other warships. In the evening a dozen torpedo boat destroyers and cruisers were laying menacingly near the city. These are all well armed and well supplied with ammunition. Doubtless they will quickly reduce the garrisons and drive the defenders to the south.

The Viceroy of Nanking and Tartar general, in fear of Gen. Chang, the Imperialist commander, have taken refuge in the Japanese consulate, in which only the consul remains. He is the sole official representative of foreign interest now in Nanking. The consulate is well guarded by marines.

Sunday's attack can only be considered a slight foretaste of bigger things to follow, because the main body of the revolutionaries is steadily investing every side and bringing the big guns into position on every eminence. The plans of the attacking force are not revealed. The revolutionaries may not attempt to rush the city, but may prefer to bombard steadily and await its surrender. But if breaches are made in the walls of the city and the rebels enter, it is believed that Gen. Chang and the loyal troops will make a desperate stand.

Water Commission Reports.

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—The Ottawa River will, it is understood, continue to be the city's source of water supply for all time to come, if the recommendations of the pure-water commission, consisting of Allan Hazen (New York), Dr. Hodgetts (Ottawa), Dr. McCullough (Toronto) and C. H. Keefer, C.E. (Ottawa), are carried into effect. The commissioners have completed their report.

It is understood that in effect their recommendations were for the Ottawa River, with the addition of a filtration plant and an extension of the intake pipe possible to Lake Deschenes.

The estimated cost of the whole work is said to be in the neighborhood of $2,000,000, and if council approves it is proposed to submit the whole question to the ratepayers in January next.

Famine In Russia.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 27.—The sufferings experienced in the famine of 1891 are being repeated in the Province of Orenburg and the Turgai territory, in Asiatic Russia. The famine stricken inhabitants of these regions are flocking to the towns and villages, so many of them being prepared for death that they are begging for the administration of the last communion. Crops in the Province of Orenburg are 86 per cent. below the average and the bishop of Tchelyabinsk has issued an appeal to the Government asking aid for the peasants.

Two Children Burned to Death.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27.—Two young children of Mrs. Richard Arbieter were burned to death and two others were rescued from flames believed to have been caused by a gasoline explosion, which partly destroyed the Arbieter home on Chestnut street yesterday. The mother was away and the four children were alone in the house.

Will Noble, a small boy, living nearby, saw the flames, broke a window and carried to safety an infant, which had been lying in a cradle. Mrs. Arbieter's 13-year-old daughter, Mary, who was caring for the children, was rescued by pedestrians.

Trouble For Sir James.

London, Nov. 27.—There is trouble brewing for Premeir James Whitney. A London delegate to the Canadian Woman's Suffrage Association has just returned and announced that it is the intention to send a large deputation to the Premier, and once more get his views on votes for women.

WATERWAYS COMMISSION

New Board is Appointed by Imperial Government

T. Chase Casgrain, K.C., and C. A. Magrath on it.

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—Special announcement is made of the appointment of a new Canadian section of the International Waterways Commission. As foreshadowed recently, the new commissioners are Messrs. C. A. Magrath, ex-M.P. for Medicine Hat; T. Chase Casgrain, K.C., of Montreal, and H. A. Powell, ex-M.P. of St. John, N.B. These gentlemen replace Sir George Gibbons of London, Aime Geiffrion, K.C., of Montreal, and A. P. Burnkill of St. John, N.B.

The positions are filled by the Imperial Government on the recommendation of the Canadian Government and approval of the removal of the former members along with the commissioners for the new ones was received on Saturday.

Mr. Magrath's appointment is regarded as a fitting one, as there is probably no man in Canada who has made such a close study of the international waterways question. His speeches on the subject in the last House were always followed with the keenest attention. He is an engineer of repute, and brings many years of practical experience to the position.

Mr. Casgrain is one of the most brilliant lawyers at the Quebec Bar, and Mr. Powell is a prominent lawyer and publisher of New Brunswick. He was a member one session for Westmount, and this year was defeated by only 68 votes by Hon. William Pugsley in St. John City. The commission will likely be called together very soon to meet with the United States section, as there are a number of big questions waiting solution.

PROBABILITIES

Southerly winds; fine and mild today; local showers during the night and for a part of Tuesday, then strong breezes to moderate gales west and north west, and becoming colder.

THE DUKE WAS HERE

Connaught Passed Through With Duchess To-day

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught visited Peterborough to-day, but not many of this city's worthy people knew about it. The special bearing their royal highnesses to Toronto stopped for ten minutes at the station on the way through, and the duke and the duchess came out of their private coach, and bowed to the curious few who were wise to the big event.

The train consisted of eight coaches, and arrived here about half past ten, having left Ottawa about eight o'clock. The program at Toronto is a heavy one, and will keep the new governor general hustling to fill. It was regretted that the train came through Peterborough without notice, for even the newspaper men scarcely knew of the passing through of the train. There was no chance for a civic address or welcome.

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—A memorandum has been issued by the Department of Customs addressed to all collectors of customs, advising them that the copyright on the novel, "To Have and to Hold," by Mary Johnston, registered in Canada, in the name of Morang & Co., has been cancelled.

Mr. Morang of Morang & Co., after his attention had been called to the above, stated that the reason for the cancellation was to protect British copyrights and to prevent the circulation of pirated editions in this country.

Boilermakers Go Back.

Montreal, Nov. 27.—The boilermakers' strike at the Montreal Locomotive Co.'s plant, Longue Point, was practically ended Saturday night. The company, however, refused to take back several of the strikers, alleging that they had made trouble. They agreed to investigate the charges and, if the men were innocent, they would be reinstated.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY LINE IS A LEMON; PROMOTER GRAHAM LANDS INTO LINDSAY JAIL

Mystery of the Staking Through Orchards and Farms for Line From Orillia to Port Hope Explained—Graham's Unparalelled Get Rich Quick Stunt.

Wedded an Omemee Girl Two Weeks Ago—Was Going to Build an Elevated Line Through Lindsay—Borrowed Money From Stake-Driving Gang—Graham's Scheme to Work the Farmers.

No one knows why, but Lindsay seems to be the scene of the working of many big games for the lightening of the pocket-books of worthy citizens. Not so long ago there was a shoe factory proposition considered in Lindsay, that did not turn out as the rosy hopes of the people of Lindsay expected. Time has no more than assuaged their grief, when Lindsay has another Rufus Wallingford to meditate over.

This latest scheme, through which the gallant young financier has landed into jail, with the prospect of a term of some length—this makes Lindsay feel real happy—involved the building of an electric railway from Orillia to Port Hope, through Peterborough, and incidentally it means that about $1,000 was secured from people in the neighborhood of Lindsay by this budding financier. And not only did this young financier get some of the people's hard earned cash, but he got one of Omemee's daughters as a wife. And now she is a bride of only two weeks' standing, and her husband is where the sound of the hammering of right of way stakes will not disturb his slumbers.

CAME FROM TRENTON

Harry Malcolm Graham is the name of the young man who was going to build this big electric railway. He comes from Trenton, and was in trouble a short time ago in St. Catharines over an automobile deal. He dropped quietly into Lindsay about five weeks ago, and without getting much notoriety, started in to hire a gang of men to stake a right of way for his projected line. This is the gang of men whose staking caus-

"FRENCH CANADIANS FEEL HUMILIATED" SAYS LANGLOIS

McGill's Subscription Fund Is a Matter For Envy.

Montreal, Nov. 27.—The fact of the minority raising a million and a half for McGill in five days has created a great deal of comment amongst the French-Canadians. G. Langlois, M.P.P., writing in The Pays yesterday, says their race is profoundly humiliated when it is known that a handful of English people, 180,000 alongside of nearly two million French, absolutely control the commercial and financial institutions of the country and show so much public spirit at a time like this.

"We have not their mentality," adds Mr. Langlois, "for they not only handsomely support their colleges and hospitals but ours as well." In fact the donations, he said, for Laval would make a very sad showing alongside of what has been accomplished for McGill.

The French-Canadian writer alleges that the difference is caused by the education which is of a practical nature with the English and he adds that Laval does no credit to the lay element of the French people and he doubts very much that, had the English people been educated as the French are, there would have been such a result for McGill.

NE TEMERE IS DISCUSSED

Anglican Lord Bishop Replies to Bruchesi

Takes up the Cudgels in a Manifesto

Montreal, Nov. 27.—A reply to the recent pronouncement of the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Montreal, on the question of mixed marriage and the "ne temere" decree has been made by the Anglican Lord Bishop of Montreal.

The manifesto says in part:

"His Grace, the Roman Archbishop of Montreal, has made some remarkable statements concerning the Ne Temere degree and the marriage question. It is not a matter of wonder that we, non-Romans, should misunderstand him—as he complains we do—when we have such conflicting statements put forth.

"Let us examine some of his statements. His grace says: 'It (the Ne Temere) has been in force since Easter, 1908, and that in every country in the world.'

"May I draw his attention to the fact that it is not now and never has been in force in Germany. The 'Provida' decree prevails in the German Empire and it says:

"'We will, nevertheless, and expressly declare, define, and decree as valid mixed marriages already contracted without the Tridentine form in any province or place whatsoever of the German Empire.' So that Germany is certainly exempt from its operations.

"His grace further says. 'This is no new thing in the world, since it was dealt with at the Council of Trent in 1563.'

"It was a new enactment then and its enforcement is a new thing in Canada now. We did not object to it as long as it was lying dormant in the pages of history; nor did we trouble ourselves when the decree was promulgated in Canada, so long as it did not come into active operation. Great Britain and the United States do not trouble themselves about the decree, because they know that the civil law amply protects them. When, however, the ecclesiastic court annuls a marriage and our civil court sustains its decision, and when its other features are being rigorously enforced, it then become a practical matter which deeply concerns every citizen of the Dominion.

"Again, his grace says 'Particularly it (the Ne Temere) is no new thing for us in the Province of Quebec, where the decree "tametsi" of the Council of Trent has been in force since the first days of the colony.' And according to this latter decree, as according to the Ne Temere, any marriage to be valid must be celebrated before the cure'."

This, says the manifesto, is extraordinary in view of his grace's pastoral letter of 1901, in which he says that in spite of the decree of the Council of Trent all marriages in Quebec are binding.

"When the archbishop says that the Tridentine rule does not affect Protestants he differs from Pope Benedict XIV. The Benedictine rule is the one upon which his grace's pastoral of 1901 was based.

"Then his grace said that mixed marriages before a 'Protestant minister' were even in the eyes of the church, valid; now he says they are invalid. Surely when a decree declares a 'Protestant's' marriage null and void ad initio and disturbs the peace and happiness of his home, it does interfere with him. This the Ne Temere certainly accomplishes. This is all the more clearly emphasized by his grace's circular No. 65, November, 1907.

"The archbishop says that no outcry is made against divorce. He cannot have read the press of our day; if he did, he would know that our clergy and our synods have condemned divorce over and over again. He does not know that no Anglican clergyman is allowed to officiate at any marriage of a divorced person during the lifetime of the former partner. His statement is hardly borne out by his acts.

"The present agitation has arisen chiefly through the action of the archbishop in annulling the Hebert marriage, which our courts have now, happily, now sustained. To permit a woman, who has been faithful to her marriage vow to be cast off with her innocent child, because she was married by a 'Protestnat' minister, duly authorized by the state to perform

SUFFERED FROM VIOLENT CATHARTICS

The Warning of Mr. Geo. C. Fox Is One That Should Be Heeded by All.

Few men on the road are better known than genial George Fox, whose friends throughout the West are legion. In the following letter he expresses gratitude for signal services rendered by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. He goes on to say: "Until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and experienced their wonderful mildness and curative power, I estimated the value of every pill by its activity. Talking about this to a well-known physician I met on the train the other day, he explained there are different kinds of drugs that act upon the bowels, the most active being known as drastic. Except in extreme cases where the life of the patient depends upon speedy evacuation of the bowels, pills should never be drastic. Purgatives cause catarrh of the bowels and inflammation; their dose must be increased, causing even more harm. With such a clear explanation I could see why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are curative and not irritating, why they are mild, yet most searching.

"From my experience I recommend everyone that takes pills to give up the old-fashioned harsh, purging pill, and, instead, to use Dr. Hamilton's. They cure headache, biliousness, constipation, bad stomach, and keep the system in perfect condition."

MR. KENDRY'S CASE

The Examiner is at its old tricks again. The mention of the name of Mr. Kendry as one deserving of a senatorship when a vacancy occurs seems to have excited the ire of someone in the Stratton camp, and forthwith Mr. Kendry is made the target for insinuations and innuendoes in a craftily worded letter.

One prominent Liberal said on Saturday that he thought the Liberals of Peterborough should join the Conservatives in pressing for the honor to Mr. Kendry, not on the ground that he was a Conservative, and had carried the party banner to victory in contests, but because he was the man in Peterborough most entitled to such an honor at the hands of the Borden government.

As far as the Examiner and its conduct is concerned, there seems to be an idea that those not of its political faith, and of its own little circle, are due for the knife whenever there offers a chance.

There are some individuals in Peterborough apparently, who though not writing M. D. after their name, are qualified to put out their shingles as expert knifers.

MR. HALL'S CAMPAIGN

Mr. Hall's campaign seems to have flattened out considerably. After all, what is there in the criticisms he has been advancing against the record of the Whitney government? What has even a keen politician like Mr. Hall been able to find against the Whitney administration? Nothing of any consequence. Mr. Hall has not conducted a campaign based on a criticism of the government. Not at all. No one knows better than the Liberal candidate that it is very hard to find any sound reason for complaint against the conduct of provincial affairs. The Whitney government has doubled the income of the province since it attained power. It is returning that income to the people in various ways; in increased grants to educational institutions, to agriculture, to good roads, to charitable work, to municipalities. It is spending all the money, the income of the province will afford on the various projects in need of provincial support. There is no graft; there has been no allegation of graft made in this campaign.

The Liberal leader, Mr. Rowell, has tried to formulate a platform that will be more advanced than the Whitney plans for progress. But his platform is necessarily along the same lines. There are few real differences and there can be few. Even Mr. Hall has been unable to discover new features of policy that appeal materially to the electorate. He is basing his campaign on what he alleges to be the Whitney lack of progress. But what more does Mr. Rowell offer? Nothing better in the temperance line; nothing better in public ownership line; nothing better in administration of educational matters. The Liberals are doing exceedingly well in the campaign, considering the material at their disposal. Mr. Hall is working hard, and doing well. But [illegible] the material, without a foundation on which to build a substantial case, even a skilful lawyer cannot present a convincing array of arguments.

Wood's Phosphodine, The Great English Remedy. Tones and invigorates the whole nervous system, makes new Blood in old Veins, Cures Nervous Debility, Mental and Brain Worry, Despondency, Sexual Weakness, Emissions, Spermatorrhoea, and Effects of Abuse or Excesses. Price $1 per box, six for $5. One will please, six will cure. Sold by all druggists or mailed in plain pkg. on receipt of price. New pamphlet mailed free. The Wood Medicine Co. (formerly Windsor) Toronto, Ont.

Whitney will be returned. There is no question as to that. Not a Liberal will be found who is denying any such outcome. The premier has the confidence of the whole province. As to West Peterborough, the election of Mr. Peck is necessary for the welfare of the constituency. Mr. Hall would only prove an obstructive factor at the best.

DR. GRENFELL'S WORK

The appeal that is being made by the Ministerial Association to the people of Peterborough on behalf of the work that is being done by Dr. Grenfell, along the Labrador coast is a worthy one. Dr. Grenfell's hospital for the relief of the suffering and the sickness that are rife on the bleak and icy shores of the northland, needs funds for maintenance. He needs funds for the maintenance of the staff which succours the distressed, provides humane treatment for the injured, and does in general the true Christian work of a community.

This is the opening of the Christmas season. We in the cities of Canada have at hand modern resources for the alleviation of pain and suffering, for the proper care of ourselves, both morally and physically. Not so these deep sea fishermen, who live their years on the wild, tossing waters of the north, undergoing hardships that we soft-breds would shrink from. Until the advent of Dr. Grenfell and his mercy crew, theirs was a terrible life, but they lived it because they knew no better. Now that some of the blessings of modern civilization have been introduced, it is necessary that the work shall be carried on, not handicapped by lack of funds. This is the season of good cheer, and of giving. The cause for which Dr. Grenfell is striving is worthy of attention.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Have you registered?

Only one day left for registering.

It's enough to make a man feel all cut up, to see a woman carving roast turkey.

Mr. Burnham evidently believes that while silence may be golden, speech is —oh, radium.

Why should the Examiner go out of its way to make a dirty personal attack on Mr. Kendry, merely because Peterborough people think he should get a senatorship when the opportunity occurs? Mr. Stratton surely isn't still hoping that one may come his way, even from the Borden government.

The White Star line has placed an order for a new steamer to be called the Gigantic, which will have a cricket field, a tennis court, golf links, etc., on board. Pray how does the Star Line expect to get along without a base-ball diamond also?

Col Roosevelt is toying with that elusive thing they call the Roosevelt boom for 1912. He tells about all the kind offers and inducements that have been made, but says its no use. T. R. is like a coy young maiden—he knows how and when.

The suffragettes of Chicago are going to show the scoffing men. They are going to have a cooking contest and a baby show, just to demonstrate that it is possible to be a suffragette and to be a woman at the same time. The "female of the species" can do things all right, when she gets her dander up.

Now that the Montreal courts are declaring Emma Clouatre the legal wife of Eugene Hebert, although the church of Rome holds that they are not man and wife, more legal entanglements follow as regards their civil relations for the period in which the annulment of the marriage was recognized, by the judgment of Justice Laurendeau. And yet in spite of all warnings, there are thousands of young people contracting mixed marriages, with their eyes wide open to the danger to their future peace and happiness.

James Chace, for 53 years employed by the G.T.R. at St. Catharines, is dead.

Harry Howe, and Mrs. Ada Collins, of Goderich, were arrested at London on a charge of theft preferred by the woman's husband.

Tried to Wreck Pump.

Strathroy, Nov. 27.—An attempt on the part of some unknown person to wreck the new million gallon pump here, was discovered by city employes Saturday afternoon. The valve chamber was found plugged with a mixture of cement gravel and emery dust. Arrests are expected.

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

BRITAIN'S COAL SUPPLY

Prophesied Exhaustion of Fuel Will Hurry the Advance of Improved Engines and Machinery.

Scientific calculation goes to show that the available quantity of coal in the proved British coal fields is in the neighborhood of 100,000 million tons, and that if the rate of working increases as it is doing this will be completely exhausted in 175 years. And in the life of a nation 175 years is a span. It is far from certain, indeed, whether the period named is not an extreme one, for the ever-expanding mechanical activity of the world indicates an acceleration of the rate of output on which the calculation is based, and so it is not beyond the range of possibility that the children of those now living may, before they become octogenarians, witness the contraction of industry, the beginnings of the at first slow but afterwards rapid transformation of Britain's great career.

It is pointed out however that this summing up of our learned men does bolt the door against a more hopeful prospect. At present the greater part of the energy potential in the coal mined is wasted. There can be economy in many ways, it is pointed out, by the substitution of turbine engines for reciprocating engines, thereby reducing the coal required per horse-power from 4lb. or 5lb. to 1½lb. or 2lb.; by the further replacement of turbines by gas engines, raising the economy to 30 per cent. of the total energy available in the coal, and thus lowering the coal consumption per horse-power to 1lb. or 1¼lb.; by creating the power at the pitmouth and distributing it electrically, as is already done in the north of England. There are other methods by which economy can be effected, but none of them perhaps so obvious as that of checking waste in the domestic grate as well as the factory chimney.

TWO NEW LAKES

A spectacular feature attending the building of the barge canal, in New York State, is a change in the map of the state that will add to its lakes two bodies of water of considerable size.

A profile of the canal across the state shows a continuous descent from Lake Erie to the confluence of Seneca and Oneida rivers, then a rise to the comparatively low divide in the vicinity of Rome, followed by another continuous descent, to the Hudson. From this it will be seen that there are two critical points in furnishing a water supply for the canal. The problem at the western end is readily solved by the abundance to Lake Erie, but throughout the history of the state canals, the question of supplying the Rome summit level has always presented more difficulties, and has led to the building of a chain of reservoirs among the hills to the south and within the Adirondacks on the north. For the enlarged canal these existing sources are retained, and the two large reservoirs are added.

The work of building the dam and clearing the site at Delta, for impounding the waters of the upper Mohawk, about five miles north of Rome is now about three-quarters done. Across the greater part of the river gorge, 600 feet wide at its base, the dam has reached its full height of 100 feet above the loftiest foundation. When the gaps left for the river and an existing canal are closed, and the top of the dam is extended to its 1,000 feet of length, there will be formed a reservoir some four miles long and two miles wide at the base of its triangular shape, having an average depth of twenty-three feet and a capacity of about 20,750,000,000 gallons.

The Mystery of Glass

A correspondent recently reported what he described as the 'curious freak' of a backbird flying against a parlor window many times at the some spot continuously. Such an incident is not uncommon. Birds have been known to fight for hours at a time, day after day, with their own image reflected in a pane of glass, pecking and fluttering against the pane and quite exhausting themselves in their fury to demolish the supposed rival. It is another instance of how the arts of our civilization corrupt and confuse the birds. It is the same with fishes. Darwin tells a story of a pike in an aquarium seperated by plate glass from fish which were its proper food. In trying to get at the fish the pike would often dash with such violence against the glass as to be completely stunned. It did this for more than three months before it learned caution. Then when the glass was removed the pike would not attack those particular fish, but would devour others freshly introduced. It did not at all understand the situation, but associated the punishment it had received, not with the glass, but with a particular kind of fish. Darwin's American monkeys proved themselves more 'knowing.'

A New Cave Wonder

"Cathedral Cave" is the name that has been given to a vast cavity in the earth near Prescott, Arizona, in which are found some of the most awe-inspiring works of nature, in the form of stalactites and stalagmites, that the eye of man ever beheld; also there are evidences that the place was used both as a burial ground and as a dwelling by some prehistoric race. The discovery was made accidentally only a few weeks ago, when a picnic party was going through a large cave that has been known for years. One of the party stumbled on a dark and narrow crevice giving access to the glorious "Cathedral." From the floor were picked up human bones and articles, which indicated that the cave had been used as a burial ground by the mysterious people who inhabited the south-west of what is now the United States before the Aztecs. Implements and domestic pottery were strewn about in profusion.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 25.—The market was steady, 1-8d higher on the strength in Buenos Ayres at the close, and further reports of unfavorable weather in Argentine. Following the opening there was selling for profits on predictions of larger Russian shipments this week than was earlier expected, and the liberal American shipments, as shown by Bradstreet's and a lowering in cash values. During the morning there was a recovery from the low, with shorts covering on the strength in Paris, recovery at Berlin from the opening weakness and an unexpected tightening of Plate offering overnight.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Clouding in the previous splendid crop outlook in the Argentine turned wheat prices today in an upward direction. The strength of European markets was taken as a sign of substantially altered conditions in South America. Closing figures showed 1-4c to 3-8c advance over last night. Corn finished 1-8c to 1-8c and 1-4c down; oats up a sixteenth and hog products unchanged to 2 1-2c below.

St. Lawrence Sugar

Laboratory of Provincial Government Analyst.

MONTREAL, 22nd February, 1909.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I have drawn by my own hand ten samples of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co's EXTRA STANDARD GRANULATED SUGAR, indiscriminately taken from four lots of about 150 barrels each and six lots of about 450 bags each. I have analyzed same and find them uniformly to contain 99-99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

CHAPTER XV.

"Well, I'm blanked! Protheroe! You infernal drunken fool, come back. Come back, I say. You'll drown, sure."

But Protheroe took no notice of Jim's frantic cry. In that roar of waters which was already about his waist, and seemed to be climbing to his ears, he could hear nothing from the shore which he had left, and if he had done so, he had sense enough to know that it would have been more dangerous to try to turn back than to go on.

Jim saw that himself, as the words left his lips, but it is the fashion of human beings in dire straits to cry for the impossible. And Jim was in a worse strait than the doctor. In the swirl at his feet there were two small objects, somewhat darker than the heaving darkness around them. They might well have been pieces of drift wood, being hustled down stream, but to Jim they would be in that dreary future in front of him, the horse he stole and the man he murdered.

And the unsteady lights of the Soda Creek lanterns were dancing along the river's course coming down stream towards him, nearer and nearer, until he could hear the voices of those who carried them in spite of the noise of the waters.

With a curse he swung himself into the saddle, and wrenching the roan's head round viciously, he galloped up stream for fifty yards, over a chaos of slippery boulders.

Then he turned his horse's head towards the river, and drove his spurs home, but though the colt's spirit was broken by bitter hard work, his instinct recoiled from this new peril, and he rose fighting and pawing the air on the very edge of the flood.

It was in vain. The man's blood was up and the ice-coated boulders gave the beast no footing. With a crash the two went into the river, the horse on its side, whilst the man, thrown clear of his mount, disappeared some feet down stream of him.

Twice the beast was turned over in the flood, and for a few moments the water swept over the man, but before either had been drifted to the level of Protheroe, Jim had regained his horse's head, and twisting the fingers of one hand in the beast's long mane, swam steadily on the down stream side of it.

Once he had his head above water, the colt swam superbly, driving against the current with all the energy of young life battling against death, so that before they had half crossed from shore to shore, Combe and his horse were level with Protheroe, and making some sort of a breakwater for him.

But it was not enough. The doctor was still in the saddle, and Combe could see the pinto's head sinking lower and lower. If the doctor stayed where he was, the horse embarrassed by his weight, must drown, and in spite of his efforts Combe could not make his voice heard in that swirl of waters. On the bank, the noise was as the indistinct roar of a mob, but in mid-stream each voice became distinct, individual and hostile.

He heard the waves roaring at him, he could feel the undercurrents pulling separately at him, he knew what they wanted, and the fury, and the number of them daunted him.

His only chance was to cling to his horse; his only hope of saving Protheroe seemed to be to let go, and if possible, drag the doctor out of his saddle.

But at the last moment Protheroe seemed to realize what was required of him, and slid out of the saddle, holding on to his horse's mane, and swimming as Jim swam.

By this time both horses had drifted below the level of the ferry, which was now crowding with men, gesticulating and apparently shouting to the two in the water, and some of the more sober among the lantern bearers having got the ferry out towards mid-stream, were endeavoring to let a rope down towards the doctor.

But it was hopeless fishing. The line was not long enough, and the casting of it inaccurate. Neither Jim nor the doctor attempted to avail themselves of it.

Side by side, stunned by the noise around them, they battled with the Fraser, whilst though the farther bank seemed to come no nearer, the red lights of Soda Creek grew more dim and distant, and the figures on the ferry more indistinct.

Luckily for the swimmers there was even less ice in the river than there had been in the morning when Combe crossed it. The frost had not held in the upper country through which flow the tributaries that supply the Fraser with its first run of ice, but there was enough of it to add to their difficulties.

Suddenly the light of Soda Creek went out altogether, and the dancing lanterns on the ferry disappeared, and at the same time a new sound struck upon their ears, a dull, grinding noise, which grew louder and more distinct with every second that passed.

They had drifted past a bend in the river, and at the next, to which they were being hurried, the ice was packing. If they got into that pack before reaching the further shore, it would be the end of them. The horses, spent already, must go under in the churning and grinding ice.

Straining his eyes to the utmost, Combe thought that he could just distinguish the line of the farther bank. It was nearer than the ice pack which he could hear in the dark below him, but was it near enough? They were being carried down stream many yards for every foot which they made in the direction of the shore. It was just one of those positions in which death is made doubly hard by the temptation to struggle against it. Death itself is probably not so very dreadful. Nature is full of bogies to coerce her wilful children, and the last bogie of all, used mainly to make us play out our innings to the end, is possibly the most gentle fraud amongst them, but that struggle in the dark against the irresistible waters, with life and safety so near at hand, was bitter to bear, and at the very climax of it Jim's horse gave in and turned its head down stream.

In a moment they were racing towards their death. After all that long stubborn fight against the stream, with the shore almost within reach, the failure of the roan's courage had ruined them. If he had been alone it is possible that Combe would have given in then and drifted down quietly to his death, rather than fight longer against the inevitable, but the sight of the other man still struggling, and obviously spent, roused him to one more effort.

It was useless to shout to the horse, but with his free hand he managed to strike it in the face, and drag its head almost under with the other, until in despair the beast turned up stream again. But it was too late. Jim knew it, for he could hear the ice teeth gnashing almost at his heels, and he only struck out still from a stubborn determination to fight to the last inch.

His reward exceeded his hopes. Since he plunged into the Fraser it had seemed to Combe that he and his horse by immense efforts had just managed to remain stationary upon a plane of sliding water which carried them towards the ice pack, but now for the first time the long lean head which had bored down upon him, pushing him always nearer and nearer to eternity, began to forge ahead. There was no doubt of it.

They had reached the eddy under the shore; the big boulders loomed up, grew clearer, and the roan struck bottom.

At the first touch Combe's knees seemed to give under him. All his strength had gone, and having gone through the depths he seemed likely enough to drown in the shallows. It was only by an immense effort of will that he braced himself sufficiently to stagger out of the eddy. He could have fallen where he landed, but a cry from the doctor found one last rerv of strngth lft in his companionus serve of strength left in his companion, and calling upon that "last ounce," Jim blundered down the bank and into the water, falling against a great tooth of rock, which broke the force of the river at the bend.

By what seemed a miracle, the pinto had just made good its footing on the very last point between it and the swirl which led to the ice jamb, but the doctor was too spent to profit by his horse's good luck, and though Jim grabbed him as he was swept by, he could do no more.

For what seemed to him five of the longest minutes he had ever known, the water crushed him against that rock tooth, whilst his arm was racked with the pain of keeping his fingers crooked in that bundle of wet clothing, which swayed with the current, but which he had not strength to drag back.

He could hold on to it, he would go with it rather than let go, but he could not find the strength needed to draw it to his own place of safety.

Jim felt his body slipping away from the rock which sheltered him. Gently, insistently, like an angler who puts all the strain he dare upon a lightly-hooked fish, the waters drew him from his hold, and then there came one of those strange chuckling sounds which water makes amongst the boulders.

In his light-headed condition it was to Combe the laugh of a devil who wins, and it touched some spring in his nature, of which for the moment he had lost control, the strength came back to his muscles, and with a last desperate effort he drew Protheroe to him; dragged him somehow to the river's brim, and dropped him there, where the waters lapped over the first boulders of the dry land.

For a long pause there was silence, but for the ravings of the river, baulked of its prey, and the little wind, which wined like a wolf amongst the sage brush along the cliff's edge.

Utterly spent, the two men lay where they had fallen, as did the pinto. Only the roan stood upright, and even his strong knees were bent, his head hung, and his whole body was shaken with shivering fits.

Combe was the first to recover.

Dragging himself to his feet, he went over to the doctor's horse.

"You've got to get up, old fellow," he said, "or you'll die on our hands, and we can't spare you yet," but the poor beast lay with head stretched along the ground and took no notice of him. It had made up its mind to die.

"Can you help, Doc?" Jim asked, but the doctor shook his head, and lay still, nor was it until nearly an hour later that Combe contrived to get his companion and the two horses up to the top of the cliffs, upon which he built a roaring fire, not only for the sake of comfort, but as a sign to any whom it might concern that they had survived the river crossing.

"And now, Doc, I guess you might as well get along towards the ferry. There'll maybe be someone there still, unless they've all given us up for dead. You will have had about enough for one while, I expect."

"What! Give up the run when I've jumped the big brook? Not much, Jim."

"Then you mean coming on?"

"I started to get there, and I'm going to get there with both feet, my son, as you would say in your picturesque fashion."

Jim pulled at his pipe in silence for some time, then in a shamefaced way he said:

"I owe you an apology, Doctor."

"For abduction? Yes, I believe that there is some trivial penalty attached to that form of amusement."

"No; not a blanked bit for that. You'd have done the same only I didn't know it. It's just for not knowing you; I'm sorry. I ought to have known you were a man."

"I was drunk. Anything is good enough for a drunk."

"There ain't another man in Cariboo would have risked his life as you did, drunk or sober."

The doctor laughed.

"You did for one, and that is life anyway. Do you think that the loss of it would be such a terrible calamity? Think of it! No more whiskey—bad whiskey at that; no more graceful badinage with the coy Kate Canyon; no more delicate jests with that fat-headed bar keeper; no more memory perhaps. If I believed that last, Jim, by heaven, I would not forgive you for pulling me out. But let's stop talking and get a move on, or those fools will be over to look for us."

"We shall have to walk, at first at any rate."

"It can't be helped. I suppose that we can get some feed for the horses at Braithwaite's."

"Yes, if we start now we should be there by sun up," and lighting their pipes, the two led their horses away towards the west.

"Col. Roosevelt finds it difficult to understand the comment that has followed upon his article in The Outlook, regarding national laws and business interests. He has said exactly the same thing many times before. He cannot see why it should be assumed that this article indicates that he is ready to take any personal part in the coming campaign."

Gas Distended His Stomach

Caused Palpitation, and Prevented Sleep—When Health Was Gone, Cure Followed Use of "Nerviline."

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveler of Hartford, "that every one with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the traveling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?"

GET RID OF SLOUCHING

This bad habit is Result of Negligence and if Taken Early can be Cured.

Slouching is nothing but negligence and displays a lack of self-control. Don't give way to it, but see if a little energy won't overcome it. It may seem but a trifle to you, but not to others. These will not be as lenient in judging your slouching habit, and not only will criticise it severely but may eventually form an entirely wrong opinion of you.

The stooping position of the back and shoulders is not only far from beautiful, but highly unsanitary, severely handicapping the respiration and preventing all the internal organs from performing their duties properly.

The habit of letting the shoulders droop and the back stoop may have been acquired by rapid growth, or by overzealous study, but whatever the cause it should be mended as speedily as possible.

Let the arms hang freely at the sides. Don't fold your hands in front of you, and train yourself to walk with free, long strides, instead of hopping or waddling, as so many women do, and, above all, see to it that the poise of your head is correct, well thrown back, instead of being a half a mile in advance of your body. Then it is easy to adjust the hat firmly and keep it so, and it will not be awry.

Black velvet trimmings and an East Indian sash and motifs of colored embroidery are the strong features of a handsome tailored suit of black cloth.

The underskirt is of black velvet about eight inches of this rich fabric showing. A tuck two inches deep finishes the black cloth overskirt. The velvet appears in a deep collar which comes to the waistline of the coat and this collar in turn is trimmed with an inch width of the cloth.

Velvet and cloth cuffs are upon the sleeves. A black satin sash is finished with heavy fringe and the motifs of colored embroidery decorate the front of the coat.

For Brides.... and Others

A country vicar gave this advice to a young woman bent on matrimony: "When you marry him, love him; after you marry him, study him if he is honest, honor him; if he is generous, appreciate him; when he is sad, cheer him; when he is cross amuse him; when he is talkative listen to him; when he is quarrelsome, ignore him; if he is slothful spur him; if he is noble, praise him if he is confidential, encourage him if he is secretive, trust him; if he is jealous, cure him; if he cares naught for pleasure, coax him; if he favors society, accompany him; if he does you a favor, thank him; when he deserves it, kiss him; let him think how well you understand him, but never let him know that you 'manage' him."

To Renovate Blue Serge

A good renovating mixture for blue serge is composed of two ounces of spirits of wine and one ounce of liquid ammonia. Rub the serge with a small piece of cloth soaked in the mixture. Only a little of the renovator should be poured out at a time as it evaporates rather quickly.

BIFOCALS

— OR —

DOUBLE VISION GLASSES

Most people think, when buying Bifocal Glasses, that a large segment or reading area is required. With very few exceptions this is not so, as most bifocals are required for constant use, and the successful fitting of these lenses depends not so much on furnishing the largest reading portion possible, but on placing a minimum disk or wafer in exactly the correct position. A small wafer accurately placed will afford ample field for reading, writing and sewing, and will overcome the tendency to make mis-steps in going up and down stairs, an experience not uncommon to wearers of bifocals with too large reading segments

We make a specialty of filling Bifocal Lenses in VISIBLE, SEMI-INVISIBLE and INVISIBLE.

CHIEF WHETUNG ON HIS ANIMALS

Complains That Musk-rats Are Frozen Out

Chief Joseph Whetung called in the other day and explained that his little animals should be protected better than in the past He found a copy of an extract in one of his game bags a few days ago that stated that when the whites first came to this country they were awful good They made a treaty with the Indians, and the government wanted the land only It was not intended that the fish or game rights to be interfered with As these belonged to the Indians who derived their living from them, these promises were to hold good as long as grass grows and water runs The Missassaguas of Rice, Mud and Scugog Lakes, these bands, members of this same tribes, surrendered the greater part of their possessions in 1878 The tract so ceded contains many thousands square miles, once embracing within its bounds the extensive lumber and fur bearing regions It is fortunate, too, that the arrangement has been effected, as the Indians along the Kawartha lakes and rivers were dissatisfied at the use of the waters, which they considered their's, having been taken without compensation, so much so, indeed, that the waters were not been raised this fall, or this month of November, 1911 The muskrat would have been saved, or found alive in the spring from being drowned, as the animals have been compelled to come out on to the ice on account of dams or locks being opened when the lakes and rivers is just nicely froze over The poor animals are seen all over, even in the farmers' fields, looking for a shelter Now this is a shame

Grand Trunk System

Telegraphic advice has been received at Grand Trunk Headquarters to the effect that the main line of steal on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway had passed the Great Divide between Alberta and British Columbia. Rapid progress will now be made with the line in British Columbia, as this extension carries the work well into the mountain division and completes 2,044 miles of main line track west of Winnipeg.

The Great Divide is 250 miles west of Edmonton.

Latest reports received from Prince Rupert, the Pacific Coast Terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway indicates that shipping from that point is ever on the increase.

During the month of October there were seventy-nine arrivals and seventy-eight departures.

This is a splendid record for this season of the year.

ALL INDICATIONS POINT TO SWEEPING VICTORY FOR MR. PECK IN COUNTRY AND CITY

Best Rally of the Campaign Addressed by Enthusiastic Speakers — Encouraging Reports.

The largest meeting of the campaign greeted Mr. E. A. Peck at the Conservative Rallying point Saturday night and the enthusiastic gathering listened attentively to the bright and encouraging remarks made by the speakers, T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., L. M. Hayes, K.C., James Kendry, F. H. Dobbin and the candidate.

Mr. Bradburn opened the meeting with the report that successful meetings had been held in the country. He urged all, however, to give their best efforts in the interests of the candidate who was sure to be elected.

VICTORY ON DEC 11

Mr Hayes spoke of the enthusiastic reception Mr. Peck had met with at Ennismore, on Friday night. The enthusiasm augured well for victory on December 1, he held. The reports from other parts of the country were of a most encouraging character, but it was up to the electors of the city to turn out and do their part.

"There is not the slightest doubt but that we are on the eve of a sweeping victory," said Mr. Hayes. With such a progressive Government the province would back Whitney without a doubt.

At the end of the year 1910, after the administration of all offices in a very generous manner, the government had a surplus on hand. It was not the policy of the government so much to roll up a surplus, as it was to give the money back to the people, in the way of grants for improvements of roads, schools, and other provincial works

Mr F. H. Dobbin of the Review followed with a short address on the subject of co-operation for the workingman He was followed closely by the large audience.

MR. KENDRY.

Mr. Jas. Kendry, held that Mr. Peck would be returned with a large majority as a supporter of the Whitney government. It was the only right thing to do considering the splendid work the government had been doing and would continue to do. Mr. Hall had complained that nothing had been done for schools, but the speaker pointed out that the government was paying part of the salary of the teachers in the rural schools. It paid 40 per cent in the rural districts.

"Why we all leave Mr. Hall so far behind, he will never be able to catch up" said Mr. Kendry in conclusion.

GOOD MEETING IN COUNTRY

Mr. Peck reported four successful meetings, two in Monaghan, one in Lakehurst and another in Ennismore. The rural districts would give good support, he said.

The candidate referred to a pamphlet sent out by Mr. Hall, which contained a tribute by Mr. G. A. Gillespie to the past services to the city of Mr Hall, and his qualifications for future service. "It seems to me," said Mr. Peck, "I have seen a similar address in the last election, only instead of Mr. Hall, the name had been J. R. Stratton."

Everything then had been credited to Mr. Stratton. Everything done was through his efforts, but now, it seemed Mr. Hall was coming in for his. What did Mr. Hall do? He secured what the people were fully entitled to, compensation for the flooding of their lands. He got the armories. But Whitby had one with only part of a regiment. Surely Peterboro in all fairness should get one with its large regiment. It was only fair that the armories should come to Peterboro Such arguments as Mr. Gillespie referred to, did not justify the support of the electors to Mr. Hall. He too, might be in the opposition, even if elected, and those things which were to be done for Peterboro—could be done properly by the speaker.

In his last address, Mr. Peck had omitted to refer to the grant to Toronto University or to Hydro-Electric power. Both were very important. If the grant to the University was withdrawn, only rich men's sons could get the advanced education—the poor man's son could not afford the expense.

As to Hydro-Electric power, Peterboro was on the eve of important developments. The government had done a great deal to give cheap power to the west, and despite what Mr. Hall said, the fact of the government having attended to the west, made it certain that cheap power can, and would be given to this district. The only expenditure Mr. Hall complained about was that to the University and yet he didn't tell the Ross government also made a grant. The new leader of the opposition, Mr. Rowell didn't dare to suggest a withdrawal.

The meeting was brought to a close with cheers for the King, Premier Whitney and the candidate.

MADOC MAN WAS THE HORSE DOCTOR

In Sir Gilbert Parker's Story "The Right of Way"

The following is from the North North Hastings Review, published at Madoc—

The Campbellford Herald contained a reminiscence of the editor, Mr. G. A. Kingston, meeting the figure in Sir Gilbert Parker's novel, the Horse Doctor, who was none other then Jake Huff, who resided here until a few years ago. Mr. Huff is well known throughout this district having resided here for many years.

The editor of the Ontario, Mr. J.O. Herity, upon reading the above-mentioned article, states that it served to bring back many pleasant remembrances. He and Mr. Kingston were room-mates at Mr. Huff's hospitable home.

Following is the article from the Herald—

"The presentation of "The Right of Way" in the Campbellford Opera House the other night brought back to our mind the figure of one of the characters of the novel, Jake Huff the horse Doctor. Sir Gilbert Parker's novels are true to nature and many of his characters are taken from real life.

Jake Huff was among the best known men of Hastings county in Sir Gilbert's day in Canada, and might well be made the chief character in a romance. He at one time resided in Stirling and subsequently in Madoc, and was a great personal friend of the author of "The Right of Way." He appears in the novel as a horse doctor, but he was a man of many vocations, having been hotelkeeper, the teacher of a singing school, the keeper of a livery stable, a constable, an auctioneer, a bailiff, and perhaps followed other callings of which we are not aware. He stands out six feet three, with scarcely an ounce of superfluous flesh on his body, and in his palmy days was considered one of the strongest men in the county. But while uncle Jake, as he was commonly called, is a strong man physically, he is also a man of tender heart and refined feeling, a man beloved by all, even by the little children of the village His wife, who died some years ago, was a daughter of the late Simeon Ashley, of West Huntington, one of a family of fifteen children. She was a woman of exceptionally fine character and generous nature. The family consisted of four sons and two daughters, of whom two sons and one daughter have been called to their reward. All the children inherited the physical strength and natural endowments of their parents. They were all fine robust types of manhood and womanhood.

Many of the incidents recorded in Sir Gilbert's book are based upon fact colored by the imaginative character of the author's mind. It is quite probable that the country tavern, and perhaps that presided over by our friend, Jake Huff, formed the nucleus of the scene at Cote Dorion. To his credit, our friend Jake soon gave up the hotel business and sought a more peaceful and congenial means of livelihood.

Many pleasant memories crowd in upon the editor's mind as he reverts to the days spent in Mr. Huff's home when a student at Madoc Model School. Especially do we call to mind the tasteful viands and delicacies of the festive board,—for every day was a festive one, while Mrs. Huff was under contract to satiate the enormous agricultural appetites of four Model students. When supper was done we all gathered round the fireside and engaged in song, Mr. Huff leading with his well-trained bass voice, which often later attracted crowds to the Salvation Army barracks.

A few years since, our hero went to live with his daughter, Mrs. Givens, in British Columbia, where his surviving sons also live. He is about 75 years of age, and we venture to say that he has already made many new friends among all classes of the community in which he lives and especially among the children."

ELECTRIC RAILWAY LINE IS A LEMON

ed such commotion around Best's station a few days ago

Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann could not have rushed staking operations more speedily than did enterprising Mr. Graham. The gang staked at the rate of three miles per day, from the other side of Lindsay to Omemee and then through to Beats Station. And, odd to state, wherever there was a farm-house, or a barn or a nice orchard, the right of way invariably was headed straight for it. Then if the farmer paid Mr. Graham $50 or $100, the right of way would be moved, so that it would not mean the eventual destruction of the valuable buildings or possessions of Mr. Farmer. Many farmers paid over their little sums to avoid having the electric railway run over their prize hen-coops, and through their choice orchards, and Mr. Graham then would go aside to indulge in a little chuckle of delight.

AN ELEVATED RAILWAY

In Lindsay city, he proposed to build a real elevated railway, on two concrete walls, with the block system of operating. He had almost figured out the price of the fare to Peterborough so complete were his plans for his entrance into majestic Bougogville. And Lindsay was real happy.

And while in Lindsay Mr. Graham stayed at the Butler house. He won the affections of an Omemee young lady, Miss Sanderson, and led her to the altar, a blushing bride. His board bill and hers mounted up, until it is now $103, and the proprietor is in mourning in sackcloth and ashes. Mrs. Graham is an employe of the Butler house.

It was the way in which Mr. Graham financed the gang that drove the stakes, which was his undoing, however. The gang of about twenty men was picked up from the country around. Each man lent to the railway promoter about $35 or $40— as much as he could be induced to part with—and it is said that one stake driver, gave up his watch. The men did not draw any wages. Their reward was in the hopes of better days to come, when the line should be constructed. Mr. Graham inserted adds in the Lindsay papers wanting teamsters, and he had got stakes enough to last for a long stretch, of right of way work, and was as busy as a real big railway builder could be. No total as to the amount the stake-drivers lent their boss has been figured up, but between what he got this way, and the money he induced the farmers to part with, to get that troublesome right of way settled, it is in the neighborhood of $1,000.

WAS ARRESTED

Finally, even Lindsay gets suspicious, and on Saturday the Chief of police decided to take him into his paternal care. No information had been sworn, but the chief, like a brave man, took the initaitive. This morning Graham appeared in police court, faced four charges of securing money under false pretences, admitted his guilt, and was remanded until next Friday. And here endeth the first lesson. Lindsay's reputation is saved, for the promoter is in jail. But wasn't it a great scheme for a Trenton man?

Y.M.C.A. CAMPAIGN

Last Week for Effort to Secure New Members

The last week of the campaign! And there are a whole lot of members to get yet The workers in the Y.M.C.A. membership campaign started after 189 new members as an irreducible minimum We don't know whether the changeable weather of the past two weeks has affected the spirits of the boys or not, but they are still a long way from 189

It isn't as if there was not a chance yet There is no reason why the number of members still required should not be pulled in in the next three or four days

Just think how easy it is if each senior member were to draw in only one other member we would be away ahead of the game The same applies to the intermediates

That's the way the leaders in the campaign look at it The seniors are now two points ahead, so Bill Hastie and his youngsters want to get a hustle on them

And the advantages of the Y.M.C.A. Of course that is the big talking point The reading room, gymnasium, baths and bowling alleys are all worth the $5 charged for the membership

Just how so many young fellows around Peterborough don't take advantage of the 'Y' is what the membership workers don't understand They can't see everybody If they why, just leave your fee at the "Y" yourself

TOO MANY WANT TO BE ISAIAHS

Rev. Mr. Irwin Speaks on Prophets at George Street

The pulpit of George street Methodist church was acceptably filled yesterday, by the Rev. Mr. Irwin, of Cannington, the pastor being in Cannington conducting anniversary services at Rev. Mr. Irwin's church.

During his morning sermon, in which he gave a clear definition of the word prophet, Rev. Mr. Irwin said that while everyone could be a prophet too many people wanted to be like the prophet Isaiah, or like those who interpreted the Scriptures. Were they called to the slums to act as prophets of God, they would make the excuse that they were not able to do the work. The preacher closed a splendid sermon with a plea for all to do prophet work, small or large as their opportunities might be—and thus spread the gospel of light and sunshine.

The choir sang splendidly. "Crossing the Bar," was the morning anthem, and "The Ninety and Nine," the offertory solo by Mrs. Renwick. In the evening Mr. George Deacon was heard in a tenor solo, and Mrs. Fred Miles in a soprano selection.

It was announced that the choir would entertain the congregation on Tuesday evening

UNOBSERVED WE THINK: WE SIN

Rev. G. A. Johnson of Sunderland at All Saints'

The temptation before us to commit sin when we think ourselves unobserved, and the far-reaching effects of such sin, formed the subject for a thoughtful sermon by Rev. G. A. Johnson, of Sunderland, at All Saints' church last evening.

The preacher related the story of the killing of the Egyptian by Moses when he thought himself unobserved. That sin spoiled the life of Moses, and it also had its effect on the Israelites.

In the home, the speaker held, there was the temptation to act with the thought that we were unobserved. "Too many men," he said, "have a smile for everybody but that one who is trying to do her duty in the home." Again, people good natured before the world failed to live it out in the home.

Rev. Mr. Johnson also referred to the temptation before young men and women coming from the country to take up city life, and made a strong plea on their behalf. They came—were alone without friends—and the thought that they were not observed often caused them to fall into sin that blighted their lives forever.

THE WORKINGMAN AT PARK STREET

Interesting Addresses by Pastor and Other Speakers

A most interesting gathering took place last night at the Park street Baptist church. It was workingman's night, and the church was filled with men. A male choir, also composed of toilers, sang in a manner that surprised the congregation, being as it was their first appearance. His Worship the mayor, and Fire Chief Howard were among the large number present. An address was given by the pastor, who said he considered it a pleasure to be known as the workingman's friend, and he hoped that in his special calling he would prove to be a "Workman that needeth not to be ashamed."

An address was also given by Mr. A. Haw, a recent arrival from the motherland, who spoke of the workingman's indifference to the church in England. He said he hoped for better things in Canada.

Mr. Archie Jackson spoke on the subject of "How to get the workingman into the church." Show them that they are wanted, was his advice. The church needed workers. Men who would work were always welcome. "Let us win them for Christ," he urged.

Mr. Riddiford spoke on the church and the workingman, and his address proved to be very helpful.

BELLEVILLE TO BE IMPROVED

The plans show that 200 feet of the old dock will be removed, a cement pier fifty feet wide will be built out from Church street into the bay 770 feet. At the end of this pier an "L" shaped dock will be built, 300 by 75 feet, with sheds and cold-storage accommodation for cheese and perishable products. A railway track will be built out to the edge of the dock so that cars may be loaded or unloaded directly alongside the boats. All adjacent water will be dredged to a depth of twelve feet so that large vessels may be accommodated. The contract has already been let for dredging. It is understood that the cost of the improvements will be somewhere in the neighborhood of $200,000.

DRUNKS IN POLICE COURT

Six Offenders Dealt With by Magistrate Dumble

Owing to the police court room being used for registration purposes, police court sitting this morning was held in the committee room of the city hall. Those who occupied the chairs around the table this morning were not there to make laws, but to answer for the breaking of the new.

"There must have been a peculiar quality in the liquor on Saturday," remarked the magistrate, his remarks being caused by the gaist of drunks and disorderlies who were arraigned before him.

Two horny-handed railroad construction men from Bethany were called first, on charges of being drunk on Saturday. One of them had a meal at the Munro House on Saturday, and later refused to pay for the same, using abusive language to the clerk. The other man was simply drunk. Both pleaded guilty and paid $2 each.

Walter Chapman and F. Magee, hailing from Lakefield, were so rejuvenated by a little whiskey on Saturday that they indulged in a little exhibition of the many art in front of the Montgomery House. Each is minus now $2.

FOUND ON THE BRIDGE

An Ashburnham man was found drunk on Saturday on the C.P.R. bridge. He parted also with the same sum.

John Lowry pleaded guilty of drunkenness in a public place, and paid over a two-spot.

STALLING ON THE CORNERS

Young Men Fined in Police Court for Misbehavior

Three young lads were brought before Acting Magistrate Armstrong this morning charged with obstructing the crossing at the corner of George and Charlotte streets on Sunday night. Two of the lads were fined $5, and the third told such a plausible story that his Worship was unable to make a conviction and discharged him.

P. C. Brown, who arrested the trio, related the circumstances leading up to their apprehension. About seven seven o'clock, he said, a crowd of young men were collected at the corner stated. The bunch noticed him across the street, but were indifferent to his presence, until he commenced to walk across the road to them, when they separated, some going south and some west on Charlotte street. He heard mocking gibes coming from some of the lads evidently intended for his ears.

Three of the lads when they saw the officer following them ran through Wolstenholm's lane, and the three who were arrested by the officer were just behind them. The officer asked of the three, the names of those who had run away, but was told that they did know them. P. C. Brown brought the trio of arrests to the police station, and again questioned them, but failed to elicit the names of the three who had disappeared.

The evidence of the lad who was discharged, conflicted somewhat with the police officer's story. He tried to prove an alibi.

The lad against whom the charge was dismissed paid the fines of the other two.

The practice of youths and young men blocking the streets is becoming so annoying and abominable that the police department are determined that it shall be brought to a stop, and offenders are warned of the consequences if apprehended, the maximum penalty being a fine of $5 0or six months' imprisonment.

Woman Drops Dead.

Toronto, Nov 27.—Mrs. John Nash, 225 Dovercourt road, while leaving the house yesterday morning to go to St. Francis R. C. Church, dropped dead of heart failure, and just a few steps from the door. She had never been ill before and was talking and laughing just before the sudden summons.

The husband, three sons, and three daughters, survive. One son, Harry, is in California, and has been telegraphed for. The others reside here.

Mrs. Nash lived in Toronto for 35 years, being born in Dundas.

Port Colborne's Furnace Plant.

Port Colborne, Nov. 27.—The Union Furnace Co. of Buffalo will establish their Canadian plant here, building three large warehouses. They have secured from the Dominion Government 2,000 feet of dockage rights, which will provide facilities for receiving their ore shipments. The company will fill in the lake front directly behind the east piers by dumping their slag, and this will give them 36 acres in addition to the 25 acres of land already optioned.

Deputation at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—A deputation representing Hindu citizens of British Columbia, arrived from Vancouver on Saturday morning to ask the Government for some relaxation of present immigration restrictions against Hindus. The deputation consisted of Dr. Sundar Singh, Prof. Tegni Singh and Rajah Singh. These gentlemen were accompanied by L. W. Hall of Vancouver. They will interview Premier Borden to-day, and ask that Hindus be allowed to bring out their families, that the law compelling Hindus to come direct from India be changed in view of the fact that there is no direct steamship line. They also complain that Hindus are not being given the treatment that should be accorded them as British citizens.

Sailor Crushed to Death.

Cornwall, Nov. 27.—Robert Kehoe of Cleveland, Ohio, a sailor on the steam barge Senator Derbyshire, was killed here Saturday night. The boat was just starting west out of lock 17 and Kehoe, after releasing the hawser from a snubbing post, attempted to board the boat. He fell between the boat and the stone coping and was rolled and crushed to death.

The body was recovered and an inquest will be opened by Coroner Hamilton.

The Derbyshire was tied up till the captain gave assurance to the coroner that all the witnesses required would be on hand for the inquest.

Kehoe was a fine-looking fellow, about six feet in height and weighing about 200 pounds. He was evidently between 35 and 40 years of age.

The Famous Rayo Lamp

The best part of the day is the evening, when the whole family is gathered together around the lamp.

The old days of the smoky fireplace and flickering candle are gone forever. In their place have come the convenient oil stove and the indispensable Rayo Lamp.

There are to-day, in the United States alone, more than 3,000,000 of these Rayo lamps, giving their clear, white light to more than 3,000,000 homes.

Other lamps cost more, but you cannot get a better light than the low-priced Rayo gives. It has become so popular we may almost call it "the official lamp of the American family."

The Rayo is made of solid brass, with handsome nickel finish—an ornament anywhere.

Ask your dealer for a Rayo lamp; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of

DOMINION CHAMPIONS

Varsity Fourteen Won Honor for Third Consecutive Season

Toronto, Nov 27.—Being in a position to take advantage of every one of their opponents' mistakes, the Blue and White of Varsity triumphed over Argonauts Saturday by the score of 14 to 7, and the Collegians have now performed the great feat of winning three successive Canadian championships, which performance stands alone in the history of Canadian Rugby

Argonauts, although playing on ground not suited to them, were far from disgraced, and the issue was in doubt till five minutes before full time, as the scullers were pressing the students on their own 20-yard line, and a try would have tied up the game Varsity uncorked a few of their running plays which were the feature of the game just when the Argos were becoming dangerous and carried the ball down to the Argonaut end, where a rouge resulted, amid the loudest cheer of the day, for that one point put them out of all danger

Varsity won just where it was expected they would That is, in their runs around the end for great gains, and their ability to be on the ball It was a case of a team always on the ball against one who were straggling Varsity made more mistakes than their opponents, but none of them were disastrous, while, on the other hand, the scullers had two that gave their opponents twelve points Argos had possession of the ball more than Varsity, but lacked the speed to do anything with it

WHAT GOTCH EATS

The Well Regulated Daily Meal Programme Carefully Supervised by Little Madame Gotch.

FRANK GOTCH

It's the tasty, wholesome food cooked by pretty little Mrs. Gotch's own little pink hands that turned the champion wrestler's muscles into whipcords.

Frank is as big as a good sized mountain. Mrs. Frank is about as big as a ginger jar, weight about 95 pounds. But she's got a love ribbon tied tightly about her good-natured husband's heart and she runs the Gotch household like a diminutive queen.

"What does Frank eat? What should men eat in order to be strong? How does Gotch live?"

A day at the Gotch home here tells the story. Little Mrs. Gotch is on the job bright and early, when Frank gets out in the cool daylight for his cross-country run. She starts him off with a couple of soft boiled eggs and a bumper of sweet, rich milk and then begins on his breakfast. He returns about 10, takes a shower bath and sits down to breakfast across from his wife in the Gotch dining room. He has more milk, chops, boiled eggs or a delicate parsley, omelette, light, fluffy and crisp brown on the exterior; hot baking powder biscuits or day-old, home-baked, whole wheat bread. (No fresh, yeast-raised bread is allowed.)

Fruit also forms an important part, not only of breakfast but of dinner, but it is eaten after the chief portion of the meal instead of before, because the fresh fruit juices are more easily cared for by a partially filled-than by an empty stomach. Just new peaches and cantaloupe are the principal fruits, varied occasionally with raspberries, blackberries, huckleberries, grape fruit, oranges and juicy, baked apples.

PRIZE THEIR CLUBS

Golfers Who Carry Round Ancient Clubs, Which are only Introduced as "Last Resource" Superstitions.

Every golfer has at least one or two clubs in his bag which he prizes as much as Wagner, Cobb, Lajoie or any of the great hitters do some of the bats with which they have done so effective work in the past. It is remarkable how golfers will clutter up their bags with wooden and iron clubs which are remnants of other days.

The golfers hate as much to discard an old iron as a crack batsman dislikes to throw away an old bat that has won games. The result is that many a caddie has dropped almost exhausted because he has had to lug around on some hot day anywhere from 15 to 20 clubs.

Superstition has just as much to do with the golfer as the follower of any other sport. He is delighted if by any means he can get hold of some club which was used at some time or other by some well known player, a professional preferred. Every one who goes to Scotland is not satisfied unless he brings home an iron or wooden club made by one of the famous Scotch professionals. Every now and then a player does get possession of a club which is worth while.

George Cook, who for years was regarded as one of the best players in the Philadelphia district, has in his possesion a putter which was made in Scotland in 1758. He has had it for 80 years. It is in a wonderfully fine state of repair and every now and then when other putters go wrong the old club is brought into telling use

SOME AUTO "DONTS"

Don't cross a railroad track anywhere, at any time until you have strictly observed the injunction to Stop, Look and Listen.

Don't imagine that you own all the road because you are the owner of an automobile; some other people have rights that you are bound to respect.

Don't anticipate what the driver of the vehicle ahead of you might do; be prepared for any emergency.

Don't drive in the middle of the street unless passing another vehicle.

Don't cross an intersecting street unless you have the right of way.

Don't take it for granted that everybody will get out of the way when you sound the horn.

Don't turn your head to talk with your friends in the tonneau. Keep your attention centered entirely on operating the car.

Don't start on a trip without first making sure that the brakes are in perfect condition; a worn-out brake shoe has been the cause of fatal accidents.

THE LIVING AND THE DEAD

A Xmas story of London

By Stephen Leacock

(Copyright by Publishers Press, Ltd.)

"Yes, you can have the tree for nine pence if you'll take it," said the stall woman, "only make up your minds one way or the other."

She spoke to the children impatiently, but not unkindly, busy as she was with the rush of customers that crowded about the stalls of the market, anxious to make their Xmas purchases.

The man of the stall turned as his wife spoke and looked with a frown at the two small figures that pressed against the corner of the stall, seemingly unable to purchase or to go away unsatisfied. "And be quick about it," he said, "we've no time to wait all night on the likes of you."

The children stood irresolute.

"We didn't count to give so much," the boy said, "we wanted some of the money over for the toys." He looked at the purchase money that lay in his open hand, a six pence, five broad penny pieces and two half pence.

Beside him stood the little girl, in a faded red cloak with the hood half drawn over her golden hair and blue eyes wide with fascinated eagerness.

Before the children on the stall counter where the woman had placed it, stood the little Xmas tree, a brave little spruce, potted and trimmed, and with its glittering tin candle-holders only waiting for its Xmas tapers.

"Look-e-here," said the woman, "if you can't buy the tree, why not get something else instead? Why not get a flower in a pot, its just as good. I'll let you have this one for four pence, and its a bargain too at that. With that she picked from a shelf and set down on the counter a lemon chrysanthemum that nodded its feathered head on its tall stem.

The little girl shook her head, "I want the tree," she said half under her breath, her eye which never left the little spruce, large with the vision of lighted tapers dancing upon its branches.

"But you see Elsie," said the boy, "if we get the tree, there aint nothing over for the candles, and the toys and all that.

"Don't you see," he said, keeping down the choke in his voice, "if it all goes on the tree it wont be much of a surprise for mother after all."

In his own mind he saw it all well enough, — the miscalculated little savings, the penny that should have been a shilling, the humble finance that seemed doomed to ship-wreck before the hard facts of the Xmas market.

It went hard. Mother would have liked it so much, mother who had to stay at home all day, now on a sofa in the dingy little home that the Xmas tree had been meant to brighten. The children had planned it all as a surprise, — the tree brought home in secrecy, and suddenly revealed with its nodding tapers and its presents. The presents were to have been for Elspeth, but the boy's instinct told him that mother would be none the less pleased at that.

"See," said a woman's voice, "that was it, exactly such a little tree as that."

A trap had drawn up in the street just outside the flower stall. In it were a young man and a woman evidently husband and wife

The band of crape round the man's arm, and the deep mourning in which the woman was dressed bore witness to a recent bereavment. But the signs of it were in the faces too. The woman looked about her with sad eyes at the scene with its bright gas lights, its fresh falling snow and its group of merry purchasers. She was thinking of a little grave in the cemetery up on the hill and of a Xmas never to come again. It was just a year ago that they had bought a tree like this. And this year they had come to the Xmas market again. But they bought not for the living but the dead. It was for the little grave beyond the hill.

"Tell him John to bring it," said the woman, "the little tree at the end of the counter where the two children are standing."

But the stall man had heard already. "The tree, madam," he said coming out with it in his arms from the doorway to the stall, "certainly and a fine little tree it is, one shilling ma'am, if you please."

The young fellow in the trap handed a shilling to the stallman reached over from the trap and took the tree.

"They're taking our tree," she said

The woman in the trap had heard. She looked down at the children, and her eyes rested a moment on the little girl.

'Your tree?" she said, "why were you wanting to buy it?"

"We had almost bought it for nine pense; we didn't count to give as much, because of the candles; but we were just going to say we would,' the boy explained. He stared up at them, his face pale, his eyes aghast with sorrow and dismay.

"Poor dears," said the woman "Give them a bit of holly, Bill. They'll feel better if that has a bit of holly." She motioned him towards the great clusters at the back of the stall.

It was the claims of the living against those of the dead, and his face worked. He bent low. "Here," he called to the weeping child, "take your Xmas tree."

She took it from him her sobs dying away.

"Here's the shilling, sir," said the boy.

He shook his head. "Keep it."

He looked aside, caught sight of the lemon chrysanthemum stretching out its pale sweet blooms. "Hilda—" he said.

She looked. Her eye, too, was caught and steadied.

"Yes," she said slowly, "let us buy it for her. It is fresh and sweet and fair." She was thinking of the child she had lost. She bent her head. "It has nothing to do with death," she said.

IN THE SCIENTIFIC WORLD

MORE THAN FRUIT AND WINE

Contrary to Popular Belief, Portugal is one of the World's Highly Mineralised Countries.

In the popular mind Portugal is generally associated with wine and fruit as its only industries and products, yet there are several important mining concerns which add materially to the wealth of the country. For its size it is one of the most highly mineralised countries in the world; but while in the time of the Romans it was the scene of much mining and metallurgical activity, in these days its resources are not developed to the extent that they should be.

The great belt of copper-bearing iron pyrites which springs from the Sierra Morena in Spain passes through Algarve and Estremadura in Portugal, and is lost in the sea near Lisbon. All through its course it is associated with manganese. These are the only minerals south of the Tagus. The Spanish end of the belt is much wider than the part which passes into Portugal, and is worked by many large companies, the most important being the Rio Tinto and the Tharsis mines. The former is the largest mine of any kind in the world. On the Portuguese side the largest mine is the San Domingos, in the extreme south; farther north the Aljustrel mines, and nearer Lisbon the Mina da Coveira. Besides these there are several others of less importance. This is the copper district of the country.

In one of the Portuguese mines where the gossan attains a thickness of one hundred and thirty feet it is treated with marked success for the small quantity of gold and silver which it contains.

It is a noteworthy fact that no mine of any importance in either Spain or Portugal has been discovered that has not been worked by the Romans during their occupation of these countries. Wherever mineral outcrops appear the Roman workings are to be found, and in many cases heaps of slag amounting to many thousands of tons.

The Cry of the "Devil-Bird."

Of all the awe-inspiring sounds emited by wild creatures none is to be compared to that of the "devil-bird" of Ceylon, whose cry has been likened to the scream of a human being undergoing the most frightful torture. Naturalists have identified this bird with the brown wood-owl found in Hindustan. The "devil-bird," or ulama, as the Cingalese call it, is an elusive creature. The natives of Ceylon regard the cry of this bird with superstitious horror, for, it is claimed, its scream heard at night presages the most dire misfortunes. An official of the Ceylon civil service has given some study to this curious bird. Its ordinary note, he states, is a magnificent clear shout like that of a human being, heard at a great distance, and producing a fine effect in the silence of the night. But the sounds that have earned for the bird its bad name, and which this officer reports he heard to perfection but once, are said to be well-nigh indescribable, the most appalling that can be imagined, and scarcely to be heard without a shudder. It has been compared to the cries of a boy in torture, whose screams are being stopped by strangulation.

Stronger than Dynamite

The recent death of the inventor of the Japanese explosive, shimose powder, which played such an important part in the Russian war, adds interest to the announcement made by R. F. B. Wright, a former professor of chemistry at Harvard, that he has discovered a new explosive that is almost safe to handle and three times as powerful as dynamite. Of course the ingredients are being kept a secret. It is said that the new explosive will not damage anything unless fired in an airtight chamber. A bag of it has been dropped from a six-story window of the sidewalk, grains of it have been pounded on an anvil, and a rapid-fire gun has been shot into a mass of it, all with no explosion following. Mr. Wright claims that it will stand 275 degrees of heat without igniting and so the danger of spontaneous combustion is obviated. It will not freeze, and it can be used 15 minutes after being compounded. Dynamite must be stored 90 days before it can be used.

Why Your Fingers Crack.

Dr. Howard Marsh tells in a recent paper that the "snap," which is often both felt and heard when a joint that has long been stiff or at rest is suddenly moved, is a phenomenon to which bonesetters point as a plain demonstration that a bone was out and has been put in. These snaps, however, are not produced by the concussion of two joint surfaces as they come suddenly into contact but, on the contrary, are due to the sudden separation of two surfaces which have been stuck together by a too viscid and tenacious synovial fluid (the synovial fluid is of the consistency of white of egg, and is Nature's lubricator of our joints, in the cavities of which it is present). Many persons can make all their fingers crack by steadily pulling at them till the joint surfaces suddenly separate.

The Ivory Supply.

In view of the rapid disappearance of the herds of elephants which formerly roamed in Africa, and the limited number of those animals remaining in Asia, attention has been called to the enormous supply of ivory which exists in the frozen tundras of Siberia, and which, it is thought, will probably suffice for the world's consumption for many years to come. This ivory consists of the tusks of the extinct species of elephant called mammoths. The tusks of these animals were of great size, and are wonderfully abundant at some places in Siberia.

NE TEMERE IS DISCUSSED

marriages, is much worse than divorce, which can in Canada only be granted for the cause of adultery. If this woman sinned against her church by her act, one would have thought that the fatherly heart of the archbishop would have persuaded her to permit him to validate the marriage according to the laws of his church and not to cast her away as a "vile woman." No one neither questions the right of any church to make laws to govern its members, nor its right to discipline them when they violate these laws, but the extreme penalty which any church can exercise is to excommunicate the offender. No church or society can be permitted to annul marriages.

The Roman Catholic has not special privilege by our constitution in Canada. Provincial legislation may have granted such, but not the constitution. Most earnestly would I appeal to his grace, and to all citizens who believe in the sacredness of marriage, not to force upon us in Canada, purely civil marriages, as in the case in Italy. We want equal rights for all in this Dominion; and it is the right of any citizen to say what office shall officiate at his wedding, and, when one who is authorized by the state does it, then the state must uphold the act of the officer who acted under its license. No one can be permitted to touch the civil status of such persons, or their offspring.

"The church may refuse them communion, that is her right, but she must not say that the marriage, for ecclesiastic offences, is invalid. Nor must anyone impugn such marriages legally contracted. The state dare not permit any church to do so; if it does, then it undermines the stability of the state and the church."

CANADIAN WOMEN AND THEIR WORK

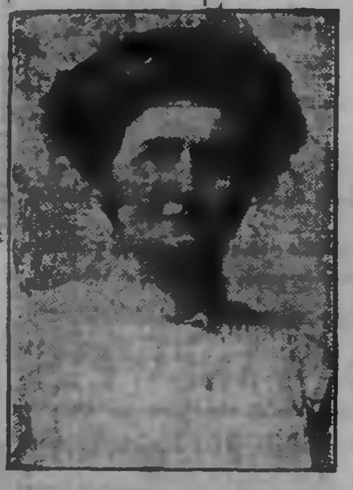
By Marjory MacMurchy

(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.)

WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUBS

The first Women's Canadian Club was formed in 1907. One would not like to venture the statement that if men's Canadian Clubs had not existed it is improbable that a women's Canadian Club would ever have been added to the history of Canada. The fact is, however, that men's Canadian Clubs were formed first. The first city in Canada to possess a Women's Canadian Club was Montreal. The Women's Canadian Club of Winnipeg was inaugurated in the same year. Toronto followed suit with its Women's Canadian Club in 1908. Since then, many Canadian Clubs for women have been organized in Canada. The growth of the idea has been wonderful. On the whole, the Canadian Club for women has kept pace very fairly with the Canadian Club for men, taking into consideration the fact that the movement began as a men's club.

The great majority of Canadians, both men and women, delight to listen to distinguished visitors. They want to know what is going on in the world, outside of Canada, as well as in Canada. They want to see how the distinguished visitor looks. They wish to hear them speak for themselves. The Canadian feels better pleased all the rest of his days when John Morley makes a speech in the House of Lords and Bryce visits Ottawa and Kipling writes a new poem because he can say to himself, "I heard him speak." "I know what kind of a chap he is". There is nothing like having seen and heard a distinguished visitor for one's self when it comes to the understanding later of the great affairs of the world. The Canadian Club idea has enabled thousands of Canadians to listen to Morley, Bryce, Kipling, Beresford and Milner in place of the half dozen who would have heard them speak conversationally if there had been no Canadian Clubs.



Miss MARJORY MACMURCHY

While the men were able to partake of this feast of reason and flow of soul, the women of Canada had to stay at home, because they had no Canadian Clubs. They did not like being denied the privilege of listening to the distinguished visitor and of seeing him for themselves. So women in the different cities began to form Canadian Clubs. Undoubtedly, an intelligent interest in affairs of the day, as well as a keen interest in interesting people, is a strong impulse behind the Women's Canadian Club. One other predominant motive which spurs on the growth of the Canadian Club is nationality.

It is impossible to keep account of every Women's Canadian Club which has been formed since 1907. They are being formed very rapidly and they are independent organizations which find it easy to stand alone. The Association of Canadian Clubs is a federation which includes both men's clubs and women's clubs. There are at least twelve Women's Canadian Clubs in Canada. The list includes Berlin, Fort William, London, North Bay, Montreal, Ottawa, Quebec, St John, Toronto, Vancouver, Victoria and Winnipeg.

Mrs. MARCUS W. BRIDGMAN,
First President Women's C. Club
Fort William, Ont.

Women's Canadian Clubs differ widely in some respects. But they all have a large membership. Montreal, which is the oldest Women's Canadian Club, is the only one, as far as the present writer knows, which keeps to the idea of the men's club and has a speaker address them at a luncheon. The officers of the Montreal Women's Canadian Club for this year are President, Mrs. R. Wilson Reford; Vice Presidents, Madam Arthur Boyer and Miss Hurlbatt; Treasurer, Mrs. G. H. Duggan; Secretary, Mrs. Graham Drinkwater. The membership is in the neighborhood of five hundred. Considering the fact that the membership fee of the Montreal Women's Canadian Club is four dollars, this membership is extraordinarily large. The constitution, says that "the purpose of this Club is to foster patriotism and to encourage a deeper and more serious interest amongst women in the institutions, history and resources of Canada, as well as to bring before them leading questions of the day both at home and abroad, and to endeavor to unite Canadian women in such work as may be within their powers for the welfare and progress of the Dominion."

"A further object is to give women opportunities of hearing orators and men of eminence speak on these various subjects. It has, therefore, been resolved to invite speakers who will bring inspiration and instruction to address the members of the Club five times during the season, which shall be from October till April. Before each address there will be a simple and informal luncheon."

These two paragraphs contain an accurate statement of why Canadian women want Canadian Clubs. As far as one can tell, the same reasons influenced men when they first formed Canadian Clubs. The Canadian Club movement has shewn unmistakably that the men and women of Canada care for the same things and care very much in the same way. There is much comradeship between men and women in Canada. It is true that the men have their own Canadian Clubs and the women have theirs. But the separate Clubs exist for the same reasons, and they work together in the same federation, The Association of Canadian Clubs. In Toronto this spring the men's Canadian Club invited the women's Canadian Club to a joint meeting which took place at a dinner where there was a large attendance of men and women. The two speakers were women: Mrs. Sanford Evans of the Women's Canadian Club of Winnipeg, and Miss Hurlbatt of the Women's Canadian Club of Montreal.

There was some doubt at first as to the possible success of Women's Canadian Clubs in obtaining distinguished speakers. For the season of 1909-10, the Montreal Women's Canadian Club was addressed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier on "British and American Constitutions, a Comparison"; by Mr. Lionel Curtis on "The Union in South Africa"; by Mr. E. T. Hartman on "Civic Improvement and Citizenship"; by Miss Agnes Laut on "The Conservation of Natural Resources"; by Mr. Arthur Lionel Smith on "History and Citizenship"; and by Mr. G. W. Prothero on "Cavour". The Women's Canadian Club of London was the first Canadian Club to secure the Hon. Mr. Bryce to address their membership; and, rejoicing in their good fortune, they invited the men's Canadian Club of London to join them. Sir Charles Beresford addressed the Women's Canadian Club of Toronto and in his address said that the women of Canada must have been the paramount influence in shaping the national character which he found in Canada.

The statistics of Women's Canadian Clubs show the popularity of the movement with Canadian women. The Women's Canadian Club of Berlin and Waterloo was formed last year. It began with a membership of 117 and has now 133 members. The officers are: President, Mrs. R. Wood; Vice Presidents, Mrs. C. T. Noecker and Miss H. Martin; Secretary, Miss Dunham; Treasurer, Miss A. G. Moyer. Fort William's Women's Canadian Club has a membership of 154. The officers are: President, Mrs. Peter McKellar; Vice Presidents, Mrs. W. A. Dowler and Mrs. D. McK. Mitchell; Secretary, Mrs. A. F. Crow; Treasurer, Mrs. John King; Literary Correspondent, Miss C. C. Grant. The Women's Canadian Club of London was formed in 1910 with a membership of 100. This year it has 220. The officers in London are: President Lady Gibbons; Vice Presidents, Mrs. Talbot Macbeth, Mrs. Hume Cronyn, Mrs. Thos. Coffee, and Mrs. Donald McLean; Secretaries, Mrs. C. W. Belton and Miss Mary Campbell; Treasurer, Mrs. John Stevely; Press Correspondent, Mrs. A. T. Edwards. The women of St. John formed a Canadian Club in 1908 with a membership of 150. This year the membership is 328. The officers of the St. John's Women's Canadian Club are: President, Mrs. E. A. Smith; Vice Presidents, Mrs. R. Thomson, Mrs. G. W. Jones, Mrs. A. R. Melrose; Secretary, Mrs. G. M. Campbell; Treasurer, Miss Travers. The officers for this year of the Women's Canadian Club of Toronto are: President, Miss Constance Boulton; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. George Dickson, and Dr. Helen MacMurchy; Secretary, Mrs. J. B. Tyrrell; Treasurer, Mrs. Allan Ramsay. The Toronto Women's Canadian Club was formed in 1908 with a membership of about 600. The officers of the Winnipeg Women's Canadian Club for 1911 are: President, Miss E. L. Jones; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Matheson, Mrs. A. W. Ross, Mrs. G. B. Stude, and Mrs. Brydone Jack; Secretary, Mrs. Francis Graham; Treasurer, Miss Harriett Strang; Literary Correspondent, Mrs. R. C. Osborne. This Club which was formed in 1907 began with a membership of 555 and has now 595 members. These are representative Women's Canadian Clubs and representative statistics. Anyone who is familiar with Canadian cities will recognize how well-known throughout Canada are the names of the ladies associated with the Canadian Clubs.

It has been pointed out that the Women's Canadian Club of Montreal is the only one of the women's clubs which has followed the practice of the men's clubs in having an address preceded by a luncheon. The simple fare of the men's clubs, satirised by the local press, becomes afternoon tea in some of the women's clubs. But as a rule the members of the women's clubs come to listen to the distinguished visitor and not for material refreshment. It can be readily understood that there is sometimes a dearth of distinguished visitors. Then the Women's Canadian Club is more inclined than is the case with the men's organization to undertake some work which will constitute a bond amongst the membership. The mens' club is satisfied not to meet for a couple of months. The women feel that they may have no Canadian Club left unless they take active measures to keep it alive. Then, too, Canadian women like to be doing something. Like Maggie in Barrie's play, they stick close to their knitting, although it may not be the knitting of stockings. The Winnipeg Women's Canadian Club is working at present to secure from the Dominion Government an expansion of the Homestead Act to include in its benefits all women of British birth who have attained the age limit of twenty-one years. It seems that women have the privilege of homesteading in the United States, and the Women's Canadian Club of Winnipeg sees good reason why British women should have it in Canada. Petitions to this end are now in circulation. In St John the Women's Canadian Club carries on educational work. They celebrate May 18 which is Loyalist Day. In London the Women's Canadian Club gives prizes for essays written by school children on patriotic subjects. Inspired by one of the addresses delivered before it, this Club means to promote sanitation in its own city. The Women's Canadian Club of Fort William is familiarizing its members with the lives of a number of Canadian heroes and heroines. One Women's Canadian Club has announced its intention of taking an interest in the election of the local school board for the present year.

MISS HURLBATT,
Vice-President Canadian Women's Club, Montreal

Judging by numbers and enthusiasm, the Women's Canadian Clubs are successful. There is possibly a tendency for their membership to be confined, as in the case with Canadian Clubs formed by men, to the well-to-do citizenship. It is in any case a strongly marked national aspiration which has created the Canadian Club both among men and women. How much might be done by the women of the Canadian Clubs to come into closer sympathy with their women fellow citizens in patriotism and citizenship is indicated by the fact that what is virtually a second Women's Canadian Club with a large membership is already in existence in Toronto. The organizations of the Business Women's Club in Toronto is likely to be followed in other cities. The impulse prompting these business women to form a society is closely akin to that which prompted the formation of the Women's Canadian Club. It is a national opportunity for the women of Canada to work in closer understanding and sympathy.

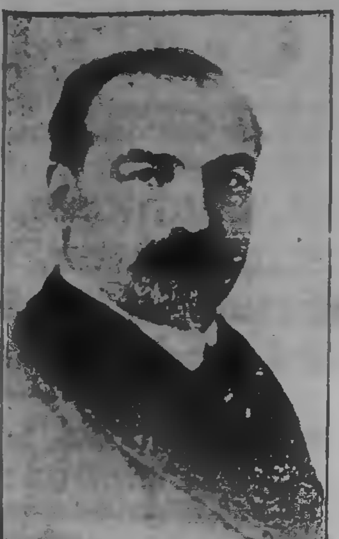
WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

SIR DONALD MANN

The world respects a self-made man. It still more honours and venerates a generous one of this type, one who uses his dollars not alone for selfish accumulative purposes but expends them for the betterment of his country and its people. In the end he shares more largely in the prosperity he has created than anyone else. Sir Donald Mann is Canada's foremost example of such a man. His upward career has been meteoric and reads like fiction. He has had a life full of adventure. His activities had their origins in places where a man was what he was and where no weakling could prosper. It was an indomitable energy and a fixedness of purpose which brought Sir Donald Mann to the top of the ladder. His early training moulded the character of the future Railway King. The place of his birth, Acton, Ont., was but a small village. His boyhood days made the man, who has done things. He soon found farming did not offer enough scope to his latent abilities and transferred his energies to the lumber business. A man of his stamp could not be a failure. At the age of 21, the then plain Donald Mann had already risen to the position of foreman.



SIR DONALD MANN,

The West was at this time making its appeal for men of the right sort. Its lure seized Sir Donald and in 1879 he went to Winnipeg. This made him. By 1880 he was a contractor building portions of the C. P. R. contracts between Whitemouth, east of Winnipeg and the Selkirk Mountains, which occupied him till 1885. It was shortly after this date that the famous partnership of Mackenzie and Mann was formed. Amongst many other important works this Company built the Calgary and Edmonton, the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake and Saskatchewan Railways, as well as the C. P. short line through Maine. By 1889 the firm had become so eminent and well known that it was offered railway contracts in Panama, Eucador, Peru and Chili as well as in China. Sir Donald Mann after visiting and carefully examining all these places decided to decline all the above projects.

It was then that Sir Donald began his now great railway system. He formed its nucleus by purchasing the charter of the Lake Manitoba Ry and Canal Company. From this has grown The Canadian Northern Railway system embracing upwards of 5,000 miles of line through the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Quebec and Ontario. Today Sir Donald Mann is Vice-President of the Canadian Northern, the Canadian Northern Ontario and the Halifax and Southwestern Railways. All of which have reached their present high standing through his energy and genius.

Sir Donald Mann's work has chiefly consisted in directing construction. In this branch he has achieved an unsurpassed reputation for speed, efficiency and economy. Perhaps even more important has been his success in convincing public opinion that legislative aid to his projects would be for the public benefit. It is through this diplomacy and tact that his great systems have achieved their remarkable success. Canada has and will prosper still more through the efforts of Sir Donald Mann's fertile mind.

A Popular Judge.

In a popularity contest somewhere near the top would be found Mr. Justice Teetzel. He was born "Teetzel," and christened "James V."

"Most of us called him 'Jim' before he was elevated to the high court bench in 1903," recalls one barrister, "and, between you and me, he hasn't changed much since his promotion. His exalted position has failed to rob him of his individuality."

He was born on March 6, 1853, educated at Woodstock College, Galt, and Toronto, and was called to the Bar in 1877. Made a Q.C. in 1889, he was elected a bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada in 1891, 1896, and 1901. He was made Doctor of Law by McMaster University in 1907.

His Lordship belonged to Hamilton before the high court plucked him away from mountain and mountaineers. He was mayor of the Ambitious Centre in 1899 and 1890, and in the latter year he contested a Federal seat there in the Liberal interest.

Mr. Justice Teetzel plays golf and rides a horse. He is a member of the Toronto Club, the Hamilton Club, and the Toronto Golf Club.

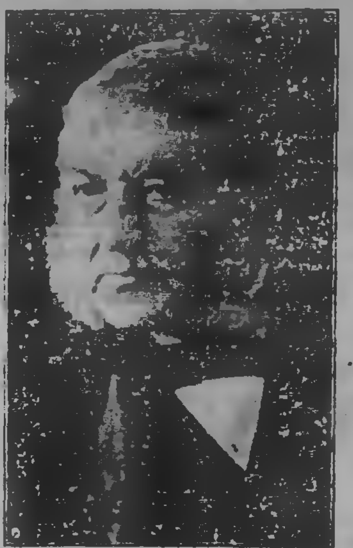
There comes a time in a woman's life when all her pet theories fall flat and useless and when every idol she has worshipped is demolished.

CANADA'S SONS

CANADA'S GRAND OLD MAN

It takes a big man to command interest from the whole nation fifteen years after retiring from active political life. That is Sir Charles Tupper's record. Although he now spends most of his time in England, no one follows the trend of political affairs in Canada with a keener eye. At ninety years of age his occasional contributions to the press show the same fire which enlivened politics in the early nineties. "Age cannot dim," as one man lately discovered when the doughty Knight corrected the Finance Minister's memory on several points.

Recently an event of special interest took place in London when a tablet was unveiled to commemorate where the articles of Confederation were drawn up. It was Sir Charles Tupper's day. The gallant old man with his unabated willingness to take any adversary spoke vigorously, and well. He is the last survivor of the Fifteen of Confederation. It was a great thing to see him standing there and to hear him speak. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's tribute addressed to him of "Well done, good and faithful servant" was hailed as one of the Canadian Premier's happy inspirations. He had said the right thing at the right time.

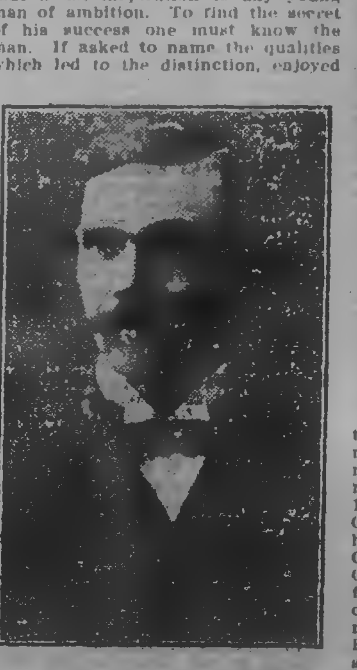


SIR CHAS. TUPPER, Bart.

HON. WALTER SCOTT.

Walter Scott, printer's devil, compositor, publisher, politician and premier of his province. It is not an exceptional story for Canada offers to every youth the opportunity to ascend. Mr. Scott, who was recently elected for a second term to the highest office in the gift of the people of Saskatchewan, can review a career that is an inspiration to any young man of ambition. To find the secret of his success one must know the man. If asked to name the qualities which led to the distinction, enjoyed so early in life, his friends would say that courage and stick-to-itiveness combined with an affable disposition were the predominant characteristics. It is not every boy who serves as an apprentice at a trade who has the determination to soar beyond the calling he had selected for life. No one would have dreamed that back in the early days of Regina, when it was a small town, its only claim to note being the headquarters of the Territorial Government, that the boy sweeping the office, pulling proofs and doing other chores in connection with a country weekly, would reach the honor of being the chief advisor of His Majesty in one of the principal provinces of this great common wealth. In political warfare Mr. Scott is a hard hitter. He wouldn't thrive in the West unless he were. He never strikes below the belt but when it is necessary to make a charge he does it without resort to suggestion, or surmise. When Walter Scott says anything unpleasant it's generally uncomfortably definite. As a speaker, he cannot be classed as an orator. He is not prosaic, however, and is pleasing to listen to. He has a free, easy, conversational style and holds his audience without difficulty. He is not a man to trifle with as many an interrupter has learned to his chagrin.

Walter Scott was born in Ontario in 1867.



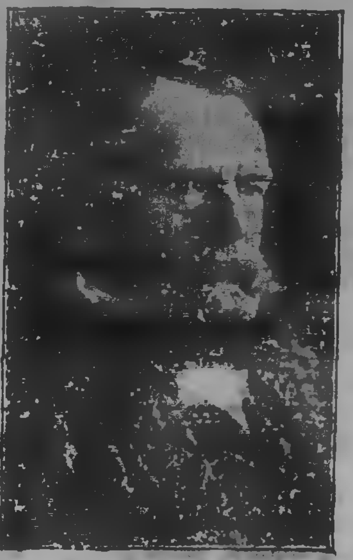
HON. WILLIAM SCOTT
Premier of Saskatchewan.

It's as hard for a girl to keep a secret as it is for her to keep her cloak buttoned over a new gown.

WHO'S WHO IN CANADA

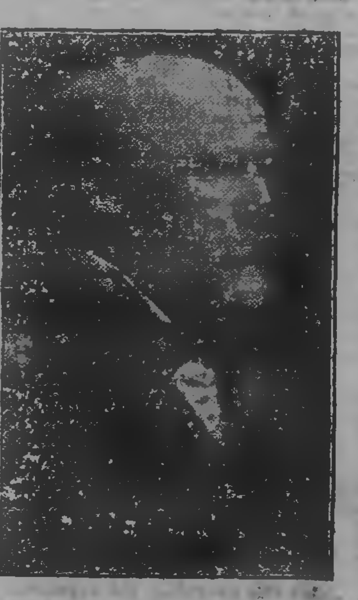
GREAT RAILWAY MAGNATES

The men who have been instrumental in building the great railways of Canada which stretch from ocean to ocean across a continent, uniting the people of a large country, have performed a work which cannot be overestimated. First among these is Baron Mount Stephen, G.C.V.O., D.L. He was born in Scotland in 1829, and twenty years later came to settle in Canada. He was for some years connected with the Bank of Montreal, and later became President of the St. Paul, Minn., and Manitoba Railway. His chief work was in connection with the C. P. R., and it was largely through his efforts that this railway was built. It was for his services in this connection that he was created Baronet in 1886, and Baron in 1891. His generous donation towards founding the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, is well known.



LORD MOUNT STEPHEN

Sir William Cornelius Van Horne was given the title of K.C.M.G., in 1894. He was born and educated in the United States. At the age of fourteen he entered the railway office of his native town and steadily worked his way up through the various stages of railway service, until in 1874 he became General Manager of the Southern Minnesota Railway. For many years he filled supervising and managing positions on various railroads of the United States. Then, in 1881, he came to Canada and became General Manager of the C. P. R. Later he was made Vice-President of that Company, and in turn, President and Chairman of the Board of Directors, from which latter position he recently resigned. He has been connected with the C. P. R. since 1882. His thorough knowledge of railroad affairs is evidenced by the fact that he occupies positions of trust with several other railways. He is a Knight of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem.



SIR W. VAN HORNE

SIR ALAN BRISTOL AYLESWORTH

Between Edward Arthur Lancaster and Sir Alan Bristol Aylesworth there is a feud of long standing. Years before the Minister of Justice was tapped on the shoulder and told to "rise Sir Alan," the energetic lawyer from St Catharines was camping on his trail, and the mutual dislike sprang from the somewhat contemptuous treatment which the head of the country's legal department meted out to Mr. Lancaster's efforts to bring the railways to time in respect to the level crossing evil. It was under the circumstances a matter of astonishment to the House when Mr. Lancaster for the first time on record, agreed with the views of Sir Alan on the merits of a certain divorce bill discussed recently. The Minister of Justice had delivered a ponderous argument against granting relief to husband and wife on mere heresay evidence, and after he was through, Mr. Lancaster rose and supported the contentions made by his old time enemy. Hon. Charles Murphy, Secretary of State, who acts as reporter for the Minister of Justice when his desk mate, George Graham, is not there, leaned over and in a stage whisper said:

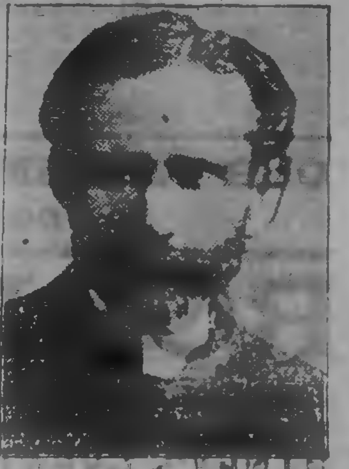
"Lancaster is agreeing with you." Quick as a flash came the return whisper of Sir Alan, loud enough to be heard all over the House, "In that case I must be wrong!"

WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

REV. C. W. GORDON

Rev. Charles William Gordon, B.A., D.D., L.L.D., F.R.S.C., or as he is more widely known, Ralph Connor, was born in the country and it was his early training in the Indian Lands, Glengarry Co., Ont., which we see reproduced in the broad manly atmosphere of Ralph Connor's books. No city bred man would possibly warm the imagination, and make the reader yearn for the broad open country, the home of better things as does he.

The future Ralph Connor received his first smatterings of education at the Public School of Athol, Ont. One imagines however, that it was the careful tuition of his father, the Rev. Daniel Gordon which made him yearn to taste more of the fruit of education, rather than the village school. Still the impressions of his early days have always remained with him and we find them brought vividly before us in some of his masterpieces. After public school he was sent to the High School of St Mary's, Ontario. From there he matriculated into the University of Toronto, graduating with the class of 1883. After taking his Arts course, the future author applied himself to the study of theology at Knox College. In order to obtain a broader and wider outlook on life Ralph Connor crossed the water, and studied at New College, Edinburgh for a year.



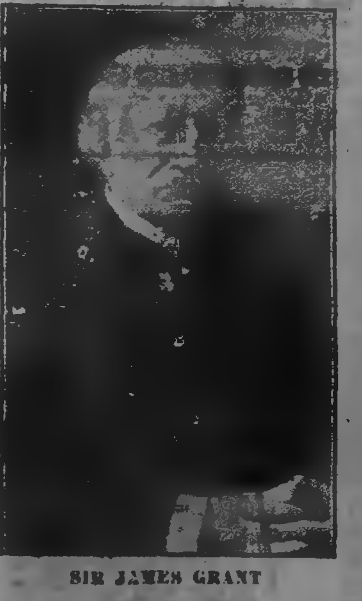
RALPH CONNOR

Before returning to take up his life work in Canada, he made, in company with five friends, a bicycle tour of the continent.

Upon his return to the Dominion he took up his task with grim determination to succeed. The now Rev. Mr. Gordon was sent as a missionary to the Rocky Mountains. He did his work thoroughly and labored for the spiritual good of the region with all his indomitable energy. The Rockies were inhabited by a rough and ready lot, yet the youthful divinity graduate shouldered his task and came out with flying colours.

The impressions he received were indelibly stamped on his mind and they make some of the most thrilling passages in his books. Since 1894 the Rev. Dr. Gordon has been in charge of St. Stephen's Church Winnipeg.

He has labored not alone for the moral betterment of his own congregation, but for the whole West. Dr. Gordon takes a vital interest in the improvement and purification of municipal politics and in the lot of the working man. On this account he was chosen as a member of the Coal Striker's Arbitration Board. Above all Ralph Connor's influence has been felt from Coast to Coast through the medium of such books as the "Man from Glengarry" the Prospector, etc. Canada needs more men of his stamp and more books of the same calibre as his. They have a farther reaching effect towards moral upliftment than any amount of sermons against the prevalent vices.



SIR JAMES GRANT

Sir James Alexander Grant, K.C.M.G., M.D., F.R.S.C., who while in politics introduced the Pacific Railway Bill, is principally distinguished for his medical and scientific work. He has published works on Organic Heart Disease, and numerous essays on various medical and scientific subjects. He was President of the Royal Society of Canada in 1903.

Sir James was born in Inverness, Scotland, in 1831 and received his education at Queen's College, Kingston, Ont., London and Edinburgh. He first entered parliament as member for Co. of Russell in 1863.

Inconsistency goes as far towards making life attractive as its pleasures do towards spoiling it.

WHITNEY'S GREAT RECORD IN ENFORCING THE LIQUOR LAWS

Many Changes Made in Statute to Abolish Abuses—Licenses Reduced in Number and Increased in Price—Law is Strictly Enforced Now

In 1904 there were 2814 liquor licenses in Ontario. In 1910 there were 1847.

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE LICENSE LAW

One of the initial acts of the Government on taking office, was to examine the license law, with a view to determining upon the necessary improvements. The result was the Hanna law of 1906, which has brought about the better conditions referred to in the citations made above.

The first principle laid down in this law is thorough regulation of the business, and the second is rigid enforcement of the requirements that have been decided upon. In order that there may be no mistake about the regulations a uniform system has been adopted, and the inspectors, instead of making their own rules, as formerly, have tok follow the strict plan devised by the central authorities. This gives uniformity and efficiency.

WHY THE LAW IS OBSERVED

While this new principle makes for the observance of the law, the next requirement is even more efficient in that sense.

When the present government took office the law provided that after three convictions for illegal selling, a license holder should forfeit his license.

But the Act was so worded that the offence could be called first offence unless the complaint specifically stated that the offence was a second or a third. As a result the law was a dead letter. It did not force the closing of bars at the prescribed hour, or on Sunday, because the penalty for nonobservance of the law was wanting.

The Hanna law makes the requirement of the Legislature in this matter a reality. Every offence must be prosecuted as a first, or a second, or a third, as the case may be, and upon the third conviction the license is withdrawn. This has been the foundation of the successful enforcement of the law. With this provision before him the license holder knows that his competitor will have to observe the law, and keep closed at the proper times. He also can refuse the importuniteis of customers who want him to break the law, and imperil his business.

A further provision that technicalities shall not upset convictions that are good on their merits adds strength to the enforcement policy.

Finally, the increase of the penalties for infractions of the law to double the former amount makes illegal selling an exceedingly costly operation.

ANOTHER RESTRICTIVE MOOD

Another regulation making for the observance of the law, is the licensing of bartenders in cities and towns. While the licensee is required to do as the law orders, he is not always on hand, and his representative may violate the law. To prevent this the bartender has to take out a license to pursue his occupation, and if he should break the law, his license goes and he can no longer follow that business.

Under this provision, the bartender co-operates in the enforcement of the law. He will not willingly break it himself; nor is the license holder likely to ask him to do so.

HIGHER LICENSE FEES

Still another measure making for the thorough observance of the law is the increase in the license fees. These were enlarged, half going to the municipality, and half to the province, partly for revenue purposes, and partly to enable the public to share in the largely increased value of the license franchise.

But the effect of the increase was to make it more important to the license holder that he should observe the law, and thus save the right to sell for which he has paid, and which under the strict enforcement of the law, would be taken from him after a third offence.

Still another reform is that which prohibits "tied houses," or the owning of houses by the maker of liquor through the agent. The general opinion is that when the manufacturer of liquor owns the house, the agent is more interested in selling liquor than in keeping hotel. It is the policy to insist that the license holder shall be a hotelkeeper. Therefore, the tied house disappears.

One more reform is that which prohibits the adulteration of liquors. Adulteration encourages the taste for liquor, and the requirement that liquor shall not be thus treated makes for sobriety.

Another reform is the abolition of the special census as a basis for issuing licenses. When somebody wanted to get a license in any particular locality a census could be taken to determine whether the population warranted a new license. This is stopped now. The assessors' enumeration rules in the future.

An additional reform making for a good observance of the law is a provision which enables the Minister to cancel licenses in judicial districts for disregard of the law, for the keeping of uncleanly and unsanitary premises and for the harboring of drunken or disreputable persons.

PROTECTING THE CHILDREN

Though it was the law, and had long been the law, that intoxicating liquor could not be sold to children, the License Act, when the present government came in office, allowed liquor to be sold to any child who produced a written order from its parents or guardians for a supply of liquor. Thus a dissolute parent was permitted to suspend the general law of the Province of his own whim to the degradation of his own child. The Government proposed and the Legislature enacted that on no conditions whatever should liquor be sold to children in Ontario.

Though it had been the law that children could not enter a bar and buy liquor without a written order, it was lawful until 1906 for a child to stand behind a bar and sell liquor. The government removed this provision from the statute book.

PROTECTING THE TRAVELLER

In spite of the prohibition covering the case, liquor has been sold on vessels without license. The task of stopping the practice has been found difficult. The Government has overcome that point by providing in the new law that for the illegal sale of liquor on board a vessel, the owner, master, captain or other person in command shall be held liable.

Under the act respecting steam, electric and street railways the interests of the passengers by land are protected. It is there set forth the liquor shall not be sold to railway operators while on duty or in uniform.

The same act imposes a penalty of $200 upon any person who, being in charge of a locomotive, or of an electric motor, or who, being a conductor on a train or a street car, is intoxicated while on duty.

5,000 LOOPHOLES CLOSED

Under the old law any justice of the peace might give an order for liquor, which could be filled at times when it was otherwise illegal to sell. These loopholes have stopped and 5,000 justices of the peace have relieved of the responsibility thus imposed upon them.

Under the old law a medical certificate ordering liquor could be used time and time again. Now it does for once only.

Under the old law vendors of liquor could canvass for orders in local option municipalities, thus nullifying the law. Now the canvassing for orders in local option districts is prohibited.

OTHER IMPORTANT REFORMS

A very important reform is that which declares what proportion of proof spirits in liquor shall be deemed to bring the liquor under the definition "intoxicating." In the past there has been difficulty in prosecuting cases of unlawful sale because it has been contended that the liquor was not of the intoxicating quality. The law now says that liquor containing 2 1-2 per cent. of proof spirits shall be regarded as intoxicating; and now it is only necessary to test the liquor in order to determine whether or not its sale is a violation of the statute.

A further reform is that which makes effectual the regulations forbidding the holders of licenses taking office as municipal councillors or municipal councillors becoming license holders. This prohibition has been on the statute books for years, but it has been evaded, the persons in question taking out licenses in the name of some other member of the family. The Act of 1906 meets this situation by prohibiting the issue of a license of a license to any man in the name of his wife, his partner or agent, or his son or daughter, if resident with the father.

REFORMS SINCE 1908

While the reforms carried through during the first parliament under Sir James Whitney were very important, the government did not rest content with what it had done; but, on the contrary, made advances with a view to further safeguarding the public interest. Thus, much valuable legislation has been enacted during the second legislative term of the present government.

Some of the more recent reforms are worthy of consideration.

One that has abolished an abuse of long standing is that regulating sales of liquor in drug stores. Formerly there was no limit to the quantity of liquor a drug store might sell under a medical requisition. Now no more than six ounces can be sold in response to a requisition from a doctor. This provision, viewed in the light of the requirement that no medical requisition shall be good a second time, becomes an efficient bar against free selling.

Another provision prohibiting the sale of liquors in hotels on Christmas day is a good one because it makes excessive drinking on that holiday impossible.

LICENSE REDUCTION AND SUPERVISION

The Act of 1911 deals with the question of license reduction in cities. Hitherto the municipal council has had the right to agree or to refuse to submit a by-law to the people on the question of license reduction. Now, under the statute of 1911, where ten per cent, of the municipal electors petition the council to submit a by-law to provide for a reduction of tavern and shop licenses the council is bound to act.

Under the same Act the Minister has been given power to veto the issue of a license to any hotel in the province. Although this power is not intended to interfere generally with the action of the local boards and is not so used, it has the tendency to make the local boards more careful as to the character of the person and the house to which they grant licenses and enables the Minister to prohibit the issue of a license where in his opinion the commissioners have granted licenses which are not in the public interest.

A very important move, appreciated by the travelling public, is the appointment of a special provincial inspector to look into the class of accommodation provided by the hotels for travellers. The result has been a great improvement in the bed-room and dining-room accommodation for the public.

A NEW TAX ON LIQUOR SALES

By the Act of 1911 a new tax was placed upon hotel keepers by the charge of 5 per cent on all sales in the bars in excess of $50 per day, except in the city of Toronto, where the exemption is $60 per day. By this arrangement the duties to be paid by the hotel-keepers will be in proportion to the bar trade done. So that a hotel doing a large bar business will pay a higher license duty than the one doing a small bar trade. This additional duty will increase the revenue of the province by one-quarter of a million dollars.

PLEDGES REDEEMED

The law as amended, and its enforcement, fulfil Sir James Whitney's pledge made on the floor of the Legislature on March 2, 1902:

"I will maintain intact and allow no relaxation of the restrictions on the sale of liquor. I will enforce the license law honestly, and with the whole power of the government."

It also bears out the promise made in the Legislature on March 31, 1905:

"The License Act, irrespective of whether the liquor or temperance people will be pleased or not, will be enforced. We expect to find defects in the law, but we will remedy these defects to the best of our abilities, and whatever law the people place on the statute books will be enforced, and we will not for a moment allow ourselves to be dragooned in any way."

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Q. What is Astigmatism of the eye?

A. Astigmatism is an uneven curvature of the eye and causes double focus. As the eye always strives for clear vision this double focus annoys the brain and causes headache and nervousness. We make lenses called cylinders to correct astigmatism.

Q. What causes double vision?

A. Double vision is caused by the eyes not being in line, that is, one may turn up or have a tendency to do so, or both may turn in; a weak muscular system is back of it all.

THE OPTICAL INSTITUTE Market Building Peterborough

WHAT THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC MEANS TO PETERBOROUGH:

Mr. Strachan Johnston of Toronto, the lawyer who represented the Electric Power Co. interests at the Cochrane interview in Ottawa, acknowledged that the Otonabee Power Co. was controlled by the Electric Power Company interests.

Peterborough is at present completely in the hands of one big ring, which has spent $4,000,000 entrenching itself in this district. Peterborough is at the mercy of this big corporation, except where the franchises limit the rates to be charged.

Now that the Laurier government is gone, and George P. Graham's method of handing to political favorites, power concessions, the Whitney government has a chance to introduce its hydro-electric power scheme to the Trent Valley. Sir James Whitney, a man of determination and of his word, says he will do it. He could not venture during the past six years because the Dominion government stepped in and refused to acknowledge provincial rights to the waters.

R. R. Hall is in the $4,000,000 power corporation ring. E. A. Peck stands as the advocate of the Whitney policy of power for the people at cost—not at a big profit. It is not a question of how much power or lighting is in use in Peterborough—nature has been generous to us—nor a question of whether the present rates are not exorbitant. It is a question of whether, with the great natural advantages in power to be derived from the Trent canal system, we should be so tied up that we are dependent on the good-nature and good will of the corporation which has a monopoly of the power situation.

The introduction of hydro-electric power in Toronto made a saving to the people of 30 per cent. in their lighting bills. The private monopoly had to come off its perch, and equal the hydro-electric prices. Would the people of Peterborough deliberately deliver a knock out blow to the Whitney hydro-electric power scheme—which will probably bring power to Peterborough at cost—by electing a member of the $4,000,000 power ring? Power to the people as low as the charges can be made is the policy of the hydro-electric. Peterborough should have power competition. Give Whitney the opportunity to get every help in accomplishing his purpose; to give Peterborough in power matters

EUROPEAN POWERS MUST NOT IGNORE BRITAIN IN DEALINGS

Sir Edward Grey Shows How the Diplomatic Game Worked This Summer With Germany.

London, Nov. 28.—Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in a quiet and unassuming manner, the manner which belongs to the British Parliament, but with intense impressiveness, laid bare in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon the part Great Britain played in the negotiations in Morocco, which brought Europe very close to war last summer. At the outset he referred to the disclosure by the German Foreign Minister, Herr Von Kiderlin-Waechter, of the conversations which had taken place between the German Ambassador and himself. This disclosure, he said, was not complete and he was under the necessity of putting more fully before the House of Commons the part taken by the British Foreign Office.

The Secretary's lucid exposition of the negotiations and the firmness he was able to show during the trying weeks, won for him the support of the House with the exception of a few radicals or "peace at any price" members. His announcement that if a British Minister could not say what Lloyd-George said in his much discussed speech, Great Britain would cease to be a great power, brought forth a great cheer, as did also his pronouncements that the Cabinet would at all times protect British interests.

In their lobbies, after the speech, confidence was expressed in Sir Edward's conduct of affairs during the crisis, and satisfaction that the Government is working for better relations with Germany. It is believed that the speech will have a reassuring effect in Germany.

The Prime Minister, during the course of his reply to criticisms that the Government had acted with too much secrecy, protested that the House had never had greater opportunities to discuss international relations than at the present time. He declared that in the interest of the peace of the world the Government's policy would continue.

The House of Commons was crowded when Sir Edward Grey arose. Many distinguished strangers were in the galleries, among them a number of foreign diplomats.

At the outset Sir Edward told the House that Herr Von Kiderlin-Waechter's disclosure of the conversations which had taken place between the German Ambassador and himself had taken him by surprise. In diplomatic procedure it was most unusual to make public any such conversations without consulting the other party.

He did not make any complaint, however, as he understood that the exigencies of the situation in Germany precluded any such consultation. Sir Edward then recited the story of the negotiations and how he had firmly declined to be left out of the matter.

The German Ambassador failing to reply to these representations, the English Government decided the English public might be misled by silence, and Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George made his famous Mansion House speech, in which it was plainly expressed England's determination to protect its interests against any other power in the world, Germany being obviously referred to as the one he meant.

The Mansion House speech, Sir Edward pointed out, was not meant as a threat, but as a dignified assertion of British rights. The German Ambassador complained of it, however, but voiced his complaint in such a tone that the English Foreign Office thought it undignified to notice it.

In his reference to Lloyd-George's speech, Sir Edward said:

"Its purpose was that where British interests are affected we must not be

WHY DO YOU WAIT, BROTHER ?

The Deep Sea Mission Needs Money—Sends Yours into a Newspaper Office To-day for Acknowledgement

The well known author, Norman Duncan, writes this in his "Dr. Grenfell's Parish:"

Dr Wilfrid T. Grenfell is the young Englishman who, for the love of God practises medicine on the Coast of Newfoundland and Labrador. His professional round, quite out of the common, is two thousand miles off bitterly inhospitable coast, the Labrador and North Newfoundland Coast. The folk are for the most part isolated and desperately wretched, the shore fishermen of the remoted Newfoundland coasts, the Labrador "liveyeres," the Indians of the forbidding interior, the Esquimaux of the far north. It is such as these that the man gives devoted and heroic service—not for gain; there is no gain to be got in these impoverished places; merely for the love of God.

All the time in storm and sunshine, summer and winter weather, Grenfell of the Deep Sea Mission goes about doing good. If it's not in a boat, it's in dog sled. He is what he likes to call "a Christian man." But he is also a hero—at once the bravest and most beneficiently useful man I know. If he regrets his isolation, if the hardships of life sometimes oppress him, no man knows it. He does much, but there is much more to do. If the good people of the world would give a little more of what they have so abundantly—and if they could but know the need, they would surely do that—joy might be multiplied on that coast; nor would any man be wronged by misguided charity.

"What a man does for the love of God," the doctor once said, "he does differently."

W. M. GERMAN CRITICIZES THE INCLUSION OF HON. W. T. WHITE

Reciprocity Bolter Back Into the Fold—Assails Deputy Speaker Blondin for Remarks.

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—"We want none of that in Canada. The man who will stand up and say that the air of liberty could not be breathed in Canada except through holes shot in the British flag, should not stand on any platform in Canada. Such a man should not have a seat, not only in the Government of Canada, but in the Parliament of Canada."

In these words William German (Welland), the man who could not vote for reciprocity, but who to-day declares himself to the end of his days a Liberal, denounced the Nationalist element in the Borden Government, and particularly P. E. Blondin (Champlain), the Government's choice for Deputy Speaker, to whom the words referred to were ascribed.

J. H. Rainville (Chambly and Vercheres) is a Nationalist, and he talked straight Nationalism in the language of the majority of the opponents of naval expenditure. Our only possible enemy, he said, was the United States. It was not the organization of a navy, but the better organization of the militia, which would serve best the interests of Canada.

E. B. Devlin (Wright) regretted that there was no assurance in the speech from the throne on the immediate construction of the Georgian Bay Canal. Labor was also neglected. He enquired whether the Postmaster-General, equally with his Nationalist colleagues, was opposed to the only naval policy before the country at the present day (the Laurier navy).

Hon. L. P. Pelletier: "Yes, I am dead against it."

Mr. Devlin: "Have you any substitute?"

Hon. L. P. Pelletier: "Yes, I have. Wait and see."

W. B. Northrup (E. Hastings) called uopn the House to stop talking irrelevantly and get down to the despatch of business. The Opposition had said nothing against the points in the speech from the throne. The amendment even did not find fault with any policy omitted from the speech, but introduced an entirely different matter. It was an insult to the intelligence of the members.

W. M. German (Welland), the anti-reciprocity Liberal who won his seat by acclamation, declared that he had always been a Liberal and always intended to remain a Liberal. "I think," he said, "I have already as many bad habits as I should have without adding to them by joining the Conservative party."

Mr. German criticized Hon. W. T. White's change of political faith. He did not think it was altogether free. Messrs. Walker, Lash, etc., members of "the noble eighteen," had dictated to Borden who should be Finance Minister. "We will produce the money necessary to carry the election," they had said, "but we will not stand for that old gentleman, Mr. George E. Foster, as Finance Minister."

Mr. White had been forced into the Ministry without his knowledge. He had to obey the orders of the heads of the trust company.

The Premier, said Mr. German, had included in his Cabinet three gentlemen who had gone through the election preaching the so-called doctrine of Nationalism, a doctrine of unnationalism, a doctrine, if I may use the word, Mr. Speaker, of treason.

Mr. German declared that a plebiscite was not a policy, but only a makeshift and an excuse. He doubted if the people of Canada would have confidence in the people who made such a suggestion.

Mr. Borden had tied himself to a bad crowd, but he was preparing for a great awakening. He owed his position to the electors of Ontario, who would not stand for the Nationalist elements in his Cabinet.

"If he keeps on," said Mr. German, in conclusion, "at the next election his political career will get a jolt that will hurl him, his Bourassas, his Blondins and his Monks into political oblivion."

John Webster (Brockville) cast a homelike air over the chamber by addressing himself to "Mr. Speaker, gentlemen of the House of Commons, my friends."

"We appear to have been holding a postmortem on a dead corpse," he said.

W. Weichel (N. Waterloo), W. A. Buchanan (Medicine Hat), and O. Turgeon (Gloucester), also spoke.

FRENCH SOCIETY IN OTTAWA CENSURES FOY'S UTTERANCE

Takes Umbrage at Declaration of Attorney-General on Bi-lingual Schools.

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—The St. Jean Baptiste Society of Holy Family Parish, Ottawa East, has passed a strong resolution supporting the French-Canadian Educational Association in its condemnation of Attorney-General Foy for his attacks on bilingualism. A section of the resolution read:

"As citizens of Canada we look down with utter contempt at the narrow-mindedness of Mr. Foy. As Catholics we are ashamed to see in our midst a man so unjust and so mean as to wish to cancel rights claimed by human nature. Christian and Catholic spirit, the constitution of the country and British fair play."

They furthermore want to declare for Mr. Foy's own benefit and that of his friends—if he has any—that the French-Canadian parents are more than ever sanguine of having French taught their children, without neglecting the study and teaching of English.

TORONTO AND CONNAUGHT

Queen City Having a Big Time With Royalty

Toronto, Nov. 28.—Between banks of flag-waving, cheering humanity, His Royal Highness the Duke and Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught triumphantly entered and peacefully captured this city yesterday. In the neighborhood of 150,000 people lined the two-mile route of march from the North Toronto C.P.R. station to the City Hall. The special train containing the Governor-General's cars, the Cornwall and York, came to a standstill at the station at three minutes to three, and by four the whole ceremony of welcome was over.

Rarely if ever has such a welcome been given by Toronto in the piping times of peace. It was indeed one of the biggest and probably the biggest reception ever tendered by Toronto when war-time excitement was not in evidence.

The outstanding feature of the welcome was the vast number of children, the coming citizens, who lined the street. It is estimated that 35,000 children were in the crowd. It was the children who provided most of the enthusiasm. They cheered themselves hoarse while the elder and more dignified inhabitants of the city watched the proceedings deferentially, largely confining their demonstrations to lifting their hats when the duke passed.

The nearest thing to a calamity was when Mayor Geary stepped backward a little too far after presenting the address of welcome from the city to the duke and went over the edge of the platform. Had it not been for a clerically-attired gentleman standing beside the platform, who caught him, he would probably have fallen on his back. As it was, he landed on the lower level on his feet.

On reaching the City Hall all got out, walked up the steps, where Mayor Geary read the address of welcome, and the duke replied. Then the duke and duchess rode to Government House. A guard of honor of 150 men from the Grenadiers was lined up in front of the City Hall.

THE EXAMINER AND POWER

The Stratton organ puts up some rather curious arguments sometimes. Last night it tried to answer the Review quotation of the hydro-electric power and lighting rates for Toronto, in which it was demonstrated that the advent of the hydro-electric system had forced the Toronto Electric Light company to cut its rates almost in half, to meet the hydro quotations.

The Examiner does not deny the figures given. We might say that they were published at the time by the Toronto Star, a Liberal newspaper, and were obtained from actual cases. These figures were secured from Liberal sources, so they cannot be put down as political campaign material. But the Toronto Telegram estimates that the people of Toronto are due to save $550,000 a year in their rates for power and lighting, half of the loss falling on the private corporation which had to reduce its rates, and the other half being saved through the new and cheaper power, for the introduction of the hydro-electric has certainly increased power consumption in Toronto.

The Stratton organ says that the floor area system of charging, as well as a meter charge for current, was designed to mislead the Toronto people. Practically the same system has been adopted in Peterborough, except that it is a room and meter charge. And it was not designed to mislead here. It is the modern system of charging—that is all.

The Examiner tries to tell people that the Toronto hydro-electric rate practically amounts to the old charge of 8 cents per kilo watt hour. If that is so, then why did the Toronto Electric Light company cut its rates down to meet the new figures? Its old rate was 8 cents. Why did it lop off about 30 or 40 per cent. from those old rates in order to meet the new competition. Surely the Examiner will not go so far as to deny that the private corporation cut its rates—surely it has this much respect for sober truth.

The question of the price of power and lighting resolves itself into this: Is there a possibility that competition through the hydro-electric will enable Peterborough to get a considerably cheaper rate? It must be remembered that Toronto is 100 miles from Niagara Falls, the source of its power. Transmission over 100 miles is costly; it shows tremendously in the price to the consumer. Peterborough has power almost at her door. There is, of course, a big difference in the size of the two places, and in the available market, but would it not be foolish for us to say to the hydro-electric commission now:

"We don't want you to try to help us out. It is of no use. We would rather stick by the $4,000,000 corporation and R. R. Hall, and take our chance of getting, through the generosity of the company, what you might be able to provide quite easily."

The Hydro-electric power commission does not propose to use Dam No. 4 alone, to generate power. That dam by itself is capable of yielding only 1100 h.p., which is not practicable, not worth while. But the hydro-electric does propose to get other dams, either new ones or old ones, and link them up, so that there will be plenty of power for Peterborough, and for the other municipalities of Eastern Ontario. This scheme is not only for Peterborough; it is for a dozen other municipalities. Does Peterborough want to share in this?

OLD MAN WAS ASSAULTED

Brutal Attack on Cornwall Man 88 Years Old.

Cornwall, Nov. 28.—Fred Whyte, years; Arthur Tyo, 18; and James Tyo, 16, were charged in the Cornwall police court yesterday afternoon with "attempted murder" and were remanded for eight days pending developments in the condition of the man they assaulted.

Their victim was an old man, Geo. Gallinger, brother of Hon. Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, who lives less than a mile from Cornwall with his 12-year-old grandson.

Mr. Gallinger, who is 88 years of age, went to the well for water after his grandson, Bert Gallinger, had gone to Sunday school, and the three young men appeared and asked for a drink. When Mr. Gallinger passed them the tin bucket they threw the contents in his face and followed this with several blows over the head with clubs.

It is said that after forcing entrance into the house the invaders tried to make Mr. Gallinger give them money. A nephew of the old man arrived on the scene and captured Arthur Tyo.

Dr. A. Ross Alguire was summoned to attend Mr. Gallinger, whose injuries, owing to his advanced years, are considered very serious.

GODERICH HAS MAD DOG SCARE

Collie Affected With Rabies Bit Twenty Other Dogs

Goderich, Nov. 28.—By the examination of the brain of a collie dog, which a few days ago bit over twenty other dogs, it has been shown that the animal was suffering from rabies. The result is a mad dog scare.

Catarrhal Bad Breath

orrected Quickly by the Use of

Catarrhozone

Catarrh is an inflammation. Where here is inflammation there is always ore or less offensive secretion. Inammation may be of the very active ort but it is often of the slow kind, nd this is the particular form in hich the breath is rendered offensive nd the presence of the sufferer beomes an offence to every person of elicate sensibility.

Bad breath is in itself sufficient to rge you to correct it, because one dikes to be unpleasant to their friends, ut this form of catarrh is dangerous ecause it supplies a hotbed for the evelopment of Consumption or of ther diseases of the throat and lungs.

Bad breath is an evidence that the icrobes have found a good resting lace and are carrying on their evil rounds into the health of the body.

Catarrhozone acts at once and deroys these minute organisms, but it oes more—it heals the inflamed suraces in which they found a nesting lace and consequently removes both ause and effects of their action.

If we only highly estimated the alue of prevention and used Catarrhone at the beginning of a cold or ust before it becomes well seated, the eadly ravages of Consumption would e stayed and the terrible agonies of ufferers of Asthma or Bronchitis comletely abolished.

There is no remedy as effective for ad breath, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, etc., as Catarrhozone. Besides eing healing and soothing it is germ estroying. Nothing ever offered to he public can compare with it in its romptness, efficiency, and permaney of action, and you can buy it rom any dealer in medicine throught the Dominion of Canada, 25c, 50c, nd $1.00 sizes. THE CAMPAIGN

The campaign so far has been very uiet in Peterborough. It seems to generally conceded on the streets at the Whitney government will t another supporter from West Perborough, in spite of the Herculean fforts of the Liberal candidate. Mr. all is entitled to some sympathy, ven if he is a candidate. But he ould have looked over the ground efore he decided to jump into his war ogs. Any man will give Mr. Hall redit for sticking to the game, in ite of most discouraging features. owever, he is out against the Whity government, and those who know at Whitney will be returned to ower once again, will realise that in ntario, there is little to expect from member who is in opposition.

Mr. Hall said on Saturday night "If can't get a measure of my own rough I will support and vote for y measure, no matter from where, hich will accomplish these reforms." Like Aunt Samanthy, says, when e seen her favorite game rooster, My, ain't he a pretty bird!" Mr. all says that if the Whitney governent introduces some bills to his wn peculiar taste, he will support hem. The chances are five to one at he would manage to find the lls not to his peculiar taste—ergo, would not be necessary to support hem, and leave his party to do so. he effect of a measure might be just he same, but Mr. Hall as a skillful awyer, could find some very nice eason for disagreement. So his kind ffer to stick by the down-trodden asses, whom he loves with all the ower of a great and generous and enevolent heart, might not be acepted.

Perhaps the general public is not ware, and perhaps it should be made ware of the fact that Mr. Hall has een fit to bring to his rescue the Life oat Gadsby. The Gadsby is a highrised saver of political drowners, and t might be remembered that the ame gallant rescuer was here at the ime of the terrible mishap of Sepember 21. That the Stratton ship ent down, captain and all, was not to e blamed on the life-boat, of course. Neither will the wreck of the "Robert all," on December 11, be laid at the ame door. All a man can do is his est, to be sure!

Mr. Hall is entitled to great admiration for his effort to get the workingman's vote. The employers of the city don't mind, of course. Mr. Hall is occupying a position in that "capitalistic" class himself. It is not often one sees an employer erring alone, his arms stretched to the blue empyrean: "Allah, Allah, seest thou me? I desire to give unto all and sundry, who labor (and have votes) a cup overflowing with compensation, a golden balm for all their wounds. I am generous; I believe that my poor brethren are entitled to all they can get, even though I am reduced to their ranks. Seest my benevolent disposition?

In the words of the kid on the street "Oh you workingman."

SIR EDWARD'S SPEECH

The speech of Sir Edward Grey in the House of Commons was certainly not of the dishwater variety. It showed John Bull, ready for peace if Germany behaves, but quite ready to plant a brawny fist where it will be most needed and felt, should there be occasion. Such a speech will calm the nations more quickly than a "back down." Peace gained for the moment by giving in to the other man's aggressions is sometimes only taking certain and long strides toward actual hostilities. Britain might as well fight Germany now, as later on, if Germany intends to have a fight, and if it does not, it will have no trouble in getting along amicably with old John Bull. Britain does not want to interfere with the rights of other nations. It is adopting a defensive attitude towards its own rights, and maintains a position which cannot but be commended in almost every capital in the world, except possibly Berlin.

A REVOLUTION

Toronto News.

Seven years ago a new and strange thing occurred in Ontario. In January, 1905, there arose a Government that knew not trickery and a Premier unacquainted with political jesuistry. Like most other British revolutions the change came quietly and without violence—except for the vehemence of the First Minister's own denunciations of electoral wrongdoing and executive fraud and rascality. The result was that within a few months the community as a whole recovered the self-respect which it had lost through the ballot-box irregularities of the previous regime. The commonwealth took its place amongst well-governed states, and ever since it has set a worthy example to the sister provinces.

This is a unique service which Sir James Whitney has rendered to the country and to the cause of popular government throughout the world. To the present and future generations he has amply demonstrated that corruption is not necessarily a concomitant of democracy, and that an Administration may continue in office without resorting to devious devices, without stooping to machiavellian tactics, and without cloaking its real purposes in oracular utterances. Downright straightforwardness has been the Premier's chief characteristic ever since he came before the electorate, and, if sometimes he is neither as meek as Moses nor as smooth as Chesterfield, the public rather appreciates the absence of those qualities. The average voter prefers a blunt man to a straddler, even if the former is brusque at times and occasionally severe.

Here is a Prime Minister who neglects all the well-known methods of practised politicians, who from the first has scorned to profit by his control over the election machinery, who abolished the numbered ballot with which it was possible to ascertain how individual electors voted, and who never yet has distributed public works with a view to controlling doubtful constituencies. Here is a Premier who has never had a campaign fund, and who actually goes into battle without an organizer, without an organization, without the aid of that supposedly essential contrivance — a party machine.

Many thinking Sir James Whitney foolhardy, have advised him to profit by the records of typical political generals, to arm himself with the conventional weapons of traditional leaders, and to gather about him those extraordinary forces which have so long been used in party warfare. But he would have none of these accessories. Always he has proved incorrigible. Always he has depended on those of his Government. All along his attitude has been consistently this: "I will give the people a reasonable and honest administration of public affairs. If they like that sort of thing they can keep me in power. If they do not like it they can do the other thing."

So far his simple candor and straightforward dealing has proved to be "good politics." These characteristics have stood him in good stead. They have served him better than the most assiduous ear-grounding and the most dexterous popularity-hunting have served his opponents. His Government has not been perfect. It has left undone some things that it ought to have done, but it has done few of those things it ought not to have done. That is the reason that it is in such a healthy and robust condition. The average citizen has learned that there is no buncombe about the blunt Premier. The electors know that he is to be trusted. That is why the clever evasive campaign of Mr. Rowell and his allies and their too obviously skillful attempts to attract opposing sections of the people have made, and will make, no considerable impression upon the public mind, unless it be an unfavorable one.

SUFFERED THREE YEARS

Till Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cured his Kidney Trouble

There are few diseases that cause more acute suffering than Kidney Trouble, and Mr. F. A. Thomas, of Sudbury Ont., is one of those who know it. He writes: "For over three years I suffered from kidney disease. First I thought I had sprained my back, for suddenly the pain would catch the small of my back and it would be impossible for me to straighten myself up for several minutes. A dull ache across the kidneys was always present, my urine was thick and cloudy, and passing it caused a burning, scalding pain. Tried medicines, but they failed. I was advised to try Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, as they had cured my wife years before. A few boxes effected a complete cure. I now enjoy the blessings of good health, which is due to this remedy."

Don't neglect kidney trouble—it's too dangerous as well as too painful. That old, reliable family remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, has cured thousands and will cure you. It is equally effective in curing constipation and its attendant evils, biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches, and in purifying the blood. 25c a box at your druggist's. 10

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Examiner seems to get about as near the facts in the power question as it did on reciprocity. Perhaps one might reasonably expect about the same result.

Toronto has the Duke and Duchess in its care for three or four days. We suggest that if they want his royal highness to see one of the curiosities of a big city he ought to visit the editorial writer of the Toronto Telegram.

The Duke and Duchess passed through, and Peterborough went on its way rejoicing, ignorant of the event. But the clocks went around just the same, and the meals came to hand, and we slept—most of us—with a clear conscience. So what's the "diff."

In the last campaign it was Mr. Stratton who had secured everything for Peterborough, and had been the fairy god-father. Now we find out that it was not Mr. Stratton at all, but Robert Richard Hall. How do we know? Oh, that's easy. Why, they assure us it is so. Can anyone ask for better proof than that?

A vote for E.A. Peck is a vote for a man with a stainless record, a man who has the respect of everyone, who is supporting a government of the strictest honesty, of power and progressiveness. West Peterborough needs Mr. Peck as a member, not a man who is part and parcel of an ineffective opposition.

Mr. Hall declares his great sincerity and determination to work and vote, if elected, for the interests of the workingmen. But death-bed repentances are sometimes too late. The time for Mr. Hall to have discovered his great sympathy for and interest in the workers was a few years ago, when Sorrow and Grief knocked at many doors in this constituency, and in some cases entered through the Hall.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Hogs.

The above figures were the quotations of W. J. Johnston, buyers for Gunns (Limited).

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 27.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Nov. 25, were 2800 cattle, 1860 sheep and lambs, 2825 hogs and 300 calves. The supply on the market this morning consisted of 1800 cattle, 1400 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 125 calves.

The quality of the stock was the best seen on this market for many weeks past, some very choice loads having arrived from Western Ontario, and in addition to these there were a good number of cattle from the Canadian Northwest and the per cent. of common stock was much smaller than it has been of late.

The trade was anything but satisfactory to drovers, as many of them claimed that the stock cost more money in the country than the prices they realized.

Owing to the stronger cable advices from Liverpool and London, which noted an advance in prices of half cent. per pound and the lower prices ruling in this market there was some demand for top quality steers from exporters and sales of several loads were made, averaging 1200 pounds each, at $5.50 to $5.90 per cwt., which is the first business that has been done in this direction for a long time past.

There was also a fair demand for stock for shipment to Quebec, but apart from this the trade was rather slow on account of the fact that packers were blocked for the want of space, owing to the heavy runs of the past two or three weeks, and in consequence they did not operate to any extent, while the butchers only bought sparingly. Sales of few loads of good ranchers were made at $5.25 to $5.50 per cwt., and choice Ontario steers in small lots made as high as $6.

Owing to the heavy supply of hogs that have been coming forward during the past two weeks and the fact that packers are well supplied for the time being, they showed little disposition to operate to-day and trade was quiet. The tone of the market was weaker and prices declined 15c to 25c per cwt., but even at this reduction the demand was limited and only a few sales were made to the smaller buyers.

The trade in sheep and lambs was fairly active and as the offerings were not large, a stronger feeling prevailed in the market and prices advanced 25c per cwt. Choice lots of lambs brought as high as $5.75 and sheep, $4 per cwt. The demand for calves was good and some choice lots sold at $10 each.

Export cattle, choice, $5.90 to $6.00; butchers' cattle, choice, $5.75 to $6; medium, $4 to $5.25; common, $3.25 to $3.50; canners, $1.75 to $3; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5 to $5.25; medium, $4.25 to $4.75; bulls, $3.50 to $4; milkers, choice, each, $75; common to medium, $50 to $60; springers, $50 to $60; sheep, ewes, $3.75 to $4; bucks and culls, $3.25 to $3.50; lambs, $5.50 to $5.75; hogs, fed and watered, $6.25 to $6.50; f.o.b., $5 to $6.

CHAPTER XVI.

After Jim Combe's departure a strange quiet fell upon the life of the ranch. There were no galloping horses about the corral; there was no noisy cowboy chaff about the barns. The one thing necessary was that Frank Anstruther should be kept quiet. Any movement caused him excruciating pain, and was likely to disarrange the imperfect bandages in which his body was swathed, and though he took his punishment with set lips, never complaining of the pain, he was a bad patient, restless under restraint, and excitable to the last degree.

It was only as long as Kitty was in the room that they could keep him still. As long as she was in his sight he would lie hour after hour without stirring, only the eyes in his white face alive, and those so followed every turn of the girl's pretty head, that they frightened her.

She began to feel that those burning eyes could see through her into her heart, and for that she was by no means ready yet.

There was a picture in it upon which she was trying to pass judgment, a picture of a furious storm in which trees were crashing and roofs lifting and solid substances were being whirled about by some invisible agency, and in the middle of it all a great red roan reared and raged.

"Them's baby tricks," she quoted under her breath, and a proud smile spread over her face as she thought of the man who drove the great red devil into the heart of the storm to do her bidding.

"I wish that I could have seen Jim start."

The voice came from the bed, and Kitty flushed guiltily as she turned towards the speaker. He did then read her very thoughts.

"why do you say that?"

"It must have been such a grand match between Jim and the stallion. I don't think Jim has his equal as a horseman."

"That is what they say about here, but I don't suppose that he would be any good in your country."

"Why my country and not yours?" and then with a generous impulse, "Jim would be good anywhere. The better the class the more he would shine in it. Sitting a fence isn't as hard as sitting a buck jumper. Seeming is not worth anything compared to doing," and he pushed irritably at the bedclothes which encompassed him.

"Suffering is harder than either," said a quiet voice at his elbow. "Kitty, make Mr. Anstruther take this, and don't let him worry about Jim. Jim is quite able to take care of himself."

Jim's best friend was his worst advocate. It was just that ability to take care of himself which told against him with the woman he loved; just the helplessness and dependence of Anstruther which appealed to Kitty.

It almost seemed as if the quiet of the sick room had leaked through the log walls, and pervaded not only the whole ranch, but nature itself. Even the storm had quieted down after that one wild night.

As the house lay somewhat lower than the surrounding country, it was wrapped in a veil of mist, through and above which the rising fells showed, patched with thin snow, which emphasized the great distances, and the beggarliness of the November foothills.

It was the time of the year in which, to a girl like Kitty, the contrast between the sheltered life of the Old Country and the homelessness of the new would be most apparent, and as she dwelt upon this, looking hour after hour into the gloom outside, the only relief to her thoughts was the necessity for waiting upon the man who had become to her typical of England. To her, in the midst of her reverie, came Phon, the Chinese cook.

"Missy Rolt here?"

"No; isn't she with the Boss?"

"No can find her. Ole Mary come, want some clothes. Heap cold,' and the Chinaman gave a sympathetic shiver. "You go find Missy Rolt; me plenty busy cook him grub.'

Kitty looked at Anstruther. Apparently he was asleep, so humoring the cook, she went down to the library, where Rolt and his wife were sitting.

"Poor old soul; what a day for her to come," was Mary Rolt's greeting of the message.

"Just the sort of day to make one want more clothes, dear. Have you anything to give her?" asked Rolt.

"I can find something, I expect. I am rather glad that she has come, aren't you, Dick? It looks as if the trouble with her people is blowing over."

"Perhaps; but the fact that an Indian begs of you means nothing. You know what cultus potlatch means."

"A free gift, that is a fool's bargain. I know, but I think poor old Mary is grateful and really likes me."

Her husband smiled. He was not quite certain which would be the greater miracle, that anyone should not like Mary Rolt, or that an Indian should be grateful. He had known Indians for a lifetime.

After his wife had left the room on her mission of charity, taking Kitty with her to "rummage" in the old clothes box, the Boss sat for some time, smoking and thinking, and his thoughts were not cheerful ones.

A good many of his castles in the air had fallen since Anstruther's arrival, and without Jim's help he did not feel as sanguine of ultimate success on the Risky as he had done.

A sharp cry called him back from the future to the present.

"What is it," he called, opening his door.

"I dont know, dear, answered his wife from the lumber room. "It must have been Mr. Anstruther who called.

"Where is Kitty?"

"Here with me, looking out something for old Mary.

"She ought not to—"

But at this point he and his wife reached the sick room together, where Kitty was already bending over Anstruther.

"He has fainted again," she said, chafing his hands helplessly, but even as she spoke consciousness returned to him.

"I beg your pardon," he murmured, very faintly. "I give you all so much trouble, but when I tried to call you, I got another nasty one, and went off, I suppose, as usual. It seems to me I can't do anything without fainting," and he closed his eyes wearily, almost as if he were going to illustrate his last words.

"What did you want, old fellow?" asked Rolt, kindly. "We won't leave you again. It was very careless of us to do so."

Anstruther lifted his hand in deprecating fashion.

"Nonsense. I don't want so much looking after, but when Kitty was away I thought that I saw someone in that little room."

"In my bath room?"

"Yes, Kitty sits there sometimes when she wants me to stop talking and sleep, and I thought that she had come back."

"There is no one there now," said Rolt, coming back from the room. "Who did you think it was?"

"I don't know. I saw someone peering round the door at me. I thought that it was an Indian when I sat up and called, you know what happened."

"Did you hear the man move?"

"No; I only saw the face, or thought that I did, but perhaps it was only a sick man's fancy."

"He is a fraud, Kitty," decided Rolt, with a good-humored laugh," he wanted you back, and invented this bogie as an excuse to bring you back. Better not leave your post again," and so saying he dismissed the subject, but nevertheless he went into the little bathroom and looked round it very carefully. On the table beneath his looking-glass lay a handful of small silver, with his studs and some old gold seals in a china tray, and his watch was hung on a nail in the window frame. These were the only small moveables of any value in the room, and neither they nor anything else in the room appeared to have been touched. As he went out of the room he noticed a damp patch upon the polished wood of the stairs, which a vivid imagination might have made into the outline of a wet mocassin, but the Boss disregarded it.

Five minutes later when he met his wife downstairs, he asked whether she had found anything for the old woman.

"Yes, I made up quite a bundle for her; a warm petticoat and all sorts of thick things, Kitty's and mine; but the silly old thing has gone without them."

Rolt looked grave.

"Oh, you need not frown, Dick. We were rather long, I know, but it is so hard to decide what one really has done with, and if the old woman didn't get her clothes to-day, she will get them next week when she comes to give the house its monthly scrubbing."

Rolt looked out over the darkening landscape. The November day was drawing rapidly to a close, and he knew that old Mary had seven miles to trudge back to her rancherie, but it was curious that she had not waited. He could see the trail which led to the gulch through which ran Mary's road home, but there was no sign of Mary. Old as she was she must have moved quickly to have gained the shelter of the gulch already, or she could not have waited long for those clothes.

A question which Rolt wanted to ask was suppressed before it left his lips. Instead he asked his wife how long it was since old Mary had given the house one of her "thorough scrubbings."

"More than a month, I'm afraid, but you know they have all been away from the rancherie. Why? Do any of the rooms want scrubbing very badly, old man?"

"Oh, no, not a bit. I make a good deal of mess with my boots in the bath room, but you and Kitty look after the top floor, don't you, little woman. It is always as clean as a new pin in spite of my efforts to the contrary."

"What a delightful old humbug you are, Dick, where I am concerned," she said fondly. "I did not know that you would miss old Mary's ministrations. She cleans the whole house once a month, upstairs and down, but we ought to have kept up appearances at any rate in her absence. I will go and see to it at once."

This was more than Rolt had bargained for. He had obtained the information he wanted without alarming her, but by suggesting a fault where he knew none existed.

However, he followed his wife to the room, and was relieved to be shown all sorts of dirt and disorder, which he himself would never have noticed, but no trace could he find of that for which he was looking.

Nothing had been touched; nothing that he could think of was missing. Even that damp outline on the boards had dried off now. He wished that he had examined it more carefully, but, after all, it could not have been old Mary in his room, though she apparently did know the way to it.

He paused for a long minute, and went over everything carefully with his eye. By George! his Winchester had gone. No, it hadn't. There it was behind his oilskin, and there was absolutely nothing else which she could have wanted.

That face peering around the doorway must have been a sick man's fancy.

CHAPTER XVII.

In order to keep Anstruther amused and quiet, Mary Rolt had dinner served that night for the four of them in the bedroom, busying herself in making the pretty place as vivid a contrast as possible to the grim world outside.

A wood fire glowed merrily on the wide hearth, and the light of it was reflected by the silver and glass that nestled cosily in the folds of the rose-colored cretonne hangings.

"Do you want all the blinds drawn, Frank?" she asked with her hand on the last of them.

"Not unless you wish it."

"Well, then, I'll leave this one undrawn. I always snuggle into bed more cosily when I can peep out into a bitter night like that. Can you see down the valley from where you lie without moving? A peep at it will make the fire feel warmer and the room more homelike."

"It always feels homelike where you are, Mrs. Rolt."

She curtseyed to him with a laugh, and then, turning to Kitty, who had just entered the room, bade her be quick with the dinner.

"And see, my girl," she added, "that is not the way to lay a table," and then with a few deft touches rearranged some of the silver.

FORTUNE OF MILLIONS IS AWAITING CLAIMANTS

Anybody in This City Descendant of Thomas Page?

To any citizen of Peterborough who happens to be a descendant of one Thomas Page, who departed this life about the year 1830, the following communication received by the Review will be of interest, stating as it does that there is property amounting to several million dollars awaiting claimants:

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 24, 1911.
Editor "Review," Peterborough, Ont., Can.

Dear Sir,—Can you give me an information regarding the descendants of Thomas Page, who formerly lived at Leominster, Mass., but moved to Ontario or Upper Canada, as it was then called, about 1795. It is supposed that some of his descendants now live in your locality, though possibly those now there are not named Page, but may be Wright, Guernsey, Dunn or some other name which married into the Page family at an early date.

It appears that owing to the death of other heirs, a large property amounting to several million dollars, reverts to this branch of the family, and has been lying dormant in the hands of the trustees and executors for many years past.

It is supposed that Thomas Page lived about 1830, but it now becomes important to trace the time and place of his death and names of his descendants.

Any information you can give me will be greatly appreciated by,

GREAT WHITE WAY FOR CITY UNDER CONSIDERATION

Fire, Water and Light Committee Receive Proposition From Mr. J. H. Munro.

A proposition for an improved system of street lighting was sumitted by Mr. J. H. Munro, of the Light and Power Company, at a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light committee last night. Should the plans presented be adopted or materialize, the city streets will resemble the gay white way, more and more. The matter of installing 5 or 3 tungsten lamp standards, at intervals along the streets of the city, was the subject discussed by the committee. The Peterboro Light and Power Company will supply free current for three years if their offer is accepted by the city.

The cost of erecting sixty of these standards with overhead wiring would cost in the neighborhood of $8000, so Mr. Munro figured. If it was not thought wise to put the lights throughout the city, they could be tried on the business section at first. To distribute the standards about 100 feet apart was considered to be a sufficient distance.

The proposal was taken up very thoroughly, Chairman Morgan was in favor of smaller poles with the same number of lights on each, in the smaller streets and having the larger standards used on the main streets thus reducing the cost, and yet lighting the entire city.

Mayor Morrow was opposed to this plan however.

"Do one section thoroughly with the very best, and you will find that if satisfactory the people will want it everywhere," he remarked.

Finally it was moved and carried that a committee composed of the mayor, the chairman and Ald. Graham go over the grounds and ascertain what sections would be desirable to have the new system installed in first, and collect all necessary information as to cost, etc., and then report back to the whole committee.

Mr. Munro also referred to the complaints which the Company receive regarding street lamps being out at night. To remedy this he offered to burn these lamps every night and all night, although it would mean an additional outlay to them of $1000, but reducing the cost of outages which amounts to considerable each month.

A motion was put through conveying the thanks of the committee to Mr. Munro for his kind offer.

LIGHTS OUT

In regard to the number of outages Mr. Munro pointed out that the majority of them occurr after twelve o'clock at night, and that often only a little bit of the carbon is burned. Often also, the Company is assessed for outages when the fact is that they are only out for an hour or two.

To decide this point, a motion was carried authorizing the Chief of the Fire department to examine the carbons each morning and ascertain what part of the night they had been out and report accordingly.

The committee was authorized to purchase 12 winter caps for the firemen to cost $15.

CAPTAIN J. DENNO

On Chief Howard's recommendation, Fireman J. Denno was made captain of the brigade, and Fireman Murden the Leutenant.

There were present at the meeting Chairman, Ald. Morgan, Ald. Kerneghan, Ald. Graham, Metheral, Edgar and Mayor Morrow.

GRAHAM AND HIS CAREER

Had Been Imprisoned in Kingston for two Years

While it was rumored that young Graham, he of electric railway promotions, who is now safely housed "under the stable" at Lindsay, had played a partially successful game with the heart of a local young lady, no verification of the story is obtainable.

Graham, apparently gave Peterborough as wide a berth as possible, and Chief Thompson has had no complaints regarding the man's behavior. The chief however, remembers distinctly a game identical with that attempted by Graham, to have been worked with more or less success in the western towns prior to his taking the position of chief constable at Woodstock. This gent fell into the hands of the law and was placed behind the cold grey walls of Kingston Penitentiary.

WORKED ST. CATHARINES.

During the past summer H. Malcome Graham appeared in St. Catharines with an electric wiring proposition. He engaged men, purchased supplies, and went about his business in a straightforward manner. Harry Graham must have the best, he purchased an auto at $1800 and drove it in a way to win the heart of a pretty St. Catharines girl.

In that town he borrowed money from the unwary until he was finally apprehended pulled up on a short turn, as it were, but through his subtle ways escaped justice, being given his liberty on suspended sentence. He was known as a dope fiend.

BEEN IN KINGSTON.

The Lindsay Warder states that he has a bad record. Chief Chilton has been made aware of it through information received from his home town—Trenton. A few years ago he was convicted of a serious crime, for which he was sentenced to Kingston penitentiary for two years, and to-day the unfortunate criminal stands to face probably more stern justice

Art Treasures at the Women's Art Exhibition

Forty Three Water Colors by Waring — Many Other Attractions

The annual exhibition under the auspices of the Women's Art exhibition of Peterborough, of paintings, sculpture, pottery, and other art work was formally opened to the public this afternoon The exhibition is being held in the public library building upstairs and will be open each afternoon until Friday, that evening being the only one on which it will be open

The ladies of the Art Association have gathered together for the exhibition many paintings by two artists, Frank Waring, and Miss Jack, the latter of London, Eng., and formerly of New Brunswick Mr. Waring confines himself to water-colors, mostly pastoral scenery, and his work is certainly splendid There are forty-three water-colors on exhibition by Mr Waring, and one is impressed, in looking at their execution, by the great technical skill exhibited by the artist He has been able to mass the tones in some of his more pretentious efforts in admirable manner His work is beautifully clear and limpid, there being no needless laying on of extra washes, to obtain effect In some of his pastoral scenes he has exhibited a fancy for faintly indicating the sun's rays, as they penetrate through the clouds, in a subdued manner His coloring is strong and vivid, and arranged with an eye to great symmetry, and form. It is in the delicacy of his deft finishing touches that the great charm in his work is produced, and lovers of good water-colors may well spend some time in studying the beautiful brush work of this rising young artist

The work of Miss Marion Jack is rather impressionistic She has devoted herself more to studio work, heads, inanimate studies, etc, taking up oils There are perhaps two or three dozen of Miss Jack's efforts, and in following the Dutch school to a certain extent, she has given herself a broad field for labor While her work does not compare in delicacy or finish with that of Mr Waring, in his own field, one occasionally can find traces of rugged strength Miss Jack has exhibited in the Paris salon, and her paintings are indicative that much may be expected from her, as she gains in experience

In addition to the paintings, there is a cast from a model by Miss Katherine Wallis, who is a Peterborean, and who has achieved fame as a sculptress The exhibition of homespun of hand metal engraving, of fine pottery, jewellery, hand made curtains, and other art treasures is very attractive

The ladies in charge, who served tea this afternoon, were Mrs. Burnett and Mrs W. H. Hill, and tomorrow Mrs Sherwood and Mrs. Hill will serve Sheriff Hall, at the private view last night, spoke a few introductory words in opening the exhibition, and Rev Mr. Sawers moved, seconded by Rev Robt. Pogue, a vote of thanks

COMMISSIONERS

Business Transacted at Regular Meeting of Board

At a meeting of the water commissioners yesterday afternoon, a request was heard from Dr. O'Brien of the Church of Sacred Heart for water service to flood a rink which they propose building next to the church this winter.

On motion it was decided that the request be granted and that a service be installed this year and that they be charged for the cost of putting it in alone and not for the water. This is in accordance with what has been the procedure in supplying rinks with water on previous years.

Mr. Allan on Townsend street communicated by letter with the commissioners asking for water service for a stable, accomodating five horses, which he is building. The matter was referred to the superintendent of water works although it was thought that nothing could be done this year as the season is so far advanced.

G. A. Smith, at 734 Water street complained by letter that he had been charged for water service at his house at the full rate, while his house had been shut up for several months and no water used. On motion it was decided to give him the usual vacancy rate.

Mr. Frank Conroy sent word to the commissioners that he had received his cheque for work done, but that there was still $7 due him for the cement bags which he had purchased. It is understood that Mr. Conroy will get credit for the returned bags from the Cement Company, from whom they were purchased.

A water service was installed in the factory of D. Delleghem, sometime ago, but no meter put in. They, therefore are desirous of securing water service, and the acting superintendant was instructed to put in a meter and connect up with the main and charge them the usual rate,

Festival of Empire

The Grand Trunk Railway System have received the final report from their Director of Exhibit at Festival of Empire, Crystal Palace, London, which closed on October 31st, 1911.

The report gives some very interesting information as follows:

Total number of visitors at Grand Trunk building were 367,133.

Advertising matter distributed 189,344 pieces.

Cinematograph shows given in the building 1086, at which 108,600 people attended.

The Grand Trunk building was one of the most popular at this exhibition and was a great advertisement for Canada as well as the railway.

The popularity of this exhibit together with the attractive features that were shown has elicited the request from the Crystal Palace authorities for its perpetuation during another year, and the Grand Trunk have acquiesced in their desire, and the exhibit will be continued during the summer of 1912.

The Grand Prix were received by the Grand Trunk for their efforts at the Festival of Empire, the highest awards that could be given by the jury.

BRIG. BURDETT COMES AGAIN

His Work in Winnipeg — Was Stationed in Peterboro

Winnipeg, Nov 28—After being in Winnipeg for nine years, Brigadier and Mrs Burditt are to leave for Toronto, where the Brigadier will take charge of the secretarial affairs of the ever-growing immigration department of the Army, under Commissioner Rees During his sojourn in Winnipeg, whence he managed the affairs of the organization from Port Arthur to the Rockies, Brigadier Burditt has become one of the best known men in the west, where he has made himself universally liked, and his many friends will bid him God-speed in his new work

Brigadier Burditt has had no less than 27 years' work in the Army, joining when he was 18 years of age. He at once became an enthusiast in the work and was singled out to go to India from his home in the old country He pioneered the work among the Marthas, and afterwards left these people to go to the south of the continent into Travancore to work among the Tamils After he had done successful work among those people he returned to his old home again His stay was not one of any great duration, however, for he was very soon sent to Canada and was stationed in Toronto for two years, where he had charge of the different corps of that city He was next given the Hamilton district, taking in all the surrounding villages to look after

Later Montreal wanted a capable leader, and Brigadier Burditt was chosen to fill the vacancy, and after a short stay in that city he was again drafted on to Peterborough, and back again to Montreal, this time as chancellor, or assistant, to the provincial officer, who took in all the district between the cities of Quebec and Toronto After doing trojan work in this capacity, he was again required to move, and devotedly he took up the work of travelling spiritual special officer for revival work for the province of Ontario

POWERS OF ORGANIZATION

As western leader the brigadier has been a distinct success, his power of organization as well as in pastoral work having been the secret thereof In the whole of the immense countr ywhich he managed, there are only two places, Selkirk and Neepawa, where new properties have not been acquired since he began his regime In Winnipeg there is ample proof of his energy in Grace hospital, which cost $125,000 In Keldonan also there is the Industrial Home for Women, and there are four halls where meetings are held nightly, and the Army has already no less than five additional sites for future buildings in preparation for the city's growth

When Brigadier Burditt arrived in Winnipeg there were only seven officers, who devoted their whole time to the work, whereas there are now no less than 36 engaged solely in the work

MRS BURDITT'S HELP.

Mrs Burditt, who is also a general favorite in Army circles, has always taken a very active interest in the work that her husband had in hand, and without her never-flagging help it is doubtful whether Brigadier Burditt would have attained such eminence in the Army Her work in connection with Grace hospital has been done in an unostentatious manner, along with other ladies in the Army She has had the longest service in the Army of any officer in Canada, taking a subordinate officer's position when quite a girl

Mrs and Brigadier Burditt will leave Winnipeg for Toronto on Dec 2nd, but they will retain kindly recollections of their stay in Winnipeg

MESSAGE TO THE OLD BOYS

Mayor Morrow Sends Greetings to Old Boys in Winnipeg

To-morrow night in the Royal Alexandra at Winnipeg, will be a happy one for one hundred sons of Peterborough, who in years gone by have left this fair burg to make their homes in the western metropolis It will be a Peterborough Old Boys' reunion, to be presided over by Mr R. M. Dennistoun, one of the many fine contributions from this city to Winnipeg Among the speakers will be Mr R. F. McWilliams, and the secretary of the committee in charge of the affair is Mr D. B. MacRae It is unnecessary to say that the evening will be one long to be remembered by the old boys The program will include one item that will turn the thoughts of the big gathering to the "dear old town" It will be a message from His Worship Mayor Morrow on behalf of the citizens, and the message sent is as follows:

D B MacRae, Esq.,
Manitoba Free Press,
Winnipeg, Man,
Secretary Peterborough Old Boys' Committee:

On behalf of your former fellow-citizens in Peterborough, I send you heartiest greetings

Peterborough is glad to know that you remember the home city, and hopes that you will have an enjoyable banquet evening and continued prosperity in your western home, until you return to reside in Peterborough

HANDSOME PRIVATE GREETING CARDS

Have You Ordered Your's Yet? Get a Style of Card That Has Some Individuality About It.

Once again, and more urgently this time, be advised on the matter of personal greeting cards for Christmas, to send to the many friends to whom we wish to send greetings, something more than a mere Christmas card, yet nothing in the nature of a gift There is nothing to take the place of these little cards which leave no obligation in their wake, but merely a warm friendly feeling about the cockles of one's heart, in the realization that one has been remembered Indeed, the wonder is that no one originated the idea twenty-five years ago However, they did not, and though these cards have been used in England for a number of years, they are still sufficiently uncommon here to have the little touch of originality about them which we like

Of course one must bear in mind that there are private greeting cards —and private cards, and that although with the same idea, are not in accordance with good taste One does not want a common card such as might be picked up at any counter, but something which has a quiet refinement about it And so one cannot do better than suggest the Review's name in this connection, as their stock of these cards has been most carefully selected, and while there is something to please each particular fancy, yet it is invariably in good taste Each style has its individuality about it and is not duplicated You cannot secure the Review's greeting cards at any other bookstore, so there is not chance of the design being too common

And, by the way, order your cards very soon, as the prettiest are being snatched up by the "wise virgins" 2d

PLAGUE OF PERJURY.

To The Editor of The Review.

Sir—The appeal for Grenfell's mission signifies little but means a lot. The public are asked in an irregular way, for money that ought to be provided, and whilst our community is suffering from oppression and every cent is required in the fight against the plague of perjury and persecution we are asked to send it away to a distant land.

Yours etc.,
W. A. BAILEY

AN EXPLANATION.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—The local papers announce that a Charity Ball is to be held shortly in the city, the proceeds to be given to given to the Deep Sea Mission. This item follows the letter inserted by the Ministerial Association, stating that no ball would be held this year in the interest of that Mission, and hence the appeal now being made through the press asking for voluntary offerings in behalf of this work.

This creates a situation that necessitates an explanation to the public. The persons who formerly promoted this ball had requested the present treasurer to assume that office. This she was willing to do when it was agreed that no ball should be held, but that the amount should be raised in another way. The Ministerial Association when asked, gladly consented to make an appeal to the public for voluntary subscriptions. A committee consisting of Revs. J. R. Webb, Canon Davidson, R Pogue and J. G. Brown were appointed to supply material daily to the papers.

Not till Monday morning did the committee have any knowledge of an event such as is announced in yesterday's papers. We still hope that there has been some mistake and in any case, we wish to inform the public that the Ministerial Association are acting in good faith, and trust their appeal will meet with hearty response.

J. R. WEBB, President.
J. G. BROWN, Secretary.

To the Editor of the Review,

Dear Sir,—A number of friends had friends had an argument last night about a matter that I would like to ask you to settle What religion is Mr G. N. Gordon, the man who is mentioned as an aldermanic candidate in centre ward? A friend says he is a Roman Catholic

BIFOCALS OR — DOUBLE VISION GLASSES

Most people think, when buying Bifocal Glasses, that a large segment or reading area is required. With very few exceptions this is not so, as most bifocals are required for constant use, and the successful fitting of these lenses depends not so much on furnishing the largest reading portion possible, but on placing a minimum disk or wafer in exactly the correct position. A small wafer accurately placed will afford ample field for reading, writing and sewing, and will overcome the tendency to make mis-steps in going up and down stairs, an experience not uncommon to wearers of bifocals with too large reading segments

We make a specialty of filling Bifocal Lenses in VISIBLE, SEMI-INVISIBLE and INVISIBLE.

ED. DILLON IS APPOINTED TRAINER FOR HOCKEY CLUB

Edward "King" Dillon was appointed trainer for the Peterborough Hockey Clubs, intermediate and junior O. H.A. teams at a meeting of the executive last night. He will in turn appoint an assistant, satisfactory to the executive.

Applications for the position were received from L. Pitcher, W. Milburn, E. Dillon and W. Breen. "King" Dillon, it is well known, has had a large experience with local rugby, lacrosse and hockey teams. He is in a position to give the necessary time to the work and his appointment is one that should give general satisfaction.

It was decided to notify the O.H.A. that a grouping with Cobourg, Belleville, Lindsay and Trenton would be satisfactory for both the junior and intermediate teams.

Representatives were appointed to meet the rink management to arrange for the season's practices and games.

An effort will be made to provide hours at the Y.M.C.A., satisfactory to the teams and Y. officials, whereby the players can prepare themselves in the gymnasium for the opening of the hockey season. It is also hoped that some arrangement can be made for the meeting together of the players. Both these items will receive prompt attention.

New uniforms with the historic colors blue and white, are to be secured, and possibly some real new design will make its appearance, when Jack Thirnbeck opens the ice works in what is hoped will be the near future.

Mr. Harry Morgan, second vice-president of the club, was among those present. "Are you going to play?" queried President Ray of the former "blue and white" centre man.

"Sure," replied Harry, with the smile that used to get the goat of more than player, who has since passed up the game.

Would Enter Team in the Mercantile League

The Telephony Club of the local Bell Telephone Company assembled last evening in the basement of the building and organized a hockey executive and officers for the coming season. It was decided to enter a team in the Mercantile League, in the event of such an organization being organised this winter.

The Bell employes have all kinds of good material to use this year in putting a first-class outfit on the ice.

The following officers were appointed:

Honorary members—F. W. Doan, A. A. Smith and J. O. Cameron.
President—Harry Trainor.
Vice-President—J. C. Guardhouse.
Sec.-Treas.—F. O. K. Spriggs.
Manager—W. E. Brisbin.
Captain—Nelson Wetlauffer.
Executive Committee—Messrs. Brisbin, Soanes, Plummer and Wetlauffer.

On motion of Messrs. Harry Soanes and Bert Everett, it was decided that the club colors be a white sweater with a blue band around the body and neck, and a large blue bell in front.

The club adjourned to meet next Monday evening.

Montreal Board of Trade will petition to have the I.C.R. brought under the jurisdiction of the Dominion Railway Board.

SPORT TALK

We in Canada are always content to believe that we have the best hockey teams and best hockey players in the world and in this no doubt we are correct, but at the same time we are not aware of the progress the game is making in other countries, nor do we realize that at some time in the not far distant future we may be called upon to defend our laurels on the challenge of some European or American team. The game has become a popular sport in many of the countries of the continent and the Americans at the present time can put fairly fast teams on the ice, thanks to the presence of exiled Canadians and the effects of the coaching of these selfsame Canadians. The progress of the game is set forth in a recent article written by Frank Hyde for the Athletic World. In it he says:—"Hockey is now being played on natural and artificial ice over the whole civilized world. In Europe it is receiving special attention in all the finest of the continental rinks. The French are devoting every energy to the fascinating game: in Switzerland 'bagdy' is highly popular; Germany has adopted our game; at Brussels may be seen skilfully played matches; our style has exponents in far-off Russia; beyond Europe, Australia has two important centres of play, Melbourne and Sydney; and in South Africa the game is about to be tried at Johannesburg. The Prince's Ice Hockey club, of London, held the championship of Europe for three years, but last season relinquished the title to the Oxford-Canadian team which recently made such a successful European tour, upholding the honor and prestige of their native land. On this side of the Atlantic inter-collegiate hockey fixtures, Harvard, the principal universities, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Columbia and Dartmouth, are now important features of college sports. Teams representative of athletic organizations in Boston, New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburg and Detroit are rapidly acquiring skill."—Winnipeg Free Press.

A PROMISING COACH

Young Field Chosen Number One Coach at Yale is Rated a Capital Athlete.

John W. Field who was this year chosen to head the Yale football coaching staff, played the game first at Washington High School. He was graduated from the high school in 1906, and entered George Washington University the following autumn. Here again he was the same quiet, unobtrusive John Field, not a brilliant student but always a sincere man. Field played quarterback. He could kick some, but was not very fast on his feet. From George Washington, with his "pal," Frankie Miller, he went to Yale unheralded, and there ever since he has overshadowed all prep school stars. He made his 'varsity letter in his sophomore year, playing on the eleven against Princeton. Since that time he has been a member of the football team, and it was his stonewall defence as much as any factor which was responsible for keeping Harvard from crossing the Yale goal line last fall.

The new field coach has other interests. His adaptability is shown by his perfection as an oarsman. Yale was crying for a fighting crew, and this year Coach Kennedy and Captain Frost took a look around and drafted some of the heavy football men, among them Field.

RACE NEWS MONOPOLY

Organised gambling, a trust in race track news, is rapidly spreading over the United States, with its wires in every poolroom where bets are placed on running horses. The facts have come out through a quarrel between the two men back of it and a fight for control of the race news from the Butte track.

Mont Tennes, known everywhere as the kingpin gambler of the central west, tells how he eliminated Tim Murphy from his organization, his expose following some unkind words from Murphy. Charges of graft are handed about freely. The pair organized their race news bureau a couple of years ago with a $5000 roll. Murphy took the eastern end and Tennes sent out his results from Chicago to pool-rooms and saloons all over the west. The game developed rapidly, with an increase of gambling on running races, and Tennes had practically a monoply of the field.

PECULIAR ROWING

The Inthas are a tribe living on the Neaung Zwe Lake, in the Southern Shan States, Burma, and the peculiarity of their rowing is that the men stand on one leg on the side of their "dug-outs" with the other leg wound round the paddle, the upper end of which is, as a rule, grasped in one hand, leaving the other free. Rowing in this remarkable fashion, they are great adepts at spearing fish, using the disengaged hand, the spear in use being a long pliable cane with a four-pronged iron head. It is safe to say that a team of these "foot-rowers" would create a sensation at a regatta in this country.

Fitzsimmons a Blacksmith

Bob Fitzsimmons was a journeyman blacksmith working hard for his daily bread at Timaru, New Zealand, when he entered Jem Mace's boxing competition in 1880. He defeated four men and won the middle-weight amateur championship of that country. The following year he won the same competition and then decided to put up his hands as a means of livelihood.

No one but the captain should have the authority to tell the quarterback what play to make. When a quarterback is capable, the less interference he gets from the captain the better.

Coaches try to get men for quarterback who weigh 150 pounds or more. A large man can bowl over an opponent better and this is one of the chief duties of a quarterback.

EUROPEAN POWERS MUST

treated as if we were of no account. If the time ever comes when this cannot be said, we shall have ceased to exist—at any rate as a great power," was Sir Edward Grey's comment.

Four days later Count Wolff-Metternich presented to Sir Edward Grey a communication complaining of Mr. Lloyd-George's speech.

On July 27 came a break in the clouds. Count Wolff-Metternich presented a [illegible] full of good-will hoping that Sir Edward Grey would find an opportunity of reassuring the public with regard to Germany's intentions.

"The House will observe," said Sir Edward, "that the tone of this communication was friendly all round, to France as well as to ourselves. I at once expressed appreciation of the friendly tone in which it was couched. I expressed the hope that it might be taken as a new starting place and that we need not return to things which must lead to mutual recriminations."

Thence forward there were no further difficulties. "A good deal of misunderstanding could have been avoided," remarked Sir Edward, "if Germany had made more clear about July 4 that she had no intention of taking any part of Morocco.

"I desire to improve our relations with Germany, and intend to maintain our friendship unimpaired. The German Imperial Chancellor recently made two speeches, which were inspired with hope of seeing his country strong, but not aggressive. If that is the spirit of German policy, then within two or three years the talk of a great European war will have gone. The effect of the Moroccan settlement must be to relax tension and to remove a great objection from the path of European progress. For years the question of Morocco has been a discomfort to diplomatists. It has been settled without breaking the peace of Europe, and the part His Majesty's Government has taken has contributed materially to that result."

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Unionists, in a speech strongly supporting Sir Edward Grey, said that the Foreign Secretary's statement had convinced him that every step taken was with the sole regard for British interests.

WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

H. R. H. DUKE OF CONNAUGHT

His Royal Highness, who is formally known under the title of His Royal Highness, Prince Arthur William Patrick Albert, was born May 1st, 1850, and married, March 13th, 1879, Princess Louise Margaret Alexandra Victoria Agnes, who was born July 25th, 1860, the daughter of Prince Frederick Charles of Prussia.

The Duke of Connaught is of the twenty-eighth generation which is descended from William the Conqueror, who became King of England in 1066. Taking the average life of a generation as thirty years, and multiplying that number by twenty-eight, yields 840, which if added to 1066 makes the year 1906, which is near enough for all practical purposes.

Being of royal lineage the new governor-general is a prince; but by a curious fiction in England the title of Duke is considered one of superior rank; and a prince shortly after attaining his majority is usually created a Duke. Thus, Prince Alfred was created Duke of Edinburgh, and Prince Arthur, Duke of Connaught. Also, he is entitled to be addressed as "Royal Highness", a title reserved for the sons, daughteer, grandsons, brothers, sisters, uncles, and aunts on the father's side of the soverign.

Mr. NATHANIEL CURRY,
One of Canada's Self-Made

Mr. Curry, who occupies the important position of President of the big Canada Car and Foundry Company, started as have hundreds more of the good strong citizens of the Dominion, right away down below the first rung of the ladder. His position today is one more in the long line of encouragements that confront the young men of today who incline to balk in front of the obstacles that may be looming up on their immediate Hill of Difficulty.

Born in King's County, Nova Scotia, March 26, 1851, son of Charles Curry, a farmer of Scots-Irish descent and of Eunice Davidson, of English ancestry, young Nathan gleaned his early education in the common school of his native heath, supplemented in later years by a business college course in another section of the continent. The higher stages of a college curriculum does not seem to have had attractions for young Curry. But he had native determination, some ambition, and owned a whole outfit of health and healthy ability. And he got right where he wanted to be. On the away-up rungs of the ladder.

Mr. Curry's career in brief is worth repeating. It is a bold type encouragement to the youthful Canuck in danger of fainting by the way.

At the comparatively early age of 15, young Curry started to learn the woodworking business (1866) and four years later he went to Boston, Mass., remaining there for a period of one year. He then crossed the continent seeking his fortune at a time when there were many hardships to endure and worked at his trade at Carson City, Nevada, later with the Virginia and Truckee Railroad as Assistant Foreman and Millwright in shops; in this position he remained until 1877, when he went to Amherst, Nova Scotia, and founded the firm of Rhodes, Curry and Company, which has since become well known as leading woodwork manufacturers and building contractors all over the Dominion. In 1893 the company was incorporated and bought the car business of J. Harris and Co, and the concern continued to expand. In 1909 together with the Dominion Car and Foundry Company, and the Canada Car Co. they were merged into the present corporation under the name of The Canadian Car and Foundry Company, the largest in the Dominion, and Mr. Curry was chosen as its President, which position he now holds. He is also President of the Canadian Steel Foundry .(formed this year). Mr. Curry was elected Vice-President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, 1910; President, October, 1911; is a director of The Canadian Light and Power Co., of The Bank of Nova Scotia, of the Montreal Trust Co., of the Canadian Coal and Coke Co., of the Travellers Life Insurance Company of Montreal, of the Maritime Coal Railway and Power Co., and various other corporations in the Dominion of Conada.

Mr. Curry is a member of the Mount Royal, The Engineers, The Canada, The Royal, The Golf, The Caledonian Curling Clubs of Montreal, of the St. Andrew's Society, and of The National Club of Toronto.

A woman can deceive a man almost as easily as she can deceive herself.

The Envy of her Neighbors is the women whose kitchen shines with a handsome, roomy range—whose face beams with the satisfaction afforded by a perfect cooking equipment.

For every woman wants a good stove. Whether she does her own cooking or not, she eats the meals that are prepared on it, and feels a pride in having the best. GURNEY-OXFORD satisfies that pride; justifies the neighbor's envy. Gurney-Oxford stoves and ranges carry every known feature of convenience, economy and control with some new points of excellence that are exclusive.

GURNEY-OXFORD

First of all is the lever that holds. No danger of the fire going out between meals. The Oxford Economizer will hold the heat at a low ebb till you want it; then turn the handle, and your stove is hot in a jiffy. Besides this saving of time and worry it saves in fuel to the actual extent of one ton in six.

THE DIVIDED FLUE STRIP is the envy of all women who bake. It guides the heat equally along sides, back and front of the oven.

Let us demonstrate these and other strong advantages of the Gurney-Oxford line. We have stoves for every purpose, every fuel, and a variety of prices.

THE GENUINE ALWAYS SUPERIOR TO THE IMITATION

The experienced buyer never permits the shrewd merchant to convince him that an imitation is superior to the genuine advertised article. In refusing a substitute he protects himself and the manufacturers who have expended enormous sums in giving the public information regarding their products.

Advertised articles have stood the test of public approval on their merits and materials embracing their make-up The mere fact that they are imitated is competent testimony of their worth.

Helping it Along

Hamilton Herald

Hon. Frank Cochrane used to be suspected of hostility to the Hydro-Electric project when he was a member of the Whitney government. But he appears now to be doing what he can as minister of railways and canals to help the cause along. Mr. Beck has just succeeded in getting from Mr. Cochrane for the H.E. commission a lease of the two water powers on the Trent river—something that could not be obtained from Mr. Graham. With the Ontario and Dominion government working in harmony, the benefits of the Hydro-Electric project will soon be extended to eastern Ontario.

Trouble in Lisbon Over Chinese Women.

Lisbon, Nov. 28.—The disorders which occurred Sunday night owing to the expulsion of the Chinese women for the alleged exercise of a "cure" for blindness, at one time attained serious proportions. All the streets in the centre of the city were occupied by the cavalry, who charged continuously.

The populace, which was armed, offered a firm resistance to the troops and shots were freely exchanged. Suddenly a great explosion was heard on the Plaza Dom Pedro. The cavalry galloped up, unslinging their carbines and poured volley after volley through the windows of a cafe in which a great mob had taken refuge and barricaded themselves with chairs, divans and other furniture.

The mob answered the attack of the troops until all the large panes of glass were riddled with bullets. Then they surrendered. Two persons were found killed and a large number wounded on the floor of the cafe.

Radial Cars Stop.

Welland, Nov. 28.—There are no new developments in dispute between Thorold and the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Electric Railway. The electric franchise expired yesterday, and the company, not wishing to accede to the demands of the municipality of Thorold for $1,000 yearly rental, and a five cent fare between Thorold and St. Catharines, have ceased running their cars over the line. The rails are still down, and it is expected that a settlement between the municipality and the electric road will be reached shortly.

Thorold citizens are still able to visit St. Catharines on the main line on the electric cars, which operates on a private right of way.

GOLF POOL FOR THE CUE ARTISTS

Is Played on Ordinary Table and Calls for Fine Work

A new game yet to be introduced into the city billiard rooms is called golf pool.

In the play a pool or English billiards table, is used, the pockets representing a six hole golf course. The red and one cue ball are used. Play is started by spotting the red in the centre of the table and shooting from the "D" The pockets or holes are numbered in rotation from the corner pocket on the lower right hand side around to the one on the lower left. The object of the game is to see how many shots will be required to sink the red ball in each pocket in rotation. The player keeps on shooting at the red until it has been run into the first pocket, and then his antagonist takes the place, also starting from the "D" with the red ball in the centre. Any number of players may enter.

The second or side pocket is made with the cue ball being shot from the point where the last preceding player left it, the same applying to all of the pockets but the first. The red, however, is replaced in centre each time, it has been pocketed. In scoring each player keeps track of the number of shots needed to make the full round and of the number of pockets he wins. (A miss, scratch, or sinking the red ball in the wrong pockets, adds five strokes to the player's string. It is a game for delicate stick handling and fine judgment

MORE ANSWERS

By J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist

Q. What is Astigmatism of the eye?

A. Astigmatism is an uneven curvature of the eye and causes double focus. As the eye always strives for clear vision this double focus annoys the brain and causes headache and nervousness. We make lenses called cylinders to correct astigmatism.

Q. What causes double vision?

A. Double vision is caused by the eyes not being in line, that is, one may turn up or have a tendency to do so, or both may turn in; a weak muscular system is back of it all.

We would be pleased to have you call and let us explain how such conditions can be relieved with glasses.

HON. MR. WHITE MAKES MAIDEN SPEECH IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

He Replies to the Charge That He Is Connected With the Trusts—Reciprocity Is Dead and Most of the Opposition Are Sorry It Was Ever Born, He Declares — Conferring With Admiralty on the Navy.

Ottawa, Nov. 29—Hon. W. T. White, scored a triumph in his maiden speech in the House of Commons. He unequivocally denied the allegation that he was the nominee of the trusts, mergers and combines. Mr. Borden was not the man to submit to political duress and he (Mr. White) was not the man to accept office under such circumstances.

Reciprocity was dead and most of the Opposition were sorry it had ever been born. Its rejection was the greatest advertisement Canada had ever received in Great Britain.

He was greeted with prolonged applause from the Government benches when he rose to speak. He began by a reference to the personal reflections cast on him by the members for South Wellington and Welland (Hugh Guthrie and W. M. German). The former had asserted that he was the representative of the trusts, mergers and corporations. The latter had said that he had been forced into office because he had to obey the command of the head of his trust company.

"Now, sir, I desire to express an unequivocal denial of these allegations," declared Mr. White. "No more unjust accusation has ever been hurled across the floor of this House. The hon. gentleman in charge of this Government is not the man to submit to political duress, and I am not the man to accept a position under such circumstances."

With regard to mergers, Mr. White emphatically declared that he, for his part, had never had any interest in them.

Mr. White declared that it was not his intention to inflict a campaign speech on reciprocity in the House.

"Some hon. gentlemen," he said, "are unwilling to admit that reciprocity is dead. They seem to think that it is in a state of suspended animation."

Mr. White then shortly reviewed the economic argument of the Conservatives in the campaign. Farmers and manufacturers and labor men alike realised that they would lose a fine home market for a pact that had no assurance of permanency. Every business man in Canada breathed freer at the result of the election.

"What about the improved business tone since Sept. 21?" he asked. (Applause.) "What about the judgment of the London market in regard to Canadian securities?" The rejection of the reciprocity pact constituted the greatest advertisement Canada ever received in Great Britain."

The Opposition thought the Government should have brought down a naval policy. "The Government has had no time even to consider the bill of repairs of the Canadian navy, much less to mature and bring down a naval policy." (Laughter and loud applause.)

The naval policy of the Laurier Government was not only unsatisfactory to Quebec, but to Ontario and the other provinces as well. It would prove a source of great expense in peace and would be absolutely useless in time of war.

The Prime Minister proposed to consult the British Admiralty and then the whole question would be dealt with and the result would have the confidence of the people both of Canada and Great Britiain. In conclusion, Mr. White deprecated the attacks on the personnel of the Ministry, declaring that nothing but the greatest harmony had prevailed.

Hon. Frank Oliver complained that Mr. White mistook Ontario for the Dominion. He had not the proper view of the scope and responsibility of his position.

"With regard to trusts, mergers and combines, if he is not of them, they are behind him. The voice may not be the voice of Jacob, but the hand behind is the hand of Esau," he said.

Mr. Oliver declared that the demand for reduction of tariff taxation was never more alive than at this moment, and would win out eventually.

Reciprocity, however, as a mutual agreement with the Republican party, was dead, as they would not extend the chance for another forty years. If reciprocity had been submitted to the people of the United States, the same tactics that defeated it in Canada would have secured its defeat then.

There was the most gigantic aggregation of capitalistic influence brought together that this world ever saw (cheers from both sides) to win the fight for the trusts, mergers and combines.

When Mr. Oliver suggested that the West had not gone against reciprocity because the means were not applied there, an Opposition member insinuatingly suggested "homestead inspectors." The ex-Minister quoted largely from The Toronto World as samples of economic arguments, which he brushed aside as childish.

The financial oligarchy of Toronto and Montreal hold this country in a slavery more merciless than that of the trusts, mergers and combines of the United States, he declared.

LIBERAL LORDS ATTACK, THE TORIES DEFEND THE MINISTRY

London, Nov. 29.—The House of Lords last night discussed Anglo-German affairs, without arriving at any fresh revelations. Lord Courtney, Liberal, attacked the Government and Lord Morley of Blackburn, and Lord Lansdowne defended it.

Lord Courtney desired to know why Great Britain could not come to an arrangement with Germany as she did with France, Russia and the United States. He declared that Chancellor Lloyd-George had made an outburst of which no Englishman could be proud, that it naturally promoted ill-feeling in Germany and brought the country into real peril of war.

Viscount Morley said that the entente of 1894 was an agreement that Great Britain should have a free hand in Egypt, and France a free hand in Morocco. Great Britain had had her share of the profits, and it would be intolerable if they refused France hers.

"The whole nation," continued Lord Morley, immensely desire friendship with Germany. There is no reason why the German naval program should diminish the desire, but we must consider all the circumstances."

He declared that Sir Edward Grey had said everything possible to encourage better feeling. No Cabinet ever met with more intent of not drifting into a single unnecessary antagonism.

The Marquis of Lansdowne, leader of the Opposition, said that the entente would remain a dominant factor in Great Britain's foreign policy.

SENSATION IN THE McNAMARA CASE; BRIBER IS CAPTURED

Bert Franklin, an ex-U. S. Marshal Is Charged by Detective S. L. Brown With Trying to Corrupt a Juror With $4,000 In Bills—Franklin Was In Employ of Defence on Other Matters.

Los Angeles, Nov. 29.—S. L. Brown, chief of the department of investigation of the district attorney's office, arrested Bert Franklin, an ex-U. S. marshal yesterday on the charge of having attempted to bribe a prospective juror in the McNamara case.

Brown asserted that he caught Franklin attempting to pass $4,000 to G. N. Lockwood, summoned on the twelfth venire, and that the money was now in his possession.

Last night a pleased prosecution and a dumbfounded defence took stock of the day's work of Samuel L. Brown, chief investigator of the state, who arrested three men and stacked District Attorney Frederick's desk high with bank notes taken from the arrested men's pockets in Frederick's presence. Bert H. Franklin, a former deputy U. S. marshal, now employed by the McNamara defence as an investigator, released late yesterday on $10,000 cash bail, is to appear in court to-day to answer charges of bribery and attempted bribery, sworn to by Brown.

George H. N. Lockwood, an unsummoned venireman, and C. E. White, an alleged stakeholder, both arrested with Franklin, are at liberty, and, according to District Attorney Fredericks, they will appear as witnesses against Franklin.

Five hundred dollars, taken from Lockwood's pockets, is declared by the prosecution to have been the first payment of a sum which he would receive if he should prevent an adverse verdict in the McNamara case, and $3,500 found on White was declared to be the balance to be paid when the jury was discharged.

Rumors of a grand jury investigation to determine where the money came from, flew thick and fast last night. No grand jury is in session, but one may be called. This is not necessary, so far as Franklin is concerned, because his case can be taken care of through an information filed by the district attorney. Investigator Brown said that no more arrests would be made to-day.

There was nothing commonplace about the arrest of Franklin. A former deputy marshal, acquainted with criminal methods and the methods devised to catch criminals through his former employment, was arrested on a street corner in the heart of Los Angeles wholesale quarter in broad daylight, while a detective, disguised as a laborer, stood close enough to hear what was said.

Detective Brown, sheltered by a building, was close enough with his assistants to catch three men before two of them could take their hands out of their pockets, after, it is alleged, they had stuffed the money into them.

So, hands in pockets, the men were marched to the hall of records, where the McNamara trial is staged on the fourth floor. District Attorney Fredericks waited for them on the eleventh floor. Hands in pockets, they entered the office. When the hands came out, Brown declares, the yellow bills clung to their fingers. Twenty minutes later, Lockwood, the venireman, and White, supposed stakeholder, went out of the swing doors free men, hardly enough time having elapsed to allow the dictation and signing of a statement, if this were done. Announcement that they would appear against Franklin, as state witnesses, followed them out.

DR. GRENFELL IN PETERBOROUGH

When Dr Grenfell was in Peterborough two years ago, the Opera House was well filled with an admiring audience which applauded most heartily the talk which he gave concerning his work. How intently the people listened as he told of his experience, floating out seaward on the cake of ice—how he had to kill his dogs and get the skins to keep himself from freezing—how simply and humbly he told the story and how the audience cheered at its conclusion.

LEADER ROWELL IN NORTH BAY SIDES WITH THE FRENCH

Liberal Leader Talks of Needs of New Ontario.

North Bay, Nov. 29.—N. W. Rowell addressed a largely attended meeting yesterday in Sturgeon Falls and North Bay, afternoon and evening. The Liberal leader was given a cordial reception and devoted his remarks principally to the development of New Ontario and bilingual schools.

He advocated placing the T. & N. O. Railway on the same basis as other railways, and giving the people living on its line the same rights and remedies as those on any other. It should not be diverted from its primary purpose as a colonizing road. He pointed out Ontario's need of a Hudson Bay port, and condemned any settlement of the question of the boundary between Manitoba and Ontario in which this province had not a fair say.

Dr. G. W. Smith, president of the East Nipissing Liberal Association, was chairman.

A short speech was made by Mr. Robert Rankin, Liberal candidate in East Nipissing, and Dr. Bedard made a vigorous address in French.

He charged the present agitation against bilingual schools to the alleged vacillating policy of the Provincial Government in dealing with educational problems, and declared in favor of all children being able to secure a good English education, but against any attempt to deprive French-Canadian children of their mother tongue.

He condemned Dr. Pyne's statement that teachers should be confined to those whose mother tongue was English, thus depriving properly qualified teachers of other nationalities from employment.

The securing by Manitoba of the only two good seaports on Hudson Bay through the influence of Hon. Robert Rogers at Ottawa was characterized as a specimen of the Rip Van Winkle sleep of the Ontario Government.

A Tennessee Murder.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 29.—Borrowing a shotgun, James Merritt, son of a wealthy planter, killed Adolph Layne and surrendered to the authorities yesterday. The killing was the outcome of a fight that began several months ago, when Merritt wounded Layne, claiming Layne's attentions to Mrs. Merritt were obnoxious.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

WINSTON CHURCHILL SHAKES UP SEA LORDS OF ADMIRALTY

Admiral Sir Francis Bridgeman Is Now Commander-In-Chief of the Fleet, Replacing Admiral Wilson—Prince Louis of Battenberg and Capt. Pakenham Take Second and Third Place on the Board.

London, Nov. 29.—Important changes in the Admiralty are announced. Admiral Sir Francis Charles Bridgeman, commander-in-chief of the home fleet, is appointed First Sea Lord, replacing Admiral of the Fleet Sir Arthur Knyvet Wilson. Vice-Admiral Prince Louis of Battenburg becomes second Sea Lord, replacing Vice-Admiral Sir George LeClerc Egerton. Captain Wm. C. Pakenham, commander of the battleship Collingwood, becomes third Sea Lord, replacing Rear Admiral Charles Edward Madden.

Admiral Wilson has been offered a peerage, but declined, while the command of some important home port will be given to Vice-Admiral Egerton, on the first vacancy. Several changes in the fleet commands incident to these promotions are also announced.

The changes in the Admiralty came as a surprise to the public and are evidently the outcome of Winston Spencer Churchill's transference to the Admiralty. Questioned in the House of Commons last night Mr. Churchill denied that the changes implied any reflection on the outgoing sea lords, who, he pointed out, were due to retire early in 1912. He explained that important decisions must soon be taken regulating the naval policy for the coming two years. The Government, therefore, considered it advisable to make the changes now. These, he said, were necessary to unify the Admiralty Board and would lead to more effective work and administrative efficiency.

RUSSELL SUITS WERE DISMISSED

Big Pinkerton Cases Ended at Montreal

Montreal, Nov 29.—David Russell, the Montreal financier, who sued Manager McNamara and the Pinkerton Detective Agency for $250,000 damages, got a shock to-day, when both of the suits were dismissed

WOMAN HAD QUEER LIFE

Catherine Gordon Was Catherine Ryan of Montreal.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—Mr. Justice Middleton has reserved judgment on an application by L. F. Heyd, K.C., which reveals a strange case of a woman who was known for over thirty years in Toronto as Catherine Gordon and in Montreal as Catherine Ryan.

She died in St. Michael's Hospital in March, 1903, leaving $3,800, which was to be distributed by her executor, Judge Anglin. She left $1,000 to her sister, Maria Gordon of Ottawa, and $1,000, to Nett' Bench, of this city. The balance of her estate was left to the Sisters of St. Joseph, for the benefit of St. Michael's Hospital. After advertising, Judge Anglin received word from Maria Allison of Ottawa to the effect that she had a sister, Catherine Ryan, but there was no identification, and the matter dropped. Mr. Justice Anglin, failing to locate the heirs, turned the estate over to the Sisters, receiving a bond of indemnity from them.

This spring the husband of Maria Allison died, and she went to Montreal to look up her relatives. She then found that Catherine Gordon came to Toronto after the death of her mother in 1879, and that she was known by the name of Catherine Gordon. She then instructed Mr. Heyd to claim the $1,000 legacy.

No person in Toronto knew her save as Catherine Gordon, though she worked for the J. D. King Shoe Co. for 22 years. She frequently visited Montreal, where she was known as Catherine Ryan, and on her last visit left her night gown, which was marked with the name "Gordon." Affidavits from people in Montreal and Toronto seem to complete the identification.

Horse Distemper

Prince Edward Farmer Solemnly Declares "Nerviline" Is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline." Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P. E. "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat swelled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I tried different remedies, but was unable to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering till I started to use Nerviline. I mixed a bottle of Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in horses and cows, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

Nerviline CURES QUICKLY

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs, and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as "Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 50c, trial size 25c, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC

The price which the hydro-electric power commission is paying for power at Niagara Falls, to the Ontario Power Company, is $9 a horse-power. That is at the point of generation. This is a very low price of course, because a block of 25,000 horse-power is being taken to be distributed to municipalities throughout Western Ontario.

Now the arrangement with the municipalities by which the latter will get their power is that they will make a contract for whatever quantity they think they can use. They need not take the whole quantity of power under the contract, but they are liable to pay for seventy-five per cent of the quantity contracted for, whether used or not. As it has happened, however, many of the municipalities are already, within a very short time, using the full quantity of power contracted for, and some are contemplating supplementary contracts.

The municipalities pay for power, the primal or basic cost of $9 a horse-power, their proper share of the cost of transmission, their proper share of the interest charges and operating expenses. In fact, the price which each municipality pays for power to the commission is based on its distance from Niagara Falls, on the quantity to be taken, and a proportionate share of the general charges. So that London, for instance, pays more for its power than would Hamilton, this being natural, from its location so far inland, away from the point of generation.

But the result of the working of the hydro-electric system in other parts of the province has also been most gratifying. In Hamilton the Cataract company charged $87 per arc lamp for street lighting. An arbitration reduced this to $65, but when the hydro-electric company commission threatened to invade the field, the Cataract company made a contract for $47.50 per lamp. In addition, the company was forced to guarantee that its rates for power and lighting would be ten per cent lower than any schedule of prices made by the hydro-electric power commission.

In London, the private company reduced its lighting rate from 9 cents net to 4 1-2 cents net with no meter charge. This is a saving of 50 per cent to every one of the users in London.

In Ottawa, for instance, before there was power competition, the lighting charge was 15 cents per kilowatt hour, $40 per horse-power and $65 per arc lamp for lighting the streets. When the city's plant was operated, with power supplied by the hydro-electric commission, a surplus for three years was built up, so that rates were reduced, the reduction of 25 per cent from the new rates was made. The price after there was the civic competition was reduced to 7 1-5 cents per kilowatt hour for light, $25 per horse-power for power, and $45 per arc lamp for lighting.

So that the introduction of the hydro-electric power for the people at cost, has in nearly every case resulted in great benefit to the consumers. There is yet to be found a case where it did not result beneficially in the price of power and lighting. Peterborough has power at her very door. Shall it be said that Peterborough passed up its opportunity to get the hydro-electric system here, to compete with the $4,000,000 corporation?

EDITORIAL NOTES

The tribute of Mr G. A. Gillespie, defeated candidate, to Mr. Hall, puts one in mind of that celebrated advertisement. "Alas! my poor brother."

The famous Newmarket canal, is within a mile of the point where it will be opened. Thus another dry section of the province will become wet.

The hydro-electric power has made a wonderful difference to the western Ontario municipalities. Why should not Peterborough share in its benefits also?

Four dollars was paid for a throne on which the governor-general of Canada had sat, while at Rideau Hall, at an auction sale. No one seemed to value very highly the chance to occupy the seat of the mighty.

John Webster, M.P. for Brockville the man who defeated Hon. Geo. P. Graham, in the course of a speech in the house of commons on Monday, added to the gaiety of nations with this fine bull; Canada for the Canadians; that is the greatest battle-cry which has ever been unfurled.

One can easily understand the opposition of the Examiner to the hydro-electric. Not alone on political grounds, but because of its other affiliations the Examiner is anything but a disinterested newspaper, considering a proposition for the welfare of the people.

A rather curious case has been tried in a Montreal court. A girl who could not speak English very well went to a dentist to get an aching molar taken out. Her instructions become mixed in transmission and the dentist took out five front teeth, and she sued him for $1,500 damages for the horrible mistake. But she lost her case, as the dentist had followed what seemed to be the instructions.

The number of registrations improved materially yesterday, being only five hundred short, in total, of the Dominion registration. The next puzzle will be how to get these voters convinced that their vote should be cast. There is likely to be a strong disposition for voters to say, "Oh, Peck is sure to win. My vote is not necessary." If everyone said that, where would Mr. Peck be? The great consolation is that Mr. Hall seems to be utterly lost and forgotten by the voters generally.

THEY ACT QUICKLY AND ALWAYS CURE

Postmaster Tells of Quick Relief Dodd's Kidney Pills Give

Two of Them Taken Before Going to Bed Clears Away His Pain in the Back — Why They Always Cure More Serious Kidney Diseases.

Book Lake, Ont., Nov. 28. (Special) —How quickly Dodd's Kidney Pills relieve pain in the back when taken in time is evidenced by Mr. James Thomas, the well known and highly respected postmaster here.

"I wish to inform you that I always find relief for pain in the back when taking Dodd's Kidney Pills," says Postmaster Thomas. "Sometimes in the mornings I cannot straighten up for hours, but if I take two Dodd's Kidney Pills before going to bed the pain all disappears and I have no trouble in the morning."

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the Kidneys. When pain in the back is caused by slight Kidney disorders the pain is relieved at once. Where the complaint is of longer standing and the Kidneys are diseased the cure takes longer, but Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail. Thousands of Canadians tell of the cure of Kidney Disease of all forms, from pain in the back to Bright's Disease, by Dodd's Kidney Pills. There is not on record a single case of Kidney Disease or of diseases resulting from diseased Kidneys, such as Rheumatism or Dropsy, which Dodd's Kidney Pills have failed to cure if taken regularly and according to directions.

Cattle Prices Are Low.

Winnipeg, Nov. 29.—Ranchers throughout the prairie province are complaining bitterly over the price of domestic and export stock. Choice steers in Winnipeg are selling at $4.50 to $4.75 per cwt., and good steers $3.75 to 4.25. Large herds will be carried through the winter, which were ready for market, at a heavy loss. Big shippers who bought two months ago for delivery November 20, are refusing to ship and driving their herds to private ranges. Toronto, St. Paul and Chicago are taking some choice stuff at fancy prices.

Munched Complexion Dope.

Boston, Nov. 29.—Complexion tablets containing arsenic made a generation ago fell into the hands of Brighton school children this week, and now fifty or sixty pupils are sick, five or six of them in a dangerous conditon. The tablets were part of a stock of a chemist who, when moving, threw many boxes of the tablets into waste barrels. Children got hold of the tablets and took them for candy. The boxes were plainly marked poison.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 28.—There was a big demand again to-day for all grades of Manitoba spring wheat from foreign buyers, notwithstanding the weakness at American centres. Cables were firm and the prices bid in some cases were 1½d to 2d higher, but the volume of business done was small, owing to the fact that ocean going grain from Canadian winter ports is now becoming scarce, and this is probably going to check business to some extent.

There was no change in coarse grains, for which the demand is fairly good from local and outside buyers. There was considerable enquiry for bran on the basis of $22 for export account, but no sales were made, millers being closely sold up. In cheese the feeling is firm, but business quiet. Demand for butter and eggs is good. Provisions rule steady under a fair demand.

It Never Flickers

The long winter evenings give a woman a splendid chance for sewing or embroidery; but her eyes suffer from the strain unless she has a good light.

The Rayo is the best lamp made.

It gives a strong, diffused light that is remarkably easy to the eyes. There is no glare to it; no flicker. It lights up a whole room. The Rayo is an economical lamp, too.

You get the most possible light-value for the oil burned; and the Rayo itself is a low-priced lamp. Yet it is a handsome lamp—an ornament to any room in the house.

The Rayo Lamp is easily lighted without removing shade or chimney; easy to clean and rewick. Made of solid brass, nickel-plated; also in numerous other styles and finishes.

Ask your dealer to show you his line of Rayo lamps; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of Kitty for the nonce had donned cap and apron, and Anstruther was not the first to discover more charm and coquetry in a maid's cap than in her mistress's toilette.

"Does the family expect to be waited on or does it stretch?" she asked, saucily.

"What do you mean, Katherine?"

"Where I was last, the family had to be waited on when it had a party, but when it was by itself it stretched like this," and reaching across the table she possessed herself of a salt cellar.

"You went as a lady-help, I suppose," retorted Mrs. Rolt, severely, "all lady and no help, like Miss Moran."

"What was her story?" asked Anstruther.

"Oh, she came out to help the poor dear boys, her brothers. They could not afford to hire any help, and just pigged until she came. At the end of a fortnight their sister had discovered exactly ninety-nine different things, each of which was, "the only thing she never could do," and actually, guessing who it was who cleaned the boots, she put hers outside her bedroom door every night."

"And?"

"And? Oh, and she married, of course, and her brothers do just as they did whilst she was with them, except that her husband cleans her boots now."

But Anstruther was not listening to Mrs. Rolt's libel on lady-helps. Instead, he was gazing intently through the uncurtained window at the foot of his bed, to which the others had their backs turned.

"Who would be camping down the valley to-night, Mrs. Rolt?" he asked.

"In the hay meadows? No one."

"Is not that a fire? Surely, my eyes are not playing me false again?"

The Boss turned lazily in his chair.

"Yes, that is a fire sure enough. There are two of them. Do you see that little one just beyond the first?"

Suddenly Rolt's face changed. He sprang to the window, took one searching glance down the valley, and then turned sharply to his wife, his face working with some feeling which he strove to control.

"Mary, dear, I want to speak to you for a moment. Will you excuse us, Frank?" and laying his hand on Kitty's shoulder as he passed, he whispered, "Keep him quiet whatever happens. I rely on you," and then he followed his wife from the room.

Once outside the door, his manner changed. "It's our stacks, little woman. Those devils are firing our winter feed. Keep cool and run now and tell the men in the dining-room. I'm off to the mess house to get the half-breeds. Keep your heart up; we'll stop them before they can do much damage."

He was running downstairs as he spoke, and snatched a Winchester from its rack as he passed out of the hall.

Mary Rolt's heart sank as she saw him snatch the rifle, but she did his bidding as he would have had her do it, with the utmost coolness, and when the men had rushed out after their master, she went back to the sick-room. There was no need for any explanation there.

Through the uncurtained window a glare of red light proclaimed the work that was on hand, even if the noise of saddling up and the hurry of hoofs beneath the window and the short sharp sentences of the mounting men had not told the tale.

"Is it shoot, Al?" they heard someone ask.

"Shoot? Aye, shoot to kill, curse them. Git, you devil," and a clatter of hoofs told that the horse had "got."

"Never mind the near stacks, boys; you can't save them. Ride for all you are worth to the first that is not lighted, and—" the Boss's voice died out as he galloped away with his men.

At the back of the ranch and on both sides of it lay a great enclosed meadow of about a thousand acres in a long parallelogram, and down the middle of it ran a chain of hay stacks, each fenced in, the feed upon which depended the safety of Rolt's stock if a hard winter should come.

There are years, many of them, luckily, in which these stacks need not be touched. In an open winter the cattle are carried without having resort to the store laid up for a hard spell, and in consequence some men trust to luck and keep little or no reserve of hay.

These are the men who fall in the cattle business. Sooner or later a deep snow comes; so deep that the cattle cannot paw it away to get at the grass beneath, and then the men who have not provided against such times lose every head of stock.

It means ruin to the improvident, but Dick Rolt was not such a fool as to take any chances where the safety of his cattle was concerned. Three years' hay was stacked in the thousand acres, and if none of it should be used the next year's crop would be cut and stacked just the same.

The sight which met the eyes of those who watched at the window would have been weirdly beautiful if the meaning of it had not been so hideous. The night was one which not only precluded any possibility of accidental ignition, but made it difficult to understand the rapidity with which stack after stack burst into flames.

The heavy Scotch mist with which the valley was filled—a freezing mist, which was almost rain—was crimson now.

Over twenty stacks, beginning with the one nearest to the ranch house, were in flames, one here and there which had failed to ignite standing out black and exaggerated in size, in the fierce light made by its fellows, whilst the roar of the burning could be heard where the watchers stood.

Down in the middle of the valley ran a chain of red fire, whilst the walls of it were still darkness made darker by contrast, and in this, imagination could paint the twelve or fourteen men who rode with their weapons in their hands and murder in their hearts.

Once or twice a figure was seen near the farthest of the stacks, thrown out in bold relief for a moment as the devil's work succeeded and the flames took hold, but though Mary Rolt held her breath to listen, there came no rattle of fire arms.

"Twenty-three, Mary, but it is ten minutes since the last blazed up."

"Stop where you are, Kitty. Mr. Anstruther, for God's sake, don't try to move. You can't help now," was Mrs. Rolt's only answer, and then she ran through her husband's bath-room and they heard her taking the stairs in headlong flight.

"Phon, oh, Phon," they heard her call, "bar the kitchen window, quick! Indians come cut your throat," and whilst she spoke they heard her turning the keys in the main doors and putting up the great bars.

"Run to her, Kitty, and help her. I shall be all right."

"Will you swear to keep still, Frank?"

"I swear. Run, dear."

The girl obeyed him, and a few moments later Mrs. Rolt, Kitty, and the frightened Chinese cook re-entered the room.

"They can't get in now unless they burst the doors," sobbed Mrs. Rolt, breathless with her exertions. "Watch that back door, Kitty, whilst I call the men," and she ran to her husband's room again for the revolver which hung there.

Tearing away the curtains, and throwing the little window open, she peered out, but the light inside was too bright. She could see nothing.

"Put the lamp out, Kitty," she called, and as the light went out in obedience to her order, she saw dimly something moving in the shadow of a house where the stores were kept.

At once her revolver rang out, shot after shot, until every chamber was empty. It mattered little whether she hit or missed. The main thing was to recall the men, and almost before she had ceased firing a horse's hoofs thundered through the corrals, and a voice hailed her.

"That you shooting, Polly? Take care. Don't shoot any more," and then for a moment there was bedlam in the darkness outside, horses galloping amongst the buildings, and men running, and twice the sharp metallic ring of a rifle.

After that the main body of galloping hoofs seemed to recede towards the hills, but the Boss and old Al rode up to the house.

"Open the door and give me a lantern, my girl. They have all gone, I think, except two, and they won't do any more harm."

There was a hardness in the Boss's voice, which Mary Rolt had never heard before in all the years she had known him, but then she had never seen him before in the light of his blazing stacks.

"Did you see anyone when you fired," he asked, as soon as she had let him in.

"I think so, but I am not certain. Oh, Dick, I have not killed anyone, have I?" she cried, breaking down suddenly, and clinging to him.

"Steady, there; steady, little woman. Keep your nerve a bit longer. You are doing splendidly. No, you have not hit any one, more's the pity. Where did you think you saw them?"

"Over there by the store-house."

"Ah! But they could not get in in the time. Lucky we tumbled to their game. Just go and look at the house, Al,' touching his arm and whispering, "say nothing if the missus has shot straight."

The old man nodded and went out.

In a couple of minutes he was back again for the lantern. When he returned again he handed the Boss a key.

"I thought as you allus kept that yourself, Boss."

"Where did you find it?"

"In the door of the store-house."

Rolt looked down at it for a moment. "The old devil," he muttered.

"Jest so. But how did he come to get it?"

"Old Mary must have stolen it from my room when she came begging this afternoon."

"Guess so. Women had ought to do their own chores. I ain't got no use for Injins round a ranch. They've got all the rifles."

"What?"

"All them spare rifles and three or four dozen boxes of cartridges, I should say, though some of them won't help em much. The rifles are forty-fives, and half the cartridges were for your fifty hundred and ten. Guess we bustled em a bit or they wouldn't have made such a fool break as that."

Whilst they were speaking Mary Rolt had remained unnoticed with them. Now her husband saw her and bade her run up stairs and tell the other two that it was all over and no harm done.

When she had gone master and man faced each other for some minutes in silence.

"Can't save the stacks, Al?"

"That don't make no odds. We've plenty left."

"I suppose so, if we are lucky enough to live to want it."

Oh, we shall We'll pull through all right, but I wish the women folk were out of this, at Sody Creek or Victoria."

"You think it is war, then?"

"You bet it's war. What did they want them rifles for. They only burned the stacks to get a show at the store."

There was no answer to this, but the two listening heard the beat of the returning hoofs, and before long about half of the men of the ranch reined up their lathering horses in front of the mess house.

"Did you get any of 'em?" asked Al.

"Devil a hoof."

"You got sick of the hunt mighty quick."

"Yes," drawled one of the boys. "I ain't almighty stuck on night huntin'. Once you're over the hog's back it's darker nor the ways of a provincial politician. It's so blanked dark it fairly drowns you after that glare," and he looked towards the blazing stacks. "The Injins kinder sunk out of sight in it."

"We shall have to send some one to warn the Faircloughs."

"That's done, Boss. I sent Dan. He's up half way to Grouse Creek by now if the Injins haven't got him."

"Thank you, Al. I think two of you had better come in and sleep in the house to-night, just to reassure the ladies. The rest of you had better sleep with your horses, and there will have to be a couple on the look out all night. They might try to rush us."

"Not whilst them illuminations is turned on," said Al. I guess you can sleep solid to-night. When it's dark it will be different. But I'll see to the look-outs, Boss, when we've put them two out of sight," and he pointed to where something lay in the shadow of the stables.

"It was a pity as it was Kineeshaw," he added. "There'll be no let up now until they wipe us out or some one lets daylight into old Khelowna. He thought a heap of Kineeshaw."

CHAPTER XVIII.

That night the watchers watched in vain. The three and twenty stacks of good hay which should have been turned into beef at thirty or forty dollars a head, flared up and then died down into clear red hearts of fire, and in the white day light were nothing but grey spots on the home meadow. They had been licked up as clean as the mist was by the sun, and left little more trace than the Indians who had lighted them.

These had vanished utterly.

Two spots of fresh turned earth, outside the corrals, might suggest the recent presence of the Chilcotens to those who knew what lay below, but these and the charred railings where the stacks had stood were all the traces they had left.

From the hog's back to the black timber of the enclosing hills there was no sign of a camp fire, no hint of a man's presence, and one by one the scouts sent out from the ranch came back with the same story. The Indians had been about a score in number, and were not now to be seen, neither had they left any trail to say which way they had gone. The most experienced among the trackers guessed that they had scattered, and it was impossible to say where they would reunite. But Jim would be back, said the men, and then they could make up their minds what to do.

But Jim did not come. Though they watched for him from hour to hour; though even an ordinary rider in ordinary haste might have been back before the second night fell. The dark came again, and with it no Jim Combe.

Neither did morning bring him, and it was not until late afternoon on the fourth day that two men walked slowly before their led horses into the corrals.

Kitty, whose impatience was devouring her, saw them come. Jim was smoking, of course, and staring about him as he slouched along without a sign of haste, without a shout to tell that he had come. Surely never any man walked as slowly as Jim Combe, never any man looked less like the express messenger returned.

STOMACH TROUBLES CANNOT EXIST

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 26, 1910.

"I was troubled with Indigestion for several years, and after eating suffered intensely with sour stomach, belching of gas, heartburn, etc., and everything I ate seemed to lay in my stomach and made me feel all puffed up and distressed. Someone proposed that I try a box of your No. 11 Dyspepsia Tablets, which I did, and to my delight found immediate relief. I am now enjoying three meals a day, and feel that your No. 11 Tablets deserve all the credit. Those who have stomach trouble, and especially men who travel on the road eating at different places every day should try No. 11 Tablets, as they will relieve you of Indigestion, and enable you to enjoy your meals."

Lyman W. Cox.

NEW GLASGOW, N. S., Nov. 10, 1910.

"For the past two years I have used Father Morriscy's No. 11 Dyspepsia Tablets, and during that period have not suffered the severe attacks of Indigestion to which I had been a victim for many years. My attacks were very distressing, and no need to say I am glad to be relieved, and I feel that your No. 11 Dyspepsia Tablets deserve all the credit. For years I did not know what it was to enjoy a good meal, but now I can eat anything on the bill of fare with no distressing after-effects—thanks to No. 11 Tablets."

Geo. J. McQuarrie.

The above prescription is not a "Cure-All" or so-called patent medicine. Dr. Morriscy prescribed it for 44 years, and it cured thousands after other doctors failed.

FOR THE DEEP SEA MISSION

Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell's Great Work Before the People of Peterborough—Ministerial Association's Appeal.

The people of Peterborough are addressed with regard to a matter which will surely have much sympathy and heartiest co-operation. The whole civilized world knows of the splendid work of Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell among the deep sea fishermen of Labrador.

For years a number of interested citizens have held what was known as the Deep Sea Mission Ball in the month of December. As there will be no ball this year the Ministerial Association has assumed the responsibility of appealing to the public to make up the usual sum without the festivity of former years. Surely the Christian people of our city will respond promptly and gladly. Never did the mission require funds more than it does this year. Peterborough will not leave its share undone.

Contributions sent to the newspaper offices will be acknowledged promptly by Mrs. James Wood, who has consented to act as treasurer of the fund.

On behalf of the Ministerial Association.

A Result Worthy of Consideration

Endowment Policy No. 34022 was issued to a local citizen twenty years ago for which he paid in ten annual instalments to the Company in all premiums, amounting to $688.50. He now receives a single cash payment of $1273.65 which as an investment is over 4% compound interest, or he may accept $750.60 in cash, which is $62.10 more than he paid in, together with a paid up policy for $1000, payable at death which earns profits every year during the balance of his life.

Where can a young man or woman find a better way of saving money as well as providing a protection for those dependent upon them.

The above is the result of a matured policy in the SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA, payable on December 1st., 1911.

BIFOCALS
OR—
DOUBLE VISION GLASSES

Most people think, when buying Bifocal Glasses, that a large segment or reading area is required. With very few exceptions this is not so, as most bifocals are required for constant use, and the successful fitting of these lenses depends not so much on furnishing the largest reading portion possible, but on placing a minimum disk or wafer in exactly the correct position. A small wafer accurately placed will afford ample field for reading, writing and sewing, and will overcome the tendency to make mis-steps in going up and down stairs, an experience not uncommon to wearers of bifocals with too large reading segments

We make a specialty of filling Bifocal Lenses in VISIBLE, SEMI-INVISIBLE and INVISIBLE.

CANADIAN CLUB

Mr. A. S. Goodeve M. P. for British Columbia Coming

The Executive of the Canadian Club is endeavoring to arrange with prominent Canadian men to address the club on purely Canadian subjects.

Some criticism has lately been expressed against some Canadian Clubs especially in large cities where it is claimed too much attention is given to the entertainment of distinguished strangers instead of to purely Canadian subjects. It will be the aim of the Canadian Club of Peterborough to have as its speakers as far as possible, men from different parts of Canada and addresses on Canadian topics. The executive has been in communication with a number of well known Canadians, and the prospects are good for several interesting meetings, during the coming season.

Mr A. S. Goodeve, M.P., for British Columbia, has accepted an invitation from the executive to visit the club at a date yet to be decided.

Boston, Nov. 29.—Lines on which the defence may base its case in the coming trial of Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, charged with the murder of his one-time sweetheart, Avis W. Linnell, are possibly indicated in statements which Dr. H. O. Connor, a former member of the Idaho State Prison Commission, says the minister made to him in his cell.

Mr. Connor is visiting eastern prisons. He quoted the accused minister as saying in substance:

"My engagement to Avis Linnell was broken by mutual consent, owing to the fact that Miss Linnell, who was a student at the New England Conservatory of Music, intended to pursue a professional career. I was no way responsible for Avis' physical condition, and surprised when she unbosomed herself to me as her former pastor and friend, seeking the sympathy and relief which I found myself unable to give. As to the manner in which she procured the cyanide I have no idea."

MRS. THOMAS JEWITT RECEIVES LETTER FROM HER SISTER WHO WRITES FROM HANKOW

Mrs. Shantz, nee Davidson Tells of Missionaries' Rescue From Wuchang.

Mrs Thomas Jewitt, of 505 Patterson street, city, has just received the following letter from her sister, Mrs Shantz, of Wuchang, China. It will be remembered that Wuchang was the first city to fall into the hands of the revolutionists;

Hankow, Oct 13th, 1911.

My Dear Sister,—No doubt long before this reaches you you will have heard of the trouble in China Again, for the third time in China, we have had to leave our home and belongings, so here we are in Hankow, with only a suit case of clothing for Albert and myself Last Tuesday morning, not knowing of any trouble at all in the city, I planned to go over to Hankow with one of our family About an hour before we were to start, we got news that the city gates were shut, and no one could get out It seemed rather strange to us, but we did not go out to see later on we heard the gates were open, but did not feel we should try to go without one of the gentlemen, and they were busy Then we heard again the gates were shut, and we began to realize we were really shut in, and at the mercy of 2,000 or more Chinese soldiers, who seemed to be running loose all day Wednesday A lot of them were on a hill, just a little way from our place They had there four or five cannon, and guns and swords They kept shooting all day long We found out that the rebellion was not against the foreigners, but against their own government, and so these rebels held the city We were uneasy, and did not know at what time they might turn on us Wednesday night was very quiet, but shots were fired off and on There were so many of us (ten missionaries and some children) that had we to flee for our lives, we would have had a hard time Mrs. Stewart was with us with a month old baby Her husband had gone to the mountains to look after building, and when he came back, he could not get into the city We could not get any word from Hankow, and they could not get any word from us but on Thursday a London mission doctor and another missionary got over the city wall, and when they got to the river, they saw an American launch going by, and waved for it to come near to the shore Who should be on it but the American Consul and several others who were coming over to try to get into Wuchang to get us all out. They succeeded in getting into the city, and got permission from the head of the rebels to let all the foreigners and the students in our schools out of the city. Then we all gathered at the American church mission and about 40 missionaries marched out of the city. The launch took us to Hankow where it is safer in a way, as we are not shut up, and there are lots of foreign gunboats and soldiers here to protect us. But the three cities are in the hands of the rebels and we have no idea what will come next. We may have to go to Shanghai but we hope not. The children are in Kuling, at school. We will leave them there unless we go to Shanghai. It may be a good thing for China if the government is changed but we would all prefer to be out of China, while the change is going on.

Oct 14th—We hear this morning that 20,000 troops are coming from the north. If this is so we will have some fighting. Well, the Lord is able to care for us, and we will trust Him, who never makes a mistake. Now do not worry about us. I will let you know quite often how things are going. We cannot say there is no danger, but we hope for the best. From where we are we can get to a steamer in ten minutes if need be. The Lord is good and will care for us With lots of love,

MARY SHANTZ

Mrs Shantz before her marriage, was Miss Davidson and known to her many friends in the city as Minnie.

THEFT OF PEANUTS

Young Man Charged But No Conviction Was Made

A police court case this morning hinged on the question of whether a quantity of peanuts or just half a peanut was stolen from the C.P.R. freight shed on Nov 28th.

The party accused of the theft of a quantity of peanuts is a young carter, who with two companions, were noticed in the freight shed by special Detective Pinchin on the morning of the day mentioned

Acting on instructions from Mr. W. S. Dodd, the station agent, Mr. Pinchin was watching the freight sheds in the endeavor to locate the source of petty thieving which had been occurring He secreted himself in the bonded warehouse and noticed he said, the prisoner go towards some candy boxes, examine them carefully and then proceed to some bags of peanuts The officer noticed prisoner take out a handful and put them in his pocket and also saw him throw some to the other young fellows He went down, took the lad by the arm and led him to the bag, where he asked him if he had taken some peanuts The prisoner replied "yes." and Mr Pinchin then took him into Mr Dodd's office, where he again admitted the theft when questioned

JUST TOOK ONE

The accused went into the box, and swore that he had only taken one peanut, which was sticking up through the bag, and that he gave half of it to one of his companions.

His Worship, although inclined to doubt the truthfulness of the yarn, could not make a conviction from two such conflicting stories, therefore discharging the accused with a warning that he was on suspended sentence.

The steamer, "F. J. Sullivan" is detained at Fort William by the Crown Attorney's orders because members of the crew would not testify in an assault charge against the ship's cook.

MASHER WAS FINED

Magistrate Dumble Scores Young Man for His Conduct

Was Too Fresh With Young Domestic, a Stranger

"The women and girls of the city must know that they can be protected," said Police Magistrate Dumble, this morning when assessing a young man named Ralph Watson $10 for assaulting a young English domestic aged twenty-two, who is in the employ of Mr. Popham, 151 Lock street The circumstances of the young mashers actions were briefly noted, at the time of his arrest and the reason of the postponed trial was owing to the young lady suffering from severe nervous shock necessitating a doctors' care.

The trial brought out some features which are typical of some of the insults young unprotected girls are forced to contend with when strangers to a town or city.

F. D. Kerr appeared for the prisoner and entered a plea of "not guilty."

COMPLAINANT'S STORY

The young lady herself was placed in the witness box first. She stated that she was waiting on a girl friend on Sunday night, Nov. 19th, who was at St John's church. About nine o'clock or a little earlier as her friend did not appear, she commenced to walk south on her way home, when the prisoner came up behind her and passed a remark about the weather, and of it being a frosty evening. It was rather slippery walking and he took her arm. He passed the remark that she was a stranger and that he, although a stranger to the city also, had seen her before. She told him to let go her arm, and she withdrew her arm

"What did you do then," asked the chief of the witness.

"I pushed him away."

The man then remarked that there was no one looking.

"I replied that I don't care if there is not anybody looking."

While he had hold of me by the arm he asked me to kiss him, and on my refusal he drew my head towards him and kissed me of his own accord, and passed a remark about the powder on my face. He also lifted me off the ground and said "Don't go in yet kiddy, it is not nine o'clock"

"Did he make any suggestions to you," asked His Worship.

"No, save that he asked me to go further. He followed me up the walk and kissed me again."

Questioned by Mr. Kerr, witness said she had only been here about three weeks, and in Canada two months, coming here from Montreal to accept a position as domestic with Mrs. Popham.

The prisoner was placed in the box by Mr. Kerr and gave his version of the affair.

"I didn't lift her off the ground," he replied, when questioned, "and I had no intentions of committing any impropriety," he added.

His Worship summed up the case very tartly, commenting upon the actions of the prisoner as being very improper.

"Would you like some fellow to act to your sister like that," he added

"My sisters are able to take care of themselves," was his reply.

"Well they need to when such fellows as you are around," said His Worship.

Mr Kerr called witnesses who testified to the character of the defendant.

"It is quite evident," said Magistrate Dumble in concluding the case "that you consider this young girl, to be a 'woman of the street,' and your conduct towards her was in keeping with your thoughts."

F. D. Kerr endeavored to change His Worship's opinion by pointing out that his client was not guilty of any more impropriety than are others who accompany girls of the best character to their homes, without previously knowing them, and that the prisoner was only guilty of any wrong doing in kissing her.

The fine was ordered to be paid forthwith.

DRAINAGE QUESTIONS

Were Taken up by the Board of Works

At a meeting of the Board of Works last evening, W. H. Denham addressed the members regarding a system of drainage, which might be used to prevent water draining in on the railroad tracks at the siding at the Quaker Oats Plant He suggested that the water be diverted out on to Hunter street. He considered it would only be a small expenditure, to help drain the water out into the sewer and thence into the river.

Chairman Metheral will go over and inspect the place and see if such a plan was feasible.

While Mr Denham was present the Board inquired of him if it would be possible for him to have the tracks at the Quaker crossing raised, and make the grade down Hunter street, east, continuous. As it is there are several complaints about the rough condition of the crossing.

The mayor thought it would be wise to have a report from the City Engineer regarding its condition and the suggestion met with general favor.

A motion was put through moved by Ald. Anderson, seconded by Ald. Brown that the City Engineer accompanied by the chairman, look over the ground, and report back to the Board.

RINK STREET DRAIN.

Ald Metheral stated that the main reason for calling the meeting was in reference to the Rink street drain. J. H. Burnham, M.P., had been written to about the matter, and Mr. J. H. McClelland who was present, explained the state in which the matter rests at present The Government is building a dock at the end of Rink street and is desirous of continuing the city drain, which is about eight feet from the new dock at present, through the wharf and out into the lake. Mr. McClelland's proposition was for the council to supply him with about 100 feet of pipe, and the Government would continue the drain.

Ald Buller considered it to be a fair proposition and thought the city should buy the pipe and let the Government put in the drain.

Mr McClelland expressed his willingness to have the city engineer inspect the work as it proceeded and abide by his suggestions. He furthermore offered to write a letter accepting the responsibility for any breakages that might occur.

T. A. S. Hay suggested placing a man-hole half way between George street and the face of the wharf.

Ald Buller moved a motion of acceptance of Mr. McClelland's offer which found a seconder in the mayor and carried.

The dock is expected to be completed next year.

The McDonald Estate will be notified by the city solicitor to clear their lumber off Rink street, by April 1st, also any people who have boat-houses on the route of the drain.

CAUSE OF FLOODING.

The culvert across Hunter street has been examined to ascertain the cause of water lying in it. It was found to be due to a leak in the water main, thus causing Mr. Caney's property to be flooded

Since then the waterworks superintendent has visited the scene and reports no leak, and Mr. Hay said that there must be a very strong spring there.

TELEPHONE POLES.

A communication was received from the Bell Telephone Co. to get permission to open streets for several poles to be erected in East City to accommodate intending subscribers. The City Engineer examined Mark street, and recommended that the permission be granted.

The power people are bringing pressure to bear upon the telephone people to make them take their wires off their poles and be independent," said the engineer. Ald. Buller said that the amalgamated power company's lines should be on the one pole.

The Bell people's request was granted, on motion of Ald. Anderson and Graham.

A letter was read addressed to the mayor, from the Hastings Granite company, asking the City Council to give them a show by using their crushed granite stone, whenever the city requires any.

Those present at the meeting were Chairman Metheral, Aldermen Buller, Anderson, Brown, Graham, Mayor Morrow, City Engineer Hay and City Solicitor Hall.

"Y" CAMPAIGN

Only Few More Days for Membership Workers

The advantages of membership in the Y.M.C.A. are self-evident. All that is needed to make a man a member is to show him through the "Y" If he doesn't then join himself he gets his son to. At least quite a few find it that way. Here's the proof

A couple of weeks ago the Y.M.C.A. gave a reception to the employes of the Brinton Carpet Co. Quite a few of the young men came up and spent a pleasant evening

One of the "Y" members among the Brinton aggregation is the kind of a fellow we need more of. He went round among among his fellow workers and got five of them to join. Did all workers do as well as this young fellow a new addition would be needed to the present building

Now here is the way the young fellow looks at his recent work. He feels good, because he did his friends a good turn. No pleasure like doing something for someone else. The "Y" officers feel good because they have five more much needed members; and his friends feel good, because they were put next a good thing. They all feel good.

The business men of the city believe in the Y.M.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. boys. The boys who know believe in it, too. One winter in the "Y" and they never again let $5.00 stand in between it and them. They know it is well invested

When Y.M.C.A. canvassers call on the young fellows around town this week we bespeak for them encouragement and assistance. Yoin yourself and help to get your friends to join also. Anyway, go and have a look around the "Y". You will get a friendly welcome

HANDSOME PRIVATE GREETING CARDS

Have You Ordered Your's Yet? Get a Style of Card That Has Some Individuality About It.

Once again, and more urgently this time, be advised on the matter of personal greeting cards for Christmas, to send to the many friends to whom we wish to send greetings, something more than a mere Christmas card, yet nothing in the nature of a gift. There is nothing to take the place of these little cards which leave no obligation in their wake, but merely a warm friendly feeling about the cockles of one's heart, in the realization that one has been remembered. Indeed, the wonder is that no one originated the idea twenty-five years ago. However, they did not, and though these cards have been used in England for a number of years, they are still sufficiently uncommon here, to have the little touch of originality about them which we like.

Of course one must bear in mind that there are private greeting cards—and private cards, and that although with the same idea, are not in accordance with good taste. One does not want a common card such as might be picked up at any counter, but something which has a quiet refinement about it. And so one cannot do better than suggest the Review's name in this connection, as their stock of these cards has been most carefully selected, and while there is something to please each particular fancy, yet it is invariably in good taste. Each style has its individuality about it and is not duplicated. You cannot secure the Review's greeting cards at any other bookstore, so there is not chance of the design being too common

And, by the way, order your cards very soon, as the prettiest are being snatched up by the "wise virgins" 2d

SERIES OF LIVE SUBJECTS FOR PARK STREET

Would Christ Attend or Patronize a Charity Ball?

Next Sunday evening the Rev W. C Riddiford will commence a series of sermons at the Park street Baptist church on the general theme, Pertinent Questions the Peterborough Public are Asking, and their Answers." These messages for the people will be preached at the evening services at 7 p.m., and are as follows:

December 3rd—A question for dancers. Would Christ attend or patronize a "Charity Ball" to help the poor or missions?

December 17th—A question for dead-beats, and debt contractors who will not pay. Should the house of God be in debt? If so, how, far?

December 24th—A question of marriage, or getting married. Why is a uniform marriage law in Canada a necessity?

December 31st—A question of councillors. What kind of men do we need in the council?

These questions were put in the question boxes which the pastor placed at the door of the Park street church, and from time to time he intends to try and give an intelligent and scriptural answer to all these questions the people are asking. All are invited.

GEORGE ST CHOIR SHOWS ABILITY TO ENTERTAIN WELL

Congregation as Guests at "Irish Night" in Lecture Hall

The choir of George street church demonstrated to a very marked degree, their ability to entertain, when as their guests, a large number of the congregation gathered in the lecture hall last night and spent a most enjoyable time. Everyone was made to feel perfectly at home. It was Irish night, and the program, particularly appropriate, was carried out with splendid success. Every number was bright and interesting and at the close of the entertainment a vote of thanks, on motion of Messrs. Switzer and Nugent was tendered the choir by the pastor, Rev. Isaac Couch.

In introducing the program the organist and choirleader, Mr. J. H. Renwick, on behalf of the choir, warmly welcomed the congregation. He referred to the choir as the hardest working organization of the church and bespoke for them the co-operation of the congregation, and if all did their part, the church life would be even more successful.

The program was as follows:

SPECIAL REPORTS.

To the Warden and members of the County Council;

Gentlemen,—Acting under instructions of your committee appointed to inspect Brown's Bridge in the township of Belmont with power to act." I have had old wooden abutments and pier removed and replaced with cement concrete abutments and piers. The short span at the southern end of this bridge has been removed and the space filled in with stone. There remains a few trifling details to be completed when the whole will be a very satisfactory and substantial work.

JAS. W. RUSSELL,
Reeve of Belmont and Methune.

COMMITTEE ON COUNTY PROPERTY.

Your committee recommend as follows:—That the steam pipes now exposed be wrapped, and a room partitioned in boiler house for fireman and a radiator placed in lavatory at boiler house and that chairman have full power to carry the same into effect.

W. J. PORTER,
Chairman

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS

That Wm. White be employed to look after the steam heating, to be paid $2 per day or $14 per week, while he is needed for such purpose.

J. KNOX,
Chairman.

The chairman of the Roads and Bridges committee reported as follows:

Your committee as per order of council, with power to act, visited Krager's bridge in Harvey, assumed the same and had it substantially rebuilt with heavy cedars and stone approaches at a small cost of something over $300.

While in the vicinity of Krager's bridge, your committee, at the instance of Mr Coben, visited what is known as Molyneaux bridge, Galway. The special minutes will explain to you the existing conditions with regard to this bridge.

The Brown's Falls bridge has been completed in a very satisfactory manner, having some 100 feet filled in with stones and 76 feet steel bridge with cement floor, thereby shortening the bridge proper and building permanent stone fills, saving now and for all time expenditure by the county. We are, as stated before, relying on the promise of Dr Reaume, the Provincial Minister of Public Works, to recommend to his colleagues the one-half of cost of construction. I might say that Mr. Tucker deserves credit for the satisfactory manner in which all work under his supervision was performed.

As per further order of council your committee named, visited Brown's Brown's bridge, Belmont, and decided, as per minute here attached, to carry out the suggestion of Mr Russell, who had heretofore consulted the engineer, and not having had time to inspect it since completion, the standing of Mr Russell will be sufficient guarantee for the committee to place upon him the responsibility of the report.

With reference to the Pigeon Creek bridge, as you are all aware, the minute of the meeting on September 6, decided to await action from the other two municipalities interested, and as no action has been reported to our county office, it remains as you left it, save the temporary repairs ordered by Mr Killen.

Spencer's bridge was carried to completion also in a very satisfactory manner, and much credit is due to Mr Darling for his tenacity when labor seemed almost impossible to secure, yet the cost of construction is very considerate with the good work done.

I also wish to say that the Baptie Bros performed their part of the work with great skill and speed, and the cost of the various abutments of the three bridges undertaken by them as day work is less than half of the amount tendered for similar work heretofore.

The matter of looking into county roads system was dealt with by special meeting, and resulted in placing the matter for the present in the hands of Mr Garbutt and myself, who will report to you when called upon.

Believe me, your humble servant,
(Signed),
W. G. HOWDEN

"Did you treat any person else," asked His Worship.

"No," was the reply.

WHAT ARE ACADIANS?

First People, Who Originally Came from France, to Settle in Nova Scotia.

In 1633 Isaac de Rozelly and Chorulsey brought some families from France to Nova Scotia. This was the first successful attempt at colonization in this country. These families were the progenetors of the Acadean race, bruised to the rigors of the severe coast climate, but they were persevering and industrious, and soon reclaimed from the sea a very fertile valley. French exiles from the province of Acades in France, they multiplied until they soon peopled the valley from Port Royal to Pesquie. They spread also around the Bay of Funday. In this race, whose romantic nature furnishes the theme for Longfellow's Evangeline, we find the seat of the French war — a war upon racial lines. The struggles of the Acadeans forms the most striking period of Nova Scotian history.

CRUISER SOLD TO CANADA.

Change of Canadian Policy Won't Affect Naval Officers.

London, Nov. 29.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The cruiser Aboukir has been purchased by Canada and her crew are being paid off. She will be thoroughly overhauled and transferred to Canada next spring.

In reply to a question in the Commons by Craig, M.P., who asked what effect the dropping of the Canadian navy by the present Ministry would have on the status or careers of those officers lent to Canada, and whether it prejudiced their positions and prospects of promotion, Hon. Winston Churchill said the contingency contemplated the officers on the active list who had been lent, would return for service in the Imperial navy.

Service in the Dominion navy counts as though in the Imperial navy.

Joe Martin, M.P., asked if an officer had just been found guilty by a court-martial of negligence in running his ship on the rocks, and whether another was now being tried for a similar offence. Mr. Churchill said: "I don't think it is desirable for me to reply without an opportunity of verifying the facts."

The Aboukir, built in 1900, has fourteen guns, 12,000 tons displacement and 21,000 horsepower. She is a first-class cruiser with 21 knot speed. Her captain was Richard F. Phillimore and commander, Godfrey Tuke. The Aboukir is an armored vessel.

MANCHUS TRIUMPH.

First Engagements Give Them Several Advantages.

Pekin, Nov. 29.—Hanyang has been occupied by the Imperial forces, which crossed the Han River 20 miles above that place. Wuchang has made a provisional capitulation. It is evident the Imperialists are getting a strong hand in that part of Hupeh Province, where a few weeks ago the rebels seemed to have supreme control.

There is no news of Li Yuen Heng, the revolutionary commander, and it is not known whether he led the defence of Hanyang or directed it from Wuchang. It is not believed that the rebels will surrender, as they fear slaughter, but will prefer to take chances in flight in the open country. The rebels Monday endeavored to obtain the terms offered by Yuan Shi Kai three weeks ago, but it is reliably reported that Lieut.-Gen. Feng Kwo Chang, commander of the Imperial troops at Hankow, has refused.

The foreign settlements suffered heavily. A Hankow consular report says it was a foregone conclusion that the Imperialists would win if they attacked seriously, because of their superior organization. During the attack every position the rebels claimed was heavily shelled. The Imperialists numbered probably 30,000 modern drilled men. The rebels were for the most part volunteers, perhaps equal in number to the Imperial forces.

Two days ago the Premier, Yuan Shi Kai's, position seemed hopeless. He was deserted by former followers, on whose help he counted. Both Chinese and foreign residents in Pekin believed that the dynasty was on the verge of abdicating. Friends urged the Premier to capitulate; soldiers, fearing his assassination, endeavored to persuade him to take refuge in the foreign concessions at Tien Tsin.

Once To Be Enough.

Berlin, Nov. 29.—Dr. H G. Lackner, for the past twelve years North Waterloo's representative in the local Legislature, will at the next session of the House, offer an amendment to the Manhood Suffrage Registration Act which will enable a young man once registered as a manhood suffrage voter to remain permanently in the voters' list so long as he remains a resident of the town or city. This would be, it is claimed, a great saving of time and money to many electors.

Manhood suffrage voters could be put on part three of the voters' list and the tax collector would have an easier time collecting the poll tax.

Every village, town or city where poll tax is collected would always have its list prepared and disfranchisement would be a rare occurrence.

This amendment would also privilege any municipality to extend the franchise to the qualified voters of part three to vote at municipal elections.

Ontario Welcomes Duke.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—Officially and on behalf of every person in the Province of Ontario, Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught were welcomed yesterday by Sir James Whitney and his colleagues in the Provincial Government, in the Legislative Chamber, at the Parliament Buildings, where the simple but most impressive ceremony was held, there had gathered together to honor the royal visitors representatives of the Government, the Methodist Church in Canada, the Associated Boards of Trade of the province, St. George's Society, St. Andrew's Society, the Empire Club and the United Empire Loyalists. In addition to the officials of these organizations and associations several hundred men and women filled the galleries and occupied every available foot of space in the commodious chamber, which had been profusely and beautifully decorated.

TESTING SUBMARINES

A New Invention by an Italian, Said to Solve the Problem of Testing Submersibles.

Through the inventive genius of an Italian marine engineer, a long forward stride seems to have been made recently in the construction of submarine boats. He has made it possible to do away with a large part of the hazard incident to the submergence of these under-water war vessels, hitherto one of the greatest stumbling blocks to submarine constructors. This inventor is Maj. C. Laurenti, formerly of the Royal Navy, and designer of the famous Laurenti submersibles. His latest invention is a type of testing dock for submarine boats which will overcome most of the perils and vexations attendant upon the deep-sea submergence trials necessary for all such craft. Maj. Laurenti's testing dock is a modified floating device of steel, which can be hermetically sealed after a submarine has entered it at one end. The dock is brought to the right floating condition, the end gate or door is swung out of the way, and the submarine under trial placed within in the proper way. The gate is then closed, and the entire space in the dock and around the vessel flooded.

Telephone Communication.

Before this submergence, however, the examining officers enter the submarine and remain until the test is completed and the proper observations taken. By means of a telephonic arrangement they are kept in constant communication with the engineer in charge of the dock. Gauges are placed at fixed points inside of the craft which record pressures and the slightest change of form due to external stresses. When all is ready the water in the testing dock is subjected to pressure generally until the hydrostatic force acting upon the hull of the submarine at every external point is an exact equivalent of the pressure that would be exerted by the sea if the boat were down 200 ft., or more, as the case may be. The beauty of this whole arrangement is that the submarine does not have to be taken off shore to be tested and does not have to depend upon favourable weather conditions. There is no risk involved, and those inside the vessel can observe the conditions at every stage of pressure, the exact counterpart of submergence in the open sea.

Watching the Pressure

By being in vocal communication with those in charge of the pressure pumps of the dock, the inspectors within the submarine can work with certainty and security. They can also see leaks, and trace them to their proper sources while incidentally watching the guages marking the elastic yielding of the hull structure, if any take place, and the degree thereof. Up to the present the strength of these boats had been calculated by mathematical formulae, which are largely theoretical. The Laurenti testing-dock will show how far these formulae may be correct, and will, undoubtedly, indicate directions in which structural charges can be made to advantage.

Mechanical Equivalent of Heat.

The mechanical theory of heat regards heat as a mode of motion, and investigation has shown that there exists a definite relation between those two forms of energy, which is known as the mechanical equivalent of heat, or Joule's equivalent. That is, if, as in the experiments of Joule, a certain known amount of mechanical energy be expended, as, for instance, by the falling of a weight to operate paddles in a vessel of water, the increase in temperature of the water, due to agitation by the paddles will always be found proportional to the work done. This relation or proportion is expressed by the amount of work necessary to raise the temperature of one pound of water at 62 degrees Fahrenheit through one degree at atmospheric pressure, or, in other words, impart one British Thermal Unit to the water. The heat necessary to raise the temperature of one pound of water from 62 degrees to 63 degrees temperature was found by Joule to be able to perform work equal to the raising of 772 pounds one foot in height. The latest experimental determination of Rowland shows that the exact value is somewhat higher than 772, and 778 is the value now usually accepted as the correct mechanical equivalent.

Scientific Bottle Breaking.

The method of breaking small bottles or vessels at the place wanted with a kerosene-soaked string is well known, but this method does not work so well with the larger vessels. Following is a method given by a writer, by which any sized glass vessels can be broken — as, for example, a glass tub to be made out of a carboy. Fill the vessel with cold water up to the place at which it is to be broken. Pour enough boiling oil over the water to make a good coat on the surface, and before the oil has time to cool dash cold water on the outside of the vessel. A clean break at the contact-point of oil and water will be the result.

What Radium Will Do.

Sir William Ramsay pointed out at the recent Parliament of Science in Portsmouth, England, that if radium could be turned to mechanical use a ton of the marvellous substance would suffice to propel a ship of 15,000 tons, with engines of 15,000 horse-power, at the rate of fifteen knots for thirty years. He added by comparison that such a ship would require 1,500,000 tons of coal to get the same results. The Mauretania and the Lusitania consume about 7,000 tons of coal each for every voyage of five and one-half days.

Succumbed to Injuries.

London, Ont., Nov. 28.—Mrs. James Georgeson, 417 Ottawa avenue, London, succumbed to the burns and injuries received several weeks ago, when she fell downstairs with a lighted lamp in her hand. Mrs. Georgeson had been in Victoria Hospital since the accident.

Appeal to Prohibitionists.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—An appeal to the electors of Ontario to work and vote for the election of candidates who "are avowed and trustworthy supporters of temperance reform, who can be depended upon to do all in their power to secure at the earliest opportunity the enactment of effective legislation against the bar-room evil, and who will hold themselves free from party dictation in relation to such legislation," was issued by the executive of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, as the result of their deliberations of Monday night and yesterday morning.

The work of the Alliance was reviewed at the meeting, and it was pointed out that voting on local option would take place this year in seventy municipalities, and repeal contests in about fifteen.

Acute Dyspepsia

Restoration of Stomach Power Comes Quickly With the Right Medicine.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmens, of Newbridge, P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon glowed within me. I can now eat, sleep, and live like a live man."

Be advised—Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

HAVELOCK HAPPENINGS

Special Correspondence

A special train in charge of conductor Jackson, bearing the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, arrived in Havelock on Monday morning, at 7 o'clock remaining till 9.30 a.m. The citizens of the town turned out enmasse and cheered their Highnesses and they, in return, acknowledged it by coming to the rear end of the car and bowing and thanking them several times. During their stay here the Duke came out and walked up the station platform and talked to C.P.R. employees. The school children marched in a body carrying the Union Jack and then standing before the Governor General's car, sang the National Anthem.

AERONAUTIC INVENTIONS

Many Patents Have Been Granted for Aerial Improvements.

Aerial and marine navigation, while in most respects totally unlike, are yet in certain particulars closely analogous, and this is perhaps most clearly observed in considering the smaller auxiliary devices relating to these arts. Although aerial navigation, so far as heavier than air machines is concerned, has only recently been accomplished, the art in a broad sense has been, nevertheless, the subject of patent applications for many years, and a consideration of these patents indicates that not only has inventive genius been active along broad lines of development, but that it has been busily engaged in the perfection of details of construction which now that so great interest has been aroused in the practical side of the art, may be found of great value.

While the first marine anchors were probably crude affairs, consisting of a rock or crooked branch, the art of aerial navigation did not arise until long after marine anchors had reached a fairly high state of development, and aeronautical inventors were thus able to confine their attention largely to the adaptation of these marine anchors to aerial use. Among the first patents granted in America for an aeronautical device is that to Mr. Bell, dated March 26th, 1850, which among other details shows a water anchor or drag, clearly adapted from marine use, and which consists of an umbrella-like structure supported upon a rod, the rod being provided with ropes at its opposite ends. It is evident from the construction that, if the device be immersed in water and attached to the flying machine by the rope being slack, the umbrella structure will remain closed and offer little resistance to travel through the water, while if one rope be pulled taut and rope be slackened, the pressure of the water will open out the umbrella device, thus presenting a large surface to the water and acting as a very effective drag or water anchor. Similar in type, but adapted for land use, is the device shown in the British patent to Alexander of 1893, in which a supporting rod similar to that of Bell's device is provided, but instead of the umbrella structure of the latter, the rod carries a series of backwardly projecting prongs or claws, which, when the rod is towed by one or the other of its ropes, respectively, slide easily over the surface of the ground, or engage with the same and act as a positive anchoring means.

LEARNING TO USE LIGHT

The color of the light plays an important part in tiring people out. Fatigue occurs far more quickly with orange and yellow rays at high intensities than from green and bluish green light like that from the mercury vapor lamp. Nothing equals the bluish white of diffused daylight. Shadows also have an important part to play. In fact, one of the principal aids in distinguishing objects is the difference in brightness. If there were no shadows but only a perfectly diffused illumination of high intensity it would be hard to see clearly. In order to have shadows there must be directed light from one or a number of sources and not merely diffused light coming from all directions. There must be enough directed light to mark edges of objects by shadows and also enough diffused light to enable one to see clearly in the shadows. To light the home with comfort and economy requires a combination of concentrated illumination of fairly high intensity at the dining or reading table with a general illumination of low intensity. The lighter the wall and ceiling are the more light they reflect to give the required diffused general illumination and so less direct light will be needed. As artificial light is deficient in blue and green rays, walls and ceilings of a bluish or greenish shade give them greater reflecting power for daylight than for artificial light, which is generally desirable.

Natural Soap.

There is a natural soap well in Dakota. The soap is skimmed from a boiling spring, and hardens by exposure to the air. It is like soft clay, and can be gathered with a shovel, and is supposed to be a mixture of alkali, borax, and the lubricating oil found in many parts of Wyoming. A sample has been tested by a prominent soap manufacturer, and he says that this natural soap is worth the full weight of the manufactured article. It has been used as axle grease by adding a little of the oil discovered near the spring, and it is pronounced the finest material ever used for that purpose. The soap will wash in the hardest of water, and leave the hands much softer than the ordinary article will. The supply is supposed to be inexhaustible.

How to Sleep.

Dr. Fischer, a physician practising in Paris, after a series of experiments has come to the conclusion that the orthodox way of sleeping is wrong and advocates a complete reversal of the existing order of things. You must have your head on a level with, or lower than, your feet. If pillows are to be used they must be under the feet instead of the head. The result he claims, will be amazing, being a sure cure for insomnia, as well as a preventive for the nightmare. To prevent any inconvenience by too sudden a change, it is suggested that the pillows should be gradually reduced and finally placed under the feet.

Chapped Hands AND Cold-Sores

Are your hands chapped, cracked or sore? Have you "cold cracks" which open and bleed when the skin is drawn tight? Have you a cold sore, frost bite, chilblains, or a "raw" place, which at times makes it agony for you to go about your household duties? If so, Zam-Buk will give you relief, and will heal the frost-damaged skin. Anoint the sore places at night, Zam-Buk's rich healing essences will sink into the wounds, end the smarting, and will heal quickly.

Mrs. Yellen, of Portland, says: "My hands were so sore and cracked that it was agony to put them near water. When I did so they would smart and burn as if I had scalded them. I seemed quite unable to get relief from anything I put on them until I tried Zam-Buk, and it succeeded when all else had failed. It closed the big cracks, gave me ease, soothed the inflammation, and in a very short time healed my hands."

Zam-Buk also cures chafing, rashes, winter eczema, piles, ulcers, festering sores, sore heads and backs, abscesses, pimples, ring-worm, etc., cuts, burns, bruises, scalds, sprains. Of all druggists and stores, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Price 50c a box.

Speaker Bans Liquors.

Ottawa, Nov., 29.—"For the first time in the history of the Canadian Parliament all wines and intoxicating liquors will be excluded from the dinners and all social receptions held in the Speaker's chambers," says yesterday's Journal. Then it adds:

"This significant decision has been arrived at as a direct result of the expressed desire of Mrs. Sproule, wife of the Speaker, who will be hostess. A similar order of things was observed in the Ontario Legislature under the late Speaker St. John. Another famous example has been set by Lieutenant-Governor MacGregor of Nova Scotia, who issued a similar order upon his assumptoin to office."

Quiet at Nanking.

Nanking, Nov. 28.—Except for an occasional exchange of shots between Lion and Tiger Hills, occupied respectively by the Imperialist and revolutionary forces, and skirmishes between the advance posts of revolutionary troops and the remnant of Imperialists outside the wall, conditions in and about Nanking are unchanged. A strong effort is being made to induce Gen. Chang, commander of the Imperialists, to surrender.

The commanders of foreign warships have united in a protest against the bombardment proceeding for at least 24 hours, and to this the eight revolutionary gunboats and the forts on Purple, now in possession of the revolutionaries, have agreed.

Liquor In Railway Camp.

Brockville, Nov. 29.—The police magistrate's court in Brockville yesterday dealt with several alleged violations of the liquor law at Portland, in the local option County of Leeds.

Portland is the centre of construction for the C.N.R.'s new main line, and Hart and Stewart, contractors, rent a small house, where a gang of Italian navvies sold liquor. The firm were held liable and the magistrate imposed a fine of $200 and costs. The defendants will appeal.

Robert Scott, county constable, was fined $100 and costs on a similar charge and seven young men contributed $20 and costs each for being purchasers from Scott. Over $500 was collected in fines, and other cases are pending.

Must Study Greek.

Oxford, Eng., Nov. 29.—Advocates of the abolition of the study of Greek at Oxford University suffered another reverse yesterday. Their scheme for the general exemption of that course having failed last year, they tried to insert the edge of a wedge by the passing of a statute allowing students of mathematics and natural science to be exempt from studying Greek. At a convocation yesterday the proposal was rejected by a vote of 596 to 360.

"Yes, sir; my papa."

Peerless Peninsular

A CAST IRON RANGE WITH MODERN OVEN AND EQUIPMENT

A wealthy mustard manufacturer once said that he made his profit not out of what people ate, but what they left on their plates.

The coal dealer might say about the same thing.

It's not the coal you use that buys his six-cylinder car, but the coal that goes up the chimney.

You might as well save some of that coal.

Building ranges to cook well and to save coal has kept us thinking and working over in Preston for upwards of 50 years. Every year improvements in range construction have been made. The flues have been widened here; a wall made thicker there; weight reduced in one spot and added to another. But every change has made the oven heat with less fuel and the construction of the range strong and durable.

Nickel ornaments, special features or size do not affect the internal construction or honest materials and workmanship that go into the "Peninsular." So that when buying one, a housewife may feel free to consult her own tastes as regards finish and appearance. If the range is "Peninsular" she will know that it will give her good bakings for the least amount of coal.

The PEERLESS is a modern cast-iron range—it has a quick oven—an oven that heats evenly on every side, top and bottom—a square oven big enough to cook four pies at once; and it has a drop-oven door, which is not usual on a cast-iron range.

The PEERLESS Peninsular may be had with a steel warming closet and hot water reservoir and with a low closet under the oven for pots, pans and irons.

The PEERLESS Peninsular is a perfect beauty and has many a convenience not found on other ranges.

Take the top of the Peerless Peninsular.

It is made in three separate sections which slide along or lift out whenever you want to clean the flues.

In most ranges the oven is either "on" or "off." That is, it is getting full heat or none at all. The Peerless Peninsular oven is regulated by means of a sliding damper so as to get just as much heat as you need. This is another way you save fuel.

Get "The Cost"

"THE COST of a Range" tells more about these Peninsular Ranges—not a list of pictures and prices, but a book showing that the after-cost is the big cost and how the "Peninsular" cuts it down.

Yours for the asking.

WHAT DOES YOUR MIRROR TELL YOU?

Of all the skin beautifiers we have had in our store there is none that we can recommend more highly than the D.D.D Prescription.

D.D.D is such a logical remedy for all kinds of skin trouble and so scientifically compounded that it clears up the complexion over night.

D.D.D. is most widely known as the most reliable treatment for Eczema, but it has also been found invaluable for all kinds of minor skin troubles. We do not hesitate to give D.D.D. our special recommendation. In fact, we are convinced that D.D.D. will give relief that no other remedy can.

Surely if you have any skin trouble you should give D.D.D. Prescription a trial.

Don't delay, for if not promptly checked, minor skin troubles often develop into serious disease, difficult even for D.D.D to cure.

Better drop into our store anyway and get posted on this wonderful remedy. Ask also about D.D.D. Soap, which is so invaluable in keeping the skin in healthy condition.

Or write the D.D.D. Laboratories, Department P.W., 49 Colborne St., Toronto, for a free trial bottle. In either case, don't put it off, but act at once.

BUSINESS TRANSACTED BY PETERBORO COUNTY COUNCIL

The following reports show the business transacted by the County Council at its session last week. All the reports were adopted:

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS

The committee appointed to consider the possibilities of obtaining a grant from the government for Highway Improvements reported as follows:

Under the Act for the improvement of public highways a grant of one-third the total sum expended by the county in improving leading highways in the province upon certain conditions, which are mainly as follows:

a—The county council would set out by by-law the roads or portions of roads to be assumed by them.

b—With a view of satisfying townships which are not going to benefit equally with other townships under such by-law, grants may be made directly to such township by the county for improving roads in such townships, the county by such grant no assuming the roads so benefitted as county roads.

c—Grants may also be made directly by the county to villages in order to improve highways in the villages designated by the county council, such grants not being regarded as an assumption of the highways improved as county roads.

d—The by-law of the county need not be submitted to the ratepayers, unless desired by the Council, but must be approved of by the government, who will hear any objections raised by a dissatisfied municipality.

e—All highways improved under the Act must be constructed according to the regulations of the Public Works Department.

f—If desired debentures payable in thirty years may be issued to defray the expense of the improvements, but in no case shall such debentures exceed two per cent of the equalized assessment of the country.

g—From time to time as the work progresses the government, on being satisfied that the same is being done in accordance with their regulations, will grant to the county one-third of the expense of the improvements, including one-third of the grants to the townships and of the grants to the villages above mentioned.

h—After three years from the completion of the improvements the county council may, with the consent of two-thirds of the minor municipalities, hand back the highways so improved to the municipalities through which the roads passed.

J. H. GARBUTT,
Chairman.

WARDEN'S ADDRESS

To the members of the County Council—

Gentlemen—I crave your indulgence for a few minutes to give expression to my feelings of appreciation at the kind forbearance you all have evinced toward me during the year up to the present.

Not only have you been considerate of my best interests, but you have given evidence of intense interest in the business of the county.

We have every reason to be thankful for the harvest just reaped judging by reports from other parts.

This year is but a repetition of the past two or three years inasmuch as expenditures are increasing, responsibilities extending and legislation along the lines of administration of justice and school provisions rapidly becoming more burdensome, hence the abnormal overdraft at the Bank. When unforeseen increases arise then your estimates of necessity must fall short and your council having been placed in a position to spend more money on permanent improvements then the proceeds of debenture issue adds to deficit that may appear.

With your approval under the advice of your county solicitor it seems advisable to issue more debentures for the latter named reasons, and that being the case ample provision will then have been made.

The responsibilities assumed by the county by way of building permanent bridges and making liberal grants to the municipalities will of course lessen the burdens of the municipalities, but the rate-payers must not be alarmed when the county rate increases a little from time to time especially when expenditures over which the council have no control have increased nearly a half more, such as before stated, administration of justice and school expenditure.

The various works carried on through the season will be reported to you by the different parties or councillors responsible such as bridges county property, finance, etc.

At the instance of Mr. Burnham, M. P., the committee appointed to deal with the matter have recommended that the council accompany Mr. Burnham to Ottawa, to meet the ministers who have promised Mr. Burnham a conference. I have authorized the clerk to call you together one day earlier in the week, as your notice indicated so that time and expense might be saved by attending to both during the week.

Permit me to again thank you for your courteous treatment, and I bespeak a continuance of the same for the balance of the year.

C. COPEN
Warden.

FINANCE RECOMMENDATIONS

The Finance Committee recommended—

Q. What is Astigmatism of the eye?

A. Astigmatism is an uneven curvature of the eye and causes double focus. As the eye always strives for clear vision, this double focus annoys the brain and causes headache and nervousness. We make lenses called cylinders to correct astigmatism.

Q. What causes double vision?

A. Double vision is caused by the eyes not being in line, that is, one may turn up or have a tendency to do so, or both may turn in; a weak muscular system is back of it all.

We would be pleased to have you call and let us explain how such conditions can be relieved with glasses.

"SEVEN YEARS WITHOUT A SCANDAL" IS THE RECORD OF SIR JAMES WHITNEY

FIRST DIVISION IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS GIVES BORDEN GOVERNMENT 44 MAJORITY

Debate on the Speech From the Throne Brought to a Close—Squabble Over Mr Blondin.

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—The Borden Government, on the first division in the House of Commons, the result of which was announced at 4.30 yesterday afternoon, had a majority of 44.

The division was on the amendment to the address, moved by Sir Wilfrid Laurier a week ago last Monday, for the reason that there was no mention of the Government's naval policy in the speech from the throne. The amendment set forth "that it is a fundamental principle of constitutional government that the advisers of the crown shall be heartily in accord on all important questions of public policy," and in conclusion declared "that the inclusion by the Prime Minister in the present Cabinet, of men holding diametrically opposite views on a question of the highest importance to the Dominion and the Empire, is contrary to the well understood principles of responsible government, and should not receive the approval of the House."

On this challenge the vote stood: Government 121, Opposition 77; Government majority 44.

As the division indicates 198 members voted. The full membership of the House is 221 members, but as Laurier and Forget each occupy two seats and the Yukon member has not yet been introduced, there are but 218 members at the present time. Of the 20 absentees, including the member for the Yukon, the only members not pa'red were Girard of Chicoutimi, and Thompson of the far north constituency.

Assuming that he would have voted with the Government the Ministerial majority, not including the Speaker, is 46.

As was to be expected, great interest was taken in the division, and the galleries were crowded. It took half an hour for the assistant clerk to call the names, and his work was retarded by the constant rounds of applause which greeted new members as they rose to cast their first votes.

Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier got ovations when they rose, while the members of the Cabinet each received a round of applause from the Ministerial benches.

When the House met, the debate on the address was continued by G. H. Boivin, the new Liberal member for Shefford, who, in his maiden effort, drew attention to the circumstance that the eastern townships are without representation in the Cabinet. Reciprocity, he said, was dead only in the sense that Canada had rejected an offer made by the United States.

The Liberals would continue to be the party of the plain people and they proposed to fight the trusts. They had been wrongfully accused of disloyalty, but that would not lessen their ambition to work for the welfare and the prosperity of the Dominion.

Hon. Charles Murphy, former Secretary of State, closed the debate. In doing so, he declared that the principle involved in the amendment moved by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, calling attention to the lack of agreement amongst the Ministers as to a naval policy, goes to the root of constitutional government. To reject it would mean that the Conservative majority proposes to substitute emergency for constitutional rule. The peculiarity of the situation, he said, was to be found in the fact that the real leader of the Government did not have a seat in either the Cenate or the House of Commons. Premier Borden was the titular leader, but the real leader was Henri Bourassa.

After the division had been announced, the Prime Minister moved that Pierre Blondin be appointed chairman of the committee of the House, that is to the position of De-

SINGLE TAX FOR WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Nov. 29.—Sweeping changes in the government and administration of the city of Winnipeg are forecasted here, a canvass of the candidates out for public office in the civic election of Dec. 8th having shown a large majority in favor of the adoption of single tax and the commission plan of the city government. Out of over twenty candidates whose views on the single tax question were ascertained, it was found that not one was opposed to its gradual introduction during a period of from three to five years. Among twenty-two candidates who expressed their views on government by commission, only one was found to be opposed.

Fighting Around Tripoli.

Malta, Nov. 30.—Many fierce attacks have been made by the Turks and Arabs on the Italian positions at Derna and Torbruk, according to Turkish reports. The losses on both sides approximate 1,500. The Italians apparently fear to advance beyond the range of the naval guns.

Two Murders In Sydney.

Sydney, N.S., Nov. 30.—The second murder within a week has occurred in the manufacturing district. During a drunken row Tuesday night among the colored residents of the coke ovens, George Halford, colored, was shot and killed by another colored man, whose name is not known. The police have arrested five in connection with the affair.

RUSSIA ASKS FOR HIS SCALP

Morgan Shuster Must be Dismissed.

American Financier to be Let go by Persia.

Teheran, Nov. 30.—Russia's ultimatum has been delivered to Persia. Russia demands the instant dismissal of W. Morgan Shuster, the American treasurer-general of Persia, whose administration of the financial department has resulted in complications and indemnity for the expenses incurred in sending Russian troops to Persia.

Should the dismissal of Mr. Shuster not be carried out with 48 hours, Russian troops will march on Teheran, and the additional expenses will be added to the indemnity. It is stated confidently that the National Council will not comply with the demands. Mr. Shuster, in an interview yesterday, said that the cancellation of his contract rested entirely with the Persian National Council.

Whatever may be the feeling of the Persian people in the present affair—and it is said to favor Shuster—Persia is helpless before the Russian Cossacks. In some quarters it is rumored that the Russian action, which is looked upon as an affront offered to American prestige, will be resented by the United States Government, and Mr. Shuster was recommended for the position he holds by the State Department at Washington.

The presentation of the Russian ultimatum has put an end to the Cabinet crisis. After a stormy sitting the National Council yesterday approved another Ministry, formed by Premier Samsames Sultaneh, with Voosceghed Dowleh as Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Premier Says That Dr. Pyne Never Made Ridiculous Assertion as to Teachers and Their Mother Tongue.

Guelph, Nov. 30.—The Royal City extended a cordial welcome to Sir James Whitney last night. Four hundred members of the Borden Club, all carrying torches and headed by the G.M.S. band, marched down to the station to greet the Premier on his arrival. The procession escorted the Premier, as he drove to the city to the opera house. Gaily decorated with flags and banners, the interior of the building looked very attractive, and the motto, "Scholfield will win," adorned one of the boxes

Major George J. Thorp of Guelph presided and the speakers were H. C. Scholfield, the Liberal-Conservative candidate in South Wellington, and A. Kelly Evans.

"There had been a lot of discussion," said the Prime Minister, "as to what the Government had done for Guelph." He wanted it understood that he would say nothing in his speech as to what had been done for Guelph, nor would he say what would or would not be done in the future.

"Whatever the Government of Ontario has done for the city of Guelph was done because it was the duty of the Government to do it, and whatever it is the duty of the Government to do for Guelph in the future will be done, regardless of who is returned from this constituency to the Legislature.

"Whatever I may be or do I will never drop down to a plane where people might be influenced by the things they might or might not get."

Sir James ridiculed the published statement of N. W. Rowell at North Bay, in which the Liberal leader said that Hon. Dr. Pyne had insisted that the mother tongue of every teacher in the province must be English.

"Such a statement would be ridiculous," said the Premier, "for there are many school teachers in Ontario whose mother tongue is not English. I am authorized by Dr. Pyne to deny that he ever said such a thing, and he has already telegraphed his denial to the people of North Bay."

ST. ANDREW'S DAY

This is the day for the Scotchmen, St. Andrew's Day and at noon the People's Chimes pealed forth in honor of St. Andrew; also in compliment to the many Scotchmen of the city. Scottish airs were also played. This morning at ten o'clock, a communion service was held in St. John's church and the day is the occasion for special intercession on behalf of missions by the W. A. of the church.

Must Hurry Legislation.

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—The period for the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific expires in a day or two, and if no legislative action is taken the charter will lapse.

It appears that the company overlooked the matter and neglected to secure the necessary extension legislation.

It is understood that legislation will be hurried through by consent, as otherwise the securities of the road might be endangered.

CATTLE SEASON NOW AT AN END

Last Sailing Was Yesterday—Disappointing Season.

Montreal, Nov. 30.—The export live stock trade from the port of Montreal for the season of 1911 was brought to a close yesterday by the sailing of the steamship Montreal of the Canadian Pacific Line, with 616 head of cattle for London. The season has been a very disappointing one, as the total number of cattle exported has been the smallest for the last 29 years, or since 1882.

The total exports this year were 45,966 head of cattle, 3,724 sheep, and 458 horses and mules. As compared with a year ago, cattle show a decrease of 26,589 head, sheep an increase of 3,172, and horses and mules a decrease of 39.

Of the total number of cattle, there were 15,691 head from the United States, making the actual shipments of Canadian Northwest ranches and Ontario cattle only 30,275 head, while a year ago the total exports amounted to 72,555 head, of which there were only 175 head from the United States.

SIKHS WANT TO BRING THE HINDOO WOMEN TO CANADA

Deputation to Ottawa to Ask for Relief From Present Regulations.

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—It is understood that, as a result of a conference between the Hindu delegation now in Ottawa, and British Columbia members held in the office of Hon. Robert Rogers, yesterday, it is possible that an arrangement may be arrived at under which the Hindu people now in British Columbia, will be allowed under strict regulations, to bring their wives and families to Canada.

The delegation asked that the amount required from Hindus entering the country be made uniform with other nationalities, and that the present $200 be abolished. They undertook to give a bond that no Hindu shall become a public charge in Canada.

The matter was thoroughly discussed in the presence of Mr. W. D. Scott, commissioner of immigration, and Mr. W. W. Cory, Deputy Minister of the Interior, and the Minister promised careful consideration. The concession mentioned above, however, is likely to be the only one granted until the matter has been taken up with the Imperial authorities.

Storm In Reischsrath.

Vienna, Nov. 30.—The Lower House of the Reischsrath was the scene of a violent outbreak yesterday during the debate concerning judicial appointments. The czech deputies started the riot by refusing to hear the explanations of the Minister of Justice and hooting him down whenever he attempted to make himself hear.

A scene of indescribable confusion followed. The czechs, resenting what they termed insults hurled at them by the Germans, stormed the Ministerial benches, throwing ink wells and brandishing chairs. Several deputies were knocked down and severely injured. Friends of the Minister of Justice surrounded him and stood off his foes while he made his escape.

The session was finally declared adjourned. The interior of the chamber was badly wrecked.

Hotel Fire at Quebec.

Quebec, Nov. 30.—The St. Louis Hotel, Quebec's second leading hostelry, was visited by fire at 5.30 a.m. It broke out in the eastern wing, due to an electric wire. The blaze was confined to the one section, but the loss will be considerable.

The 67 guests escaped safely.

ESTIMATES ARE TABLED

Fieldings Estimates Are Not Altered.

Onlp $100,000 Less Than Liberal Figures.

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—In the Commons yesterday afternoon, Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, tabled the estimates for the seven months of the current fiscal year from Sept. 1, to March 31, 1912. They amount to $48,683,472, or about $100,000 less than those tabled by Mr. Fielding in July last for the same period. Here and there a few deductions have been made, but the estimates are practically those brought down by Mr. Fielding.

As estimates to the amount of $79,218,107 were voted by the late Government, the total for the current year will be $127,913,310.

It is explained on behalf of the Government that, while the estimates of the old Government will be voted, including the naval estimates, it does not necessarily mean that in all cases the money will be expended. If not spent, the appropriation will be allowed to lapse.

In view of the fact that the estimates were prepared by the former Ministers, and have been adopted by the new Government, it is not expected that much difficulty will be experienced in putting them through the House, and a record is likely to be made with the business of voting supplies between now and the date of adjournment for the Christmas holidays.

The estimates for the fiscal year 1912-1913 will be introduced later on in the session. They are at the present time being prepared by the various Departments.

EIGHTEEN CARDINALS TAKE THE OATH OF HIGH OFFICE

New Members of the College to Receive Their Red Hats—To Support Throne of St. Peter.

Rome, Nov. 30. The final ceremony in the creation of the new members of the sacred college will take place to-day in the Hall of the Beatification, when the red hat will be conferred on the eighteen new cardinals, who include Mgr. Falconio, formerly apostolic delegate to Canada and the United States; Mgr. Farley, Archbishop of New York, and Mgr. O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston.

The Pope expressed the hope that the example of Catholics in England and Holland would influence the return of other countries to the bosom of the church. He spoke sorrowfully of the persecution of the church in France, trusting that divine mercy would hasten the day of repentence and ended by imparting the apostolic benediction.

The new cardinals have received the text of the oath which they will take to-day before entering the public consistory. It is a modified form of the ancient oath, and is as follows:

"I . . . . of the Holy Roman Church, cardinal of . . . . . promise and swear from this hour hence as long as I live to be faithful and obedient to the Blessed Peter, the Holy Roman Apostolic Church and the Most Holy Lord Pius X., and also his canonically elected successors. I swear to give no counsel, not to concur in anything and not to aid in any way against the Pontificial Majesty or person; never to disclose affairs entrusted to me by the Nuncios, or in their letters, willingly or knowingly, to their detriment or dishonor; to be ever ready to aid them to retain, defend or recover their rights against all. I shall fight with all my zeal and all my force for their honor and dignity. I shall defend the legates and nuncios of the apostolic see in all places under my jurisdiction, provide for their safe journey, treat them honorably on their coming, during their coming and on their return, and resist, even to the shedding of blood, whoever would attempt anything against them.

"I shall try in every way to assert, uphold, preserve, increase and promote the rights, even temporal, the liberty, the honor, privileges and authority of the Holy Roman Church and our lord the Pope and his successors. When it shall come to my knowledge that some machination prejudicial to those rights, which I cannot prevent occurring, I shall immediately make it known to the Pope, his successor, or someone qualified to convey such knowledge to him.

"I swear to observe and fulfil the regulations, decrees, ordinances, dispensations, reservations and provisions of the apostolic mandates and constitutions of Sixtus First of happy memory and to combat with every effort, heretics, schismatics and rebellious utterances against our lord the Pope and his successors."

A promise to obey all summons, not to sell property of the church, and to remain free of civil powers follows, after which the oath concludes:

"Likewise I shall observe minutely each and all decrees, especially those which have emanated from the sacred congregation of ceremonies, or those to come from it relative to the sublime dignity of the cardinalate. Nor shall I do anything repugnant to the honor and dignity of the cardinalate."

Yesterday afternoon all the new cardinals went to the Vatican and on their arrival they formed into procession, and preceded and accompanied by the Swiss and Noble Guards and personages of the papal court, passed through the magnificent halls to the state apartment.

The newly-created cardinals, were then introduced into the presence of the pontiff. Pius X. permitted each of the cardinals to kiss his hand and his foot, afterwards imposing upon each the red birette as a first tangible proof of their supreme dignity.

Cardinal Falconio, being the dean of the newly-created cardinals, delivered an address warmly thanking the Pope, presenting his respectful homage and placing the services of the new cardinals at the complete disposal of the pontiff.

ROWELL ON THE PREMIER

Says That Sir James is a Bad Czar.

Criticizes Formation of Portfolio of Power.

Barrie, Nov. 30.—N. W. Rowell K.C., the new leader of the Opposition, addressed a large audience in the opera house here last night in the interests of H. E. Jory, the Liberal candidate for Centre Simcoe.

Mr. Rowell asked: "What benefit would it be to the electors to send A. B. Thompson, the Conservative candidate, down to Toronto if he differ with Sir James on matters affecting the welfare of his constituency? When Sir James had made up his mind what shall be done, he would simply be told as others have been to go back and quietly sit down. If, on the other hand, he does agree with Sir James, his presence there would not be necessary, as he would have nothing to say."

He took issue with the Government on the question of the Hydro-electric power question, claiming that a better service could be procured by a commission than if it were placed under the supervision of a Cabinet Minister.

In dealing with the bilingual school question, he deplored that the male teacher had almost completely disappeared, placing the onus on the Hon. Dr. Pyne for not providing a means of supplying the demand caused by the great number of teachers going to the west. He believed in giving every child the best opportunities possible according to its merits, and if they could master two languages, they were better equipped for the struggle of life than the child with only one language.

Touching bilingual schools, the candidate stated that the law provides that every child between certain ages shall attend school, and that they shall receive an English education. There would be difficulty if the French language were wiped out of the schools at a stroke, but he believed that English should be taught in that school through the medium of the French language, the mother tongue of the child.

C. T. Young of Haileyburg addressed the meeting as the advocate of the Liberal party's policy regarding the opening up of Northern Ontario.

MONEY OUT OF CANADA

Italians Sent $2,972,640 to Italy Through Post Office

Special to the Review

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—The post office report just issued shows that the Italians in Canada this year, sent $2,972,640 to their homes by money orders. Austrians sent $2,840,000, the Britishers $3,600,000, and the few Japanese in the Dominion nearly $1,000,000. These figures show a big increase over last year.

Russell Loses to Pinkertons.

Montreal, Nov. 30.—Dave Russell, the erstwhile well-known financier and a millionaire, lost both his cases against the Pinkerton detective agency and officials for damages aggregating $260,000, in judgments handed down yesterday, and must pay the costs of both actions. These will be heavy, as the case was prolonged, and eminent counsel engaged.

The judge in dismissing the cases, said that Russell's actions were such as to believe that, while he was not insane, there was certainly something wrong with him.

Mr. Russell states that he intends appealing the judgment of Judge Archer, as he can prove every statement that he made under oath.

More Trouble In Lisbon.

Lisbon, Nov. 30.—The opinion generally prevails that the disorders which occurred here on Nov. 26 were only a preliminary to more serious events.

The riot, it is said, was started by monarchists, who recently arrived at Oporto and other places. It is declared that they were bribing the anarchistic element and preparing for an uprising in Lisbon to coincide with the crossing of the frontier by the Royalists.

Dr. Crumming Interviews Minister of Interior on Scheme

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—Rev. Dr. Crummy, interviewed the Minister of Interior this morning in regard to Empire tours for school teachers all over the Dominion. The Minister was greatly interested and said the government might be willing to make a grant for that purpose.

Opera House Mass Meeting in Interest of Conservative Candidate on Tuesday Night, Dec. 5.

A grand rally and mass-meeting in the interest of Mr. Peck's candidature has been arranged for next Tuesday night in the opera house, when Hon. A. B. Morine, who was leader of the opposition in the Newfoundland legislature, and who is now practicing law in Toronto, will speak on the issues of the campaign, and be assisted by Mr. Peck and others.

While the campaign has been comparatively quiet, the big public meetings of next week should rouse enthusiasm, and this grand rally at which Mr. Morine will speak, will present all the splendid record of the government in no uncertain terms.

An endeavor was made to have Premier Whitney speak in Peterborough, but his dates had already been set, the premier having been devoting his attention to ridings where the result of the voting is not certain.

THE TRENT POWER

It is announced from Toronto that be hydro-electric power commission ill spend a million dollars on the rent canal cheap power scheme. A illion dollars will go a long way in e building of generating stations, nd transmission lines, but this is rerded as only an initial expenditure, be followed by supplementary appropriations for the further developent of the Trent water-powers for e benefit of the people.

The Toronto News last night pubshed what purported to be a statent by Hon. Adam Beck that the delopment of Dams No. 4 and 5, would eld 20,000 horse-power. The honorable tem must have been misquoted. In e first place Dams 4 and 8 are the ms for which the commission has cured leases. Dam No. 4 alone is pable of developing a little over 00 horse power. Dam No. 8 may delop in the neighborhood of 5,000 rse power. If Dams 4 and 5 were nen together, there might be a comned development from the pair of out 3,300 horse-power. In fact this what the Otonabee Power company oposed, when it announced some nths ago that it was ready to spend 00,000 in extending its development r the two dams, providing the city ent to the company acquiring No. could be secured.

The Review strongly believes in and vors the introduction of the hydroectric power, if it can be brought Peterborough sufficiently cheaper an the price asked by the local comnies. There 's nothing like comtition, especially in the matter of eap power.

These two dams might not be capble of sufficiently economical utiltion to make the quotations low ough to be practicable. In fact, it likely that only by the harnessing gether of three or four water-pows can a sufficiently large developent be secured for distribution to e various municipalities, at a reanable rate. And the experience of e hydro-electric commission is suffient to demonstrate that with the mited market for power which Petborough city affords, this city cant undertake to bear alone the caring charges of such a big scheme. The solution to the cheap power roblem for the Trent canal district eems to us to lie along the line of curing enough water-powers for the velopment of a large quantity of wer; its distribution to half a dozen or more municipalities, extending as far as the lake front, and to Lindsay; that, as in the case of the hydro system in Western Ontario, the price of power to the municipalities shall be fixed on a basis by which each municipality shall bear a part of the load. The price for power and lighting in Peterborough to-day is not excessively high, and it will need careful and aggressive handling of the situation for the hydro-electric commission to be able to quote power figures sufficiently attractive to warrant Peterborough in going into the scheme.

We believe that there is the opportunity for an unusually successful power development, with co-operation between the municipalities and the commission, in the Trent district. We believe that there is sufficient merit to the proposition, that it can be taken up on a strictly business basis,—which will be its test in the end — without the need of exaggeration or undue boosting.

If the hydro-electric commission will spend a million dollars on its Trent canal development scheme, and will produce power around $15 a horsepower for Peterborough, with lighting rates in proportion, there need be little doubt that it will be welcomed heartily, by everyone who has not a direct monetary interest in the private corporation.

MR. ROWELL'S ALLIES

Toronto News

The close alliance of Mr. Rowell with those who would impose French schools in Ontario has been clearly established. Senator Belcourt is the French-Canadian Educational Association. He welcomed Mr. Rowell to Ottawa. He appeared on the platform with Mr. Rowell and read a letter of regret from Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Senator is one of the ablest French-Canadians in Ontario, and may easily be a member of Mr. Rowell's Cabinet if ever in the years to come the new leader gets the chance to form one.

Suppose Mr. Belcourt a member of a Rowell Cabinet in Queen's Park! Suppose him Minister of Education! How would they like to have the Ottawa newspapers that are trying to stir up race and creed sentiment over the school question How would it suit the readers of the Star, which is endeavoring to inflame Orange and Protestant feeling on the school issue? How would they like to have the Ottawa Senator's views carried out? Would they rejoice to see bi-lingualism legalized in this Province and extended to High as well as Public school?

Yet that is the ideal Mr. Belcourt has in mind when he assists Mr. Rowell. Besides being Mr. Rowell's lieutenant Mr Belcourt is the head and front of L'Association Canadienne Francaise d'Education d'Onatrio. The public already knows the tenets of this organization as they were openly stated at a convention held some time since at the Federal capital. On that occasion the Association declared that French as well as English had a constitutional status not only in Quebec but throughout all the other Provinces. It complained that the bi-lingual system of teaching was not legally recognized in Ontario, that there were no bi-lingual Normal schools, and that bi-lingual teachers certificates issued in Quebec gave their holders no standing here.

The Belcourt organization then formulated a series of specific demands involving wholesale changes in the Ontario school system with a view to establishing schools of the Quebec pattern in all French and partly French settlements. It put in a claim for bi-lingual text books, and bi-lingual school libraries, for bi-lingual entrance and other departmental examinations, for bi-lingual High Schools, Normal Schools and inspectors and for the recognition of Quebec teachers' certificates on this side of the Ottawa River. Where no bi-lingual High schools can be established bi-lingual fifth classes or continuation classes are asked for as well as a set of bi-lingual High school text books.

Thus while the Whitney Government is declaring that Ontario is an English-speaking Province and that it must remain so, especially as far as its schools are concerned, one of Mr. Rowell's leading backers is striving to inaugurate a complete system of bi-lingual Public, High and Normal schools. Not satisfied with the use of French to teach the younger French pupils English the Belcourt wing of the Liberal party insists that French be placed on an equal footing with English right up to the doors of the university. How can Mr. Oliver, the Liberal candidate, explain the Ottawa Senator's alliance with Mr. Rowell? Can he explain it in any other way than this: The Liberal leaders, inspired by the recent Toronto convention of the Ontario Reform Association, are endeavoring at one and the same time to run with the Orangemen and to hunt with the extreme Nationalists.

HEART DISEASE CURED

Kingston Girl Saved by "Fruit-a-tives"

Heart Weakness and Heart Irritation are the common outgrowth of Indigestion. Gas is formed in the stomach and this accumulation of gas bulges out the walls of the stomach and presses against the heart. Palpitation, pain over the heart, and sometimes a feeling of smothering and dizziness, all are caused by the stomach and not because of any organic heart disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure this weak, irritated condition of the heart by curing the stomach.

91 CLERGY ST., KINGSTON, ONT.

"I suffered for some years with a dangerous form of Heart Trouble. My heart beat violently, and I had pain over the heart and down the arms. I also suffered with Constipation and Indigestion. I was treated by physicians and took many remedies, but nothing did me any good. Then I began taking "Fruit-a-tives", and this medicine completely cured me of all the heart trouble, constipation and indigestion, and gave me back perfect health." (Miss) MABLE TODD.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is not said whether Mr. Hall took a body-guard with him to Ennismore, or not.

Well, at all events, Rev. J. A. Macdonald, editor of the Globe, was the man who rode with the undertaker in the reciprocity funeral procession.

The Toronto News publishes a report that the development of Dams 4 and 5 (Dams 4 and 8 are meant) will yield 20,000 horse power The News ought to come out of its trance and get its information correctly.

Some Egyptians who were around Calgary lately, have come east to spend the winter Even sweatercoats and fur overcoats and caps wouldn't enable them to live in the land of the Chinook breeze.

Mr Hall will please tell us what hope the Liberals have of making gains in this provincial election when there are two dozen and a half ridings where they haven't even thought it worth while to nominate candidates

There are no Liberal candidates in sight in about thirty provincial ridings What's this? Have the Liberals of the province responded to the call, issued by Newton Wesley Rowell, K. C., so gallantly? There were only seven seats left to the Conservatives by acclamation in 1908.

Have you joined the Y.M.C.A yet, young man? There is no better Christmas gift to any young man than a membership in this splendid institution for the developing of the young men, morally, mentally and physically.

The offer of the Peterborough Light and Power company to supply current free for three years if the city will erect the "white way" standards is very attractive. But might it not be well to wait and see what happens before the end of the year, as regards the hydro-electric proposition? It is likely that matters will take shape very rapidly in this time.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Be Kind to the Eyes

When we go to an art gallery and think we are tired from so much walking we are mentally tired, and our eyes are tired from being kept in a strained position. The greatest danger to the adult eye comes from overstraining and overtaxing and continued use of the eyes without change of position or focus.

Our eyes are always working, and how often does it occur to us to give them rest? We may be merely thinking, and our thoughts are miles away but in the meantime our eyes are wandering and unconsciously taking in the scenes around. The eyes should be closed occasionally for rest. When tired and worn out, close the eyes a few moments, and see how rested you will feel.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—There continues to be a good demand from the continent for Manitoba spring wheat, but the demand from the United Kingdom was much quieter. The volume of business transacted was small, owing to the scarcity of ocean freight room from St. John, N.B., and Portland for the winter season. CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Nov. 25 were 2300 cattle, 3850 sheep and lambs, 3000 hogs, and 750 calves. The offerings on the market to-day were 800 cattle, 1800 sheep and lambs, 900 hogs and 250 calves.

As the supply of cattle was much smaller, a steady feeling prevailed in the market and prices showed no important change. There were no really choice stock on the market, therefore the top prices paid were only for the best and do not indicate that the market was any lower. The demand was only fair, as buyers generally were well supplied with stock, consequently the trade was rather slow, but at the close few were left over.

An easier feeling developed in the market for hogs and prices scored a further decline of 25c per cwt. At this reduction the demand was fair from packers and sales of selected lots were made at $6.60 to $6.80 per cwt., weighed off the cars. The demand for calves was good.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

—BY—

CLIVE PHILLIPPS WOLLEY

(AUTHOR OF "GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO," ETC.)

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

"He doesn't seem in a hurry," said Kitty, and there was a world of disappointment and bitterness in her tone. She expected every one to show his excitement as she did hers.

"Did you ever expect Jim to look as if he hurried?" asked Mrs. Rolt, who was leaning over the girl's shoulder at the window. "Did you want Jim to boil up a gallop at the finish like the driver of an Irish jaunting car? Look at the horses."

They indeed told a tale of haste in the past, haste of which they were no longer capable, and possibly any man with a view to effect might have dragged his limbs as the horses dragged theirs.

Jim only walked slowly and limped a little, stopping to speak to one of the boys and to help him off-saddle the roan. Then he walked quietly to the house with the doctor, not stopping to hear much of what old Al had to tell him.

But he managed to take in a great deal in those quiet glances which Kitty resented so much.

"Any one hurt?" were his first words to Al, before the old man had time to open his mouth.

"Two of them hurt badly," pointing to the fresh earth. "None of our folk scratched."

"Didn't try to rush the ranch then?"

"Broke the store-house and got the guns while we were at the stacks."

"Might have known that they would try that. What did you all want to go to the stacks for? Didn't calculate to blow them out, did you?"

Al hung his head. It is dispiriting when you have a great story to tell, to have it understood and sentence pronounced before you have had time to open your lips.

"How many Injuns were there?"

"About fifteen, I guess."

"More than that," said the man who had not been there; but he did not stop to argue or hear any more details. He remembered the two bands which he had seen on his way to Soda Creek, and he knew all that it was vital to know, so he followed Protheroe quietly to the house.

The doctor's report was a good one and soon made. When sober he was a capable man, and Anstruther's injuries, however painful, were sufficiently simple.

"A bundle of nerves, fine bred and high strung," was Protheroe's comment. "A steer who had had the same smash up would have gone on feeding. Three ribs broken, badly shaken up, and bruised a bit, of course; but the ribs have knit already. You did the right thing, Mrs. Rolt. These are your bandages?"

"No, they are Jim's."

"Of course. I ought to have known Jim's packing; effective, but a trifle severe. Here, let me loosen them a little," and his deft fingers, which were as delicate as a woman's and as strong as a man's, played about Anstruther with astonishing rapidity.

"That's better, isn't it?"

Anstruther sighed. "Yes, I can move now, I think, without fainting."

"But you must not; at least, not much. Jim was on the right track, but he certainly did not give you much play. You don't drink much, do you?"

"No; not much."

"And you're not twenty-five. Lord! Lord! What could hurt a man who doesnt drink and isn't twenty-five? Your case was not worth the ride, but perhaps we may have others," he added cheerfully, "now that old Khelowna has broken out."

As soon as the doctor's inspection was over, a council of war was held in the dining-room, whilst Jim and the doctor cut themselves vast chunks from the boiled salted beef on the table.

"Pity that the boys did not overhaul some of them," said Jim.

"Yes, it would have saved a hull lot of trouble," agreed Al, "we could have given them their medicine right there. Now we've got to take it to them."

"You think that we can't afford to leave things as they are," asked Rolt.

"I don't think about it. I hain't knowed Injuns since I growed grass high for nothing. When Injuns start on a racket of this kind, they've got to be wiped out or they'll come back like chickens to a doughnut. Ain't that so, Jim?"

But Jim was busy eating and listening. He was not much of a gas bag any way, the men said.

But at last even his appetite was appeased, and he turned from the men to the Boss.

"I'm afraid that it has got to be, Rolt. There are more Indians out than the boys think, and it's a vast deal more serious than I like. I saw two bands coming this way on my ride to Soda Creek. I met Khelowna and I'm afraid he has raised the whole country side."

"That's so," put in Al. "There ain't so much as an old klooch left at the rancherie since the burning."

"How do you know, Al?"

"I sent one of the breeds to prospect."

"Where is he?"

"He never came back. I didn't calculate as he would, but I thought he'd be better with them than with us if that was the kind of swine he was. Then I sent Dan here and he says they've all vamoosed. Don't you, Dan?"

"Every last hoof of them."

For a few moments there was a dead silence in the room, the men puffing quietly at their pipes and staring into the log fire. After so many years of undisturbed peace, it seemed impossible to believe in a general rising amongst B. C. Indians. It was almost as if the cattle had turned on the cowboys.

"What are we to do, Jim?"

"Well, Rolt, if these Indians were not Chilcotens, I should say that we had seen the worst of it and it might all blow over, but they are Chilcotens, and Chilcotens are not like other B.C. Indians."

"Oh, them Coast Indians is like a pack of wet hens," put in Al. "These fellows are mean as wolves. They wiped out that survey part yon Bella Coolaa pretty clean."

"That was a long time ago, and all the ring-leaders were hanged."

"That's all you know, Boss. Khelowna was one of the ringleaders, and he wasn't hung, worse luck. None of the ring-leaders were hanged. The fellows they gave up were slaves, that's all. There wasn't a Chilcoten amongst them. Government knowed it, but couldn't do nothing."

"Do you remember, Doc, that smoke that I thought I saw late yesterday evening?" asked Jim.

"In the timber towards Grouse Creek?"

"Yes."

"I remember, but you don't think that that is where they are? If they had been there they would have seen us and cut us off."

"I'm not sure of that. They might have been scared that one of us would break back to Soda Creek. It would be safer for them to round us all up here at the ranch."

"You think that they have cut off our communications then?"

"With Soda Creek and Faircloughs; yes. That's what I'd try to do if I was in their place. Al's plan is the right one. We had better go after them. The first blow is worth a dozen later on, and it won't do to let them think we are scared, but we must leave a strong guard with you and the ladies."

"Yes, I mean to," said the Boss, waking up and taking command. "Pick your men to stay Combe."

"How would it be if the doctor, old Toma, two of the breeds, and the Fairclough boys stayed with you and Anstruther. I'm afraid about the Faircloughs. I doubt if they will ever get here."

"They're in the corral now. Won't believe a word about the rising, and think as we're scared at our own shadows."

"Go and bring them in, Al."

Al went out and returned presently with two fair-headed young Englishmen, beef-fed giants, with gaiters and other relics of the Old Country still clinging to them. Until now they had been looked upon with a certain amount of disfavor at the Risky as not belonging to quite the same class as most of the English importations and as intruders whose small hay meadow hardly justified their existence and the presence of their herd upon the range, but in the straits to which the Rolts had been reduced, the Faircloughs were accorded a very hearty welcome, although their obvious scepticism and too loudly proclaimed indifference to anything that "a pack of mangy Indians" could do, was a little trying to the old hands.

"The Chilcotens have not been near your place yet, Al tells me."

"No, sirree! I guess they know better," replied Bob Fairclough, handling a new Winchester with meaning.

"I hope so, indeed, Mr. Fairclough, and I daresay that we exaggerate the danger having ladies and an invalid to take care of. Would you mind staying with us for a day or two? Half of us are going out to try to round up Khelowna and his band, and your presence and your brother's would relieve the tedium of our absence for the ladies, and give them a greater sense of safety."

"Why, certainly. Delighted, I am sure, unless you would like to have us along with you and leave two of your men behind. Jack is a capital shot, you know, used to shoot at Wimbleton, and I can beat him a bit most times."

Rolt smiled at the ingenuous statement, but he wanted men who could hit something more difficult than a target at a measured two hundred yards from a rest. That style of shooting would do from the ranch windows, but if it came to shooting off-hand from the saddle, he preferred to trust some of his boys who had never heard of Wimbledon.

"Thank you, very much. But I think you must be content with the place of honor. It will be good to know that two such shots are watching over the ladies' safety. I'll take the trail to-night, Jim."

"Better let me go instead, Boss."

"One of us two must stay, Jim, and you have had your share of fun."

Jim hesitated, and prepared to argue.

"Besides, I don't want the wife to think that there is any serious danger, and if you stay behind she will not think so much of my going. She will argue that if there was anything really to be done I should take my best man with me. See?"

Finally it was arranged in this way and in the dark, long after the ladies had retired to rest, Dick Rolt stood for a minute looking down at the face he loved, so white and calmly lovely in the moonlight.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

"The condition of affairs has resulted from the sheer neglect of the necessary precautions in a great many municipalities. It is true that in the large majority of the 1,200 municipalities in the province, an ordinance has been passed making vaccination compulsory, but how many of them really enforce it," he said.

MY LADY'S COLUMN.

GIRLS AND MARRIAGE

The Evolution of Woman During Last Decade Has Changed Views on Matrimony.

The inclination of the girls of today towards matrimony is acknowledged to be very different indeed from that of their compeers ten years ago. The evolution of woman during this important period of progression has been every bit as rapid as the development of the motor, wider and further reaching in its results than the birth of the aeroplane.

Elderly women can remember the days when not to be married, or at last engaged, at five-and-twenty, was to be considered hopelessly on the shelf, when spinsterhood was akin to disgrace and "old maid" a term of derision. To so great an extent were women imbued with the idea of "marry—or to be written down a failure" that almost any man who offered an escape from this reproach was regarded as acceptable, and even if ideal happiness might not thus have been attained, the woman had justified her existence — she was a wife!

Although no one denies that the ordained destiny of woman is to wed, the married state is now allowed to be one of individual choice, not of enforced convention. With higher education, a wider sphere of influence, enlarged opportunities for entering both business and professional life, and the acknowledgement of equal mental and physical ability to that of the average man, many women of the twentieth century have come to regard the married state with distaste, as being, perhaps an obstacle to the pursuit of some special career, some dearly cherished ambition, whereas not so long ago it was looked upon as the sole end and aim of feminine existence.

HAIR DRESSING MODES

While Some Still Affect the Fringe the Tendency is Towards a Plainer Style.

Although the "American" fringe is being exploited by a few Society women, the tendency is to dress the hair without so much as the little curls worn until recently to soften the forehead outline. Not that this fashionable style favours the high bold forehead. On the contrary, the hair waves back from a centre parting in two deep "draperies" nearly reaching the eyebrows, and then carried up sharply to leave the temples uncovered, the hair growing from the temples being arranged in two puffs or 'draperies,' one on each side of the face. The rest of the hair is caught up at a point some two inches below the crown of the head, and from there is arranged in curl-like puffs, which may, if liked, cover the whole of the back of the head, or may be piled in sets of three on each side of the centre parting in front.

The side-parting is again seen, the hair being then required to form large waves over the top of the head, and to stand out in a thick soft wave at the "parting" side. The ends are caught together at the back of the head, and are formed into curl-puffs. The back hair is plaited into a four or five strand plait and turned up, planed to the back of the head, and the ends used to form more curl-puffs. This is a style which suits girls with an ample supply of pretty tresses.

During the hot weather the favourite style for school girls showed the hair plaited down the back, and made into two plaits, one at each side, tied with ribbons. If the plaits are short, it is convenient — and still cooler — to turn them up and tie the bows at the tops instead of at the ends of the plaits.

FALL MUFFS ARE BIG

Muffs for this winter wear are larger even than last season. This means that they are big, big. While those who have muffs constructed upon the lines of rugs and saddles will undoubtedly carry them when the cold comes. They are made flat and square, closed at the bottom.

Huge tails are employed as a finish to the latest muffs, while others have heads or paws for garniture.

A Result Worthy of Consideration

Endowment Policy No. 34022 was issued to a local citizen twenty years ago for which he paid in ten annual instalments to the Company in all premiums, amounting to $688.50. He now receives a single cash payment of $1273.65 which as an investment is over 4% compound interest, or he may accept $750.60 in cash, which is $62.10 more than he paid in, together with a paid up policy for $1000, payable at death which earns profits every year during the balance of his life.

Where can a young man or woman find a better way of saving money as well as providing a protection for those dependent upon them.

BIFOCALS

OR –

DOUBLE VISION GLASSES

Most people think, when buying Bifocal Glasses, that a large segment or reading area is required. With very few exceptions this is not so, as most bifocals are required for constant use, and the successful fitting of these lenses depends not so much on furnishing the largest reading portion possible, but on placing a minimum disk or wafer in exactly the correct position. A small wafer accurately placed will afford ample field for reading, writing and sewing, and will overcome the tendency to make mis-steps in going up and down stairs, an experience not uncommon to wearers of bifocals with too large reading segments

We make a specialty of filling Bifocal Lenses in VISIBLE, SEMI-INVISIBLE and INVISIBLE.

HARRY ADAMS

IN MEMORIAM—WM. HINCHLIFFE

William Hinchliffe! Good-bye to you! I use the word "good-bye" in its original, primitive sense: God be with you. How few, when using this familiar expression, give even a passing though to its real signification.

Good-bye, friend!

For upwards of twelve months he who has just "passed in his last check" and I were "mates." We worked side by side. "Billy," "Old Bill"—as he was variously and familiarly called—and I have often helped each other in our various duties. A good-hearted, straightforward man, he had at the "Edison," where we were both engaged, many friends, and no enemies. Every Sunday night during the period he was ill, I used to go to sit with him for a short while after evensong was over at St John's church, where he had been for many years a regular worshipper. On t-he hold, before the seven o'clock whistle blow, quite a small levee of his fellow-workers, all anxious to inquire after their old friend's welfare. For—if I mistake not—somewhere around nine years he had worked at armature winding in its various branches; and although I had only known him for some fourteenth months, so closely connected were we in our daily tasks that I shall feel a distinct personal loss

Others who have known him more intimately than I have, will be better qualified to expatiate on his many good qualities. I like to speak of a man as I find him; and I always found William Hinchliffe a good, straightforward comrade, a good brother Mason and a good Conservative

Eheu! He has departed!! Requiescat in pace!!!

Oshkigmong, Nov 30.—Mr. D. Whetung bought some frogs in the early part of the fall, and they were put in safe quarters until such time as they were ready to butcher. The generosity of Daniel causes the hoppers to feel safe and comfortable for the winter, unconscious of their fate, but being subject to lethargy, and before making their departure to the land of nod, (where they were expecting to spend their six months' vacation) thought to give Dan their last and farewell praise by chanting a familiar hymn, occasionally looking up to see if Mr. Whetung was there to applaud. But Mr. Dan was not there to enjoy the music which which the froggies had prepared. Being content with what they had done, the hoppers went to their cozy beds and were soon fast asleep without any covering. All this time Daniel had forgotten his prisoners, until a few days ago he went to clean out the frog pen, when his spade struck found that what seemed a piece of ice were his prisoners, which had transformed to solid ice, and were apparently lifeless. Dan examined and something which appeared to be a piece of ice. On examination Dan discussed and finally pronounced life extinct. To exercise his miraculous power, Dan placed the supposed corpses in a bucket of cold water, and, to his surprise, the croakers began to kick up their heels, and in a few minutes he saw that his marvellous power had brought animation to the frogies, and seeking they were pretty fat, dressed them and took them to the market.

The brave Daniel, sr., made his initial trip to the city with sleighs, crossing on the ice Saturday, of last week. Dan is the first one to venture with horses on the ice this season.

ELECTIONS OF 1875 RECALLED

Dr. O'Sullivan Took Provincial Seat After Two Campaigns

The Review had a query from a subscriber this morning, who asked who opposed Dr. O'Sullivan, (Con.) for the House of Commons.

He was never a candidate for the Dominion House, but was sent to the Provincial House in 1875.

The date of the election was January 18, 1875 and Dr. O'Sullivan for East Peterboro, was opposed by Jas. Stratton, father of Mr. J. R. Stratton. A third candidate, in the person of Mr. Peter Pearse, of Belmont, entered the contest, but retired before election day, when Dr. O'Sullivan was victorious with a majority of 12.

In West Peterboro the contestants were W. H. Scott, (Con.) and Mr. G. A Cox (Lib) ,the latter being returned with a majority of 42.

Later petitions were fyled and both declared void.

On September 24 of the same year in another election for the Ontario House, O'Sullivan, Hogan, and Sergeant, were candidates for East Peterboro and the vote gave Dr. O'Sullivan, a majority of 357 over Hogan, and 382 over Sergeant.

On October 28, Scott and Cox again battled and the returns showed a majority of 1 for Mr. Scott.

Liberals Have no Candidates in Many Ridings

Toronto, Nov. 30—With only five days remaining before nomination day there are nearly thirty ridings in the province where the Liberals have so far failed to produce a candidate, including all the local seats with the exception of North Toronto where ex-Mayor Oliver will oppose Hon. J. J. Foy.

This morning when the matter was broached by F. G. Inwood, the Provincial organizer for the Liberal party said that no additional conventions had been called to name candidates, but added that he expected to announce several more before nomination day.

ONLY SEVEN LAST ELECTION

In the last Provincial elections the Opposition allowed seven seats to go by acclamation, but it is expected that there will be a larger number number this year despite the call sent out by the new leader for candidates in every riding.

The feeling is growing that the Liberals will not contest more than one seat in Toronto, though there will be the Labor candidates and two Independent Conservatives in East Toronto

NO OTHER CANDIDATES IN SIGHT

When asked this morning whether the other riding associations would select candidates, Mr. A. E. Hacker the local Liberal organizer said that no steps had been taken in this direction except in North Toronto.

"Will you contest any of the other seats?" he was asked.

"I would rather not speak on that matter," was the reply.

NEW ROUTE COMPLETED

Georgian Bay and Seaboard Line Passes Through Peterboro

Open for Freight Next Month—Passenger Trains Later

The Toronto World contains the following. A splendid map of the C.P.R. line through this district appeared with the article—

"The Canadian Pacific's new wheat line to the seaboard from Port McNicoll on the Georgian Bay southeast to Bethany (thirteen miles west of Peterboro, on the Toronto-Montreal line is now completed and will be opened for freight in December. Later on it will have passenger trains that will supply a greatly improved service in the country it traverses and to travelers from other quarters. In fact it will make a great many changes both in freight and travel. Here is the new line as shown in map—

	Miles
Port McNicoll to Bethany
Port McNicol to Coldwater	13.10
Coldwater to Orillia	14.15
Orillia to Lindsay	42.75
Lindsay to Bethany Jct	18.01
Total Mileage	88.01

"The rail distance from Port McNicoll to Montreal tidewater is less than 350 miles. This is a race to a finish between rail haul and the Welland canal route. Owen Sound is put out of business as the C.P.R.'s Georgian Bay port. Also the steamboat expresses will run to Port McNicoll. The grades from Owen Sound to Montreal via Toronto are heavy and costly to work. The new line is of the most modern construction with only a four tenths per cent. maximum grade. A standard combination freight and passenger engine will haul a load of $4,000 bushels over this road. The grain grower of the west ought to get a part of this saving. At least that is what Sir Thomas Shaughnessy says, and that is what the grain growers ought to ask for next year.

"Come now to the passenger travel. A look at the map will show that the C.P. has for the first time two great triangles or belts around Lake Simcoe with the bottom of the triangle running through Toronto. The apex of the triangle is Coldwater Jct., on the Toronto-Sudbury line. With the little one around the city there are now three triangles—

Leaside Triangle	Miles
West Toronto to Don st.	6.7
Don to Leaside	3.3
Leaside to West Toronto (via N Toronto)	5.5
	15.9
Burketon Triangle
Toronto to Burketon	46.5
Burketon to Coldwater	79.4
Coldwater to Toronto	94
Bethany Triangle
Toronto to Bethany	63.5
Bethany to Coldwater (new line)	74.9
Coldwater to Toronto	94.
	232.4

"If the base of the two big triangles is run from West Toronto to Leaside via North Toronto, the distance in each is shortened by four and one half miles.

"There will be new passenger services on the three sides of both the big triangles. There are three stubs on the triangles: Coldwater to Port McNicoll, Lindsay to Bobcaygeon, and as far as train service goes. Bethany to Peterboro and Havelock. But the stubs are all but the Bobcaygeon one, worked in on the proposed trains.

"Here are some of the new trains that will be run as soon as the stations are built this winter—

"Toronto to Coldwater via Burketon, Lindsay, Orillia in the morning and returning in the evening. These two trains will do all the local stops made between Toronto and Burketon by the two day expresses now running between Toronto and Montreal, and for small stations as well, viz Leaside, Donlands, Wexford, Agincourt, Brown's Corners, Locust Hill, Claremont, Glen Major, Atha, Burketon. This change will let the day expresses save considerable time in their run.

"Port McNicoll east to Havelock in the morning, returning in the evening via Coldwater, Orillia, Bethany, doing all the local stops on the main line between Bethany and Havelock, thus further facilitating the time of the day expresses both ways.

"One of these new trains will connect with the 16-mile Bobcaygeon-Lindsay stub service.

"Orillia for the first time gets a C.P.R. service by this new line and while it is longer to Toronto than the other lines it gives choice of route and in many cases new travel conveniences for the people of that town. By it also the Canadian Northern is enabled to give Orillia a service, for it has built a branch from Udney to Atherley, of about five miles, and to Atherley there is a joint section on the C.P.R.'s seaboard line to Orillia of bout three miles, over which the Canadian Northern enjoy running rights, by a judgment of the railway commission.

"The service from Orillia to Toronto via Coldwater will do local stops that the Toronto-Winnipeg expresses cannot make. And the Winnipeg trains stopping at Coldwater will give new and improved services from Parry Sound, Sudbury and Winnipeg, to Orillia, Lindsay, Burketon, Bethany, Peterborough, and further east without passing through Toronto.

"The line through from Bethany to Coldwater makes the southern line from Montreal to Sudbury much shorter:

(1) Montreal to Sudbury	439
(2) Montreal to Toronto	338
Bethany to Coldwater	90
Coldwater to Sudbury	165
	530
(3) Montreal to Toronto	338
Toronto to Sudbury	260
	598

"This new alternative route via Bethany gives better grades and better weather conditions and will relieve the shorter and more northern Montreal-Sudbury route. In fact the Montreal-Toronto-Sudbury triangle, bury-591 miles, becomes the Montreal-Bethany-Sudbury triangle, 530 miles.

"So that the new route hits Owen Sound as a through grain port, but makes Port McNicoll one of the great inland ports of Canada and greatly improves the transhipment of western grain, gives improved passenger service to many through and local passengers in the Peterborough-Toronto-Coldwater triangle, and makes Orillia about the best served town in the railway line in Ontario. And when the three transcontinental lines out of Toronto are completed Orillia will see them all converge in her neighborhood."

CHARGED WITH THEFT OF MONEY

John A. MacDonald Said to Have Stolen $34 From Pole

"Shades of the departed," said the Magistrate this morning when reading a charge of theft against a namesake of the illustrious John A. Macdonald.

"You are accused of stealing $34 from B Empuynis on Nov. 29th."

The prisoner did not plead and as the chief was not ready to proceed with the case a remand was made to Dec. 4th.

The circumstances of the alleged theft are that the complainant, who is a Pole, and a member of the construction gang Bethany, missed his money at an hotel yesterday with the result that "John A." a companion, was arrested.

Method of Finding an Aeronaut's Position.

When terrestrial objects are invisible, an aeronaut is compelled to employ indirect methods of finding his position. Several such methods have been invented during recent years. Berlingmaier and Marcuse have employed magnetic measurements for this purpose and successful methods of informing an aeronaut of his position by means of wireless telegraphy have been devised. Finally, astronomical methods have been proposed, in which the tedious reduction of the observations is effected by means of special apparatus.

Persistence of Instinct.

Memory handed down through thirty generations is one of the perplexing facts of science. The beaver flourished along the French rivers until killed off for its fur, but is now known only in about a dozen of the villages of the Rhone near Avignon. For three centuries these villages have had no trees to cut down for dams. The animals were compelled to adopt a new mode of life, and have burrowed in the banks, shaping mud with their tails as usual. Recently some of them were taken by a Spanish Count to forests on his estate. Very strangely, they resumed the habits dropped three centuries before they were born, and at once began cutting down trees and building dams.

FIRST DIVISION IN THE HOUSE

puty Speaker. This motion led to another protest from the Liberal side of the chamber, quite similar in tone to the one made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the time of the election of Dr. Sproule as chief commoner, only this time it was Fred Pardee, chief Liberal whip, who spoke.

"It does seem," said Mr. Pardee, "that in the filling of this position the Government might have selected for this important post some one whose loyalty to the Mother Land was absolutely unquestioned, some one who stood first, last and all the time for the solidity of the British Empire, and the continuance of the British connection."

Mr. Borden spoke briefly, but with considerable warmth. He said the observations just given were very much of the same flavor as the House had been accustomed to since the beginning of the session from the members of the Opposition. These criticisms were part of a dangerous attempt to set section against section and race against race in the interest of a political party.

Mr. Borden said in conclusion, that he believed Mr. Blondin to be every bit as loyal as Mr. Pardee himself. If the attacks of the present character were persisted in, the Government members would take a hand in the matter, and would present to the House and the country some of the Liberal leader's and members' words as to the British Empire and British connection.

Smuggler of Men Fined.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 30.—That Canadian employers of foreign labor have smuggled laborers into Canada in violation of the immigration laws was admitted by Joseph Poultage, Hamilton, who was fined fifty dollars yesterday for assisting undesirable aliens to enter the country.

Poultage was arrested here late Tuesday night with five men he smuggled into Canada from Buffalo. The party crossed the river in a row boat above Chippewa, paying boatmen whose names are unknown, seven dollars each. Poultage's companion were fined five dollars each and deported.

"Lots of men come to Canada like we did. I came here with a contractor six months ago and went to Welland to work. A friend of mine paid twelve dollars to be driven across the bridge," Poultage testified.

He claimed to be unable to give the names of the boatmen or contractors who obtain laborers in violation of the immigration laws.

Zam-Buk cures piles

Mr Thomas Pearson, of Prince Albert, Sask, writes—"I must thank you for the benefit I received from Zam-Buk. Last summer I suffered greatly from piles. I started to use Zam-Buk and found it gave me relief, so I continued it, and after using three or four boxes I am pleased to say that it completely cured me."

Mr G. A. Dufresne, of 183 185 St. Joseph street, St Roch, Quebec, P.Q., writes—"I can highly recommend Zam-Buk to everyone who suffers from piles. I have also found it most effective in curing a sore thumb, with which my little son was suffering. The thumb had begun to swell and fester and lost the nail. I persevered in the application of Zam-Buk and the sore is now entirely healed. Zam-Buk is indispensable as a household remedy."

Not only for piles, but for inflamed sores, ulcers, eczema, ringworm, boils, eruptions, scalp sores, itch, children's sore heads, old wounds, cold sores, chapped hands, etc., Zam-Buk is without equal as a healer, and also for cuts, burns, stiffness, etc. All druggists and stores at 50 cents box.

Wm J. Downey was shot and bodily wounded by Samuel Jellymore, who resented a remark made while they were at a roadhouse near Halifax.

THE AULD ALLIANCE

By JAMES MacKINNON

The Franco-Scottish League, which so long bound the two countries in such intimate association, was first and foremost a political one. But it not only for several centuries made its mark on the political history of France and Scotland. It materially affected their institutions and their culture, and there is no other instance in European history of so close, potent, and long enduring a relationship of one nation to another.

This unique relationship took its rise in the historical complication which at the end of the thirteenth and the beginning of the fourteenth centuries made Scotland and France the enemies of England. But the marriage of Queen Mary to the Dauphin threatened to lead to the union of the crowns, not of England and Scotland, but of Scotland and France. This danger had the effect of drawing Scotland and England together in an opposition League, and coalescing with the growing potency of the Reformation movement, which brought the two countries into line in 1560 on religious as well as political grounds, practically put an end to the old alliance.

French Influence.

Of the influence of French institutions on those of Scotland evidence is also not lacking. Scotland took, for instance, her legal system from France, not from England. Her Parliament was modelled on the French States General, in which the various orders assembled together, rather than on the assembly of Lords and Commons which formed two Houses instead of one. The Court of Session, founded in 1535, was fashioned after the Parliament of Paris, and the pre-Reformation Scottish universities after that of Paris, the greatest of mediaeval scholastic institutions. Not less remarkable is the French influence on her ecclesiastical institutions. From French Protestantism she borrowed her Presbyterian system of church government, and even in its smaller details the French impress is unmistakable. The Moderator of Scotland's ecclesiastical courts — Presbytery, Synod, Assembly — is an importation from France, where it was the designation of the President of an ecclesiastical court; whilst another term, applied to a motion in these courts, an "overture," is derived from the practice of the Parliament of Paris. At an earlier time ecclesiastical as well as baronial architecture affords additional exemplification of the tendency to borrow or adapt from Scotland's old ally.

COST OF AMERICA'S DISCOVERY

Less Than $8,000 Was Expended by Columbus on His Great Voyage to this Continent.

This is rather a difficult thing to ascertain, but some deductions have been made and some conclusions arrived at. Professor Rege says that the cost of the first fleet of Columbus was 1,140,000 maravedis. The value of a maravedi was about ⅔ of a cent in modern money. The contribution, therefore, that was made by Queen Isabella was about $7296.00, without taking into consideration the higher purchasing power and money in these days. The city of Palas, Spain, also had to furnish out of its own means two small ships manned for 12 months. The cost to the State, therefore, of the journey of discovery was not more than $7,500.00, about the price of a modern first class automobile. Of this sum the admiral received the sum of $320, the captains $192 each, the pilots $128 each, and a physician $38.50. The sailors received for the necessaries of life each month about $2.45. Not a very expensive trip considering the value of the discovery.

EXPERIENCE WITH SMUGGLERS

Officer Captured 100,000 Cigars

In his experiences in getting after the tobacco smugglers Donohue, a recently deceased member of the customs service at New York, had a number of narrow escapes from death. One, which was particularly dangerous and was an excellent example of the man's fearlessness, occurred in 1882. There was one ship plying between Cuba and New York which Donohue suspected. One day it arrived on a regular trip and the detective boarded her. The customs man knew every place on a ship where contraband stuff could be hidden, but after a thorough search, he found nothing.

But Donohue was sure that there were 100,000 cigars on that vessel and he was determined to locate them. Finally he noticed that although the firemen were free to go ashore, many of them were still on the ship, apparently enjoying his discomfiture. Then Donohue had an idea. He procured a lantern and a hammer and made his way to the boiler-room, tapping each boiler with the hammer. One sounded differently from the rest and he ordered the circular cover, about the size of an ordinary can-hole, removed.

There was a moment's hesitation, but the order was fulfilled and Donohue went down in the big iron cavern. There heaped at one side he found the 100,000 cigars. But while he was below some one clapped down the iron cover and the inspector was trapped. He yelled and pounded, but all in vain. Then his lantern went out. The detective remained there for several hours until a watchman, hearing the hammering, released him.

Water does not all weigh alike. For instance, a gallon of distilled water weighs ten pounds; of sea water, ten and three-quarters pounds; of Dead Sea water, twelve pounds. Eight and a half of salt go to every hundred pounds of Dead Sea water, and two pounds to ordinary sea water.

AUTOIST GETS 7 MONTHS.

Roy F. Brintnell Sentenced for Death of Woman.

Toronto, Nov. 30.—Roy F. Brintnell was sentenced to seven months imprisonment by Justice Riddell in the Criminal Assize Court yesterday morning. He caused the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Saulter by his wilful negligence in driving a motor car at the corner of Yonge and Louisa streets on October 5, 1911.

It was in vain that T. C. Robinette, counsel for the defendant, called the judge's attention to the fact that 2,000 people had signed a petition asking for leniency, for as Judge Riddell remarked after the sentence: "I do not impose a fine. We should not recognize that money can pay, even in part, for blood."

His lordship then showed the necessity of protecting the public against recklessness on the part of motor drivers. The public, he believed, were prejudiced, but motor drivers by their disrespect of all laws of courtesy and respect had been deserving of public censure. The speed limit had not been taken seriously in the past, and he believed that stringent methods should be used to enforce the laws in this respect.

In conclusion Justice Riddell said: "Now, you are not of what is known as the criminal class; you are a respectable, hard-working, honest young man of most respectable family and connections, but I cannot make one rule for you and another for one less respectable or of lower social standing. The law is no respecter of persons and should not be, and I should do wrong in my view if I were to deal with you in a different way from that in which I would deal with another."

ARTIFICIAL RUBBER.

Said to be Quite as Good as the Grown Article.

About forty years ago two young chemists announced that they had succeeded in manufacturing indigo. The method used by them was entirely independent of the indigo plants. The yield was extremely small, and there seemed to be no promise in the method of future commercial success. A quarter of a century later or thereabout the manufacturer was supplying the world with artificial indigo, and the occupation of the indigo planter, if not gone, was going. And now the chemical world is all agog about rubber. This substance obtained mainly from South and Centre America, though, of late years, owing to a great increase in the demand for it, plantations have been started, especially in Ceylon and the Malay Peninsula and Archipelago, and these are now contributing to the world's supply. Deep incisions are made near the base of the tree. The liquid flowing from these incisions is heated to drive off most of the water, and the residue is the impure rubber of the market. The valuable constituent is caoutchouc, a colourless, elastic, amorphous substance. This has long been known, but little has been learned in regard to its chemical nature until recently. Last year a specimen of artificial rubber was exhibited at Berlin identical in all its properties with the natural substance. At present there appears, to be sure, to be little prospect of early commercial success along the line suggested, but the results already reached are of such interest as to incite to many efforts to solve the problem.

Sterilizing Earth Around Posts.

Patent post holes have long been humorously referred to in connection with machines for grinding smoke, left-hand wheel barrows, and other imaginary inventions. It has remained, however, for a Budapest inventor to make what is probably an important improvement relating particularly to post holes, seeking to thus preserve the wood of the posts. Instead of applying preservatives to the wooden posts, railroad ties, sleepers or other wood exposed to the action of the earth, he treats the earth which surrounds the wooden post in such manner as to destroy all insect, germ and fungus life by soaking the earth with a suitable sterilizing liquid. The process is termed "Peristerilisation," and is claimed to be especially useful in rural and other remote districts in which it is inconvenient to obtain wood which has been treated with creosote or similar preservative.

The Work of the Human Heart.

The average human heart is a suction and force pump of remarkable capacity and durability. Each of its two chambers contains, on an average, 75 cubic centimeters or 4.575 cubic inches; the total contents of 150 cubic centimeters or 9.15 cubic inches being discharged 81 times a minute, corresponding to a delivery of 12.150 cubic centimeters (12.15 liters) or 741 cubic inches per minute, 729 liters or 25.73 cubic feet per hour. Expressed in U. S. gallons, the average human heart pumps through it each hour 192.6 gallons; each day, 4,622.4 gallons; each year 1,687,176 gallons; and in the adult life time of a man living to the age sung by the Psalmist 8,435,880 gallons. The pressure against which this fluid is pumped is equivalent to that of a water-column 2⅓ meters or say 8 feet 2.42 inches high; otherwise expressed, about 0.242 atmospheres or 3.55 pounds avoirdupois per square inch.

The British Blue-Jacket

The British Navy is essentially a service which keeps very much to itself, the consequence being that the public know very little of what goes on inside of the mystic circle of reticence. It is, however, a profession in which the most loyal co-operation between officers and men has to be the rule if good results are to be forthcoming. That they are forthcoming is only too evident when we read in the newspapers of ships doing well at target practice, etc.

A naval life is perforce a very hard one, for sailors all the world over, and unlike their comrades in the Army, are always living under active service conditions. They always have the elements, the most powerful and merciless of foes, to contend with and when folk ashore are listening to the wind howling in their chimneys, our sailors are at sea preparing themselves for the day when our right to the title "Mistress of the Seas" will be disputed.

That they take it cheerfully may be deduced from the remark of one old salt of a bygone era, who, in a south-westerly gale in the English Channel and the foretopmast of his ship having just broken off close to the cap, remarked to his chum, "Lor' bless me Bill, but I'm werry glad I ain't ashore. Just think as 'ow the chimbley pots u'd be flyin' about in this 'ere breeze!"

That remark sums up the spirit of the present day man-of-war's man very succinctly, for above all things he is a person who takes the rough with the smooth in a philosophical way, having been bred to danger since the day of his entry into the service.

CONSERVING VITALITY

Taking Care of Men Means Maximum of Results With Minimum of Effort.

What has long been considered one of the most important principles in the realm of mechanical and engineering science is finally beginning to be looked upon as an equally vital principle in the realm of human development. This is the conservation of energy. The best thinkers and the greatest leaders in the industrial world are awakening to a realization of the fact that it pays not only to take care of machinery but also to take care of men. And taking care of a man means giving him the right chance and the right instruction to produce the maximum of results with the minimum of effort — to use to the best advantage what energy he uses, and to conserve his energy in such a way that it will not be taxed unduly. Further, to protect employees from greedy and cruel employers who drive a man to death because it is easy to get another one to take his place, we are constantly passing more and more stringest laws regulating hours of labor, conditions in which people work in various establishments, the employment of women and children, and other common factors in industry of different kinds. In other words, we are coming to see that we can not afford to waste humanity any more than we can afford to waste our forests or any of our natural resources. Happily, too, we are going still further along this line of human conservation, and are making extensive provisions of a practical sort for the preservation of health through simple, natural, healthful manners of living. We are striving to interest everybody in the value of fresh air, wholesome food, proper exercise, bathing, and other health-building factors, and we are striving also to give everybody a chance to take advantage of all these things. The greatest movement of all the ages is this new movement for conserving human vitality.

ELECTRICITY AND PLANT-LIFE

An Electrician Has Built a Machine by Which Two Crops Can Be Secured.

The study of economic biology is gaining a good deal of attention at the present time, and those engaged in research work have been able to secure results which suggest that there are enormous possibilities in the application of electricity to agriculture and horticulture. The investigators claim that the growth of almost all cereals, fruit, and vegetables can be increased and stimulated by the application of electricity, and, what is equally important, that the products can be gathered earlier. Their statistics go to show that the increase in quantity in certain cases is very high — strawberries 36 per cent., tomatoes 30 per cent., beets 30 per cent., cucumbers 17 per cent., wheat 29 per cent., and barley 9 per cent. more grain and 12 per cent. more straw. In the case of barley, the germinating process which is used by brewers occupies about 27 days; but this period is reduced to 13 days with the assistance of electricity, while it is also claimed that the percentage of germination is greater. These results have been obtained as the result of most carefully conducted experiments, and the question naturally arises as to the possibility of a general cooperation between science and agriculture on these lines. In other words, is it possible to secure apparatus in such a simple form, and at such a reasonable figure, that ordinary nurserymen and farmers will feel tempted to call the great power to their aid? That is a question to which a Bristol electrician, Mr. Thomas Clark, claims to have an affirmative answer. He has built and patented, a machine which is really an influence machine, and by the application of high-tension electricity a continuous current from insulated overhead wires can be discharged. The machine which Mr. Clark has just built, is shortly to be put to a practical test in one of the largest nurseries in the South. The purchasers have evidently realised that there is a chance of obtaining early crops, and in order to secure the best results they have erected a greenhouse on the lines desired by the patentee.

NOTHING NEW

Flying Machine Patented in 1854

In the year 1854, the Earl of Aldborough, one of the most enthusiastic promotors of aviation of his time, patented in Great Britain a flying machine embodying a multitude of ideas more or less practical, and among his many suggestions, describes an aeronautical anchor of peculiar form, evidently the result of an investigation of the anatomy of a bird's foot, and which he describes in the following terms: "I prefer forming the grapnels with flukes, attached to the stem by joints, and pressed downward by springs in such manner that the flukes shall strike downward when liberated, in a manner bearing a certain resemblance to the talons of a bird, separate cords being attached to each of the flukes, and all these being collected in a small sheath, and so arranged that the flukes can be raised, or permitted to spring downward by either fixing these cords in any convenient way, or letting them go when it is desired that the flukes shall act so as to enter the ground or seize any object." Apparently not satisfied with this device, he further perfected it in a patent of somewhat later date, wherein he describes a steel-sheathed cable for supporting the anchor, the cable being provided with a device for lessening the effect of sudden shocks, this latter feature being of very common use in marine navigation, being known in that art under the name of "shock-absorbers."

Experiments in Wireless Telephony

Successful experiments have been made lately in wireless telephony, which may have far-reaching developments in aviation, particularly in war service. Conversation was freely carried on with an aviator while he was flying 750 feet in the air at a speed estimated to be 55 miles an hour. The aviator was B. C. Huck, of Leeds, who was using a Blackburn monoplane. He wore on his head an ordinary telephone receiving helmet, and on his chest the ordinary mouthpiece. Strapped on the machine was the "Aerophone" apparatus invented by H. Grindell Matthews, the youngest man ever elected a member of the Royal Institution. This was the first time wireless telephony has been tried on an aeroplane. Huck's voice was clear and distinct.

Frank W. McMahon, a Philadelphia saloonkeeper who shot on the street a wealthy real estate man who, he claimed, ruined his daughter, was convicted of manslaughter.

IN THE SCIENTIFIC WORLD

LURE OF INVENTION

The Longing to Introduce Something New Affects all Classes and Conditions of Men.

The lure of invention is one that influences all people and spares no class or condition of men. From the clergyman in his study to the convict in his lonely cell, it exerts its attraction, and both are found enrolled among the list of patentees, although not so precisely identified. The stimulus is not always the hope of fee or reward, for we find the millionaire as strongly interested as the very poor. There is something in the attraction that cannot be resisted. Someone has said that writing is like flirting. If you cannot do it, no one can teach you to do it, and if you can do it, no one can keep you from doing it. So it is with invention; no one can teach you to do it, and if you have the divine afflatus, no one can prevent you from exercising it. This is fortunate; for the inventor is subjected many times to discouraging influences in the first instance. Have you ever noticed, however, the pride with which anyone will display an invention even of the simplest character? Surely this is commendable, for we all admire originality, and invention is originality, often of the highest order. While the lure may be regarded apart from the results, we cannot help realising what a poor world this would be except for the beneficent works of the inventors of all times.

WHAT THE ALCHEMISTS SOUGHT

A gramme of radium dispenses energy chiefly in the form of heat at a rate which is about one hundred and twenty gramme-calories per hour; or, to draw a comparison, a given weight of radium radiates the same amount of heat-energy in sixty-five hours as would be given off by the complete combustion of an equal weight of good coal; and, while the latter would be entirely consumed, the capacity of the radium for continued radiation would not be materially lessened, for its exhaustion would only be complete after a period of from seventeen hundred to two thousand years. Thus a minute quantity of radium distributed throughout the earth would cause a rise in temperature of the surrounding rock, and a scientist has expressed his surprise that, from an investigation of the outer layers of the earth's crust, the internal heat is not even greater than it is from this cause.

The experiments of Professor Soddy show that radium is not directly formed from uranium, but that there is probably an intermediate substance formed in the uranium-radium series, with a long period of life which may be ten thousand years. The radium is therefore only one stage of a series of transformations which we have been able to isolate, and it is hard to resist the conclusion that in this series we find to some extent what the alchemists of old were in search of, the transmutation of one element into another, though all of them bear a resemblance sufficiently close to justify their common relationship to a distinct group.

Pure Air and Horses.

The "oldest inhabitant" never remembers a time when the street odour has been less unpleasant than was the case in towns during the recent heat. In the pre-motor days the smell of horse manure was at times quite unbearable, and we therefore have to thank the motor with all its faults, for this improvement. Without it the intense heat we have lately experienced would have been much more terrible. Possibly also there is more oxygen available for human use now that the equine ranks have been so greatly thinned. During the 24 hours a man will vitiate about 1750 cubic feet of air to the extent of 1 per cent. A horse (as, of course, a motor) will do much more than this, so perhaps it is just as well he is gone or going — so far as the streets are concerned.

First Railroad Signalling

It was not until the year 1846 that the present system of signalling was first thought of. Up to that date the pointsman used to have to sit in a hut near the switch for which he was responsible, and, at a given signal, get up and alter it by hand. It is to the laziness of one of these old-time pointsmen that we have to look for the present-day system of signalling. He had to attend to two sets of switches some distance from each other, and in order to save himself the trouble and exertion of walking to and fro between them he fastened the levers together by a long piece of wire. A broken iron chair served as a counter-weight. The wire ran on into his hut, and there he sat nightly and worked the two signals without setting a foot outside. This went on for several months, but one day the old signalman was discovered, severely reprimanded, and afterwards promoted.

Queen Ant and Queen Bee

It is claimed that the queen ant has not bad justice done her by naturalists. As compared with the famous queen bee, she is regarded by Dr. W. M. Wheeler as a far more admirable creature. In fact, they are, in many important respects, diametrical opposites. The queen bee is, it is pointed out, a degenerate creature, unable to nourish either herself or her young, to visit flowers, to build combs or to store them with honey. With the queen ant quite the reverse is true. She is held to be a perfect exemplar and embodiment of her species, and the worker ant suffers from incomplete and retarded development. The queen ant is a very industrious and intelligent worker, and, in the opinion of the authority mentioned, she forms an exceedingly interesting subject for study, and has not hitherto been well understood.

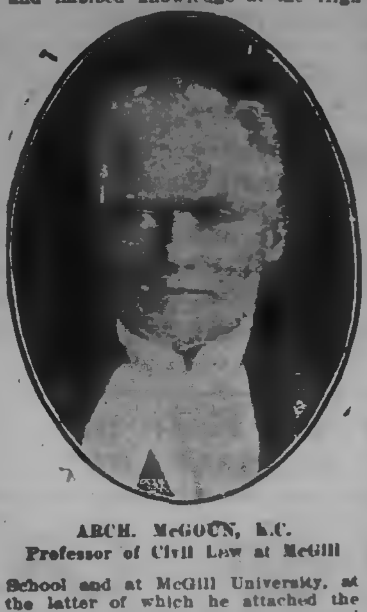
WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

Prof. ARCHIBALD McGOUN

Mr. McGoun is a gentleman of wide and varied capabilities, and his legal connection aside, is well known and much esteemed by Canadians in many walks of life. The son of Scottish parents, his father hailing from the old-world village of Douglas in Lanarkshire, and his mother from "Auld Ayr, wham ne'er a toon surpasses" — our McGill professor was born in Montreal in December 1853, and imbibed knowledge at the High School and at McGill University, at the latter of which he attached the B.A. and gold medal honors in mental and moral philosophy of the year 1876, that of M. A. coming in 1889. Here he also graduated B.C.L. in 1878, was called to the Bar in course of the same year, and for considerable period was associated in business with Mr. F. L. Beique, Q.C. Mr. McGoun, it should be added spent portion of his educational years at the L'Ecole de Droit, Paris, France.



ARCH. McGOUN, K.C.
Professor of Civil Law at McGill

Appointed professor of Civil Procedure, and afterwards of Legal Bibliography in the Faculty of Law of his Alma Mater, he was, in 1896, on the resignation of the then Dean, conferred the further honor of being chosen lecturer on constitutional law, and about the same time was recommended for Q. C. by the Tupper administration.

Mr. McGoun was long prominently identified with the Imperial Federation movement, was, indeed, one of the founders of the Canadian League and is now vice-president of the British Empire League in Canada. Forming one of the deputation to the Imperial Federation Conference in London in 1886, he it was who drafted and moved in Council the resolution upon which the League acted, in inviting Lord Salisbury to call the Colonial conference of 1887. The professor now lectures at McGill on Corporations and on Agency and Partnership, and in addition to a close personal attention to all the details of his extensive legal business, takes a real live interest and share in public matters generally. He was for a number of years a member of the Council of Westmount, of which delightful city he is a resident. Politically he is a liberal, but separated from the party many years ago on the policy of unrestricted reciprocity with the United States.

Professor McGoun has contributed much to the literature of his time, his publications covering such subjects as "Federation of the Empire"; "Commercial Union with the U. S. with a word on Imperial Reciprocity"; "A Federal Parliament of the British People"; "Imperial Reciprocity"; "A Revenue Tariff within the Empire", and a host of newspaper contributions on many subjects of Imperial and local interest. He worships amongst the Presbyterians.

NEWTON WESLEY ROWELL

Ontario's New Liberal Leader

The new Liberal Leader of the Ontario Legislature recently chosen to succeed Hon. A. G. McKay, is a native of Middlesex County, where he was born on 1st November 1867, his father being Mr. Joseph Rowell, of London Township. He entered upon the study of law in London and moved to Toronto in 1891, where he was called to the Bar the same year. He has been practising law in that city for twenty years; was made a King's Counsel in 1902 and elected a bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada at the last election in May of this year.

Reared in the Liberal faith Mr. Rowell is not without political experience, having contested, though unsuccessfully, the seat for East York in the Dominion House of Commons in 1900.

He has been active and prominent in religious affairs, and particularly in the Laymen's Missionary Movement, with which he has been connected intimately from its inception. He was elected chairman of the Canadian Council of the movement in 1907, and continued so till 1910, when he retired. On most of the general boards and committees of the Methodist Church Mr. Rowell holds a seat.

The new leader is a member of the Senate of the University of Toronto, and also of the Senate and of the Board of Regents of Victoria University.

His social proclivities are indicated by his membership in St. George's Society and the Irish Protestant Benevolent Society, while he is also a member of the National Club, the Ontario Club, and the Queen City Curling Club. Mrs. Rowell is a daughter of Rev. Dr. Alexander Langford.

Great Britain has also protested against a blockade of the Dardanelles.

FRANCE AND SCOTLAND

At One Time the Land of Cakes Had an Alliance with the Land of the Lily.

The Franco-Scottish League, which so long bound the two countries in such intimate association, was first and foremost a political one. But it not only for several centuries made its mark on the political history of France and Scotland. It materially affected their institutions and their culture, and there is no other instance in European history of so close, potent, and long enduring a relationship of one nation to another.

This unique relationship took its rise in the historical complication which at the end of the thirteenth and the beginning of the fourteenth centuries made Scotland and France the enemies of England. But the marriage of Queen Mary to the Dauphin threatened to lead to the union of the crowns, not of England and Scotland, but of Scotland and France. This danger had the effect of drawing Scotland and England together in an opposition League, and coalescing with the growing potency of the Reformation movement, which brought the two countries into line in 1560 on religious as well as political grounds, practically put an end to the old alliance.

French Influence.

Of the influence of French institutions on those of Scotland evidence is also not lacking. Scotland took, for instance, her legal system from France, not from England. Her Parliament was modelled on the French States General, in which the various orders assembled together, rather than on the assembly of Lords and Commons which formed two Houses instead of one. The Court of Session, founded in 1535, was fashioned after the Parliament of Paris, and the pre-Reformation Scottish universities after that of Paris, the greatest of mediaeval scholastic institutions. Not less remarkable is the French influence on her ecclesiastical institutions. From French Protestantism she borrowed her Presbyterian system of church government, and even in its smaller details the French impress is unmistakable. The Moderator of Scotland's ecclesiastical courts — Presbytery, Synod, Assembly — is an importation from France, where it was the designation of the President of an ecclesiastical court; whilst another term, applied to a motion in these courts, an "overture," is derived from the practice of the Parliament of Paris. At an earlier time ecclesiastical as well as baronial architecture affords additional exemplification of the tendency to borrow or adapt from Scotland's old ally.

MISSIONS AND TURKEY

Progress of this Part of Europe Due to Missionary Enterprise.

The first electric telegraph instrument in Turkey was set up by missionaries. They introduced the first sewing-machine, the first printing-press, and the first modern agricultural implements. They brought the tomato and the potato and the other vegetables and fruits that are now staples; they built the first hospitals; they started the first dispensary and the first modern schools. The mighty uplifting force of education came with the mission schools, and is having the tremendous force it has everywhere, in overthrowing old errors and outworn forms of despotism and misrule. The most far-reaching work of the missionaries is educational, which comprehends all races, all religions, and all languages. They are of the different races of which the Turkish Empire is composed, regardless of religious faith — Turks, Arabs, Egyptians, Armenians, Kurds, Persians, Macedonians, Bulgars, Druses, Nestorians, Greeks, Russians, Georgians, Circassians, and others too numerous to mention. Their influence is thus extended to every community, because no student leaves an institution without carrying with him the germs of progress which must affect the family and the neighborhood.

Horse-shoer Pallin is still working merrily on and makes his usually trip to the market square on Saturdays.

Mr. Herb. Evans has threshed out and as he is going to move to Toronto, he is not likely to thresh any more. Little Harry Fife was at the threshing and worked remarkably well. He thinks that if he can grow as good a crops next year on the same farm that he will make it pay alright.

Mr. Andrew Evans raised a log barn on the back hundred acres of his farm lately and when the building is completed, it will be very serviceable for storing away implements and wintering young cattle.

The Shearer Cheese and Butter factory is still running, not making cheese but making butter. The owner would like to have it running all the year round. It is hoped in the event of this rumor being accurate that the perpetrator may be exposed, that others may profit thereby. Such unseemly conduct should be stopped. The whole community is much incensed over the alleged perpetration of such a vile act.

HANDSOME PRIVATE GREETING CARDS

Have You Ordered Your's Yet Get a Style of Card That Has Some Individuality About It.

Once again, and more urgently this time, be advised on the matter of personal greeting cards for Christmas, to send to the many friends to whom we wish to send greetings, something more than a mere Christmas card, yet nothing in the nature of a gift. There is nothing to take the place of these little cards which leave no obligation in their wake, but merely a warm friendly feeling about the cockles of one's heart, in the realisation that one has been remembered. Indeed, the wonder is that no one originated the idea twenty-five years ago. However, they did not, and though these cards have been used in England for a number of years, they are still sufficiently uncommon here, to have the little touch of originality about them which we like.

Of course one must bear in mind that there are private greeting cards—and private cards, and that although with the same idea, are not in accordance with good taste. One does not want a common card such as might be picked up at any counter, but something which has a quiet refinement about it. And so one cannot do better than suggest the Review's name in this connection, as their stock of these cards has been most carefully selected, and while there is something to please each particular fancy, yet it is invariably in good taste. Each style has its individuality about it and is not duplicated. You cannot secure the Review's greeting cards at any other bookstore, so there is not chance of the design being too common.

And, by the way, order your cards very soon, as the prettiest are being snatched up by the "wise virgins." 2d

By J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist

Q. What is Astigmatism of the eye?

A. Astigmatism is an uneven curvature of the eye and causes double focus. As the eye always strives for clear vision this double focus annoys the brain and causes headache and nervousness. We make lenses called cylinders to correct astigmatism.

Q. What causes double vision?

A. Double vision is caused by the eyes not being in line, that is, one may turn up or have a tendency to do so, or both may turn in; a weak muscular system is back of it all.

We would be pleased to ave you call and let us explain how such conditions can be relieved with glasses.

"SEVEN YEARS WITHOUT A SCANDAL" IS THE RECORD OF SIR JAMES WHITNEY

NO PENURIOUS POLICY WILL BE PURSUED BY GOVERNMENT

Hon. Mr. Monk Says There Should be $100,000,000 Spent on Ports of Canada on Sea and Lakes.

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—That the country should be prepared to face the expenditure of at least $100,000,000 for the development and improvement of national free ports on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts and the great lakes, was the statement made by Hon. F. D. Monk to the House in committee of supply last evening. The whole question, he declared, should be considered in the light of the admirable report of the transportation commission of 1903.

Hon. J. D. Hazen declared that the question of harbor improvement should be approached from a broad and national and not any local standpoint. The money spent, whether in Montreal, St. John or elsewhere, was, while incidentally a benefit to those ports, far more to the general benefit of the people of Canada.

Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of the Interior, declared that the Government would immediately inaugurate a vigorous immigration policy, which would be in the interests, not of one part, but of all parts of the country, and regardless of race, creed and nationality.

"We have reached a period in the development of this country," said Mr. Rogers, "in which it is necessary to have co-operation between the Dominion and the provinces," and in this regard he paid a tribute to the qualifications of Arthur Hawkes, one of whose chief duties it would be to make a report on this phase of the question.

The House made considerable progress in passing the balance of the estimates for the fiscal year ending 1912, there being little cause for dissension, as they were practically the unvoted remainder of the estimates brought down by the late Government.

When the committee rose and reported at 10.35 p.m., estimates, aggregating nearly $40,000,000 had been voted, at the record rate of about $20,000,000 an hour.

In response to a question by Hon. Charles Murphy, the Premier stated that thirty employes had been dismissed and twenty-four engaged by the authority of the Speaker and the sergeant-at-arms in their departments since Sept. 22.

The Postmaster-General informed Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux that the parcel post convention between France and Canada had been signed by the French Government.

G. H. Boivin (Shefford) had a Ne Temere trap laid for the Government. He asked: "Has the Dominion Government power to legalize or validate every marriage solemnized anywhere in Canada?"

Mr. Borden declined to bite. The jurisdiction of the Dominion, he stated, was laid down in the B.N.A. Act, section 91, sub-section 26, and of the provinces in the same act, sec. 92, sub-section 12.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier: "That's safe."

Hon. R. L. Borden: "Not only safe, but accurate."

The Minister of Marine informed A. Lachance (Quebec Centre) that J. B. Laberte, R. Larue and G. Tanguay had been removed from the Quebec harbor commission in the interests of the public service. There was no intention to close the yards and workshops of the Marine Department at Quebec.

CREATION OF EIGHTEEN NEW CARDINALS SPLENDID SCENE

Pope Performs Final Ceremony In Connection With the Elevation of Eighteen Prelates to the College of Cardinals — Pomp and Circumstance Accompany Event In Great Hall of Beatification at Vatican.

Rome, Dec. 1.—The concluding and most impressive ceremony connected with the creation of the eighteen new cardinals occurred yesterday morning at the great public consistory at the Vatican, when fourteen princes of the church were invested with the red hat indicating their rank. For four years no consistory has been held and for centuries not so many creations have occurred at one time.

Thousands of people also gathered on balconies and roofs and along the streets to witness the passing of the cardinals, the great clerical nobles, the ambassadors and the guests invited to attned the ceremony within the walls of the vatican.

The Hall of Beatification is an immense chamber over the portico of St. Peter's. Distant strains of vocal music and the low, approaching murmur of many voices, announced the arrival of the papal procession. First came a jeweled cross, held aloft by a white-robed figure. Following came a group of Swiss guards in uniforms of red, blue and yellow, designed by Michael Angelo, the men carrying halberds. Then came the Sistine choir, singing as they marched, and after them ecclesiasticals of all orders, priests in black, monks in brown and white, heads of religious congregations and members of the papal court dressed in quaint Elizabethan costumes.

Behind were the cardinals of Curia, about twenty in number. Then followed a detachments of noble guards.

Directly afterward came the venerable figure of Piux X, in full pontificial robes, blessing the kneeling multitude as he passed. The procession closed with another detachment of guards.

When all were seated the cardinals of Curia advanced to do homage to the Pope and then to introduce into the papal presence the new princes of the church, who, one by one, knelt before Pius X, kissing his hand and foot, and receiving the papal embrace. They were then led to the places set apart for them to the accompaniment of music by the Sistine choir.

The new cardinals then again advanced separately to the foot of the throne to receive their red hats, which were held over the head of each recipient by the master of ceremonies, while the pontiff repeated in melodious voice the usual Latin formula for such occasions, after which he tenderly embraced the suppliant kneeling before him.

Pius X. then bestowed the papal benediction on all present, and with drew with all the cardinals and all others who had formed the procession. After accompanying the pontiff to his apartments, the new cardinals proceeded to the Sistine chapel to return thanks for the honor accorded them.

After the public had dispersed all the cardinals joined the Pope in the hall of the consistory for a supplementary secret consistory, when the Pope placed the cardinal's ring on their fingers. The ring is a very simple one, consisting of a sapphire, without other stones, set solidly in gold in such a way as to allow the papal coat-of-arms to be engraved on the back. It is furnished by the congregation of the propaganda, which has had this privilege since the time of Pius VII.

Titular churches were assigned to the new cardinals for the purpose of providing them with clergy to carry out religious ceremonies while they are in Rome.

Provinces Control Films.

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—The Dominion Government has refused to interfere in the censorship of motion pictures now under the control of the various Provincial Governments of the country.

This was the reply made to the State Department of the United States, which through Hon. J. G. Foster, U. S. Consul-General here, asked that the recent drastic order of the Ontario board of censors with reference to the refusal to allow the exhibition of films showing the American flag, be reconsidered.

SHUSTER SHOWED LACK OF TACT, AND HE MUST GET OUT

London Papers Agree That Shuster Showed Want of Tact.

London, Dec. 1.—The morning papers in their editorials on the Persia crisis, display a tone of great anxiety. A majority of them agree that Mr. Shuster, the Persian Treasurer-General, lacked tact and that Great Britain must support Russia, but several papers express misgivings over the outcome of Russia's action and what they term the administrative anarchy that is likely to result from Mr. Shuster's dismissal. By some it is feared that the success of Russian diplomacy will leave Persia little real independence.

The Daily News makes a serious attack on Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Minister, accusing him of constantly yielding to Russia in order to manoeuvre other powers against Germany. The paper asserts that Great Britain's support of Russia now will mean the annexation or partition of Persia entirely in Russian interests, leaving Russia and England with a long and bad conterminous frontier in Asia and committing England to the necessity of maintaining a costly army to guard it. Moreover, The Daily News adds, England's support of Russia is deadlier because it will probably prevent the United States moving in Mr. Shuster's behalf.

Berlin's Big Metal Strike.

Berlin, Germany, Dec. 1.—A lockout of 70,000 workers in the metal trades became effective last night, ensuing on their refusal to accept an agreement drawn up by a joint committee of employers and trade unionists. The lockout is the outcome of the failure to settle a strike started in October last by 4,000 metal workers.

PROGRESSIVE AND VIGOROUS POLICY

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—Hon. Robt. Rogers, Minister of Interior, stated emphatically last night in the House, in passing estimates that the government would pursue a vigorous and progressive policy and not a penurious one, which was unsuitable for a growing country.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

WRECKED IN LAKE ERIE

Steamer Raleigh Goes Under—Two Drowned

The Anchors Didn't Hold in the Storm

Special to the Review.

Port Colborne, Dec. 1.—Engineer Pritchard is still aboard of the wrecked steamer Raleigh, only the prow of which is no wvisible above the water, according to a message received here at eight o'clock this morning. Besides Fred Wise and his wife, who lost their lives, the body of an unidentified man has been washed ashore.

Port Colborne, Ont., Dec. 1.—The steamer Raleigh, loaded with pulpwood from Quebec to Erie, is ashore at Point Abeno, about seven miles east of here, and if fast going to pieces. Mr. Wise, of Cleveland, who was the steward, and his wife, who was the cook, were drowned in trying to make the shore in yawl boats. One of the boats capsized.

William Prtchard, of Cleveland, the engineer, would not leave the ship and when she was broken up he clung desperately to a few rafters and boards that were still joined together. The heavy seas made it impossible for lifeboats to put out to his rescue and at a late hour it was feared he would be drowned before help reached him.

Several men from Port Colborne, who were patroling the beach, waded out with lines and rescued the crew of twelve men. They are all being cared for at a farm house at Sherkston.

After battling with the terrific seas all night and all day, and sending out signals of distress, the Raleigh broke her rudder and was rendered helpless. She ran ashore opposite the Empire Limstone Co.'s works.

Pieces of cordwood are floating in towards the shore in hundreds, and the beach is already lined with them.

The steamer is owned by Henry Wiseman, jr., of Detroit, and was in charge of Captain H. L. Beauvais.

Anchors Didn't Hold.

Buffalo, Dec. 1.—The Raleigh left Port Colborne at six o'clock Wednesday night with a cargo of pulpwood for Erie, Pa. There was a high wind and a heavy sea when the steamer put out from the Canadian shore, and conditions grew worse during the night. Early yesterday morning the steamer's steering gear became disabled. Both anchors were lowered, but they failed to hold on the sandy bottom and the Raleigh was carried toward Point Abino by the stiff northwest wind.

Captain Beauvais and his crew fought desperately to keep the disabled steamer in midlake, but when the boiler room became flooded by the tons of water shipped in by the heavy seas, they were helpless. At dawn the Raleigh crashed on the rocks.

Nine members of the crew of twelve succeeded in getting ashore and were cared for in the huts at the Empire Limestone Co.'s quarries near Sherkston. Employes of the quarries and the survivors were unsuccessful in their efforts to rescue Engineer Pritchard, who at last reports, was still adrift.

Waves Swept Queen's Cabin.

London, Dec. 1.—Reports reaching here from the steamship Medina, which is conveying King George and Queen Mary to the Indian Durbar, indicate that the distinguished passengers had an extremely rough passage through the Bay of Biscay.

The sea, which is usually rough in the bay, was uncommonly turbulent and a portion of the Queen's apartments was flooded. Queen Mary was forced to vacate hastily and take up her quarters in the special storm cabin with a swinging cot, but the King, who is a good sailor, continued to occupy his usual cabin.

The Medina, which proved herself a good sea vessel, suffered less than the convoying warships, which were severely buffeted by the gale. Several of them sustained damage to boats and railings and the King, appreciating the difficulties under which they were laboring, ordered them to steam ahead of the [illegible]

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC PLANS

Why Peterborough Should Encourage the "People's Power at Cost" Scheme That Means a Million Dollars Spent in Developing Trent Canal Water Powers—A Big Thing For This District.

The Liberal organ is on the warpath with its little hatchet flourishing, against the hydro-electric commission, before the commission has had any opportunity of submitting or formulating a plan for power development. Last night it advised people that "We must keep level heads on the power question," and proceeded to take a fall out of Hon. Adam Beck and the hydro-electric power scheme because the Toronto News, forsooth, in an interview with Mr. Beck, misreported him. The report which the News gave was absurd in two or three important particulars; but that is no reason why this should be blamed on Hon. Adam Beck or the hydro-electric. The honorable Adam is too keen and astute an expert on power matters to make statements such as those appearing in the article which the Examiner, with its usual honesty and frank common-sense, proceeds to treat as if Hon Adam Beck had actually made.

The Review believes that the only method of handling this power discussion is to treat it as a business proposition. The Review believes further, that the people are entitled to a full and frank exposition of the merits of the hydro-electric scheme, and what defects it may possess; and not a garbled, cunning effort to mislead and to prejudice citizens on the question. Most people in Peterborough do not know the details of the work of the hydro-electric commission. They are dependent on the newspapers for most of their information, and now that the commission is in a position to go ahead with the purpose of supplying cheap power to the Trent district, the Review proposes to give the plain facts, as it sees them, in connection with the commission's work.

It is true that the hydro-electric scheme was born and matured under a Conservative government. It is true the hydro-electric commission under Sir James Whitney's administration, is seeking to benefit the people of central and eastern Ontario even a few weeks before a provincial election. But consider this, please:—There was absolutely no use for the commission to try to help Peterborough or any other Trent valley municipality, until George P. Graham was put out of business, and it could get the co-operation of the Dominion government. The commission was blocked for years, until on Sept. 21st, the shackles were smashed, and the people of the Trent Valley came into their own in the matter of recognition of their rights to at least some of the water-powers of this favored district.

The Examiner asks, with the cunning of an ostrich, why did not the commission get busy before? Will the Examiner tell the people that the big reason was that its friends, including its provincial Liberal candidate, R. R. Hall, stood in the way, armed with the Gatling guns of George P. Graham's leases, and favor? The Examiner knows only too well why nothing could be done before. And yet it pretends ignorance! Faugh!

• • •

The Examiner, in addition, delights to put up a straw man, and then with one fell swoop knock him down with a thud. It is almost enough to raise a cheer from Rameses No. 2. The Stratton organ quoted last night a paragraph from the Review of Tuesday night, which stated that the western Ontario municipalities that made contracts with the hydro-electric were liable for seventy-five per cent. of the quantity of power they contracted to take. The Examiner did not have the honesty to explain that these were western Ontario municipalities, and that because this arrangement was made with them, it would not necessarily be made in the case of Peterborough.

The whole situation may be clearly explained without any puzzling features, but of course the hydro-electric newspaper critic esteems it a duty to befog and distort the real situation as much as possible. This is its loyalty to Peterborough!

Let us get at the actual facts of this case. The Hydro-electric commission has got Dam No. 4 and Dam No. 8, the latter being at Meyersburg, considerably south of Rice Lake. The No. 4 dam is, we are informed on the best authority, capable of developing only 1100 horse-power by itself, but coupled up with Dam No. 5, 2500 or perhaps 4000 horse-power. This means, of course, that it is possible that the hydro-electric commission will expropriate Dam No. 5, and the Otonabee company outfit. This will be enough power to supply all that Peterborough city can handle for some time to come. Dam No. 8 is capable of developing more than 5,000 h.p., as we estimated yesterday. Mayor Morrow is authority for the statement that it might develop 8,000 horse-power, but 6,000 may be regarded as a safe estimate.

In these two dams alone, then, there will be secured nearly 7,000 horse-power, and were Dam No. 5 to be taken in, the commission would have in the neighborhood of 12,000 horse-power. And it might be possible that Healey's Falls, which is capable of developing 8,000 or 10,000 horse-power could be secured. Healey's Falls might not be needed, but it would complete that 20,000 h.p. block which the Examiner so much derides, and without much fuss or trouble.

This block of 20,000 horse-power would not be necessary, however, for the present, and Peterborough city need be concerned chiefly with the problem surrounding the utilization of Dams 4 and possibly 5. Supposing that there were 3,500 or 4,000 horse-power developed there, ready for Peterborough's consumption. What then?

This is where it is extremely unfair to condemn beforehand and unheard the hydro-electric commission. The commission is sincere in its desire to help Peterborough to have healthy power competition—which it hasn't got now. Hon. Adam Beck estimated that Peterborough should be able to get power as low as $12 a horse-power, with its favorable location. At all events, the power price would have to be considerably lower than it is at present to make the proposition worth while, and we believe that it would be. Until a definite proposition is formulated, we can only in justice wait with suspended judgment.

The Stratton organ points out that there is a limited market in Peterborough for hydro-electric power. Quite true! The organ doesn't point out what also is equally true; that if the hydro-electric price were to come into Peterborough with $15 power, the private corporation in Peterborough would come down and sell $15 power too, or perhaps go the hydro-electric system one better. That is one of the big benefits of the public power competition. Whatever price the hydro-electric can make will be the price all round for power and lighting.

So in view of this would it not be well to encourage the hydro-electric commission to make its best possible proposition? Peterborough wants all the benefits it can get through a public power scheme, and Peterborough will not stand for a newspaper or a clique that stands in the way of such benefits. And by the way, a vote for Mr. Hall is a vote for a sure attempt to knife the hydro-electric scheme in its infancy. The private corporation, with which Mr. Hall is identified, must not be hurt by an attempt to benefit the public!

The Stratton organ makes a supposition that the city council take 1000 horse-power from the hydro-electric without a market, and keeps the power just to tickle its fancy, with the city paying for it just the same. Was there ever a more asinine "straw man" put up? Not much wonder it falls down of its own weight. In two years time the Peterborough city contract for street lighting expires. The city pays $9,000 a year for lighting now, and Peterborough is one of the most poorly lighted cities of its size in Canada. With hydro-electric power, it would, for about the same cost, be able to improve the street lighting a great deal. There are many ways in which the power could be utilized—enough power to make competition, and consequently to exert beneficial effect on power and lighting prices to the consumers generally. Mr. Hall boasts that Peterborough is a city of electrically lighted homes; that Peterborough has more lighting consum ers for its size than any other city i Canada. Would the Examiner an Mr. Hall stand in the way of thes consumers getting their lighting, sa 30 per cent. cheaper, than at present If a man saves $5 a year in lightin rates, will he object to paying 50 cent a year towards the charges of carry ing the system which enables him t save that $5 a year—which prevents from getting into the pockets of a corporation?

Power for the people at cost is myth. It has reduced prices an brought electricity within the reac of all in Western Ontario. Shoul Peterborough heed the voice of th obstructors, or should it go ahead t see what can be done for its relief A vote for Peck is a vote for the en couragement of the commission to he out Peterborough; a vote for Hall a vote with the obstructionists.

Wire Used By State?

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 1.—A bit twisted wire dangling from an upp window yesterday led to an invest gation by counsel defending Jas. McNamara, and the attorneys convinced that the walls of the Lo Angeles county jails have ears wh heard many confidential speeches.

The wire runs from a window in unoccupied cell room on the thi floor of the jail to another unoccupi room on the second floor.

Visitors to Ortie E. McManigal, of the state's main witnesses, saw M Manigal in an upper room from whi the wire dangles.

A detective and perhaps a ste grapher were in the lower room, bu for all practical purposes, it is sai the wire placed them in hearing of p sons who talked to McManigal whi the grand jury was in session. Th is the declaration of the defen which has no documentary evide except a piece of the wire.

SLOPPY ENGLISH

In speaking to the Toronto newspaper men, the Duke of Connaught took occasion to remind them that they had a duty to the nation in adopting and cultivating a high standard of English in the newspapers. The Duke said:

> "A further duty falls upon you, that of teaching the youth of the country to speak and write their own language in a proper way, and I must confess that a cursory glance at some of the papers drives me to the conclusion that you are occasionally rather regardless of this educational responsibility.
> "I have often remarked a carelessness of expression and a picturesque but totally ungrammatical form of writing in the more serious portions of certain papers, and that is why I make a friendly appeal to the editors present to urge the young men of your staffs to write pure English."

What the Duke says cannot be denied. The newspaper English in Canada is sometimes execrable. When one compares the quality of literary effort demanded on the English newspapers—the generally high standard—with the carelessly written and poorly constructed "stuff" appearing in the Canadian newspapers, one can readily comprehend why the Duke should find this ground for criticism. But the Duke will find, when he becomes more accustomed to the ways of Canadian newspaperdom, that there are virtues in this new country which do not obtain to the same extent in Britain. Canadian journalism is modeled on the American type, more than on the English, though Canadians refuse to descend to the horrible level attained by some of the irresponsible journals of the republic. The Canadian who reads the English newspapers is impressed with the care, the accuracy, the solidity of their ideal and their practice. There might be much more attention of this character paid to the literary quality of the news, as well as the editorial articles, appearing in the Canadian newspapers. In a few of the leading Canadian dailies may be observed a tendency to demand pure English, good English, free from the slang of the street, and the vulgar expressions which constitute half the vocabulary of many fairly well educated people. But on the lesser dailies of Canada, this effort to obtain an admirable style of English is not overworked, because while it may be desirable, the smaller newspaper also demands that its news be dressed in as attractive form as possible, consistent with the haste and the difficulty of getting matter written and into type. But the Duke's words fall on good ground, and as the country grows and specialization is developed, it will be possible to successfully demand a higher quality of literary work than at present.

WHITNEY VS. ROWELL

Kingston Standard

There is no doubt of the fact that the temperance people are very much disappointed in Mr. Rowell. They expected something better than he has offered them on the temperance question. He was chosen leader of the Liberal party in Ontario, largely because he has hitherto posed as a great moral reformer and temperance advocate, and because he might therefore be expected to win over the temperance vote to the Reform side. But the temperance plank in the Liberal platform is, from the standpoint of the temperance people, very weak and very [illegible]. Mr. Rowell himself realizes that and, in order to escape from the odium which attaches to its weakness, he gave an explanation at a meeting held at Guelph, which is a lamentable confession of failure to realize the function of a leader. That explanation we published the other day, to the effect that he was in court when the Liberal platform was drafted and that it was really not his work, but the work of a committee.

In other words he accepted the leadership of a party with whose platform on this most important question, one of the greatest questions before the people of this province, he admits he does not agree. How is it possible for an honest man a moral reformer, a temperance advocate to assume the leadership of a party when he has to study himself and all his past record in doing so? Either Mr. Rowell is dishonest in accepting the leadership or he has not been so firm a believer as we had been led to understand he was in all the principles to which in times past he has so resolutely adhered.

In striking contrast to this shilly-shallying and duplicity is the rugged honesty of Sir James P. Whitney. He comes out squarely on the question every one knows where he stands. He is not one thing to the temperance people and another to the liquor people. So he has been throughout his whole public career—a man of strong convictions, but thoroughly disinterested, doing what he thinks is best for the Province and absolutely fearless as to the consequence. For this the people of Ontario admire and respect him and will most certainly return him to power on the 11th of December next.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A million dollars for the Trent canal power development! Is Peterborough likely to say "Nay" to this sort of government assistance?

Nearly thirty seats by acclamation for the Conservatives in Ontario. Pretty soon we will have to use more than a telescope to locate the Liberal opposition.

Cheap, hydro-electric power for the people and a vote for Peck. Obstruction in the interests of those who have grabbed the waterpower sites around Peterborough, and a vote for Hall. Is not the issue clear?

The benefits of the hydro-electric system have been so many and so varied in Western Ontario towns and cities, that the residents of those places would gasp in astonishment if Peterborough were to help Mr. Hall and his allies to give a rebuff to the commission.

The Pope has issued a decree which forbids any Roman Catholic to bring an ecclesiastic into court in a lawsuit, on pain of excommunication. If most other people could be put in the ecclesiastical position, they would not be so really unhappy.

The Montreal police have found a "moonshine" whiskey distillery in the heart of Montreal. Montreal has more saloons in proportion to its population than any other city in Canada, we believe, but evidently the supply was still some short.

Mr. Hall is putting up one of the most aggressive campaigns in Ontario for the Liberals, but even his fertile mind cannot devise any sound argument to use against the Whitney government. "Seven years without a scandal" is too much for even genial Robert Richard.

Some of these days political campaigns will be over, and we shall be able to gather around the fire-side and tell of the good old days when the fray was hot, and men wore their voices to a ragged edge trying to convince the electorate that "we are right; and the other fellow is all wrong."

The Toronto Globe issues a long complaint about the extravagance of the Whitney government. It says that to spend $9,000,000 in 1911, as compared with $4,500,000 in 1901 is going too fast. Yet Mr. Hall and the Stratton organ have been busy complaining that the Whitney government does not give sufficient grants to this and to that. The Whitney government should do a lot more for the institutions of the province, should build more Normal schools, educate more teachers, and be a money-bag to the needy generally, and yet keep down the expenditure, because it is now too extravagant. This sorely illustrates the foolishness and absurdity of Liberal campaign cries.

Increasing Britain's Navy.

London, Dec. 1.—The probability of a big naval loan in the near future is revived by The Pall Mall Gazette, which anticipates that $150,000,000, and possibly more, will be raised supplemental to the usual naval estimates. It is argued that in view of the campaign in Germany in favor of an increased navy for that country, it is necessary for Great Britain to show that she is determined to preserve the "2 to 1" standard. The provision of adequate docks for the dreadnought battleships also necessitates heavy expenditures.

Archbishop Consecrated.

Kingston, Dec. 1.—A scene of imposing grandeur was presented at St. Mary's Cathedral yesterday morning on the occasion of the consecration of Rev. Father Michael J. Spratt as archbishop of Kingston. The edifice was filled to the doors with members of the congregation and church dignitaries from many places in Canada.

Mawson to Beautify Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—The Government has set itself to the task of beautifying the city of Ottawa. It is understood that the present improvement commission will be disbanded immediately. It is also understood that the Government has reached an agreement with Mr. Thomas Mawson, the well-known English authority on city planning and landscape gardening and lecturer on landscape design at the University of Liverpool, whereby Mr. Mawson will act in the capacity of a commissioner for the Government with the authority to organize and carry into effect a great scheme for the beautification of the capital.

Tetreault, who is investigating the case, found part of the victim's coat torn from the body, in the pocket of which was found a note. The note read: "My name is Arthur Jones. In case of accident, notify Mrs. Lena Jones 119 Franklin avenue, Westfield, Mass."

There was comparatively little doing in the commodity markets on this continent to-day, the Chicago and American Northwest grain exchanges being closed for the holiday, and the Winnipeg market moving along in an apathetic manner, owing to the removal of the influence of the big American wheat centres.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 30.—Altho this was a holiday in the United States there was no let-up in the demand from continental buyers for Manitoba spring wheat and at prices which were 1½c to 3c per bushel higher than the prices bid from the United Kingdom. Altho there is little or no ocean going grain to be had from Portland and West St. John, to the continent, exporters are working a fair amount of business and booking their freight from United States ports.

The local demand for American No. 3 yellow is fair and sales of carlots to arrive at 73½c per bushel, track. Demand for malting barley has fallen away and prices have declined. There is a good demand for oats from outside points. The local and outside trade in spring wheat flour is quieter, owing to the fact that buyers are now fairly well filled up for the present and millers claim there is no improvement in the export business. An active trade is being done in bran and shorts.

Cheese is quiet, but firm. Butter is strong under a good demand. Eggs fairly active. Potatoes strong under good demand at advance of 5c per bag. Provision trade fair.

Ross a Cocaine Fiend.

Montreal, Dec. 1.—Charles J. Ross, who is held by the Montreal police for the killing of Robert Fitzsimmons, at the Orpheum Theatre Wednesday night, now seems to realize the enormity of the deed and is in a very nervous condition. He will come up for preliminary hearing to-day.

The men were playing "Black Jack" when the dispute arose which ended in the shooting. Ross is a cocaine fiend and has a violent temper. He is 46 years of age and has a wife and family in Ottawa. He was an inveterate gambler, but a poor loser.

There were four witnesses of the shooting which took place in the basement of the Orpheum Theatre, where both were employed.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

—BY—

CLIVE PHILLIPPS-WOLLEY

(AUTHOR OF "GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO," ETC.)

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

It was too white, he thought, and then a hideous vision came to him of how that face might be when he next saw it.

"What a fool I am," he muttered to himself, "and all because a parcel of white livered Siwashes burned my stacks. Even that was rather heroic for them."

But when he reached over his horse's shoulder for Jim's hand, which he gripped hard, his voice had a queer ring in it.

"You won't let any harm happen to her, Jim."

"Not whilst I'm alive," and if "her" meant Polly to one man and Kitty to another it made no difference since the two were together.

Then Rolt turned away from the corrals and rode silently with his men through the night, believing that he had spared his wife the pain of parting and hidden from her the risk which he was running, not knowing, kindly fool that he was, that she had read him like a book; that her heart had yearned to him as he stood silently praying over her, marking but not guessing the cause of her paleness and that she, not he, was the one who had spared the other the pain of that which they knew could not be avoided.

A rancher's wife, like a soldier's, is obliged sometimes to take chances even with the life of her best beloved. If not there would be no ranching.

CHAPTER XIX.

"What is your programme, Al?" whispered the Boss, when the ranch lights had died out behind the hog's back.

"I was calculating to make for that gulch as leads into Grouse Creek. We could leave our horses there, and do a sneak down it to Khelowna's camp."

"How do you know he's camped there?"

"It's the nearest water to the place where Jim saw the smoke. He might not be there, of course, but it's worth trying. We might get the drop on the whole outfit if we did a good sneak at night."

"We might, as they won't dream of our assuming the offensive, but it isn't likely. They aren't white men and the woods talk."

"That's so, but if they spot us before we get the drop, it's only three to one. They'll run, sure."

That is the spirit of the West. Three to one is about a fair match in the eyes of the Western man, if the one is white, with rather heavy odds on the one, and history has proved that the handicap is not too heavy in most cases, although some "fool white," as Al would have put it, may sometimes "get left."

The Boss, at any rate, seemed satisfied, and the five went on silently in the darkness, which was of the kind which absolutely obliterates everything. A chinook wind was blowing, one of those curiously soft warm winds which occur in British Columbia, cutting the snow off the hills in a few hours like a red hot knife. By their ears they could tell when they were riding over prairie, for then there was only the whisper of the grass at their feet, or through timber, for then the soughing of the trees made weird music for them, but in that solid damp blackness you might have burst your eyeballs in trying to discover the outline of a pine, or the edge of the timber against the sky, and your efforts would have been in vain.

And yet with the instinct of a homing pigeon, old Al led them steadily on, never complaining of the darkness, never hesitating, or asking questions, and his companions felt their way after him, trusting implicitly to his guidance and to the instinct of their horses.

"Better get off here, Boss," Al said at last. "It's bad going. Hold on to your stirrup leather and let your horse come along after me," but he himself remained in the saddle.

It has to be more than bad going to persuade an old cowboy to foot it.

"Who's that blundering idiot?" he hissed a minute later as some one broke a stick, "can't you move your hoof without knocking the trees down. If they ain't deaf they'll hear that in Sody Creek bar."

Though the old man's language was more picturesque than accurate, a good many things seemed to have heard that unlucky stick. Until it broke, but for the solemn soughing of the trees, the dumbness of the woods had matched the darkness of the night. You would have thought that woods and prairie were alike untenanted, had you not remembered that all those who move in them by night, are stalking or stalked, seeking the life of another or shudderingly trying to save their own. As the stick cracked, there was a rustling in every bush, a stir in every tree, unseen feet pattered, unseen wings fluttered for a moment, and then again all was still,—listening.

As the five paused with all their senses on the alert, a tiny bright red star showed for a moment in the gloom ahead of, and above them.

"Gosh! I didn't know that we were that close," muttered Al. "If that fool hadn't have touched his fire I'd have blundered right into them. Lie low, boys."

For a quarter of an hour the five men lay motionless, and so still was everything that before the fifteen minutes had passed, the Boss felt convinced that the light which they had seen must have been born of their imagination. It could not be that there was any live thing in such a silence as that. But Al did not share in this feeling.

"It's a mercy none of the cayuses whinnied," he whispered, "but it won't do to trust them any longer. Let me git past you, Boss. Now foller me back. Go easy, and for the love of life, don't break any more trees, Dan," and so saying he led them back by the way they had come.

At last he stopped. There had crept into the sky the faintest suspicion of light. Black darkness it would have appeared to most men still, but to these whose eyes had become accustomed to the utter dark it sufficed to show a hollow land.

"We'll tie the horses here, and wait a bit. When we can pretty nigh see our sights, we'll begin our sneak. They're a blanked sight nearer than I thought they was."

As he spoke his words were justified.

The black belt of gloom which surrounded the hollow in which they lay, was suddenly starred in a dozen places by quick red jets of flame, and the silence shattered by the ringing reports of as many rifles, after which the darkness came back again and the silence, but for the screaming of a wounded horse.

"Guess they beat us on the sneak," muttered old Al coolly. "Get into cover, boys, quick."

Probably no white man but Al could have led the ranch posse through those woods at night as silently as he had done. They had stirred no heavy beast to precede them and carry a warning to their foes. There had been no fluttering of disturbed wings in front of their advance, except that once; but a warning need not be printed in large type for an Indian to see it.

Ever since Dan "broke that tree" the stalkers had been stalked without suspecting it.

When the volley was fired Dick Rolt had had his eye on the exact spot in which one of the red stars of light had burst. He had heard the bullet sing past him, and for a fraction of a second had seen the prone figure of the man who fired the shot. But he had not replied to it.

The brilliance of the momentary flash had accentuated the darkness for him, and taken away from him all idea of locality, so that to have replied would only have been to waste a shot and betray his own hiding-place.

He was lying now behind the dead horse waiting to snap at the next star which should appear or to meet the rush which might have followed had the attacking party consisted of white men.

He had no notion how close his fellows were. He could not hear them, nor see the outline even of the nearest bush. It was still pitch dark on the ground.

Suddenly a hand closed round his ankle, and a voice whispered.

"We've got to wriggle out of this. Don't lift your head, but just slew round on your belly and snake it after me. There's no hurry. I'll go slow."

"But the horses?" asked Rolt.

"Yours is dead, ain't it? If they want 'o shoot the others we can't stop 'em, blank them. Come," and Rolt who by this time had his head near old Al's heels, saw these draw quietly away from him.

Imitating his companion, Rolt squirmed on his belly through the bush which closed over him, so that it was only with the utmost difficulty and half by instinct that he managed to follow Al, of whose tortuous progress he could see but little, even when he was within arm's length of him.

He knew that he was going down hill, and that the ground under him was growing softer and softer, until at last he might almost as well have been swimming, but he could see nothing.

"We're all right now," Al stopped to whisper, just when Rolt was beginning to wonder whether he would not rather be shot than go on any farther.

"We're in the crik bottom."

"I could have guessed that."

Al gave a low chuckle.

"Pretty blanked cold, eh? Well, we'll cure that. We've got to move now like two-year-olds. Are you ready?" and he rose to a crouching position.

THE LADIES' AID

The Christian Endeavor World.

The old church bell had long been cracked;
It's call was but a groan;
It seemed to sound a funeral knell
With every broken tone.
"We need a bell," the brethren said.
"But taxes must be paid;
We have no money we can spare—
Just ask the Ladies' Aid."

The shingles on the roof were old;
The rain came down in rills;
The brethren slowly shook their heads
And spoke of "monthly bills,"
The chairman of the board arose,
And said, "I am afraid
That we shall have to lay the case
Before the Ladies' Aid."

The carpet had been patched and patched
Till quite beyond repair,
And though the aisles and on the steps
The boards showed hard and bare
"It is too bad!" the brethren said;
"An effort must be made
To raise an interest on the part
Of members of the Aid."

The preacher's stipend was behind;
The poor man blushed to meet
The grocer and the butcher as
They passed him on the street;
But nobly spoke the brethren then;
"Pastor you shall be paid!
We'll call upon the treasurer
Of our good Ladies' Aid."

"Ah!" said the men, "the way to heaven,
Is long and hard and steep;
With slopes of ease on either side,
The path 'tis hard to keep.
We cannot climb the heights alone;
Our hearts are sore dismayed;
We ne'er shall get to heaven at all
Without the Ladies' Aid!"

ATTENDING THE KING

THIS DUTY OF CABINET MINISTERS IS DECREASED.

King George is Like His Father a Very Methodical Man and Except at Busy Times the Member of the Cabinet Who Keeps Near Him Has a Very Easy Time—Post of Personal Adviser Depends on Popularity.

When the King goes abroad, or stays for any length of time outside the capital, he is accompanied by a Minister in attendance. The position is supposed to be filled by each member of the Cabinet in turn, the period of duty varying from a week to a fortnight, or even a month. In actual practice only two or three Ministers are called upon to be in attendance upon the King, and the duration of their visits depends in great measure upon their personal popularity.

The late King Edward frequently dispensed with the services of a Minister when he went abroad, and the old custom of having a member of the Cabinet at Windsor when the court went there does not now prevail. In these advanced days of telegraphs and telephones, motor-cars, and other methods of rapid intercommunication it is not considered necessary that a responsible Minister of the Crown should leave his official duties for so lengthy a period.

The duties of a Minister in attendance are not arduous, except at times when the political horizon is clouded, or when this country is engaged in war. When things are normal—that is to say, dull—the Minister has little to do but enjoy himself, and nowadays every facility is given for his doing so after his own particular fashion. Breakfast is served in his private sitting-room, if he so desires it, or he joins the gentlemen of the court.

Luncheon, too, is a meal at which the attendance of the Minister is optional. When the King is out shooting or fishing—and scarcely a day passes but sees him engaged in one or other of these sports—luncheon is taken, of course, in the open; and if the Minister happens to be a sportsman, he is naturally invited to join the royal party.

The Minister's presence at dinner is, however, insisted upon, and he is required to be present in the drawing-room afterwards. Queen Victoria used to go through official documents with her Ministers twice a day—in the morning and after dinner. King Edward, who was exceedingly methodical, devoted the first part of the morning to official business, and unless despatches received during the day were specially urgent they were not submitted and discussed until the following morning.

King George is equally methodical. His Majesty is an early riser and is often at work at half-past nine. The King expects all documents to be ready for him, and business is therefore got through very expeditiously, and no time is "cut to waste." Unless any matter of urgency should demand attention business is then dismissed for the day, the evenings being devoted to amusement and general conversation.

Mr. Lloyd-George, who has a great fund of humor, is a very popular Minister. Mr. Balfour used to be much liked by reason of his artistic playing of the piano. As is well known, Queen Alexandra is a cultured musician and a pianist of great ability, and music was always a notable feature after dinner during the late King's reign. Lord Beaconsfield's wit and satire amused Queen Victoria, and Mr. Gladstone's deep theological knowledge also appealed to her strongly.

During the daytime the Minister has things very much his own way. If he is a sportsman there are ample opportunities for gratifying his tastes. A royal carriage or motor is at his disposal, and invitations from the country houses in the neighborhood for all manner of functions are showered upon him. Golf, tennis, croquet, archery, bowls, and other games may be indulged in, and there are charming walks for those who prefer to take a turn at pedestrianism. Should the weather be bad there is a smoking-room, a billiard-room, a covered badminton court, a well-stocked library crammed with interesting first editions and autographed volumes, and scores of interesting curios and mementoes of events in the royal family. All the leading magazines and English and foreign papers are taken in, and cigars and cigarettes are at his disposal.

All official despatches are opened by the Minister, who masters their contents and makes such notes as may be necessary before submitting them to the King. If His Majesty approves of the manner in which it is suggested they should be dealt with, replies are dictated to the private secretaries, of whom there are usually two. In the event of the King desiring information on any subject it is the duty of the Minister to obtain it.

King Edward kept somewhat late hours, but the motto of the court today is "early to bed," and the Minister who is called upon to be in attendance upon King George may be perfectly sure of enjoying a very restful and pleasant time.

Not What It Seemed.

In the County of Somerset, England, there is a village called Hatch. The clergyman in an adjoining parish was named Duck. One Sunday morning the congregation at the latter place being assembled the curate did not appear. The "clerk" rose and said:

"I hereby give notice that there will be no service to-day, as Mr. Duck has gone to Hatch."

Licorice.

Licorice was once highly esteemed medicinally, and its cultivation in England began early in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. It was thought a sovereign remedy for coughs and at one time was a very profitable crop. Its name comes from two Greek words signifying "sweet root." The root was first imported from Spain.

Mounted guards with drawn sabres dispersed rioters at Lisbon who were protesting against the expulsion of two Chinese doctors.

A Result Worthy of Consideration

He now receives a single cash payment of $1273.65 which as an investment is over 4% compound interest, or he may accept $750.60 in cash, which is $62.10 more than he paid in, together with a paid up policy for $1000, payable at death which earns profits every year during the balance of his life.

PETERBORO OLD BOYS' REUNION AT WINNIPEG

R. M. Dennistoun K. C. Proposes Toast 'Old Folks at Home'

100 WERE PRESENT

Peterboro Old Boys Association is to be Formed

Manitoba Free Press.

One hundred natives and former residents of Peterborough, Ont., attended their first reunion dinner at the Royal Alexandra last evening. It was the most successful gathering of Peterborough old boys ever held in the west, those present including men who have been pioneers in Manitoba, successful Winnipeg business and professional men, and a large number of the younger generation, who have been caught up and carried to Manitoba by the westward flow of civilization. The guests included several from Portage La Prairie and other towns in Manitoba The speeches of the evening naturally centred around the former home of the old boys, and the memories of the older men were carried back across the vista of the years to the scenes and associations of their early life Many laudatory things were said about Peterborough and its people as well as of the newer west. the land of the old boys' adoption.

TOAST LIST.

R M. Dennistoun, K.C., made an excellent chairman, and clever speeches were made in proposing and responding to the toast. "The King" was proposed by the chairman and duly honored.

George Walton, ex-M.P., proposed "Canada," and Alexander Haggart. ex-M.P., who taught school in the vicinity of Peterborough in his younger days, made a happy response, Mr. Walton was one of Mr. Haggart's pupils in the days of the good old school. "The Maple Leaf" and "O Canada" were sung by the gathering in connection with the toast to Canada.

The toast to Peterborough was proposed and responded to by two Winnipeg barristers, A. E. Scott and R. F. McWilliams. Mr. Scott an old-timer, and Mr. McWilliams, a recent arrival from the east. Both had many happy reminiscences of their boyhood home and dealt with the chief toast of the evening in a particularly happy manner.

Mr Harvey Smith, proposed the toast to "Winnipeg," and Harold Daly made the response. While alluding in complimentary terms to their old home and its associations, they predicted a great future for Winnipeg along industrial, commercial and educational lines.

"OLD FOLKS AT HOME."

"Old Folks At Home," was proposed by Mr. Dennistoun in a few words that carried his auditors back to other days and other scenes. The response was made by W.J. Spence, D.A. registrar of the University of Manitoba. Mr. Spence read a poem letter written by a mother in Peterboro to her son in Winnipeg on hearing that a reunion was to be held. It was considered so good by those present that it was decided to have it published in pamphlet form and to suply each old boy with a copy. In addition to Mr. Spence several others were called on in connection with the toast to the "Old Folks At Home." These included R. C. Brown, of Portage la Prairie, who has been in the west over thirty years. Dr. Herbert Bell, J. H. Chalmers. F. H. Dixon, A. N. Allison, H. L. Brace and W. A. Davis of Winnipeg and A. P. Moore, Portage la Prairie.

The toast list concluded with Auld Lang Syne. Musical selections were contributed by F.C.S. Turner. Charles Barber and others.

Features of the gathering were telegraphic messages of greeting from Mayor W. G. Morrow, of Peterboro, and one from the officers of the 57th Regiment, Peterboro Rangers, read by the chairman. The latter contained the slogan of the officers of the regiment, "Drill ye terriers, drill." Mr. Dennistoun and Mr. McWilliams are former officers of the corps.

It was practically decided to form a Peterboro Old Boys' association and to make the reunion dinner an annual event.

Those who made the arrangements for the function were; R. F. McWilliams, chairman, A. N. Ollison, secretary treasurer, A. E. Scott, W. J. Spence, Charles Barber, F. H. Dixon D. L. Johnston, Allan Cameron, D.B. MacRae, H. W. Daley and H. L. Brace

The menu card had a cut of the Peterboro lift lock on the front piece and was embellished with touches of blue and white, the Peterboro colors.

BIFOCALS

— OR —

DOUBLE VISION GLASSES

Most people think, when buying Bifocal Glasses, that a large segment or reading area is required. With very few exceptions this is not so, as most bifocals are required for constant use, and the successful fitting of these lenses depends not so much on furnishing the largest reading portion possible, but on placing a minimum disk or wafer in exactly the correct position. A smal wafer accurately placed will afford ample field for reading, writing and sewing, and will overcome the tendency to make mis-steps in going up and down stairs, an experience not uncommon to wearers of bifocals with too large reading segments
